'PEOPLE'S PARTY' PLAN ENDORSED AT CCF MEETING

CLC Partnership Eagerly Accepted

MONTREAL (CP)—The CCF national convention has enthusiastically endorsed partnership with the Canadian Labor Congress in developing along with other interested groups a "people's political movement."

The fruits of this unanimous decision Thursday by 250 convention delegates likely will not be fully apparent for about two years.

The CCF decision, following a similar move by the 1,000,000-member CLC's national convention in Atlantic City, provides for joint action by executives of the two organizations in developing concrete proposals for consideration at later conventions.

Both the CCF and CLC will hold national conventions two years from now. By then, their executive plans will have worked out the shape and purpose of the proposed movement and have something ready to present.

ANNOUNCES DECISION TODAY

M. J. Coldwell, 60-year-old national leader of the party since 1942, was to make known to the convention today whether he will lead the party for years or retire. The convention ends today.

Mr. Coldwell is expected to remain in his post and thereby leave the party relatively free to concentrate on the joint movement and leave something ready to present.

Mr. Coldwell is expected to remain in his post and thereby leave the party relatively free to concentrate on the joint movement and leave something ready to present.

TO REPLACE LIBERALS

There is little doubt that a political objective of both CCF and CLC leaders will be to establish a party intended eventually to replace the Liberals.

President Claude Jodoin of the CLC, who addressed the convention immediately after it voted on the issue and stayed on for several hours, said the decision provided the progressives of the Progressive Conservative party and the truly liberal-minded followers of the Liberal party to "come home."

Saskatchewan Premier T. C. Douglas, who led the CCF in the general election "decimation" of the Liberal party created for Canada's second party politics is nothing but a vacuum.

"A party has to be formed to provide a real alternative to Tory reaction."

GIVEN NEW TASK

At the banquet, the party presented Mr. Coldwell with a television set in appreciation for his long service in the Commons. He had held the Rosetown-Biggar seat in Saskatchewan Biggar from 1935 until his March 31 defeat.

In a speech touching on many topics and filled with reminiscences, Mr. Coldwell said he is sure the "wider movement" envisaged by the convention resolution earlier in the day would enable it to do far more in the future than the party has achieved.

As a result, those who toil in industry, farm and life other walks of life would find "a wider fellowship in the CCF over the next two years."

If You See Yourself as Others Do It's Autoscopic Hallucination

CHICAGO (AP) — If you really see yourself as others might see you, medicine has a name for it —autoscopic hallucination—but no cure.

This phenomenon is not uncommon in literature. It has been described for more than 2,000 years. An early report, Plutarch says, that could not go for a walk without meeting his double coming toward him, was attributed to Aristole.

The romantic theme of the doppelganger appears in many literary works, but it was first introduced into medical literature only toward the end of the last century.

The subject is discussed in a 22-page article, Autoscopic Phenomena, by Dr. H. Lukianowicz of Bristol, England, in the August issue of Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, published by the American Medical Association.

Lukianowicz examined psychiatrists' reports of several specific cases in which patients who saw themselves in the experience of viewing themselves as phantoms, without benefit of mirrors.

One example was the account of a young man who noticed a strange woman in mourning walking ahead of her as she returned from the funeral parlor where her husband's funeral.

When she looked on the light in her room and undressed, the woman appeared to undress, too, particularly disturbed by the hallucination, the woman looked into the mirror for her companion and recognized herself.

Later, she reported, she had the feeling while seeing the image that it was more alive and real than herself. Then she would be lay down and went to sleep, the apparition would, too. But she saw it on other occasions.

Dr. Lukianowicz says that there are two theories about the cause: Some irritating process in the brain, and the projection of memory pictures.

He suggests that they may have an element of attempted wish fulfillment, particularly in the case of those who saw themselves conducting an orchestra. The experience usually lasts only a few seconds, he said.

Strikers Help Battle Blaze, Union Blames Fire on Crank

FIELD, Ont. (CP)—A fire that broke out Thursday night in the lumber yard of the strikebound Field Lumber (1956) Limited mill was under investigation today by a criminal investigation branch inspector.

Inspector Robert Wannell of provincial police was called in Thursday to investigate two other incidents connected with the lumber mill at this community about 30 miles west of North Bay.

Members of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) struck against the company July 4 over a contract dispute.

Thursday night's blaze was brought under control after about 1½ hours. Four members of the striking union remained on picket duty while the remainder of the 50-odd employees helped battle the flames.

On Wednesday, an explosion on nearby Lake Muskoszung wrecked the private float plane of Jack Hope, company's general manager. A fire Tuesday burned a storage shed on mill property.

Sabotage has been mentioned in connection with the incidents. The plane explosion was reportedly due to a dynamite blast. Union officials denied any connection with the three incidents.

One official said: "This is some crank working strictly on his own. We want no part of anything like this. We had a meeting with the company . . . before the fire broke out and we agreed to abandon our demand for a 5 cent-an-hour increase. The only thing now at stake is union security."

The union had previously sought a 10-cent increase in the basic rate of $1.10 an hour, a six-day statutory holiday, a joint safety committee and a union shop.

Mr. Hope said he was unable to give a damage estimate until insurance officials investigated.

The yard contains about 4,000,000 square feet of lumber. Lumber workers said about one-quarter of the lumber was destroyed. The fire was expected to smoulder for another day.

Population of this town is 800. The mill is its single industry. The mill yards are on the east bank of the Sturgeon River.

Outlawed Communists Plague Nasser in Syrian Province

BEIRUT (AP)—President Nasser is reported plagued by Communist disorders in his province of Syria just as Iraqi rebel leaders began their campaign of joining his United Arab Republic.

The Iraqi rebel regime professes to be anti-Communist. It is said to have stiff-armed Red elements trying to climb aboard the revolutionary wagon, in the hope they could worm their way into interest.

Reliable informants returning from Syria said the Communists have begun a strike in Aleppo, industrial and industrial centre in northern Syria. They said the Communists, although outlawed by Nasser, organized 50-man groups to shout "down with Nasser" in the streets. They said more than 200 were arrested.

The informants reported that on July 5 the leftist Transport Union started a strike in Aleppo. Nasser brought in troops and operated public transport, breaking the strike.

Northern Syria has fallen on hard times since the union of Egypt and Syria in February. The Communists are trying to blame the depression on Nasser, the travellers said. But the real trouble, they added, was a bad crop year that cut buying power. This forced industry layoffs.

Two high officials of the Iraqi regime were quoted by a Cairo newspaper as saying negotiations for a union with Nasser's U.A.R. are being prepared.

Britain, U.S. Would Leave All Talks Arrangements In Hands Of Hammarskjold

Agree to Tell Russia Conference Is Ready

LONDON (AP) — The United States and Britain agreed today to tell Russia that all arrangements for United Nations summit talks should be made by Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold, diplomats reported.

As the Soviet press demanded this West agree to Nikita Khrushchev's plans for a summit meeting without delay, diplomats made and the West is unwilling to let the Soviet premier call all the signals.

Diplomats reported President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and very likely Foreign Minister de Gaulle will tell Khrushchev before Sunday that:

1. There is absolutely no chance of summit talks on the Middle East while Western troops are in Moscow suggested.

2. They are ready to attend a top-level conference in New York as soon as it can be arranged to give assurance of the countries and statesmen concerned.

3. Hammarskjold should be authorized to consult immediately with the permanent delegates to the United Nations on all procedure matters as starting day, composition of the conference, rules of procedure and so on.

The Western leaders will propose on the conference's summit opening, but it is known they consider that a July 28 date is possible time, with Aug. 11 possibly the latest.

Informants said Western leaders are determined to resist Khrushchev's tactics to force or fool the tactics are intended to give an exaggerated impression of the peril of war.

The Americans and British believe if the impression is spread that there is a real war peril they would have to defend themselves against charges of aggression for landing troops in the Mideast.

Eisenhower, Macmillan and de Gaulle are said to believe a resolution could be worked out to avoid prolonged summit meeting remained in doubt.

A report from Paris Thursday said the French premier may be able to find the right formula to stabilize the French political scene to attend only two or three days.

Hammarskjold is in a position to address a summit meeting if the nation council at the time. And the New York representative remain as to which nations shall attend. Khrushchev wants India and independent Arab nations represented. But he never has named the countries.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Herbert Scott, 22, who had been in a coma since last May when he was injured in an auto crash, died Thursday night.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today dispatched a note to Soviet Premier Khrushchev stated that arrangements for any United Nations summit conference on the Middle East crisis must be made by the Security Council at New York.

William Macomber, assistant secretary of state, gave members of the Senate foreign relations committee a summary of the note at a closed door session.

At the White House, reporters were told at 10:35 a.m. that Eisenhower's note was on its way to Moscow or shortly would be.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the text of approximately 1,000 words would be released at the White House between 1:30 and 2:00 p.m.

CLEARING WITH ALLIES

The U.S. note has been cleared with the French and British, Hagerty said, but refused to say whether the version drafted by Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles was altered after consultations with the allies.

Fulbright told reporters after a 40-minute session with Macomber that this was his understanding of the note.

"By and large the attitude of this country is that the U.N. summit opening, but it is known they consider that a July 28 date is possible time, with Aug. 11 possibly the latest.

Services Held At Haldimand Baptist Church

A reader was on his toes yesterday and noticed an error in the story on Ontario's oldest Baptist Church at Wicklow, which is to be commemorated July 27.

In the last paragraph of the story carried on page 3 of the July 24 issue, an erroneous statement was made that the Haldimand Baptist Church "is no longer used for regular services but is preserved because of its great historical interest."

The anonymous reader writes that: "Since the church was reopened two years ago as an historic site and museum, interest in its use as a church has increased.

"The Sunday School was reorganized and now has a membership of about 50, meeting each Sunday. Church worship services have been held monthly, and will be held more frequently in the future. Activity is under the pastorate of Rev. J. D. Chown of the Brighton Baptist Church."

The reader also states over 150 persons attended the 100th anniversary services held recently. The services were under the leadership of Mr. O. Curtis, moderator of the Trent Valley Baptist Association; and the guest speaker was Rev. Frank Swackhammer of Oshawa.

Thieves Break For Second Time Into Drug Store

An undisclosed sum of money and merchandise were stolen Wednesday night when thieves broke into Kelly's drug store, 411 East Front St.

Paul Kelly, owner of the store, said this morning that his business was entered on July 1, as well, but that was a much bigger job than this one. That time the thieves entered through the basement, he said.

The Ontario Provincial Police investigated the incident.

YMCA One of Nine Agencies Assisted by United Appeal

One of the nine agencies participating in this year's Belleville United Appeal is the YMCA on Campbell Street.

The Young Men's Christian Association came to Belleville in 1874 and for the last 65 years it has continuously served the youth of this city in many and varied ways. It would be difficult to find a family in Belleville which has not been helped by one or more members who have made some contact with the YMCA and benefitted by it.

The Belleville YMCA continues to play its important role of Christian service at a time when it is needed more than ever, serving every member of the family from seven years of age and over.

Last season, 1,909 different members were registered. Forty-four gym and pool classes met regularly each week. Another 12 purpose and service clubs met for personal development, leadership training and for service. There were days when over 400 persons went through the "y" entrance to participate in a variety of worship services, fellowship, study and character - building activities.

OPPORTUNITIES GIVEN

Opportunities for democratic living, for service to others and to develop leadership skills and leadership qualities were given to the youth division in Hi-Y, Gray-Y, leaders' clubs and others.

The Second So-So, the Choraleers, and Out-Door clubs, young people 16 years of age and over were given opportunities to learn facts, make friends and have lots fellowship.

The "Y" also serves local industry through its Industrial Club. One hundred and thirty-five members of the Quinte District Forestry Club, and 30 Junior Industries meet at the "Y" once a month to participate in programs centred around understanding of supervisory responsibilities, administration and the development of personality and character.

Close to 200 bed-nights were registered in the "Y" residence last year newcomers to the city and to the community find lodging at reasonable rates.

The "Y" serves as a community meeting place. Fifty-seven different non Y community organizations used the facilities of the club, at least season, 191 boys and girls were taught to swim, 255 passed swimmers tests and 40 passed life saving. Hundreds of others used the pool for recreation and to more hundreds, instruction was given on water safety. The "Y" pool is also available to the Cubs and Scouts of the city.

In addition to the Belleville General Hospital, and to a number of other church and school groups.

Through the help of the Y's Men's Club and the Y's Men's Auxiliary, the various service clubs of the Y.M.C.A., the local "Y" is constantly expanding its program to meet the needs of the community as they arise. The annual campaign for the needs of the mother and child, sponsored by the Y's Menettes Club, and the Boys' and Girls' Summer Camps which began to operate this summer at Oak Lake, are two recent examples Sixty boys and 45 girls participated in camps and activities this summer.

SMALL RATES

Membership in the Y.M.C.A. is open to everyone regardless of color, race or creed. Everyone is accepted regardless of his means, it costs roughly between $30.00-$35.00 per member to maintain the Y.M.C.A. for a year, but members are asked to share in the cost by paying a small fraction of the cost. Nominal graded rates for memberships are set by the Board to encourage maximum participation.

The Y.M.C.A. with its program of sports, recreation, social and educational activities is a challenge to youth in leadership training and character development. The "Y" youths find friendly counsel and advice in the solution of their problems. Gym, swimming, organized games, club programs, camping and training in skills supplement the influence of the church, the home and the school in the all-round development of future Christian citizens.

Hungarian Wants to Build Canal Across Isthmus of Chignecto in New Brunswick

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Lick the tides, and the project is relatively simple. That's the opinion of Hungarian-born engineer Geza Pogany.

He has added ingenuity and a measure of caution to the latest study of what Pogany and Canada's oldest public works dream, a ship canal through the Isthmus of Chignecto, which would make Nova Scotia an island.

Slicing a canal through the 18-mile wide Chignecto Isthmus has been a project considered by commissions, economists, engineers and politicians since the days of Louis XIV. The approaching completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway now has Chignecto advocates in full voice over the possible integration of the project into the seaway system.

ESCAPED FROM REDS

A graduate of the universities of Budapest and Lille, Mr. Pogany escaped from the Russian concentration camp after the 1956 Hungarian revolt and rejoined the faculty of St. Joseph's University here last November. He now spends his time on the study of the feasibility of an inland water route for ocean-going system for the Chignecto Isthmus.

The university thought it would be "interesting" to have an outsider's point of view on past studies—Pogany's is at least the 10th major survey of the issue during the past 20 years.

The 49-year-old engineer has made a preliminary report on the practicability of the project complete with maps and diagrams. The potentialities of the report have earned him a ticket for continued study, and a companion on the project in Dr. Brian T. Newbold, a native of England who has a doctor's degree in chemistry from Laval University and who also has taught at St. Joseph's faculty this summer.

Summarizing his preliminary findings, Mr. Pogany said he was convinced a canal could be built to specifications in any of the previous plans. One condition is that "the canal be assured of sufficient supply of water to permit uninterrupted navigation."

To ensure this supply and to overcome "the phenomenal difference" between the Bay of Fundy and St. Lawrence Gulf tides, Mr. Pogany suggests an artificial interior basin of ship capable of distributing water in different directions. This is, he says, would overcome the cost of building a really deep canal.

"The canal can become an economically sound proposition if, in its construction, production of hydro power is sought," he says.

He recommends that if industrial possibilities are not large enough to support the construction of large power plants, someone ought to find some. His own explorations showed that rivers emptying into the Bay of Fundy carry iron and lithium salts and highly-refined crystallizations.

Such raw materials, extracted and processed, could yield products and industries for fuels required for launching missiles, light buildings and insulation materials and others, he says.

But this is something for engineers before him, Mr. Pogany is curious about who would pay to make the dream a reality.

Hopes Dimmed For Recovery Of Space Mouse

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Specially-equipped United States Air Force planes continued searching the Atlantic today but hope dimmed that Wickie the space mouse would be recovered inside a nose cone after an intercontinental-missile flight.

The white mouse was enclosed in the nose cone of a rocket that streaked 6,000 miles through space Wednesday.

The recovery unit resumed the search in the South Atlantic near Ascension Island, but air force officials said today's effort probably would be the last attempt to find the nose cone.

The hunt was called off temporarily Thursday night when darkness closed in and the searchers failed to receive signals from a beacon transmitter inside the nose cone recovery package.

The transmitter, signal lights and a dye marker were included in the recovery package to help point the location for the search-ers.

If Wickie still was alive after the 9,000-mile, 20-minute flight, she had enough oxygen, food and water to last for about six weeks, technicians said. The analyzing telemetry data which will tell how the mouse's heart reacted to the journey.

Saskatchewan Dam Agreement Has Been Signed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government today signed an agreement with Saskatchewan opening the way to start next month on the South Saskatchewan River dam project.

Construction is estimated to take between six and 10 years, depending on actual flood conditions on the river. Agriculture Minister Hamilton signed the agreement that provides for joint federal-provincial financing of the $182,000,000 irrigation and power project.

Saskatchewan already has signed the agreement.

The federal treasury will contribute almost $75,000,000 in outright grants, and a $12,000,000 loan over 50 years at the province's 25-percent share of the cost of building the huge earthen dam near Outlook, 65 miles southwest of Saskatoon.

Ousted Iraqi Envoy Blames Woes on Israel

LONDON (AP) — The ousted Iraqi minister to Britain charged today the "creation of the synthetic state of Israel by the West-ern powers" was the sole cause of Middle East troubles.

Tarik Al Askari was running the embassy here at the time of the Iraqi revolt. The military attache and the chief cultural counsel from Al Askari in the name of the revolutionary regime.

Al Askari, who with the Arab states the Western powers had better be careful not to repeat past mistaks," he said in a press conference. They must realize that the tragedy of the creation of the synthetic state of Israel, entailing as it did the eviction of 1,000,000 Arabs from their homes, is the cause of all the pres-ent human suffering and misery in the Middle East today."

The former minister said there are 90,000,000 Arabs in the Mid-East.

"Counter poised against them is the artificial state of Israel with about 1,500,000," he said. "Nature will inevitably work to restore natural equilibrium. You cannot equate 90,000,000 against 1,500,000. It is bad arithmetic."

BRITAIN, U.S.

British officials, meantime, reported the 15 Attlantic allies have dropped plans for a special meeting of foreign ministers in Paris next week to co-ordinate policies on summit talks. It was decided the permanent NATO council can handle the situation.

REDS PRESS IMPATIENT

While the Western diplomats talked, the Soviet press made a great show of impatience.

"The world awaits a quick and definite reply," said the Communist party newspaper Pravda. Khrushchev had suggested the meeting open on July 28.

Pravda said the Western newspapers were writing, "as if by command," about obstacles in the way of a quick meeting in the Middle East crisis, then added:

"It goes without saying that all these hindrances cannot be taken seriously if the governments of the United States, Britain and France really want a decision at the heads of government to discuss the preservation of peace."

URGE MIDDLE EAST MEET

In Cairo, the government-controlled press urged that Middle East countries concerned should be invited to attend and include the U.A.R. as well as Lebanon and Jordan.

Although the crisis remains unsettled, the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has made preliminary arrangements for quick U.S. clearance of Khrushchev's trip to the United States, it was learned. The French press toward a summit meeting parallel to the Soviet meeting with the leaders of their governments.

British newspapers are generally for the idea. Conservative M.P. is Prime Minister Macmillan's cabinet.

BATTLE TO NASSER

There have been objections from Premier de Gaulle, heavily burdened with a rush job to put France's domestic affairs in order. And the French press indicated hostility to having de Gaulle sit down as President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, bitterest enemy French men for U.A.R. support of the nationalist rebellion in Algeria.

Macmillan is known to have good deal might be accomplished toward improving the situation if Nasser had a series of man-to-man talks with Western leaders. But British have no diplomatic relations with Nasser since the 1956 Suez incident. Macmillan sidestepped a question Thursday as to whether he believed Nasser qualified under Khrushchev's proposal that chieftains of the Arab nations concerned with the crisis sit in.

"Until the form of the meeting has been agreed," Macmillan told the Commons, "it would be premature to try to lay down which states should be put members of the Security Council should attend and by whom they should be represented."

RCAF Cadets Hurt in Car Crash Death Averted by Quick Action

TRENTON — One of the four flight cadets injured in an accident near here about midnight last night probably owes his life to the quick action of three local citizens who arrived at the scene shortly after the mishap occurred.

The four injured were: Flight Cadets K. M. Kee of the University of Manitoba, who suffered a fractured right ankle; N. J. Marcotte, who suffered concussion (from which he has recovered), and injuries to his mouth and right eye; D. G. McBride, who suffered a broken right arm and a dislocated hip, and J. C. McNeekin, the driver, minor cuts and bruises. The latter three are from the Royal Military College in Kingston and all are in Trenton for the summer months on training.

They were taken to the hospital at RCAF Station Trenton, following the accident. Flight Cadet Marcotte, when taken from the wreckage at first appeared to have had the punctured lung and was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital by Wesley's ambulance. However, it was found to have been choking on his own smashed teeth and blood.

He was treated by Dr. Campbell and returned a few hours later to the air station hospital.

The loud crash and the huge cloud of dust when the accident took place brought three Trenton men to the scene in a hurry. They were Vic Augen, Bruce Hall and Charlie Bowker. They had just returned from a fishing trip on the bay.

When they arrived at the accident they found the car on its way to the ditch, the sedeta pin-ned inside. Flight Cadet Marcotte was dead. Down in the ve-hicle and was choking badly. They immediately enlisted the aid of another man who appeared and, getting the car right, proceeded to remove the cadet from the wreckage.

A few moments longer and it would be generally too late, the cadet would have choked to death.

According to witnesses left by the police, the car apparently went off the highway about 150 feet from the entrance to the Bloomfield View Trailer Court, along the steep bank of the Glen Miller Creek, which forms the entrance way to the court, bounced over it and then struck the other side of the driveway nose down in the opposite ditch and on its right side.

The car was a complete write-off and the roof completely smashed. The windshield was broken out and the back of the front seat was up against the smashed steering wheel. It is believed the driver was thrown to one side before the steering wheel was smashed in.

Inside the car, and in the back seat, was a huge bundle of baggage the cadets were taking to Kingston and it is believed it was hurled there when the car first hit the culvert.

The many persons and cars which stopped to look at the wreckage, hindered the ambulance when it had to back up to load the injured men. Passing motorists failed to pull over to the side of the road when the sirens of the ambulance and the police car were heard.

The accident was investigated by the Ontario Provincial Police from Bellefonte, Constables George French and Gary Davis of the Trenton police department assisted at the scene and helped remove the injured from the car as well as to control traffic until the OPP arrived.

It took three tow trucks to clear the wreckage from the ditch. The first one snapped the tow line and the second broke a rear axle. The third, a larger one, pulled the wreckage free of the ditch and removed it to a local garage.

Brushed by Car, Boy Not Injured

TRENTON — An unidentified Trenton boy narrowly escaped injury last night when he had a close brush with a moving car while trying to cross the street on Gilmor Hill.

The driver of the car, Carl Broadworth, 23, of 162 West Street stated he was proceeding west down Gilmor Hill (Dundas Street East) when his car brushed an unidentified boy, believed to be about 10 years old, in front of Lange and Fetters Limited.

The motorist told police officials the boy said he was "alright" and continued on his way. He had not been knocked off his feet.

The incident was reported to Constable Fred Nokes at the Police Station around 8 p.m.

Boy, 4, Is Improving In Toronto Hospital

TRENTON — Special — Word has been received in Trenton that four-year-old Philip Gallipe of 29 1-2 Front Street, who was injured when hit by a car in front of his home, is improving and is now apparently sitting up in bed in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. The lad apparently suffered severe injuries to his head and jaw.

The youngster was injured last Saturday when he ran out into the line of traffic on Front Street while crossing it to go to his home.

Fight Moore Or Quit Ring Says Durelle

MONTREAL (CP) — Yvon Durelle, British Empire light-heavyweight champion, said today that if he doesn't get a chance to fight Archie Moore for the world title he'll quit boxing.

"A fight with Moore, that's all I'm staying in for," he said. "I'm willing to fight anybody else right now."

Durelle was interviewed during an overnight stay in Montreal on his way back home to Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., after a practice at a wrestling bout in Ottawa Thursday night.

He said he feels he deserves a world title shot after successively defending his Empire title against Mike Holt of South Africa in Montreal on July 16.

EISENHOWER

DECIDE ON OUTSIDERS

Eisenhower's note to Khrushchev is reported to insist that the first set for the next place for a meeting, and decide what outsiders be invited.

Khrushchev in his conditional acceptance asked that India and Sudan unspecified Arab countries be represented. Neither India, nor the United Arab Republic, the Arab nation Khrushchev is expected to invite, are members of the Security Council.

They could, however, be invited by that body to sit in on meetings as debating but non-voting participants.

Khrushchev had proposed a start Monday, but that now is obviously impossible so far as the United States, Britain and France are concerned.

TO VISIT ADENAUER

Dulles, meanwhile, held to his plan to take off for Bonn, Germany, tonight on a schedule that call for his absence from Washington for seven hours Saturday afternoon and go on to London Saturday night for sessions of the Baghdad Pact council.

Whether Khrushchev would accept the U.S. view that the full 11-nation Security Council should invite other countries at the time it makes other arrangements for the meeting was not known here.

But the impression was that he is so anxious to have a summit conference and get the United States that he is not likely to raise any serious objection about planning details.

Urge Increased Federal Aid for Newfoundland

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-man royal commission today recommended that Ottawa increase its annual conditional federal financial assistance totalling $8,000,000 annually.

The commission's report, tabled in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, said the additional financial assistance should start as of April 1, 1957.

It recommended that the so-called federal transitional grant should be deducted from the annual $8,000,000 figure for a four-year period starting April 1, 1957.

The additional assistance for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1957, would be $5,600,000. The transitional grant for that year was $1,600,000.

INCEASES TO 1961

Additional assistance for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1958, would be $6,950,000. It would be $7,300,000 for the year starting April 1, 1960, and $7,650,000 for the following year.

Starting April 1, 1961, the additional assistance would be $8,000,000 annually. This compares with additional assistance of $17,000,000 asked by Newfoundland during hearings of the commission.

BIG-TIME HOBBY

An estimated $100,000,000 or more will be spent by United States anglers for fishing tackle in 1958.

ON GHOST WRITERS

A remark by Hon. D. Roland Michener, Speaker of the House of Commons, some time ago is giving rise to some discussion in newspapers and periodicals. Mr. Michener said he "doesn't think it's a reflection on character to say that an M.P.'s speech has been written for him. If it was, a number of M.P.'s might feel maligned."

The last sentence intimates that Mr. Michener believes that a number of M.P.'s do utter as their own words written by others. We feel certain that he is right. We have never "ghost-written" for an M.P., but we have "ghost-written" for would-be M.P.'s, M.L.A.'s and municipal councillors. There are evidently some people who feel that use of a ghost-writer is dishonest. If it be so, the "ghost-writer" is just as dishonest as the man or woman who employs him. We have searched our conscience and have come to the conclusion that "it ain't necessarily so."

Many politicians, including some of the best, seek advice before they reach a difficult decision. There is no reason why it should be permissible to receive advice by word of mouth but impermissible to recieve it in writing. Some of the "ghost-writing" involves no more than the seeking of advice.

Then there are occasions on which the politician knows exactly the idea he wants to convey, but finds it difficult to select the precise words and phrases which will say what he wants and nothing more. He uses the "ghost-writer" as a technician.

This practice may be more questionable, since the business of politics is closely connected with the exchange of ideas and if a man is not well equipped for this function it may well be that he has no business attempting to be elected. Here, though, circumstances must decide. We would defend the use of "ghost-writers" in a hectic election campaign, where the candidate finds the demands on his time too great for any human to accept.

When, however, any man in public office is so inept in the use of the language that he feels it necessary to have every speech written by another, the chances are that he is being dishonest. Unless he possesses some extraordinary talents in other fields, he is not giving the people he represents good value for their money.

Sometimes though, employment of a "ghost-writer" is just the result of an inferiority complex. Unaccustomed to writing, the politician concludes he does not do it well and proceeds to hire somebody who thinks he does it well but who does not.

It is a humbling experience for the "ghost-writer" to discover that the man into whose pocket he is putting words knows more about the matter than does the writer. But it happens often. And when it does, it is generally a sign of an honest relationship between writer and speaker. In such case, we would agree with Mr. Michener that it is no reflection on the character of an M.P., or of any other speaker, to say that his speech has been written for him, nor is it any reflection on the character of the man who wrote it to call him a "ghost-writer."

THEY DESERVED IT

Amongst those people for whom we do not feel sorry are the well-to-do Americans who are reported to have been fleeced of $130,000 or more by a gang of Toronto swindlers.

There is no anti-Americanism in our inability to mourn their misfortune. We should be equally stonehearted if they had been well-to-do Canadians. We might have squeezed out some sympathy for them had they been poverty-stricken, but it would have been the sort of sympathy we all have for a debt-ridden, plague-stricken, plague-ridden weakling who robs a store.

These Americans deserve no sympathy because they were swindled when they tried to swindle others. They bet on horse races they had been told were fixed.

One other point disturbs us. A detective reports that the Toronto swindlers in this affair got one sucker out of every ten persons they approached. Did they carefully screen prospects before approaching them? We hope so, otherwise there is only one uncomfortable conclusion — one person out of ten is dishonest, or at least out of every ten well-to-do Americans is dishonest. And if this is true, we are afraid that the same would be true of well-to-do Canadians. Furthermore, we do not esteem poverty so highly as to believe that the proportion of dishonest people would be any smaller among the poor than among the rich.

Is Big Boom In Tenting

Covered Standard Freeholder

What this district may expect in the way of vacation visitors in the next few years is indicated in the statement released by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests pointing out that vast increases in the amount of tenting being done by vacationing families.

Figures show that lake front there will undoubtedly be large areas set aside in parks for accommodating this type of visitor. A d if they are growing more numerous year by year. All across the province the Department of Lands and Forests is steadily adding to facilities for campers as fast as it possibly can. Prior to 1956 Ontario had six provincial parks, i e e without access roads. Today there are 18 park sites, though only 4? are wholly or partially developed. In the majority of these, attention is being given to road building in addition to our own people, there is a steady flow of visitors and tourists from the U. S. who have the same kind of a holiday in mind.

The sudden growth in this outdoor type of living has b e n shown in the steadily increased sales of camp equipment such as tents, camp stoves, portable cots, sleeping bags and so on. Factors that have created the boom are said to be the improvement of roads that enable more people to reach vacation spots, and t h e steady cost of living which makes more potential tourists aware of the cost of living in hotel, motel or a cabin.

Owners of tourist owners, who naturally stand to suffer to some degree if this trend continues, are being urged to co-operate and are asking the government to assist in improving their own facilities so that they c a n receive a good share of the business.

Our "Nameless Lake" will offer the camping facilities in an area readily accessible to large centres of population. This type of visitor, if we mean his wants and how to serve him, may become an important part of our summer time economy in the years to come.

Played Ball In Oil Tank

The Flying Red Horse

The boys on the refinery softball team were spoiling for a game recently when they ran around Trenton, Mich., were too tired to play ball and suspected to think of that partially completed storage tank.

Result? Plenty. The 180,000-barrel tank was 180 feet in diameter, and you need only 170 between the welders' work, they could always swap a few calls diddles and play ball.

The welders didn't mind, the girls came to cheer, and in no time the first inning was under way. The score? Nobody counted.

And it anyone hadn't realized how big that tank was, he d i d before the game was over.

Mobil has hundreds of other big and little tanks around the world, ranging from the 367,000-barrel giant for crude storage at 22 Pelican Lake, Canada, down to 200-barrel tanks for refined products in small rural bulk depots. T h e i r jobs are as varied as the oil business itself. From wet to coastwise, oil literally runs from tank to tank.

Elements after crude reaches the surface it pours into separators or treaters near the well to get stripped of salt water. Next it is piped into lease tank "batteries" of from two to a dozen 260-to-2,000-barrel tanks) for gauging and temporary storage.

Then it enters a pipeline, a n d flows to the refinery's tank farm, tanks at a refinery, with perhaps a few exceptions, make a tank farm along the way for assorting, measuring or rerouting. T a n k farms are the key operating systems; what railway yards are to railroads. Some refineries store upwards 2,000,000 barrels at a time.

Crude runs at refineries follow tight schedule made up weeks in advance. As a rule, a newly arrived tanker of crude doesn't wait more than a week before processing. But refined products such as gasoline, kerosene and home-heating oil must be stored again in other tanks to await shipment. How soon they leave the tanks is dictated by customer demand.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Up in the Lake of the Woods country, where east begins to meet west, there is a forester's station at Nym Lake, and among the forestry staff is a young fellow who has quite a talent with a paint brush.

Mostly, painting around a forestry station has to do with canoes, cabins, fire towers and other sundry humdrum fields of artistic expression. But this young fellow showed a talent for more exciting. He could letter the department's initials and notices on various articles of equipment.

So it was suggested to him that he do up a few signs for the benefit and guidance of tourists who have begun to swarm through the Nym Lake region.

Thus began a stream of very attractive signs giving travel directions, names of lakes and islands, cautions against forest fire, and similar platitudes of the sign painter's art. So he was asked to do a very nice big sign for t h e entrance to one of the park roads, through which most of the American visitors pass.

A week later, there it was: "Keep Your Shirt On Green — Bring Money!"

Our artist is back painting canoes, at last report.

Cars Banned In New Town

Edmonton Journal

A new town is rising near Adelaide, Australia, named Elizabeth in honor of the Queen, that bans buses and automobiles. According to a Reuters dispatch from Adelaide, the pine fragrance of flowering plants will assail the tourists of the "Elizabethans." Gasoline fumes are not for them. Traffic lights and parking meters are also unessential features of a world before the city planners.

By the end of this year, it is estimated, about 10,000 persons will live in Elizabeth, and by 1965 it is expected that the population will have risen to 50,000. They will live in nine neighborhood units, each containing shopping centre, smaller stores, schools, youth centres and kindergartens. Their houses cost between $6,700 and $11,200 today, although they might be expected to increase in price later on; but the state government of South Australia will apparently determined to keep them within the means of the comparatively poor. They will cost loans.

The new town is separated from Adelaide — twenty-two minutes away by train — by a green belt in which the development is forbidden for all time, and also by stretches of the beauty of parks and playing fields. It sounds like an ideal place to live in, but the worst of it is so intended, since it is part of the plan, is permanent. The termination to which the state frees of slums. However, there may be a few exceptions. Apart from the North American point of view there is something not-reveal how the inhabitants get from their homes to the downtown area, to factories and business houses, or to the industrial areas.

Perhaps with all that open space, fresh air and no traffic they don't have to bother about bicycling. North Americans might consider this too high a price to pay for the advantages of life at Elizabeth. Be that as it may, it is a heroic task that the city planning firms to actile in the new community will manufacture, of all things, automobiles.

Union Helps Get Divorces

Hamilton Spectator

According to a recently published UN report there has been a decline in the divorce rate in Canada, western Europe, Australia and the United States. It is not certain that the Birmingham bus strikes and subsequent shortages had little to do with the decline in England.

Canada's record. The divorce rate among the 6,000 members of the Birmingham Transport and General Workers' Union was so high that the benevolent association refused to take action — they made it a great deal easier on the pocketbooks of members.

They set up an apply-canned "combo fund" plan. Members voluntarily pay a penny a week. After 20 payments a member qualifies for a union-paid divorce whatever his or her earnings. Quite a few have, it is noted that an uncontested action in Britain costs between £40 and £70.

Some in the union branch blame the high incidence of divorce on the employment of women on the buses. "Women are all right on the n and a "clippie" may be together on the same bus for three years

Bank Interest Rate Declines To Record Low

By ROY LABERGE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The current low Bank of Canada interest rate is seen as an indication there is plenty of money available in Canada for short-term investments.

The bank rate reached a record low of 1½ per cent this week. The previous low had been 1.50 per cent, established Feb. 8, 1946, and reached again Aug. 4, 1955.

The Bank of Canada rate—the central bank's lending charge to chartered banks and other lending institutions—is tied to the yield of government short-term treasury bills.

The bank rate's sudden drop from 1.70 per cent last week and 1.91 a week earlier follows the July 14 announcement of the government's conversion loan program.

Finance Minister Fleming, while indicating the program did not directly affect the Bank of Canada rate announced Thursday, said he saw the drop as evidence of the strength the government hopes its program will give the country's financial market.

"The conversion program is in the long and medium term field," he said in a interview. "It's not in the treasury bill field at all."

EVIDENCE OF STRENGTH

"But I think we see here some evidence of the strength that we expect the conversion loan to impart to the whole financial market of Canada."

The government has called on holders of wartime Victory Bonds to swap them for new conversion issues bearing higher interest.

The Bank of Canada rate is set at one-quarter of one per cent above the average yield for 91-day treasury bills, down this week to 67 per cent from last week's 1.45.

The low yield indicates a high demand for the bills which, in turn, indicates plenty of money available for short-term investment.

Two Girls Win Senior Swim Badges

GLEN MILLER — Sharon Ireland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ireland and Sheila Evenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Everson, won the coveted senior swimming badge, awarded by the Canadian Red Cross Society at Camp Hyanto, near Lyndhurst last week. They were the only two in their division to obtain the badge.

Instructor and examiner was Miss Nora Poston, of Kingston.

The test included a 300-yard continuous swim using a combination of the breast or side stroke, the back stroke and the crawl or trudgeon. They were also required to swim a continuous 75 yards on the back, 50 yards of which was done using the legs only. A 15-foot swim under water and diving and artificial respiration practice were also parts of the test.

They are now qualified to try for the bronze award. Both girls will be attending Trenton High School next year in grade 9. They are both 13 years of age.

Commons Passes Emergency Law To End Strike

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Emergency legislation to end "ritish Columbia's long CPR steamship strike was ready today for final approval that might lead to resumed operations by Saturday.

An overtime Commons session Thursday night passed an 11-clause bill designed to get eight CPR ships and their crews back at work between Vancouver Island and the mainland for the first time since May 16.

It contains provisions for a government-named administrator to operate the fleet on company agent, an interim eight-per-cent wage increase pending negotiation of a new collective agreement, and machinery for compulsory arbitration — a feature that Labor Minister Starr took pains to emphasize would be used only as a last resort if the disputants could not agree on a new contract.

The Senate was due to meet at 3 p.m. to deal with the bill. Royal assent was possible before nightfall.

AFFECTS THREE UNIONS

The bill would affect members of three unions, but the key dispute has been between th CPR and the Seafarers' International Union (SIU), whose 339 members on the ships struck for a wage increase of successive annual raises of 16 and nine per cent. The company offered eight per cent.

Both the Liberal and CCF parties put on record their opposition to the compulsory arbitration feature but neither formally opposed it.

On the invitation of Opposition Leader Pearson, the Commons added a clause limiting the life of the bill's powers to a period ending with the 30th sitting day of the next session of Parliament—a session likely to start next January.

But the Commons rejected by a vote of 129 to 20—the Liberals joining with the CCF—an amendment proposed by Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) outlining means of selecting three men as arbitration board. Mr. Howard's amendment would have had union and company board nominees, on the labor minister in case of disagreement, appoint the third man as chairman to provide the basis for more amicable relations.

Could Wipe Out U.S. 6th Fleet Says Khrushchev

CAIRO (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has assured Egypt he could easily and quickly wipe out the United States 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean with modern weapons, it was reported here today.

The report was issued by Mohamed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the newspaper Al Ahram. He accompanied President Nasser on his secret visit to Moscow last week for talks with Khrushchev.

Heikal wrote today that the Soviet premier told Nasser there was very easy to destroy the 6th Fleet. We possess weapons which, if we use them, will turn the ships into steel coffins for their sailors."

FORCES MOBILIZED

He added that Khrushchev told Nasser: "We have mobilized our military forces and our army has been concentrated on the borders of Turkey and Iran.

"The situation is serious and they (the West) will know there is no joke about it."

But the editor added that Khrushchev also said: "But the question of the Middle East is not a question for weapons. We want it to be a peaceful question."

Heikal said Nasser told the Soviet leader that the United Arab Republic would fight alongside Iraq and that he had come to meet Khrushchev "before the battle starts" because he wanted to know what his stand would be.

Sky's the Limit For Trade With Canada -- Rootes

LONDON (CP) — Sir William Rootes, chairman of the Dollar Exports Council, says he is convinced "the sky's the limit" for British exports to Canada.

Sir William was speaking Thursday at a press conference where he presented the report of the British trade delegation which visited Canada last April and May. The report advocates better industrial relations and more publicity for British goods.

The report by the Dollar Export Council, a private organization of manufacturers and bankers in Britain, advocated the recent increase in the tariff on British goods entering Canada and said it hoped a "buy Canadian" campaign now being sponsored will lead to further trade barriers.

The 60-page report says: "Most British firms have under - estimated the advertising requirements of the Canadian market, and it is a mistake for advertisements for publication in Canada to be finalized in Britain."

The report said British firms would be "well advised" to spend up to the "economic maximum" on advertising.

Downed Plane Not American

BEIRUT (AP) — A United States Navy spokesman said today that no American planes have been shot down by anti-aircraft fire from Syria.

It was announced in Amman that all commercial airline flights between the U.A.R. and Jordan were suspended.

Young Cypriot Killed in Greek Clash

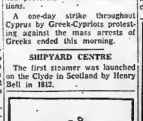
NICOSIA (Reuters)—A 17-year-old Turkish-Cypriot was shot to death and another severely wounded in western Cyprus today, shattering a calm imposed by a 48-hour truce curfew.

Today's slaying brought to 12 the number killed in clashes between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots, this month.

The curfew in the towns of Famagusta and, Troodos ended at dawn today, as security forces continued mass arrests of Greek and Turkish-Cypriots in an effort to crush communal violence.

ARRESTS UNREPORTED

British authorities have stopped disclosing the number of arrests "as a matter of policy," Greek-Cypriots claimed, over 1,600 of their number were detained and an official source confirmed that the total "exceeds 1,500."



Authorities also confirmed the arrest of 60 Turkish-Cypriots.

A Greek priest, hunted by Sir Roger Allan, the British ambassador in Athens, claimed the mass arrests were aimed at "political coercion." It also was announced the Greek government had protested to the United Nations.

A one-day strike throughout Cyprus by Greek-Cypriots protesting against the mass arrests of Greeks ended this morning.

Bad Advice Cost Man His Legacy, Bank Must Pay

LONDON (Reuters) — Bankers are examining their role as investment advisers following a case in Leeds assizes where a judge Wednesday awarded £15,790 ($34,212) damages to a Newcastle paint salesman who lost a legacy by acting on advice given him by a local bank manager.

They were non-committal about the possibility of the case putting a "brake" on the advice that banks extensively give to their customers.

The damages and costs were awarded against the manager, Joseph Johnson, and Martin's Bank. A stay of execution was granted.

BELIEVED FIRST

The case is believed to be the first in which a customer has recovered damages from a bank because of negligent advice by a branch manager.

The story told in court was that the salesman, Hallton Woods, 28, got a legacy of £16,000 ($44,800). He went to Johnson, manager of the Quayside branch of Martin's Bank in Newcastle, for advice on how to invest it.

Johnson advised him to invest in a company that had an overdraft of £20,000 and was ballanced, as Mr. Justice Salmon said in giving judgment, "on a knife edge."

Woods invested £14,000 in the company, Brock's Refrigeration Limited, and lost his money.

Woods claimed that Johnson was negligent in advising him to sell mortgage company investments and put the money into Brock's.

MORE BENEFITS

LONDON (CP) — A total of £34,459,000 was paid in benefits from the United Kingdom industrial injuries fund in the 1956-57 fiscal year. In the previous year, the total was about £32,300,000.

Markham Boy Bitten by Fox Near Bancroft

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP) — Constable Laboureur in Toronto has shipped anti-rabies serum here to be administered to an eight-year-old boy bitten last Wednesday by a fox believed to be rabid.

Timmy Wagnall was bitten several times by the fox that attacked him near the family cottage at Bancroft. The fox was shot and its head shipped to the federal pathological laboratory in Hull, Que., for examination.

A wire was sent to the University of Toronto laboratories to have the serum waiting for the boy when he arrived home. Markham is just north of Metropolitan Toronto.

Toronto Folk Told to Prepare Survival Kits

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto civil defence organization has announced it will issue a pamphlet to Metro residents advising them to prepare a survival kit.

The kit, designed to last seven days, is part of the over-all plan to prepare residents for mass evacuation of country areas in the event of nuclear attack.

The list of necessities in the pamphlet was compiled recently by the department of national health and welfare. It also was suggested that the family automobile gas tank should never be less than half full.

Stipulations provide for two gallons of water for every member of a family over three years of age, and three gallons for children under three.

For each person the list stipulates three cans of citrus juice, three cans of fruit and three cans of vegetables.

Four cans of milk for children and seven cans for infants are listed, as well as seven individual packages of cereal, a package of crackers and a package of cookies.

Main dish items include one 12-ounce can of meat.

Other essentials listed include blankets, eating utensils, at least one pair of wool socks per person, infant care items and a medical supply box.

C.A. Milligan Urges Credit Aid for Farmers

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MPs from four provinces Thurs. urged the federal government to make more long-term credit available to Canadian farmers on more generous terms.

They told the Commons agriculture committee this should be done through existing lending institutions no longer are interested in making mortgage loans to farmers.

Increased federal activity in mortgage loans to farmers was proposed by Gage W. Montgomery, Lambton West; C. A. Milligan, Prince Edward-Lennox, Ont.; R. B. Southam, Moose Mountain, Sask., and Lawrence E. Kindt, Macleod, Alta. The discussion came during committee study of a bill to amend the Canadian Farm Loan Act.

The committee approved the bill and sent it back to the Commons for final reading. It increases the lending capacity of the Canadian Farm Loan Board to $120,000,000 from $80,000,000.

Increase Bail In Race Swindle

TORONTO (CP)—Bail for Myer Rush, 34, advertising executive charged with conspiracy in an alleged race-track swindle, Thursday was raised to $55,000 from $20,000.

Magistrate Hugh Foster, who raised the figure, had set it at $30,000 Wednesday despite the objections of Crown counsel Bowman Gilfillan.

Rush was arrested Tuesday night along with his secretary, Marjorie Harvard, 23, also facing the same charge.

Police said the alleged swindle involved several agents who approached well-to-do Americans and offered to accept bets on races, which they explained had been "fixed."

Outstanding Talent Features Opening of Music Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

With a trumpet fanfare specially composed for the occasion by Gustav Appelbaum, Festival director of music, and a triumphant arrangement of the national anthem sung by the festival singers, the fourth annual season of music was given a resounding opening at Stratford last Tuesday night. It was in many respects a most unusual evening, with a short first section of ancient music for choir and brass ensemble contrasting sharply with the main work of the evening, the symphonic psalm "King David" by Arthur Honegger.

The Festival Singers, under their conductor Elmer Iseler, quickly demonstrated the skill, purity and precision which will have come to expect from this outstanding group, in works by Giovanni Gabrieli, Thomas Tomkins, William Mundi and Orlando Gibbons, none of them familiar, all presented with great artistry and unusual dynamic range and feeling.

DRAMATIC ORATORIO

"King David" which was broadcast by the CBC was originally set as incidental music to a play, but was later enlarged into a dramatic oratorio which met with great success wherever it has been performed on both sides of the Atlantic.

Honegger's modern idiom strikes strangely at first on ears more accustomed to the classical and romantic schools, but before long one is caught in the intensely dramatic musical expression, and the end leaves the listener gasping at the unexpected beauties which abound throughout the work. Once again, the Festival Singers do full justice to a very difficult score, with the help of a very skilled instrumental ensemble of wood-wind, brass, percussion, bass and harp. The four solo parts were taken by Mary Morrison, soprano; Patricia Rideout, contralto, and Jean-Paul Jeanotte, tenor. The role of the Narrator, which plays an important part in holding the work together and keeping continuity between the musical sections, was taken by Rabbi Reuben Slonim, who displayed warmth, feeling and considerable acting ability in his telling of the story. However, it is probable that this role would have fitted in better with the rest of the performance, had it been entrusted to a professional actor, as was originally intended.

This concert is to be repeated this Saturday during the following weeks, the Music Festival will present twelve performances of "The Beggar's Opera" starring Robert Goulet, two concerts of baroque instrumental music by the Pro Musica of New York, five concerts of jazz and six programs of folk music.

The first of the folk music concerts took place on Wednesday morning, featuring Jacques Labrecque and Emma Cazier, and was a real delight from beginning to end. M. Labrecque from Quebec studies of French and French-Canadian folk music led him to spend five years in France, started by trading several stories through many different versions, moods and melodies.

VERSATILE ARTIST

Accompanied by Clement Laplante on the guitar, Mr. Labrecque showed himself to be not merely an extremely accomplished singer, but also an actor, a mime, a humorist and a charming exponent of English language as spoken in his native province. Miss Cazier introduced her audience to a number of songs from the Maritimes, from Scotland, as well as one from the Indians of Northern B.C. She sang with simplicity, great feeling and artistry. On their return to the platform, Labrecque and Laplante had exchanged the formal suits for the bright shirts and breeches, the uniform of the lumberjack, which were worn during the singing of specialist in spoons and foot clogging. Together, the trio presented a number of hilarious songs with the audience joining in the chorus of "Mon Merle" cumulative number of "Alouette" school. If the remaining Folk Music concerts live up to the standard set by this one, they will indeed provide a most worthwhile addition to the Stratford scene.

During his official visit to the Festival, His Excellency the Governor General spent Tuesday afternoon touring the very interesting exhibition, which includes costumes and sketches of former Stratford productions, old books of Shakespeare and his contemporaries from collection of Mr. Sidney Fisher, early cinematograph equipment, as well as painting and jewellery by Canadian Artists. The exhibition should certainly be seen by any visitor to the Festival.

Skirts and undergarments should be rotated to get equal wear. To keep you in touch, number each on the neckband or maker's tab.

Sack, Trapeze Will Be Buried By Winter Time.

LONDON (Reuters) — By the time winter comes, both the sack and the trapeze line will be buried.

On Thursday, third and final day of the London high fashion openings, Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, and Miss Hardy Amies, dressmaker to Princess Margaret, showed their collections.

Hartnell himself killed the sack and the trapeze, at any rate in their extreme forms. Both were unpopular with the models of women. The great majority refused to adopt either, preferring to wait and see what the fall would bring.

What it has brought is a new silhouette following more closely the natural curves of the body. There is still the easy, casual air. But the bust resumes its proper relationship to the rest of the figure and waists are marked again. Suits and dresses are lightly fitted and fullness is controlled or relegated to floating panels attached at various heights between waist and shoulders, and usually at the back.

The exact position of the waist varies fro mthe top of the hip bone to high up under the armpits. Hartnell confidently placed his waist at natural level, with a tendency to rise inward the bust on only a few models.

Unless Paris unexpectedly decrees something different next week, long legs will stay with us at least until spring, with the exact length of the hemline left to the individual—as long as it is not more than about two inches below the knees.

MORE BIRTHS

Total births in Canada in the first four months of 1958 were more than 5,000 higher than 1957, at 40,436.

The Experts Say

Home Economist Cites Some Faults of Canucks

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Cake mixes and ready-made clothes endanger Canadian ability of cooking and sewing, says Miss Helen McKercher, director of the home economics extension service of the Ontario department of agriculture.

And, she adds, Canadians eat too much and don't select home ornaments with sufficient care.

Miss McKercher's job is to see that women living in the country have opportunities for improving their knowledge and skills. This is done through courses in cooking, clothing and other subjects, prepared by her department and distributed through women's institutes and similar organizations.

HOMEMAKING MENACED

"Homemakers in this country are in danger of losing their originality and joy of achievement because of cake mixes and ready-made clothes," said Miss McKercher.

"Anybody can make an edible cake with a cake-mix, but there's real pleasure in making a cake yourself," she said.

"Anybody can walk into a shop and select a dress, but there's much more satisfaction in sewing one yourself from your own choice of materials and maybe your own design."

Miss McKercher says that part of her department's job is to persuade housewives on farms to consider "cost against time."

"We want women to make things themselves, but in this age of automation, they might, for instance, be worth more operating the baler and then making a ready-mix cake, than in spending an hour or so making a cake the old-fashioned way."

COLOR SENSE

She said her department also tries to teach good color sense and an eye for line.

"Utility in home articles is essential," she said. "We want to get away from tea-cups to anguilar to drink from, with handles too ornate to hold, ashtrays too flat to hold ashes, and electric lamps so fancy the light can't get through."

And Canadians, she says, don't eat properly. "We are an overfed nation and basic nutrition is still the essential element in our courses concerned with the preparation of food."

Miss McKercher is in charge of a staff of 10, most of them home economists, who work with women's groups in rural areas throughout Ontario.

The staff at the head office in Toronto prepares a series of lessons on cooking, making clothes, furnishing the home, various home crafts such as needlework and quilting, health educatio, home crafts, such as needlework and quilting, health education, procedure al meetings, and teaches them to groups of women.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last meeting of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Gladys Fitch presiding.

A pot-luck supper was enjoyed by the members before the meeting.

Nellis Scrymgeour read a letter informing the executives of a meeting in Brockville, on Sunday, and it was voted that the lodge executives attend.

There is to be a meeting at N. Scrymgeour's on July 31st for all members to talk about the executive meeting. On August 7th a chairman meeting will be held at Gladys Fitch's.

The members voted on aid for a needy family.

The draw, donated by N. Scrymgeour, was won by L. Livingston. Plans were made for a tag day to be held at a later date.

CHANGED ROLES

Emmy Destinn was a great soprano who died in 1930, began her musical education as a violinist, in 1951 to 17 in 1956.

Sick Persons In Korea Must Stay on Job

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Sick persons in Korea must stay at work because there is nobody to replace them on the job says Dr. Clare Nevill Smith, former assistant medical officer of health at Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry health unit.

The doctor has spent 18 months in Korea working in tuberculosis hospitals and clinics under the United Nations Save the Children Fund.

"Hospital facilities we take for granted in Canada are not available in Korea," she said. "Hospital beds are scarce and many of our patients remain out-patients so that they can hold their jobs."

She will soon start work at a sanatorium at Kitchener, Ont.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DISTANCES WHEN SHE SHOULD USE HER FORMAL NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was married recently, a n d have questions about the correct form of my name in certain circumstances.

1. When I open a charge account in a department store or a specialty shop, what form of name should I write on the application?

2. I have been told that I am to be asked to serve on an important committee of a theatre benefit for a charity organization in which I have been very interested and active for several years. If I do serve, what form of name do I give for the listing of members of this committee?

3. When I attend a meeting or any other occasion where I am "among those present," and a reporter, generally the society reporter for a newspaper, asks for my name for publication, w h a t form of name should I give?

— H. D.

Very good questions these, and for each question the same answer . . . use your formal name; for example, Mrs. Arthur Davis. This, however, is e a c h instance, you are giving your name for information . . . and it is no sense a signature (which would be your informal name). So, .

1. To open a charge account, give your name Mrs. Arthur Davis, your packages to be delivered to that name, your bills to be mailed to you in that name.

2. You also list your formal name as a member of a committee: Mrs. Arthur Davis.

3. And the reporter give your formal name, Mrs. Arthur Davis.

(Never, in these or similar circumstances, give your name incorrectly, as "Mrs. H e l e n a Davis.")

HOSTESS CRITICIZES GUEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last month my husband and I were invited for a long weekend at the home of friends whom we met last Summer. We spent o u r vacation in the resort where they have their summer home. We have spent several vacations there, and we have quite a f e w friends there. We had a wonderful time on our visit, and our hosts gave several parties for us.

As we were driving back, we sent them a telegram of appreciation of their hospitality. We thought this would take the place of a bread-and-butter letter, and so didn't write a letter. Now I have been told by several friends who are vacationing there t h a t our hostess has criticized us for not writing a bread-and-butter letter for the visit. She said they appreciated our telegram, but that this didn't say anything about the special parties they planned f o r us, and that they doubted if they would ever invite us again. Do we deserved this criism? We're certainly worried about it.

— Reader

And worried you certainly should be! In my judgment your hostess was in the right in expecting that you would, and should, write her a thank-you letter for their very fine hospitality, of course mentioning the special parties they planned for you and your husband. I think too that the "en route" telegram wasn't enough, and your hosts perhaps, just perhaps, may have thought you sent it so you wouldn't have to write a bread-and-butter letter; I can't approve of your hostess criticizing you to your friends. But perhaps this experience will convince you of the tremendous importance of writing thank-you notes when you should write thank-you notes. They a r e vastly more important than we sometimes think! They not only win friends — but can keep them.

Handsome Headings

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Mid-summer headgear is varied enough to offer something pretty for all. First we have a flat, soft bow on a concealed wire band. Fashioned of alternating grosgrain and velvet, it can be worn across the coiffure or in back, as detailed in the small sketch.

For more important occasions, such as a wedding, more coverup is necessary. It can still be light in character, however, as shown by this little helmet-wig of leaves of silk in shades of green. It is studded with tiny glitter berries.

Readers' Friday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

Question: In the March paper you stated that you would be printing recipes for Chinese wontons, sweet and sour pork balls and chicken balls. These I have missed and would appreciate you forwarding them and any other Chinese recipes you may have . . . Miss E. K.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY
(Guests)

Gaspe Salmon with Mayonnaise Aspic (see Tuesday); Salad; Garnish; Unpeeled, unseeded Banana Squash, Sliced and Boiled; Grated Red Cabbage and Onion Salad; Old-Fashioned Rice and Raisin Pudding with Pouring Cream; Hot Tea.

Answer: I have forwarded the recipes you wanted. The following recipe for Chinese Fried Rice is very useful — for it includes meat or fish or fowl — but usually ham.

CHINESE FRIED RICE

One-half cup butter or peanut oil, 3 slightly beaten eggs, 1 1-2 cups cooked meat — this may be ham, leftover roast veal or chicken, bacon, crabmeat, lobster or shrimp, cut in pieces, Chinese soya sauce, 3 cups cooked rice (1-2 lb. before cooking — flaky), 1-2 cup very thinly sliced onion, about 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, shake of pepper. Can be drained. Chinese bean sprouts 1-3 cup fresh green onion tips or chives 2 tablespoons diced raw pimiento or sweet green or red pepper. In large frying pan melt butter or heat oil. Add slightly beaten eggs, break up with fork as they cook, but do not allow to become too firm. Add the meat, cooked rice, onion, salt, pepper and at the last the bean sprouts. Add soya sauce as desired and heat through only until hot — about 10 minutes, served. Vegetables while they are cooked and hot, should still retain their crispness.

One Chinese recipe I have never given is Sweet and Sour Fish. Because it is economical and because I made it dipping the fish in rice flour first and found it exceptionally delicious I will give it here.

SWEET AND SOUR FISH

(Highly recommended) Two lbs. any white fish fillets (haddock is fine), 1-2 cup each pickled onions and cucumbers, sliced, 2 mild raw onions sliced thinly, 1 cup cider vinegar, 1 piece fresh ginger, 1 each sweet red and green pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, about 1 1-2 tablespoons cornstarch. The raw onions and peppers sliced are soaked in the hot vinegar with the 2 tablespoons sugar and some salt until vinegar is cold—about 3 hours. Dredge fish fillets in salted and peppered rice flour (or white flour), and fry in 1-2-inch peanut oil (or butter) until golden and barely cooked. Remove to hot platter. Drain onions and peppers and arrange over fish. To drained off vinegar add some salt, pepper, sugar and soy sauce to taste add ginger, pickled sliced onions and cucumbers, bring to boil. Skim out vegetables, spread over vegetables on top of fish. Mix a cornstarch and water paste and stir into hot vinegar until thick and pour this boiling hot over the fish and serve at once. This is excellent and a god-send to budgeters who crave a sensational change.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ethel M. — He is locked in a shell.

Mark M. — She acts like a nut.

* * *

Ethel M. — My husband and I have been married 20 years and have three children. We might have been much happier together than we have been, and I only regret the time wasted in misery.

The problem is mainly that my husband is anti social and I am the direct opposite. He hates to go out, and always just sits and broods when there are other people present. I am so outgoing, so fond of people, parties and fun, that I actually suffer when forced to do without these things.

When the children were younger and needed me more I could do without sociability to some extent. Now, however, I find my life is meaningless without social contacts. How can I make my husband come out of his shell and join me in enjoying others?

* * *

Mark M. — I'm afraid I w a s born to be a hermit. To me, sociability, at least the variety of the stuff that Ethel seems to enjoy, is strictly for the birds. I'd like a few nice friends in for a quiet discussion now and then but this "parties and fun" business is something I can't stomach.

Frankly, more than anything else, I can't stomach Ethel's behavior at a party. She seems to feel she has to be the life of every party and she acts like a nut. She usually gets drunk and always bawls me out in front of everyone for being a stuffed shirt.

Ethel complains that I have gotten worse with the years. Well, I think she has, too. If she wants to carry on the way she has been, I wish she would run around alone or with the girls.

* * *

The Council: These statements leave us with the question of which came first, Mark's "locked in a shell" social behavior or Ethel's madcap antics? It sounds as though each must have h a d a powerful effect on the other, each partner pushing the other to more extreme behavior.

We suspect that Ethel's behavior is designed more to show up and embarrass her husband than anything else. Individuals w h o have a genuine sense of warmth and are "outgoing" towards others do not usually find it necessary to be the life of the party.

They leave that to the ones who need the limelight more than sociability. They are not irritated if their partner does not participate in exactly the same spirit in which they do, because they are too busy really enjoying others.

The key to a solution here may well call for more change on Ethel's part than on Mark's. We would suggest, just as an experiment, that Ethel try putting her husband completely out of h i s mind at the next party. She should also try to forget about herself and her own feelings and simply try to give her complete attention to others.

We have a notion that she will have a far better time, and Mark may come out of his shell i n a g enough to enjoy some of the quiet sociability he prefers and t h e y both will be able to go home happily at the end of the party.

TV May Bring You Closeups Of Other Side of the Moon

By RALPH DIGHTON

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP)—One of these nights you'll be watching television for a glimpse of something you never thought you'd see —the other side of the moon.

One of the "lunar probe" rockets now being built will go out to the moon, circle it and come back, scanning its surface with a television camera all the while.

The signals from this lunar scanner will be picked up by a giant antenna on earth and put on tape. A few days later, after study by appropriate authorities, the tape will be released for public viewing.

This is the prediction of Dr. Donald B. Duncan, head of advanced engineering at the autonetics division of North American Aviation.

Duncan, an expert on space navigation, won't say just when this magic sight on television will come—"but it may be sooner than you think."

"The first swing around the moon," says Duncan, "may be 100 miles or so above its surface. But even at that distance man will be able to find answers to many of the questions he has asked for centuries."

Later trips, says Duncan, will take the TV camera much closer to the moon's surface.

Just how will science do this—make it possible for automatic astronauts to circle the moon, even to "visit" other planets?

"There are at least two ways," Duncan says, "both possible with the instrumentation we already have.

"First, we could record what the TV camera sees on tape and then recover the tape when the space vehicle returns to earth.

"The second, and probably most practical way, would be to transmit live TV images from it to a large antenna on earth, then unscramble the code and record the resultant picture on tape."

Is such a transmitter, powerful enough to send signals back to earth yet small enough to fit into a rocket nose cost, now in existence?

"Oh yes," says Duncan. "It needn't be any larger than a cigar box. And the picture will be good and clear, probably clearer than most of the shows you see on commercial channels."

Royals Blank Havana 9-0; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal's Charley Rabe is nothing more than a close of damp gunpowder to all those Havana Cubans' big guns that have been blasting International League batting lately.

The 32-year-old left - hander fired a one-hitter at the Cubans Thursday night, coming within five outs of a no-hitter as the Royals won 9-0. This was just 24 hours after Havana had bombed Toronto 19-0 on 18 hits.

Rabe, who has kicked around the minors since 1951, with a brief stay at Cincinnati in the National League early last season, has started nine games for Montreal this year, and now has completed four. This is his first shutout in six decisions—four won, two lost.

BISONS SPLIT

Buffalo and Richmond split a twi-night doubleheader, Buffalo winning 5-0 in the opener, the Vees taking the nightcap 14-5. Rochester swept a twin from Columbus 4-3, 3-0, and Toronto edged Miami 5-4.

Enrique Izquierdo, a .300 hitting catcher, hit a 3-1 pitch for a triple to get Havana's only hit. Rabe retired 15 in a row from the second inning, walked two, struck out eight and had 16-hit support.

Bob Chakales put on quite a pitching and hitting show for the Vees' second game win. He knocked in the only run and gave eight hits for his fifth straight complete game.

Ken Johnson turned in a snappy three-hitter for Buffalo in the opener. Lou Ortiz hit a two-run homer in the sixth, his 16th.

Rochester had to go three extra innings for its first game victory after which Cal Browning notched win No. 13 in 18 decisions.

Reliever Bob Tiefenauer's pitching combined with a home run and triple by Archie Wilson to give the second-place Leafs their victory. Wilson had three runs batted in.

Frank Herrera homered for Miami. Dick Bunker was the loser.

'Hustle for Yourself' Credo Helping Jon Hall's Career

By BO THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Nowadays, an actor can't sit around and wait for his agent to call. He's got to get out and hustle for himself."

This is the credo of Jon Hall, and it is producing results. For instance:

1. Tahitian-reared Hall has long been a fan of island music. Finding some inspired combos in Hawaiian night spots, he figured he should share their music with the vast record-buying public.

So he moved his own equipment into the siderig and made hi-fi and stereophonic recordings. He brought them back to the States and sold the layout to Mercury Records, which will soon bring out "Hi-Fi in Hawaii."

OLD CAMERAS BULKY

2. A veteran of making movies in, under and above the water, he has long recognized the difficulty of filming underwater. The submerged cameras were bulky, required two or three men to handle, could film only for a limited time. That made much photography expensive.

So Jon went to work with associates and produced the special underwater camera, a lightweight affair that one man can easily adjust and operate.

3. Having prospered with the amazingly successful Ramar of the Jungle television series, Jon is devising another one, The Seven Seas. This one will sit him out of the jungle and into the briny. He has already shot thousands of feet of film underwater for the series with his new cameras.

4. And when he can get a respite from all these activities, Jon will start developing his Mataeta village, a resort hotel he plans to build in Hawaii. He has the plans all ready to go.

COSTS WILL BE LOW

"I'll do it when I get the time," he remarked. "The financing is no problem. Construction costs are amazingly low because the hotel is completely open, except for the bedrooms and bathrooms."

Jon is looking trim and youthful, despite the fact that he dived into the movie waters over 20 years ago. He said he has never dropped a pound in the last year. And with a program like thatno wonder.

Will Televise Rademacher Folley Fight

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former amateur champion Pete Rademacher makes a second bid for professional boxing fame when he battles Zora Folley, top contender for the heavyweight crown at 10 pounds or less tonight.

The experts give Rademacher, 1956 Olympic Games champion from Columbus, Ga., a good chance to score an upset.

But Folley, from Chandler, Ariz., at 26 is a well seasoned battler with 42 pro bouts. He has been beaten only twice—in 1955. Folley probably will be a 3-to-1 favorite.

Boxing fans will see big Pete in action on television for the first time. The fight will be televised starting at 10 p.m. EDT. Rademacher created a stir last August when, in his first pro fight, he took on world champion Floyd Patterson.

Noted Under-World Figure Indicted on Boxing Charges

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul John (Frankie) Carbo, an underworld figure and reputed power in pro boxing, was indicted Thursday on 10 charges of conspiracy, acting as an unlicensed matchmaker and as an undercover fight manager.

New York police issued a general alarm to 15 eastern seaboard states and the District of Columbia for the arrest of the 54-year-old man known as Frankie Carbo, Frank Russo and Mr. Grey.

Among the seven fights in which Carbo was charged with serving as undercover manager were two in which the fighters alleged to be his were defeated by Canadians.

Carbo managed light - heavyweight Clarence Hilliard of Washington, the indictment asserted, when he was stopped Jan. 31 in seven rounds by Yvon Durelle of Bate Ste. Anne, N.B., in a Madison Square Garden event.

In another bout, a prelim affair at the Garden March 21, the indictment said Carbo was undercover manager for Don McAleer of Newark, N.J., who was outpointed by Burke Emery of Sherbrooke, Que.

ELUSIVE QUARRY

District attorney Frank Hogan said Carbo nominally lives at Hollywood, Fla., but is rarely there. Detectives haven't been able to catch up with him in a number states.

Carbo long has been a central figure in New York boxing inquiries. He was mentioned prominently in 1955 when the New York State Athletic Commission outlawed the International Boxing Guild. At the time, chairman Julius Helfand called Carbo "a sinister and shadowy figure with an extensive police record."

Carbo was the fifth man indicted by the current New York grand jury probing professional boxing.

Juveniles Win Over Trenton

FRANKFORD — Frankford Juvenile C's came back from an early 2-0 deficit to defeat Allore Lumber Kings of the Trenton Industrial softball league 8-4 the other night in an exhibition game in Frankford.

The winners scored five runs in the fourth and fifth frames to record the victory.

Bob Adams tossed six-innings on the Frankford hilltop to gain the win. He allowed five hits good for all Trenton's runs. The Lumber Kings could do nothing with Billie Drafse's slants who completed the job on two hits while fanning four.

Kaye Elliott worked the opening five innings for the Allore crew and gave up just four hits. Control trouble led to his downfall as he passed eight batters. Don Willman gave up one run on two hits the rest of the way.

Jack Arthur paced the Frankford Legion kids with two hits while Cooper, Patrick, Adams and Spurrell had the others. Dave Vandervoort had two hits in a losing cause. Beatty, Elliott, Harrison Nokes and Woodcock each collected one.

Lark Whites Trounce Reds

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Doug (Peahead) Walker watched carefully from the sidelines Thursday night as Montreal Alouettes played an intra - squad game at Molson Stadium before a shirt-sleeve crowd of 8,134 as a warmup for the opening of the Big Four Football League season.

Walker left the coaching to his four assistants while he studied the performances of the 43 new players battling for places on the club and 16 holdovers from last year's third-place team.

Hal Patterson's Whites, sparked by the quarterbacking of newcomer Dick Pursell, trounced the Reds of quarterback Sam Etcheverry 33-7 in a contest slowed in pace by temperatures hovering around 90 degrees.

The 22-year-old Pursell from Susquehanna University piloted the ground attack for the Whites and completed three of five passes, including a touchdown heave to bonebrew Ivan Livingstone.

Senior Lacrosse

WELLAND (CP) — Welland-Crowland Switeons continued their winning ways in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series Thursday night with a 13-7 decision over Peterborough Petes.

The win gives them a 16-2 record for the season. They are undefeated in 11 contests at home.

Ron Roy and Don Baker paced the winners with three goals each. Ted Howe counted two and singles went to Rich Daniels, Garry Carr, Jim McNulty, Skip Teal and Jim McMahon.

Larry Ferguson continued to lead the Petes with two goals. Ken Hutton, Roy Woods, Jerry Plodgett, Syril Coombes and Roy Allen scored one each.

Senior Baseball

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Majors are more than happy Roy McKay decided to give up professional baseball. In fact it's hard to imagine the Majors surviving in the Intercounty League without him.

The 25-year - old lefthander powed his worth Thursday night when he pitched and batted the Majors to a 5-5 decision over the last-place Hamilton Beavers.

McKay, formerly in the American League with the Tiger chain, now has his own game with a double in the top of the 10th inning which scored shortstop Bill Zubyk. He entered the game in relief for Ray Yelle in the bottom of the ninth when Beavers tied it up on a double by Murray Lake and a single by Murray Oliver.

The victory was the 11th for the Major this year. McKay has accounted for eight of them.

Says Durelle Will Assist Crash Widow

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Fight manager Chris Shaban said Thursday boxer Yvon Durelle will likely assist the widow and nine children of Stanley Martin, a neighbor and close friend killed last Friday by Durelle's car.

Shaban said the British Empire light-heavyweight champion plans to pay for Martin's funeral and that the fighter wouldn't see the family go hungry.

The accident happened after a welcome home party for Durelle at Bate Ste. Anne, N.B., the fighter's home town, on his return from Montreal where he beat South African Mike Holt to keep his title.

Webb Will Sub For Fullmer

NEW YORK (AP) — Spider Webb of Chicago, ranked among the leading middleweight contenders, Thursday was signed to sub for the injured Gene Fullmer in a July 30 bout against Franz Szuszina of Germany at Madison Square Garden.

Matchmaker Jack Barrett signed Webb when he learned Fullmer suffered an eye injury while training at West Jordan, Utah.

Webb, rated No. 5 by Ring and No. 8 by the National Boxing Association, defeated Dick Tiger in London, June 24. In other 1958 bouts he knocked out Roy Calhoun and outpointed Jimmy Beecham and lost a decision to Holly Mims.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Up around Cobourg they're still talking with mixed feelings, about that softball classic the Lakeshore fairlies gave the other night between the upstart Belleville Bobcats and "Sleepy" Dawe and his Midsummer Night's Dream Merchants.

It was, beyond the shadow of a doubt, one of the spine-tingliest thrillers seen on the local diamond since "Sleepy" waved a languid arm clutching his peblum bottle.

The boys in the backroom who had foresaw a three-in-a-row series, and they could be right at that, hastened to lower the odds. Now, of course, everything hinges on the second hassle between the Tubbies and Merchants slated for the CNRA Park here tonight.

The Merchants, whose sob "Sleepy", had the Indian sign on the Temple Tabbies three times out of four in the schedule, figured the city slickers, while offering some opposition would not be too tough to sideline. In fact, they hold the powerful Ox Pointers fairly lightly, and one report from the lakeshore town has it, they are already spending a spot in the town trophy room for the city league championship bauble.

Now, they're not quite so sure. The Tabbies exploded with a chips-down potential that amazed even their own most ardent supporters. They battled the highly-lauted Merchants to a fair-to-chee-well on the shores of Lake Ontario, and but for a quirk of softball fate might have come home with the first-game scalp tacked to their belts.

The Templeers are full of confidence over the result of tonight's tilt. The Merchants are not quite so sure. After the heads-up exhibition tossed by the Tabs in the first hassle anything can happen this evening.

"Casey" Temple has the Cats all primed for the all-important fray. He has their infield sharpened, their fur smooth and their feelings at the right pitch. They have the advantage of their home grounds and fans, and if they come up with the same brand as they did in the first game, they figure to come out ahead by all even-steven by the time the final out is made tonight.

Manager Temple threw his ace, Bobby Hull, at the Merchants in the first game and the blonde youngster matched the superb pitching of "Sleepy" almost skrinkmeck the game, although his whiff record was not as impressive. Tonight's choice is not known to this department, but with the Tabs' backs to the wall, so to speak, Temple might open with Hull, or on the home grounds go with Bobby Green.

Tonight's tilt is practically a "must" win for the Cats, since the third of the three-of-five semi-finals series is slated for the lakeshore town tomorrow night under the lights. A win for the Merchants this evening will give them a stranglehold on the series.

There was a lot of grousing and griping in the Trenton dugout the other night before the first game between these scrads got under way at Peter Anne. Manager Charlie Drake had been informed that Gord Marconey, his ace finger, who had signed with the Ox Pointers for the OSAA playdowns, was not ruled eligible to play for Trenton in the league playdowns.

It seems the OASA secretary had notified the Trenton team that Maroney was not eligible to play at the last moment—and the verbal fur was flying. In fact the decision appeared to affect the whole team for the first few innings. There was little talk by the infield and the club lacked some of the usual fire and pep.

However, there was no use griping. The rules are there and must be adhered to. Maroney apparently was properly released by Trenton to the Ox Pointers. He can only belong to one club. That is all there is to it.

And since someone asked why Bobby Hull was not allowed to play with the Trenton club in the playdowns, the only answer we can arrive at, is that he cannot play for a team in a lower category. This is not the case with Maroney.

In any event Hull's stay with the Trenton juniors in the playdowns would have been of brief duration. It is but a short time to hockey training time in the National League and the puck bugles would have blown Bobby's softball swansong.

The Ox Pointers tucked away their second victory in their semi-finals with Trenton last night by an 11-7 score. The third game is set for tomorrow night starting seven o'clock and the Phil Lotters are confident they can wrap up the series in three straight.

Yankee Tail-Lights Get Dimmer; Braves Blanked

Use 7 Hurlers to Win 10-7 In Three-Game Tiger Sweep; Sad Sam Four-Hits Chumps

By ED WILES

Associated Press Staff Writer

Is that really just a two-team race in the National League. Or aren't those St. Louis Cardinals dead after all?

Well there's hardly any daylight from third to seventh in the race behind Milwaukee and San Francisco the Cardinals appear the only club capable of a serious challenge, even with two months to go.

Trouble is, the Cardinals, just off their second seven - game slump of the season, still have to prove they're breathing. They've won four of their last six, and trail the skidding third - place Chicago Cubs by only half a game, but they're still fourth, 8½ games back.

Sad Sam Jones, seldom given much support, made Ox Cards look like winners Thursday, shutting out the Braves 4-0 with a four-hitter.

It was Sam's fourth consecutive victory but he hadn't managed a clear day with an 8-7 record. The Cards have averaged less than three runs in the defeats and have averaged less than four in the games he's won.

Despite a split in four games with the Cardinals, the Braves retained first place by a half game since second-place San Francisco was rained out at Philadelphia. The Cubs lost their fifth in a row 4-3 at Cincinnati. Pittsburgh whipped New York 5-3.

The Cardinals got rid of loser Warren Spahn with two runs after two were out in the first inning. Consecutive singles by Stan Musial, Dick Boyer, Del Ennis and Gene Freese counted the pair and brought Sam Jones his six-run lead in the fifth on Boyer's sacrifice fly and Ennis' second single.

Spahn, now is 12-7 for the year. The Cubs, after 13 games behind a week ago, blew a 3-2 lead when Ed Bailey rapped a two-run homer off Reliever Bill Henry (2-1). Alex Kellner (2-1) won it in relief of Brooks Lawrence, who was chased in a five-hit, three-run sixth. Frank Robinson also homered for the Reds.

The Pirates, just .001 ahead of Cincinnati, gained a 13-7 season edge over Los Angeles.

A four-run fourth, triggered by rookie Dick Stuart's three - run homer, did it. Rookie George Witt was the winner for the league leaders. Williams lost it. Charley Neal drove in two runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers. one fifth his 19th homer.

Ryne Duren, the New York Yankees' ace reliever, finally has been plunked.

A pitch by Paul Foytack felled the controversial rookie, frequently accused of throwing at batters, in the Yanks' 10-7 victory at Detroit Thursday. He apparently wasn't seriously injured —just a bruised and cut left cheek—but he'll stay in a hospital for several days for observation.

Duren's mates call him Mr. Mayoo. Casey Stengel calls him "my blind man."

Three Tops in Eastern Golf

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gary Player, successful South African invader, and two United States players trying to regain the winning touch went into the second round of the $20,000 Eastern Open golf tournament today sharing the lead with four-under-par 140s.

Deadlocked with Player were Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., and Mike Fetchick of Yonkers, N.Y.

Although he has won $15,000 this year by consistently finishing in the money, Rosburg hasn't won a major tournament since the San Diego Open in October, 1956. Fetchick's last No. 1 haul came two months later in the Sanford Open.

Al Balding of Toronto fired a 76, Jerry Magee, also from Toronto, had a 78.

The 72-hole tournament winds up Sunday.

Hamilton Crew Scores Upset At Henley

Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP) — A popular topic of discussion today at the four-day Royal Canadian Henley Regatta was Thursday's stunning upset win by Hamilton Delta Secondary School in the high school eights final.

Experience ignores reports that two St. Catharines crews — St. Catharines Collegiate and Technical High School — were heavy favorites to win the Calder Cleland Memorial Trophy.

Delta fought off desperate strives by St. Catharines and Lisgar well to cross the finish line less than a length ahead of Lisgar in a time of 7:40.6. Buffalo's Bishop Fallon High School was third and St. Catharines fourth.

St. Catharines Collegiate had won the trophy in eight of the previous 11 years. Hamilton's last win was in 1939 when Westdale Collegiate won the event.

DETROITERS LEAD

In the point standings — high school crews count 2 points in the Detroit Boat Club took over the lead with 80 points on the strength of their two victories. St. Catharines Rowing Club was leading junior fours after the first day of the regatta and it then dropped into second place with 50.

On the Tracks

MONTREAL (CP) — Ted Gerasser won the $2,000 added ninth race at Blue Bonnets Thursday night, handling the mile pace in 2:06 1-5.

The Mighty Man came in second while Myrtle Is placed.

Clint Galbraith drove Kalmuck Direct home Tara, Ont., to victory in a $1,200 C pace. Time for the mile was 2:09.

Galbraith's winner was Don Mckay from Goderich in a $1,000 purse. Driven by Ken Kerr, Don McKay stepped the mile in 2:11 1-5. Vicky Broos from Leamington was second.

Ted's 'Spitter' Working Again; Is Fined $250

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox today apologized for spitting at the fans during a game against the Athletics at Kansas City Wednesday night.

A statement released by Red Sox spokesmen in Williams' name said: "I'm sorry I did it. I was so mad at the park that I lost my temper and afterward I was sorry about it. I'm particularly sorry about losing the $250."

American League President Will Harridge fined Williams $250 Thursday, saying Ted's spitting was "conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball."

Manager Mike Higgins refused to comment as the Red Sox arrived in Chicago for a three-game series.

Williams spat in the general direction of booing fans when they thought he failed to show enough effort after his grounder was snagged by first baseman Harry Simpson for an unassisted putout. Williams jogged about halfway to first base, then turned and went for the dugout. The Athletics won 3-1.

CANADIAN DINGHY SECOND

COWES, Isle of Wight (Reuters) — Canadian sailing dinghy Ite, with Paul McLaughlin at the helm, finished second to New Zealand's Atua Hau Thursday in the race for the Prince of Wales Cup contested by 50 dinghies in Osborne Bay near here. The best dinghy helmsmen in Britain, Canada and New Zealand competed in the 15-mile race held in a moderate south-west-erly breeze.

Protests Add Color To Weird Day At BE Games

Canada Shy Bronze Medals After Squawk Fuss Is Over; Track Sees Strange Antics

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — Protesting athletes and a yapping dog have added a babel of excitement to the explosive British Empire Games which are heading for the grand finale Saturday evening.

Verbal outbursts came in the tense atmosphere of committee rooms Thursday, unknown to the screaming mob in Cardiff Arms Park which bounced out of its seats at the unrehearsed antics of slimbodied, sprint specialists in the heller - skelter action of track and field.

Far away an animal made a beelino for a weary marathoner but was pulled off by additional spectators with no damage done.

In between these schoolboy thrillers were many merry ways breaking records on the track and swilling beer under Empire Pool where swimmers continued their carnage on Games records. The day's track and field program ended with marathoners straggling back to the starting line in the stadium — the first six in Games' record time—and a slight in honour for Doreen Dickson of Hamilton. Doctors said that Dickson suffered fatigue but pronounced "very satisfied" with his condition.

He finished fifth behind winner Dave Power of Australia.

WORLD MARK FALLS

At day's end, the scoreboard read:

One world track record broken. One track record equalled.

More than dozen Games' marks eclipsed.

And two protests directly affecting Canada upheld by the referee. A appeal whose word is final.

The fuss came as a result of the mens 130-yard hurdles and before it was over Canada was shy on bronze and, something it can ill afford to lose. Victim was Montreal's Peter Kashuba who accepted the verdict without a squawk.

Before things were straightened out, three countries — South Africa, Pakistan and Canada— got into the act.

It all happened as a result of tumbles and bad luck of South African Johannes Swart about four yards short of the finish line. The official announcement was that the defending champion, Keith Gower of Canada, had retained the title with Pakistan's Ghulam Raboni second and Stager third with Swart sixth behind England's Peter Hildreth and Australia's Barry Primrose.

THE HARD WAY

Swart protested, saying he had crossed the finish line although he did it the hard way—on his stomach. The jury of appeal looked at the photo finish picture and agreed with him. Then the shuffle started.

Swart placed second, Rasik was third and Stager fourth—and so on down the line.

Stanger, given a look at the picture, said: "I'm convinced an injustice has been done by changing the decision. The picture showed the other fellow (Swart) arrived at the finish line ahead of me."

The issue was believed finished but the Pakistanis didn't like the idea of getting a bronze instead of a silver medal and they protested.

The decision is not likely to be changed again but the whole matter should be good box office for Saturday's Games — ending program in track and field. But it doesn't need building up with the classic mile and a field of mens who can make four-minute time just about every time out in track conditions are right.

HARD TO BEAT

It will be hard to beat Thursday's track program for excitement. There was the unforgettable sight of South African hurdler Jacobus Maliz charging into one hurdle, crashing headlong into the next and crashing into the dirt with a hurdle draped around his neck and taking another man with him.

And there was Jamaica's Keith Gardner, straining to win three gold medals, flashing across the tape at the finish of the men's 440 as he turned his head to the right. He tripped as he did it and slid on his chest five yards before he got up. He was not hurt but wasted because he surrendered to Tom Robinson of the Bahamas, the man he beat last Saturday to win the men's 100.

That was Gardner's second race in 30 minutes.

Additionally, Australia's Marlene Mathews Willard, who said that marriage this year has "given me contentment and greater control over myself," was winning the women's 220 in world record-equalling time of 23.6. The triumph gave her a double win as she won the 100 in another breaking time Tuesday.

Additionally, Australia's Anna Pazera thrilled the crowd with her record - shattering javelin toss.

ENGLAND LEADS

At day's end, England's harvest of medals gave her a substantial lead in unofficial point standings. Australia held firmly to second place.

The biggest switch in the standings involved South Africa and Pakistan.

South Africa, winning four wrestling titles, moved ahead of 90 points, jumped from fifth to third place, pushing Canada down to fourth. Pakistan made an even more spectacular advance, moving up nine places to the position behind New Zealand.

The scoreboard, which is unofficial, follows:

On a 10-6-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finishers in each field.

Canada added a few medals to her collection Thursday.

TAKES SECOND

The record - breaking performance by Ed Whipple gave Smyth in the hop, step and jump gave him a respectable total of points. Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C., was third in the men's 440-yard dash.

Another bronze medal was picked up by swimmer Margaret Iwasaki of Vancouver for her record-breaking third - place performance in the final of the 110-yard butterfly.

In wrestling, Canada again picked up some bronze. The third-place awards went to Ken Steckle of Burnaby of Vancouver and light-heavyweight Bob Weight of Toronto.

Steckle also lost a committee room decision. He was originally given a draw in his bout with Ali Mohammed of Pakistan. But Pakistani officials protested and after the decision was reconsidered the bout was awarded to Mohammed.

The reversal probably cost Steckle the bronze medal which went to Mohammed.

BEARS CUT THREE

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Golden Bears of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union have cut three imports, including Jack Hinkins and Ed Hurman and end Jack Crittenden, club officials said Thursday night.

Eight-Run Outburst in 9th Frame Gives Ox Point Win Over Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The men of Ox-Point ran wild for eight runs in the top of the ninth in Trenton last night to hand the Legion Juniors an 11-7 defeat in the second game of their B and D softball semifinals. Third game in the three-of-five set is slated for Point Anne Saturday night.

Point Anne were down 6-3 entering the final frame and although they had gathered eight hits off Reverend Cole's slants they had not been able to bunch them for a rally.

But in the ninth it was a different story as they could do nothing wrong. Claude Carr was the first of 13 batters to come to the plate and he opened with a single. Jackie Wardhaugh doubled him home before Hull fanned for the first out. Tommy Batchelor singled to make it 6-5 and Kingston followed with another single to make it weekended.

With Batchelor dancing off third with the lying run and Kingston on second Trenton coach Charlie Jones decided to walk Pat Gilmour, Batchelor streaked for the plate and charged in safely with the tying run. Cole pitched to Gilmour then but he hit safely and a walk loaded the sacks with still only one out.

Jackie Elliott Jr. lined a double to left, giving Point Anne an 8-6 lead, and Cole went to the outfield with Ron Wannsmaker taking the mound. An error scored another run and Carr drew a base-on-balls. Wardhaugh singled to drive in another pair.

Trenton scored a single run in the bottom of the frame and left two more on but they had blown their chance to even the series as Maracle fanned Wannsmaker for the final out and an 11-7 victory.

Howard Cole had been a one-man show for Trenton. He slammed a line-drive home run to make it 1-1 in the third and smashed a double for another run in the sixth. In the eighth with the score tied and two men on he hammered his second homer for the 6-3 lead.

Cole was the losing pitcher but up until the ninth had baffled the Point Anne batters with his slow ball, leaving nine on the paths. He was tagged for 14 hits in all, fanning five and walking seven. Wannsmaker gave up one run on one hit, whiffing one and passing another.

Pat Maracle went the distance for the victory, giving up 14 hits fanning seven and walking two.

Claude Carr doubled home two runs for the winners in the third after they had loaded the bases on walks and an error but scored only once in the second. An error and singles by Williams and Aselstine accounted for the only Trenton markers.

Jackie Wardhaugh with a double and two singles led the Pointers' hit parade. Jack Elliott Sr. had two for two and a walk while Batchelor, Jackie Jr. who clubbed a two-run double in the fifth, and single victim Carr and Pat Gilmour also collected two hits each while the others were divided among Doug Hull, Johnny Batchelor, Chuck Kingston and Maracle who helped with a double.

Howard Cole's two homers gave him eight runs batted in during star 'in' defeat. Don Cole had a double and single while Doug Alexander, Pat Aselstine and Neal Williams had two base hits each. Ron Cole scored. Bobby Burns and Roger Drake each had a single.

Line-ups — Point Anne—Carr, Wardhaugh, Hull, Batchelor, Kingston, Gilmour, Jones, Elliott Sr., Elliott Jr., Maracle.

Trenton — Austin, Drake, Alexander, Williams, Aselstine, Burns, D. Cole, L. Wannsmaker, R. Cole, P. Tannenbaum, Wilson.

Sherbrooke Takes Rider Whites Over Quebec Puck Franchise Defeat Reds

TROIS RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Maurice Cazaneuve has purchased in the Quebec Hockey League was transferred to Sherbrooke, Que., Thursday night at the league's annual meeting.

The Sherbrooke club will be sponsored by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League. Cazaneuve had been sponsored by Montreal Canadiens.

QHL president Byron Higginson said he presumed Chicoutimi Saguenens would not enter a team in the league this season.

There was no official announcement. The Chicoutimi club was not represented at the meeting, and Chicoutimi managing director Andre Roche resigned his post last week.

OTTAWA (CP) — Homebrew halfback Frank Fraser ran for three touchdowns Friday to lead Whites to a 27-14 victory over the Rough Riders' annual intra-squad football game Thursday night.

Import halfback Bobby Judd, in his second year with Riders, picked up the fourth Whites' touchdown from the three-yard line, and Canadian holdover Gary Schrieder kicked three converts.

Quarterback Hal Ledyard, battling fellow import Tom Dimitroff for the first-string signal-calling job, set up Judd's scoring pass to import end Fred Foizer for Reds' first touchdown.

Halfback Ken Mitchell of Tennessee State plunged four yards for the other Reds' score. Tom Urowitz, rookie homebrew from Toronto Balmy Beach, converted both.

B. E. Games Standing

CARDIFF (CP) — England's athletes reaped another harvest of medals and points Thursday to maintain their country's lead at the top of the British Empire Games unofficial point standings.

Australia held firmly to second place.

But it was the wrestlers from South Africa and Pakistan who caused the biggest shuffle in the tables compiled on a 10-6-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finishers in each final.

South Africa, collecting four wrestling gold medals and 30 points—13 more than she gained in the first four days of the Commonwealth competition—jumped from fifth to third, pushing Canada down to fourth. Pakistan, with three gold and three silver wrestling medals, made an even more spectacular jump, moving up nine rungs to sixth position behind New Zealand.

Eric Hanson Rates Favorite In Canadian Amateur Golf

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Three Canadians and a lone American were left today for the 36-hole semifinals trail in the Canadian amateur golf championships.

The people's choice was Eric Hanson, 26-year-old member of the host Scarboro Club who has become something of a Cinderella man in the tournament.

The surviving American and the man Hanson faced today is Bob Brue, an unheralded university graduate from Milwaukee who brought three school-teacher aunts to Toronto to see him play and has gratified them by knocking off all opposition with complete aplomb.

The other half of the semifinals are 22-year-old Will Homeniuk of Winnipeg and Bruce Castle of the Toronto Weston Club. Homeniuk, a locker - room employee in Winnipeg Elmhurst Club, is fast taking on the role of gladiator in this tournament. Castator has never gotten more than local recognition as a good club player.

SEVEN AMERICANS FAIL

In Thursday's two rounds, seven Americans were eliminated. Brue hopes to be the first American to win the title since 1956 when Harvie Ward, Jr., of San Francisco did it in an all-American final with Bill Campbell of Huntingdon, W. Va.

Hanson fought to a one-up victory over Bob Kidd of Vancouver Thursday morning and then scored a 3-and-2 victory over Hyndman III in the afternoon.

Brue, who went to work on the putting green after his win, then overcame H. H. Haverstick, Jr. of Lancaster, Pa., and is the richest Calgary trailed a field of six in preliminary dives.

78,000 FARMERS

Earlier this year two Chatham area growers, Clarence and Gordon Kodgis, were brought to court on charge of violating the marketing act, including by-passing the assembly yards. A magistrate acquitted them on 11 charges and threw out another 10.

The Knights brothers' lawyer subsequently applied to the Supreme Court of Ontario for an order prohibiting the magistrate from hearing the remaining charges.

Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson granted the order. He ruled the plan was illegal because it was established without a vote among producers.

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, July 26

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Here is a fine day, in which you can gather any vital data that will help your future immeasurably. But this is not the time yet to put into actual operation, what is in terms of planning and systematizing. Tonight, take it easy.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Many problems are to be solved by careful thinking today concerning your monetary standing, also figuring out exactly what is in the mind of your heart investment. Don't forget to look into these things immediately as they are important.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A good deal of constructive talking with associates today can result in better understanding and more lucrative ways of operating and cooperating. Keep temper under control and retain a poised, professional manner. Then you win.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — With all the small tasks that need immediate attention, it behooves you to roll up your sleeves and get them behind you now. Do as much as you possibly can yourself without relying on others, and they will be done properly and efficiently.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A day to be your fascinating best, to dress beautifully and make great friends in the right circles, to expound your truly remarkable ideals and get others interested in them. Also, be sure you are good to persons in need.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — You should devote your time today to beautifying, cleaning and modernizing your surroundings so that truly gracious living and great harmony can be achieved. Work happily and don't waste time arguing with anyone about.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Take part in driving today, and be particularly careful of your money, how you spend it, and during your change. Then the day is fine for getting a great deal accomplished.

Scorpio (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Utilize your time and effort making repairs to real estate that will increase its value. Also, find out where you can economize on what brings poor returns and so have greater security and working fund for the important things.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Here is an ideal day to quickly look into those situations and affairs that puzzle you and to understand exactly what others are planning and thinking. But be silent, know what you should do, for your thinking is accurate now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — The aspects are fine for understanding exactly what your true goal is in life and for making those direct plans that will get you your hopes and wishes without any shadow of a doubt. Reach decisions today which you must follow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Most plain - speaking comrade will be able today to give you invaluable advice concerning the furtherance of your career, hence be certain you know in your mind what your true ideals are, or you will lose this fine opportunity.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day to gain greater prestige and go forward in your worldly aims. Be certain you have paid your bills and other obligations. P.M. excellent for social affairs that bring you added acclaim and well - being. Be intelligent.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today is hardly the type to be retiring and shy. He or she is born actor and what is in the heart will be on the tongue. So, be sure you understand this honest and generous youngster and give a fine education and chance to be heard. There is a great career in this chart and a most colorful one. Our Radius of Respect

By ROY L. SMITH

If it is true that "a man's religion can be measured by the radius of his love for his fellow man," it can certainly be said that his value as a citizen "can be measured by the respect in which he holds other people."

THANK GOD FOR PRIDE

Vainglorionness is one of the disgusting sins, 'and many are guilty of it, but there is a fine morality in a decent sense of pride.

Thank God for the pride that resides in the soul of a man who protects his good name, who disciplines himself in the name of good morals, who determines to achieve through merit, and who finds it impossible to lower his standards for the sake of a bribe.

Deep within the spirit of every honest soul there is a desire to be respected, and a determination to live in such a fashion that we will deserve the respects of other people. He who respects us earns our confidence and our esteem.

MORAL MEANING OF RESPECT

To respect a man is to appreciate his moral qualities, is to honor his good name, it is to accord him rights, is to defend him against his traducers.

It is upon the solid base of respect that a sane society is built. Unless we hold one another in respect there can be no unity of mind or conscience within a state.

FRUITS OF RESPECT

Let the citizens of a community or a nation, respect one another and injustices disappear, race relations are smoothed out, and rendered wholesome, credit is improved at the bank, labor relations are sweetened, and the courts of law reflect the holy influence.

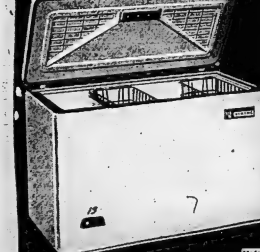
It is a lack of respect that results in the exploitation of a race or a people. It is a corruption of respect that produces debauchery and dissipation.

There can be no great ideals of citizenship within a nation in which the forces of religion do not respect one another and inspire respect in their followers for righteousness, justice, and mercy. RICH NOT ALWAYS TO BLAME

It is a fact, of course, that the rich are sometimes to blame for the fact that they are shown special privilege, and that they lord it over their fellows.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 27: "JUSTICE IN COMMUNITY LIFE." Leviticus 19: 11-18; Deuteronomy 24:17-2; Romans 13:8-10; James 1:1-24; 2:1-13.

But the poor who suspicion the rich, who undertake to see evil where there is none, who blame the rich for all their misfortunes, may be as evil and as corrupt in their hearts as their more economically successful neighbors.



It happens many times that the rich suffer injustices at the hands of the poor for no better reason than that they have become rich through their own hard work.

Hog Producers Endorse Co-Op Marketing Plan

Fails to Get Required Vote in Hastings County

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's co-operative hog marketing plan has been endorsed by the province's hog producers.

Unofficial figures compiled by the Ontario Hog Producers Association showed that 68 per cent of those who voted Friday in a plebiscite favored the system of compulsory marketing through assembly yards. This was better than the two-thirds majority required for approval.

The vote is expected to mean extension of the plan to all 42 counties in Southern Ontario. It has been in operation i.. 34 counties since last September.

Association president Charles McInnis of Iroquois in a statement said: "The results indicate conclusively that producers . . . wish to control the public advertising to the marketing of their hogs. . . . The responsibility now rests on the producers of producers to develop this pioneering marketing program in the best way marketing so as to give the men who feed the nation greater security."

When counting of votes stopped Friday night, from 379 polls, there were 25,151 in favor and 21,661 against. The association claimed that if there were only another 13 polls to report, for a total of 392, the Ontario department of agriculture said earlier there would be 60 polls in the 42 southern counties.

ANNOUNCE NEXT WEEK

The association said the difference may not come about because the department counted each township as a poll but in some there was a vote because some there was no registered hog producers.

The official vote will be announced early next week after all returning officers have reported to the government.

Under the co-operative system, registered hog producers deliver their hogs to central assembly yards. The are sold on a competitive - bidding basis at packing houses by the Ontario Hog Producers Cooperative.

Under the old system, individual farmers sold their hogs direct to packers.

Some areas rejected tre plan. In Lennox and Addington county in Eastern Ontario only 39.45 per cent of the voters favored it and in Waterloo county, only 39.72 per cent.

The affirmative vote was less than the required two-thirds in 10 other counties: Frontenac, Hastings, Huron, Kent, Middlesex, Oxford, Peel, Welland, Wellington and Wentworth.

LESS THAN HALF

Less than half of the province's 78,675 registered hog producers were all eligible to vote, cast ballots. Voting was light in the early part of the day but rain in some areas halted farm activities and then brought a late surge of voters. Polls opened at 10 a.m. EDT and closed at 8 p.m.

About 90 per cent of the 2,000-odd hogs marketed in Ontario annually now are moved through the co - operative's assembly yards.

Campaigning by leaflets and newspaper advertising preceded the vote.

The co-operative contended the progress has given Ontario hog producers $40,249,200 during the last five years through higher prices.

Gordon Greer of Ottawa, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said his organization was behind the plan and added that opponents apparently were foremost to go back to the horse and buggy days."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:
Fine weather is forecast for Southern Ontario for today and Sunday with temperatures a bit on the cool side today but warmer up to the seventies on Sunday. In the North, skies will be sunny with the chance of a few scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms both days.

"I'm just so pleased that you can consider yourself kissed," Roy Sills of Halloway, president of the Hastings Hog Producers' Association, told an Ontario Intelligencer reporter this morning when asked for his reaction to Friday's vote on the co-operative hog marketing scheme.

Although the scheme was approved by approximately 68 per cent of the farmers voting, province-wide, here in Hastings the vote was negative by a narrow margin, 439 for compared with 441 against, Mr. Sill reported. However, the results in individual counties will not go over their status. All 43 counties of Ontario will come under the scheme.

NO IMMEDIATE CHANGE

Eastern Ontario has not been included in the plan and now Mr. Sills explained this morning that it will require some time before the scheme is put into effect.

"Some adjustments or reagements to extend the operation here in Hastings will be done, hog marketing will in this area proceed in the same manner as in the past."

Mr. Sills was pleased not only with the provincial results but also with the vote in Hastings, which, he said, had been considered one of the "toughest" counties by those supporting the co-operative scheme. The favorable vote here was 49.89 per cent of the total vote cast, according to the figures given by Mr. Sills, which were those which had been received by midnight at headquarters established by the Hastings Hog Producers' committee at Madoc. The scene was tense there as returns were received. There may be a few more returns yet from the northern part of the county, but they will have no effect on the result.

Mr. Sills says that local conditions played a great part in the vote. While Hastings was generally opposed, in Prince Edward and Northumberland hog producers gave the scheme a good start with a majority necessary for approval, but in Lennox and Addington the vote was quite overwhelmingly against it.

Harry Warner, Film Magnate, Dies on Friday

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Harry Warner, 76, a Pennsylvania farmboy who became one of the giants of the motion picture industry, died Friday night at his home.

Warner, who with his brothers pioneered talking sound in movies and revolutionized the industry with the production of Al Jolson's "The Jazz Singer" in 1927, had been ill for several months, but was stricken suddenly by a cerebral occlusion.

Harry stepped down two years ago after 36 years as president of Warner Brothers studio but was chairman of the board at the time of his death. His brother Jack took his presidency and another brother, Albert, is in charge of film distribution.

Nehru Sees First Bullock-Powered Electric Generator Start Work

NEW DELHI (AP)—A device has been launched which may revolutionize rural life in India.

It is an electric generator and pump powered by bullocks, India's main motive power for generations.

With Prime Minister Nehru looking on, a giant steel wheel began operation Friday in Khanpur village, 18 miles south of Delhi.

The project was brought about under joint auspices of the Ford Foundation and India's community development ministry.

The unit can pump water to meet the needs of villages and irrigate 100 acres. And the generator can be driven 4½ kilowatts of power.

Leigh S. Stevens, 37, of Tennessee, developed the idea after touring this country in 1954 as an industry member of an international agricultural and small industry delegation.

Stevens combined Indian cattle have pumped water by the Persian wheel, feeding it in a small circle and forcing up a maximum of 100 gallons of water a minute. A bullock team irrigates the amount of water. When a switch is thrown the bullocks go to work producing electric power which can be used immediately or stored.

PEARSON THINKS RUSSIA PLEASED BY WEST'S MOVES

Troops in Mid-East Stir up Resentment

OTTAWA (CP) — A call for the West to realize that the presence of United States troops in Lebanon and British forces in Jordan is "very much to the liking of Mr. Khrushchev" was sounded in the Commons Friday by Opposition Leader Pearson. He said the troops should be removed as soon as possible.

Speaking in an external affairs debate, Mr. Pearson said the Russian premier "must be very happy when the major result is to stir up anti-Western feeling."

Mr. Pearson said he was delighted to hear External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith say that withdrawal of the U.S. and U.K. troops will not be sufficient unless accompanied by a political and economic settlement for the area.

"The West—and I am thinking of the United States, the United Kingdom and France particularly—must base their relations with those emerging, acceptance of Arab nationalism and the United Arab Republic . . . and try to accept the essence of the present unrest."

Those who said that if Egypt's President Nasser had been liquidated during the 1956 Suez crisis the Middle East developments would not have happened were "repeating the facts of history and the logic of contemporary international politics."

"Nasser did not create the forces at work," Mr. Pearson said. "Arab nationalism is at work, and the desire for a better life throughout all Arab Africa is surging to release itself from outside controls."

Photographers Pass up Picture, Please Princess

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four newspaper photographers passed up their dream picture here Friday.

Princess Margaret appeared before them unexpectedly wearing a bright blue and white wrap.

They deferred to protocol, and lowered their cameras.

It happened on the lawn at the home of Lieutenant - Governor Frank Ross when the princess walked out for a bathe.

"I am pleased to know that an amateur can be trusted with a camera," Mr. Ross joked, "but I appreciate my position."

Margaret Attends B.C. Bull Lawyer Is Favorite Partner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Princess as scheduled at 10:30 p.m. She had the first five dances — then first with Mr. Ross, the second with Lt.-Col. C. N. Woodward, member of a famous B. C. family, and the next three with Cmdr. Guy Dixon, aide-de-camp to the lieutenant-governor.

The ball was the first event at which the princess had an opportunity to mix with people of her own age since she arrived in B.C. two weeks ago and she seemed to enjoy it immensely. She was in her gayest and most animated mood of her tour as she laughed, wagged a finger and chatted amiably with her partners.

Her dress was featured by low neckline and a full crinoline skirt. Panels of gathered satin were encircled by garlands of white lace, green leaves and white blossoms. Her jewelry included a diamond tiara, five-strand pearl necklace, pearl earrings and a diamond clip fastened to the centre of her bodice.

The 600 guests sang a rousing chorus of Auld Lang Syne before the princess left the ball board the train, on which Mr. Ross will accompany her as far as the B.C.-Alberta border.

CCF Closes 'Historic' Meet Coldwell Remains as Leader

MONTREAL (CP)—The CCF has wrapped up its 16th biennial national convention with the feeling almost most of its officials that this was possibly the most important meeting of the Socialist party since it was founded in 1933.

The word "historic" was used since it was once by such top CCF men as M. J. Coldwell and Stanley Knowles in their reports to the convention's decision to work together with the Canadian Labor Congress and with various other groups towards a more broadly-based people's political movement.

And in offering to the convention a policy resolution enabling this, David Lewis, the party's national secretary, said that this was "the most significant single political fact" since the CCF's founding.

Throughout the three-day convention, indeed, there was always little sign of discouragement about the cost of the CCF's decision to postpone until the March 31 election to eight seats from the party's future.

There appeared instead optimism that the connection with this one ended with a flurry of discussion on various policies of the party's platform.

Like most political conventions,

Town Crews Ready Work for New Pavement

TRENTON — Town crews have been busy preparing the groundwork for the new sidewalk which will run from Bay Street to the Front door of the Community Centre official reports said yesterday.

The matter was discussed at the council meeting last Monday night and councillors generally agreed the need for the sidewalk was one of importance. It will be six feet wide.

It has also been reported that Canada Gas Company crews who were earlier planning in starting work in Trenton on July 1, have been held up in getting away from Napanee and it is not known when they will get work underway. They have, however, set up an office in the town yard on the corner of Ontario and Meyers Streets.

The new extension in the town sheds has been virtually completed with only painting left to be finished.

The town crews have placed new signs on the Sidney Street corner designating, "Narrow Subway". This was done in anticipation of the heavier traffic which will be using this street after the 401 highway to Belleville has been opened.

Town Engineer Eric Alderey reports the town garbage is doing an excellent job and has been working continuously. He said it has been doing all the work town crews have been requiring of it and Mr. Alderey said garbage feed also be extended to the operator of the machine which has been doing a good job as well.

Councillor Joe Gould, chairman of the Public Works Committee, commenting on the work of the new grader said, "Everyone concerned is very pleased with the machine and its work."

Among the many phases of town work now going on the grading and graveling of streets is one of prime importance and is getting into full swing with many streets getting this treatment.

Town officials also report they are very pleased with the work of the men of Jack Zigman who are at town dump. They say they are keeping the area in good shape and are doing what should be done in keeping the place from becoming too littered up and are keeping unauthorized persons, and children, away from the piles of garbage.

In the streets department it is reported the road-roller is laid up and extensive repairs will be necessary to get it in shape again. The machine was bought in 1950 and has required very little repair work since that time.

Youth Suffers Hand Burns

TRENTON — Brian Steinberg, 16, of 51 Spring Street, Trenton, had his hands badly burned by steam Thursday afternoon while working at the Riverside Dairy.

The youth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas A. Steinberg and has been working off and on at the dairy for the past few weeks.

Brian was reported to have lifted the lid on one of the huge pasteurizing vats and the steam from inside the vat burned all the fingers and back of one hand and some of the fingers on the other.

His mother reported the boy had come home and they were badly blistered before he was taken to the office of Dr. A. W. Farley where the dead skin was removed and the hands properly bandaged.

She said her son may not go back to work at the dairy again this summer as it was only a part time job and he only reported for work when called by the management of the firm.

He is still also be accompanying his parents, and 11-year-old sister, Barbara, when they leave shortly for a vacation in Maine, U.S.A.

Police Probe Two Break-ins

City police are investigating a break-in at Belleville Creameries, 60 Station St., which happened last night.

A passer-by spotted two men inside the creamery and two others standing outside. He put in a call to the police station, but when the police arrived the four had disappeared.

Investigations revealed that entry had been gained through a window. An office safe was damaged, but not cracked. Nothing was reported stolen.

Police are also investigating an attempted break-in last night at Canadian Fittings Industries on Great St. James St.

The would-be thieves tried to jimmy a door on the south side of the building but ran into trouble when they couldn't get the door open even after breaking the lock. Police said a wooden bar across the door inside prevented entry.

When the culprits departed they left behind a jimmy bar.

Too Many $20 Dividends To One Person so Alberta Government Clamping Down

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government has turned to cheque-writing in an effort to guard against too - widespread reaping of lis second crop of "citizens' dividends."

Last year's initial $20 payments, financed in an unprecedented $11,000,000 share-the-wealth scheme, were made by banks and their provincial counterparts, the Alberta treasury branches. The dividends were paid in cash to anyone signing a declaration of eligibility.

It was a simple procedure that took about two minutes. A bank clerk explained the requirements — the citizen must be at least 21, a Canadian citizen or British subject, and have lived in Alberta for the last two years and any other eight years. This under stood, the applicant made his mark and got his $20 bill.

ILLEGAL PAYMENTS

It was too simple. Dividends became found money for the drifters, the confidence men, the alcoholics, and those who just couldn't resist the temptation. Supplying false names and addresses, inside the rounds. Some got more than 100 of the citizens' per cent.

RCMP and city police were faced with a whopping investigation. The government had paid more than 500,000 dividends. Who got them, really? By late June, the result was 222 convictions for false declaration and false pretences. Terms of 90 months to 3½ years were given to 276 persons.

Better grist for the political mill could not have been ordered for. Premier C. C. Manning's Social Credit government, already beset by built - in troubles, Conservative charges of political bribery and treasury hanky-panky, and by internal troubles.

The opposition,, keeping the dividend issue alive, noted that Fort S a s katchewan provincial jail near Edmonton had a normal capacity of 294 but by February was housing 528. It charged that the added prisoners were costing the government $300 a day, added to the $176,000 in administration costs.

Mr. Manning and his supporters let a lot of the charges go unanswered, sticking firmly to their contention that the dividend payments put into community projects such as libraries, sports areas, and playgrounds. Scarcely a provincial organization that had its hand out benefited without either endorsing or accepting dividends.

The five Alberta daily newspapers have put up their own attacks against the principle of the payments, the method of the 1957 payments, or both.

The 1958 procedure, born of necessity, has seen the government send out thousands of dividend application forms addressed to householders.

Now, instead of cash payments at banks, citizens' must complete the form, have it signed by a commissioner for oaths in the regular 25-cent fee, and mail it to the treasury department. There a 35 man staff equipped with a battery of electronic sorting machines will - check and double-check for possible duplication, and once satisfied that the applicant is honest—will mail out the cheque.

CUT IN DIVIDEND

There is one other significant change. The 1957 cheques are for $17.50—not $20. The $2.50 cut reflects market conditions which led to a drop in Alberta oil and gas production, which reduced the government's royalty income. The total fund this year is $10,000,000, down $1,000,000 from last year.

Treasury department officials estimate that 550,000 of the dividends will be paid. That's roughly half the Alberta population. Last year, when the confusion ended, the government had paid out to each of 538,057 citizens.

Premier Manning and the most zesty battles in 34 years of Social Credit government continues. The dividend fight will not end until at least after the general provincial election expected sometime in 1959.

In two sections of the Alberta legislature, controversial dividend legislation has been the subject of eight non-confidence motions. All of them were beaten down easily by the Social Credit majority.

Standing in the legislature: Social Credit 57, Liberals 7, Conservative 5, CCF 2, Independent Social Credit 1, Independent Labor Councillor 1, Independent 1. Total 61.

Opposition to these citizens in general have lined up on two sides those who dislike the dividend idea in wise and honorable, and those who think the payments not bad in its principle, but interfere with elsewhere.

In some rural areas, weekly newspaper editors have come painged, with varying degrees of vehemence, on the evils of payments put into community projects such as libraries, sports areas, and playgrounds. Scarcely a provincial organization that had its hand out benefited without either endorsing or accepting dividends.

The five Alberta daily newspapers have put up their own attacks against the principle of the payments, the method of the 1957 payments, or both.

DIEFENBAKER

The prime minister's first suggestion that a summit meeting be held in Ottawa was in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on Dec. 4.

Should it be decided that the projected summit meeting will be held other than in New York, Mr. Diefenbaker said Friday night, Ottawa would remind the Soviet that letter. He mentioned no particular Canadian centre.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the meeting's agenda should be drawn up at preliminary meetings at offices of the Security Council, and involve the whole question of Arab - Israeli and general Middle East problems.

Ottawa's top-level meeting could be given the "sweetener" of a world trade talk. Mr. Diefenbaker said that the "more or five" countries directly concerned would hold private discussions with Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold in the chair.

Prime Minister Nehru, "who has a contribution to make at this time," should be invited to attend, as stipulated by Mr. Khrushchev. Mr. Hammarskjold would report on the results of the closed meeting to the full council.

Four People Injured in Four-Car Crash

Four people were injured last night in a spectacular four-car pile-up on Highway No. 2 near Jones' Creek, four miles west of Belleville. Details of the crash and the names of two of the injured people were not available at press time.

Taken to Belleville hospital believed seriously injured when his car rolled on top of him was Stanley McCormack, 21, of Bath, a passenger in the car. H. J. Planke, 21, address unknown, was also hurt. McCormick was moved to Trenton by ambulance this morning.

A woman and her baby were also reported to have been injured and rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital. However, the Trenton hospital said today the injured people were admitted last night. The woman was identified as the daughter of a Horace Wright.

Drivers of the other vehicles involved are Harold Vesterfelt, R. R. 3, Belleville; Maurice Roebuck, R. R. 1, Desoronto, and Lormer Cormier of Sarnia, who was driving a pick-up truck.

Light-Fingered Threesome Headed Here

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce today warned residents of this city to be on the watch for three persons — two men and a woman — who may be headed this way from the Toronto area Thursday they allegedly stole a mink coat in Oshawa.

Their descriptions: woman, 25 years, five-foot, five inches, dirty slim, 100 pounds. Men, one heavy man, 30-35 years, five feet 11 inches, 210 pounds; other man, 55-60 years, five feet six inches, 155 pounds, wears glasses.

How they operate: First they check the lunch hours of department managers and size up the goods. On entering the store one person will engage a clerk in conversation while the other or two, equipped with a suitcase, will choose the merchandise they want, stuff it in the suitcase and signal the person talking to the clerk. He then also continues the conversation and gradually the three leave the store.

SOVIET TROOPS LEAVE

County Council Sees Ottawa Hears Talk by Diefenbaker

Taking time out from a busy round of parliamentary affairs, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker Friday afternoon told Hastings county councillors that the function of municipal government was the true protector of Democracy.

The Canadian prime minister and leader in part taken in Canadian affairs by municipal government heads at the annual county council reception given by Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs and retiring representative for Hastings-Frontenac and Lee Grills, member for Hastings South. The two riding members were hosts to the council and councillors as Hastings county councillors as they were on a one day visit to the Capital City.

Councillors took in the morning session of Parliament, had luncheon in the parliamentary restaurant and during the afternoon took in the sites, including a visit to the mint and to the Dominion Experimental Farm.

Expressing his own special welcome to Ottawa, Mr. Diefenbaker told county councillors that they had chosen a good day to visit parliament in that they had heard Mr. Smith, External Affairs Minister, deal with Canadian foreign affairs.

"I welcome you most heartily to Ottawa," he said, paying tribute to councillors for their work in municipal affairs. "If we functions of municipal government had been carried out in all countries there would be no dictators today."

Also speaking briefly at the reception were Senator George Hayden of Toronto, and former riding representative for Hastings-Frontenac, External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, and Mr. Lee Grills.

Mr. Smith gave - Mr. Grills full credit for reception arrangements and assured that he was "delighted to be host with him." "It is wonderful to have you," he said.

Expression of appreciation to Mr. Smith and Mr. Grills was expressed on behalf of councillors by Wm. Jen Lloyd Price.

Making the trip to Ottawa by chartered bus, councillors arrived at Parliament Hill just in time to see the Speaker's Parade through the main corridor of the House which on each day's opening of parliament.

In the House of Commons from their gallery seat, councillors heard Prime Minister Diefenbaker announce the signing that morning of the agreement with the $26-odd signal for the Saskatchewan irrigation dam. Later they heard External Affairs Minister Smith tell of his recent trip to Washington of Canada's part in trying to effect a settlement of the current situation in the Middle East.

Before luncheon members were taken on a guided tour of the parliament buildings, including the library with its half million volumes, the Senate Chambers where Queen Elizabeth last autumn opened parliament, and a trip up the elevator to the Peace Tower for a view of the city of Hull and the Gatineau Hills across the Ottawa River.

After luncheon, with Mr. Grills and a member of the Parliament Buildings Police as tour guides, council members visited the mint and took a tour of the various points of interest in Ottawa, ending up with a trip to Hull and back to Ottawa by the new mile-long Champlain bridge.

"It was a big day," was the consensus of councillors as following dinner Hastings county headed their bus for home.

Trip arrangements were under the direction of publicity committee chairman Reeve J. V. Holt of Sidney and his committee.

Diefenbaker Will Make Trip To See Princess

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's trip to his Prince Albert home town Monday to accompany Princess Margaret on her Saskatchewan visit now appears certain to take place as scheduled.

For a while it appeared the prime minister might be diverted to a summit meeting at the United Nations Security Council, but proposals for such a meeting Monday have not jelled.

Notice Served On Khrushchev He Faces Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has put Soviet Premier Khrushchev on notice that he faces a fight in the United Nations summit conference if he tries to press his charge of Middle Eastern aggression against Britain and the United States.

The warning was set forth in a note that the president sent to Khrushchev Friday.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Eisenhower would attend a Security Council meeting of heads of government if all arrangements are worked out. But the president told Khrushchev it still remains to be decided whether such a meeting is desired by the governments of the 11-nation council.

Eisenhower proposed two steps should be taken toward a summit gathering. First, a visit to the Khrushchev agrees and all goes well, a meeting might be set for around Aug. 15.

EXCHANGE VIEWS

The first step proposed by Eisenhower was that the regular Security Council representatives "should exchange views . . . to ascertain that a meeting of the kind and under conditions I suggest is generally acceptable."

If agreement is reached on that, the next step would be to set summit meeting date "which would be generally satisfactory."

As to conditions, Eisenhower declared that the meeting must be held within the framework and under the rules of the Security Council. It would have the responsibility for determining what non-member nations should be invited to sit in for consultation.

Eisenhower said in my opinion the instability of peace and security is in large measure due to the jeopardy to which the nations are placed."

Officials said the effect of this note is to give notice that Eisenhower will be prepared to strike back with the full force of U.S. accusations against the Soviet Union for making aggressive moves against one country after another since the early days of the Second World War if Khrushchev continues to make charges of aggression.

Shortly after the letter was released, Secretary of State Dulles left for Boca Raton, Fla., to confer with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer on the situation of Britain and other Baghdad pact countries.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Go Out and Make Things Happen When You Reach Retirement Age

By THOMAS COLLINS

When you're growing up, in a hurry and impatient, you k e e p wishing something would happen. As you begin to mature, y o u dare it to.

Then comes retirement. You're reasonably sure Your hope is Heaven nothing ever happens.

That's why a lot of you are missing the Golden Years.

Listen:

"My wife and I believe we have our affairs in good order for my retirement, which comes next November 15.

"My pension will be $146. If I die my wife will get half of that as long as she lives. Our Social Security will be $161. I have a $7,500 life insurance policy p a i d up. We own our home.

"We have worked out a budget of $200 a month to live on. That will leave $1,500 or so a year extra for emergencies, trips, a car, and such.

"But two important things worry us: (1) How do we guard against inflation dining our retirement, and against a bad illness that will wipe us out — before retirement you're a uniformed group.

And (2) what does a couple like ourselves, with what is likely a low retirement income, do? The more consumption of $207 a month, high in Canada, throughout every morning that nothing h a s happened to the paper, and never happens — you have to make it happen.

Here's a couple who did:

"At age 65 my wife and I sold our home in the city and built a modern ranch house on an acre of ground in a bedroom town, two towns out (New England talk for a suburb far enough away not to be in the city, but not so far England is where he settled).

"At age 66 ½ I retired from a good-paying job, drew a pension, Social Security, and some private income.

"After a while in our suburb I managed to be elected office manager and assistant treasurer of a large church, at a small salary.

"Then, later, I was elected a town selectman. A year later I was made chairman of the board, also at a small salary. With these jobs, which were more — at a pay: treasurer and director of the local Lions Club and the R e d Cross.

"The results — I have n e v e r been happier or more busy in my life. My wife and I love a small town because of the people in it.

"We have learned a retired couple can have gracious living, provided the town has a good experience and talent, and is willing to use it. In my opinion, it is.

His token wages are below the $1,200 a year limit set by Social Security.

A suburb didn't thrust a paying job on him. He went out and built a hall after he moved it. He sold himself — he made his church p a y him $1,000 a year more than beyond being an old guy with a pension.

The man or woman with enough income to meet his needs doesn't have retirement made. because with the income assured, position and self importance become vital. And they're things a man won't bring you any.

Go out and make something happen. Retirement is living. It don't you grow old. You become what the idle welfare workers and college professors hold conferences about.

No Gun Licences Valid During July, August

TORONTO — No gun licences are valid in Ontario during July and August, the vacation months. Every year, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests receives many requests for permits to use 22 rifles and rifle-revolvers and other shooting irons taken to summer camps.

Reason for the ban on shooting during vacation time is the potential danger to vacationists.

The use of firearms near water is particularly dangerous, since bullets ricochet or bounce off the surface of the water and still travel great distances with killing force.

There is no restriction, so far as the department is concerned on the use of firearms on a target range.

However," adds Deputy District Biologist F. A. Walden, "in order that the marksmen should not place himself in an embarrassing position, he should dismantle or encase his rifle during transportation. Simply wrapping the rifle in a paper and tying a string around it would serve.

"Meanwhile, those licensees in Northern Ontario may be used only in the resonty noted on the licence.

"The sile for a target range should be carefully chosen, with a clear approach from all sides to ensure that people can be readily seen. A high bank is a most useful backstop or, failing this, properly placed timbers are satisfactory.

"Do not use a rock or a mountain wall for a backstop. Be certain that all bullets will be stopped and none will be deflected."

JET SHOT DOWN

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—An official Syrian announcement said Syrian anti-aircraft guns Thursday shot down an unidentified jet fighter plane intruding on air space of the United Arab Republic. It added the plane was seen falling in flames into Lebanese territory after being hit over Syrian soil. Another jet was forced to flee, it said.

AN ASTUTE REPLY

If anybody has been underestimating the astuteness of Nikita Khrushchev, this should be remedied by reading the text of his reply to President Eisenhower regarding a summit conference on the Middle East within the framework of the UN Security Council.

"We regard the way in which the meeting of the heads of the governments takes place as not being at the moment of decisive importance."

This and more in the same vein.

Sweet reasonableness, with only here and there a sly thrust -- against Nationalist China, "some of the so-called permanent members (of the Security Council), who in fact do not represent anyone."

One wonders what is next. That Khrushchev is a quick-change artist, the Western world has learned to its sorrow. But, if the proposed summit meeting is held anywhere near as promptly at Khrushchev proposes, (next Monday was the date he suggested), memories will have to be short for him to change his tune without the world recognizing that fact. Comparisons with the text of his reply to Eisenhower will be easy to make. (Incidentally, the Associated Press released this text not from Washington, but from London, where it had been heard as a broadcast by Moscow radio. This may have been unavoidable, but U. S. newspaper readers may find it strange to read the text of a message to their President under a London dateline.)

AGAINST AGE DISCRIMINATION

The fair employment practices council of the United Auto Workers (CLC) in Toronto has asked the Ontario Government "to make it unlawful for an employer to discriminate against a person because of age." That, at any rate, is what The Canadian Press reports.

We rather think that the wording of the despatch is the result of an admirable effort by The Canadian Press to condense the news so that it may receive wider circulation, rather than to a totally unadmirable lack of clear thinking on the part of the United Auto Workers.

Let us suppose, though, for the sake of amusement, that the Auto Workers did ask the government to make it unlawful for an employer to discriminate against a person because of age, no matter what that age might be. Some hilarious situations would arise.

Consider, for instance, the night club proprietor who, seeking some way to enhance the popularity of his establishment, noticed an advertisement like this in the "Positions Wanted, Female" want ad column: "Vivacious blonde, 50 years young, very affectionate, wishes position where penchant for dancing in nude would be considered no handicap." He might feel somewhat unfairly used if he discovered the advertiser was a two-year-old baby-show winner with a habit of shedding her rompers.

Or the Pumpkins Hollow Bearcats, seeking a coach for the coming hockey season, might be somewhat put out to discover that the old pro they had hired was an already old pro when the Bearcats were very young cub-kittens and that the only red line he had heard of was the thin one which used to be the trademark of British Infantry.

Getting serious, every one of us knows what the United Auto Workers fair employment practices council means, and most of us are in sympathy with its aims. Reasonable men will not object to a firm advertising for a bright young man, when it wants to train somebody for a responsible position in the future, nor for a man of mature judgment when it wants to fill a position immediately, but something needs to be done to prevent men, and women, discovering that they are considered too old for a job at forty.

It is possible to answer the Auto Workers by declaring that that union, or others like it, are partly to blame for their situation, because of their insistence on pension plans. It is the actuarial requirements for pension plans, more than anything else, which is shutting the over-forty workers out of the employment market. More to the point, though, than such criticism would be some intelligent effort to revise the plans so that pension rights would move with the workers. This has already been attempted by a commendably far-sighted group of shirt-manufacturers at Kitchener. Extending their plan would not be simple, but it should not be impossible. It might well prove the best way of solving the problem of the welfare of the ever-growing group of "senior citizens."

TO THE FLODDER

Just another step ahead,
Faster not more;
Just another pace to tread
Though the road is hard.
If you will but turn the bend,
There I'm sure you'll find
All your troubles at an end,
Rest and peace of mind.

Just another step to take;
Do not weaken now.
Just another goal to make;
Struggle up somehow.
There, beyond the hill await Rest and perfect peace.
Once beyond the golden gate
All your troubles cease.

Faint of heart and body sore,
Never mind, my lad;
Other men have gone before,
Other men have had
All the burdens that you bear;
Now in peace they dwell.
Just another step, and there
Fame, and all is well.

The Mystery of Lemmings

From the BBC London Letter

One of the most fantastic and interesting stories of animal migration was mentioned recently in the BBC programme, "This Week's Natural History." Its narrators, Dr. W. E. Swinton and Dr. J. D. Macdonald, dealt with lemmings, for animal migration and the part played by the voles in the mass suicide of migration of birds, mammals and insects. The two main lemmings, Dr. Swinton said, appeared to be the urge to breed and, finding that the supply of food was inadequate for the large numbers produced, they might be described as emigrators, since they often set out to return to the original home.

A great deal had been discovered about bird migration, much speculation had been done on bees and ants; migration of butterflies, eels and salmon had been the source of countless experiments and much study, but the migration of mammals, spectacular migrations of reindeer, the caribou of North American caribou, the Mongolian antelopes and the African springbok . . .

But the so-called migration of the lemming—a little rodent living in the far north of Scandinavia—was one of the most remarkable of natural history phenomena. It was seasonal and took place at intervals of only three or four years or often longer. When food supplies appeared to be insufficient for the population of lemmings, they stayed in one area, moved in a radial direction," he said. "Then in the Spring, in the North, they go to the North, South of Russia, some to the Baltic, and the vast townships of lemmings go to the sea.

The characteristic of this is that the approach is not attracted by the possibility of finding a more beneficial setting, but merely a downhill one towards the permanently more plentiful vegetation of the low-lying areas. Once the sea is reachable, the numbers of lemmings increase enormously, they cannot find anything except more things, and followers by all sorts of birds and animals. They are joined there by many nothings of men and dogs.

Their movements are nocturnal, under certain conditions of the moon, and they are followed by hawks or hides marching; they will go into the sea, they don't go round the way, and despite the insecurity of the journey, or killings by the way, the numbers continue to increase. On they go impelled by some strange desire until they come to the sea, when they do take to water and eventually are drowned. Why they do this mass suicide — although obviously many manage to breed new generations — is not known. It has been claimed that some geological discovery is partly responsible and that the lemmings's fluky are seeking the father and mother continent. Whatever the reason is, it is a strange desire until they are drowned.

Styles in Sun Worship

New York Times

This is the time of year when most of us participate in the sun worship that fills during the next few weeks our sun, a dwarf star only 865,400 miles in diameter, with its 93,000,000 miles away, will pour out radiation at its usual rate. But, because it is more nearly overhead, transmission of its radiation through the air is more certain-producing ultraviolet radiation than during cloudy, cooler times of the year. Americans by the millions will take off on vacation and on weekends or stay at home in back yards or distant, and the average sun-lover will be slathered with lotions and ointments of many types and kinds. Even if even will take a new tan-producing ointment that holds hope of displaying as many square inches of unclothed pelt as is legally permissible.

* * *

Sunbathing as a competitive sport is a relatively modern phenomenon related no doubt to the urbanization of society. It is hard to imagine a farmer, herdsman or fisherman acquiring his tan with that of another. But in the cities, where 80 per cent of ultraviolet that is absorbed by contaminants in the air, a good tan, with its perfect, and therefore most precious symmetry. Competition aside, the tan is not only a cosmetic improvement but also largely a consequence of the accumulation of a store of Vitamin D for a responsible position in the future, nor for a man of mature judgment when it wants to fill a position immediately, but something needs to be done to prevent men, and women, discovering that they are considered too old for a job at forty.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The trainman on the transcontinental on which I was riding across Canada turned out to be a director of the conservation association in the mid-Canada city which is his division point. I was enquiring, as we sat on the bay window of the club car at the end of the train, about the number of moose killed by trains.

From this, the conversation turned to the habit of sportsmen, both native and visitors from south of the border, who are tropshy hunters, who go in quest of noble bull moose, take only his head and antlers, and leave the rest of the carcass, perhaps a thousand pounds of carrion, lying where it fell to the bush.

"Well," said the trainman, "I think we have to be intelligent about that. We always speak of the waste of all that meat. Actually, it is not wasted. In fact, not a scrap of it is wasted. It feeds a score of different species of animals and birds. It perhaps is the difference between life and death to a whole community of creatures. The bears go over the jacks, from foxes to mice. We forget that all predators eat everything else in the wilds. That bull moose was bound to die one day, sooner or later; and if he was an old buster, it would probably be better. He would be the natural food of the creatures that got him this year, instead of the year after, or whenever it became to his natural end. In the end, nothing is wasted."

That was a conversationalist speaking.

Strength for The Day

HAVING A DIVINE GOAL

Every life of real significance must have a goal. The most important thing about the Christian life is that there stands at the center of our faith a Figure toward which thought, devotion, and the whole movement of the believers' lives are directed, "looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith."

This Jesus, therefore, is the end of and object of the Christian life. By this we mean that a personal relationship exists between the believer and his Saviour. Many people regard Christianity as little more than a system of high ethical standards. Christianity involves the commingling of the human life with the divine. Through Christian faith a person's individuality is set up between men and God. Jesus is the source of this relationship. The life of the individual is surrendered to Christ and Christ's life in turn is fused and mixed with the life of the believer.

Christian life, therefore, centers here, consists chiefly in keeping one's eyes set on Christ, in directing oneself toward the source of power and inspiration which is found in Christ alone.

The life of the believer mounts up with Christ into that celestial realm where dwells now His glory. The joy that is set before Him is the joy also set and by H i m our souls are borne to the very throne of God.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SHADOWS

There could be no shadows without light. Artists find contrasts in nature. This, however, is the opportunity and privilege of us all. Nature is our silent teacher. She gives lessons without our knowledge. Her inspiration is worldwide.

If we go forward in the sunlight, the shadows can be made to fall behind. When the sun shines on the fields and bathes the valleys, only in climbing the cliffs do we get the wonderful shadows of the winter time, when there is plenty of snow, we get the beautiful designs that the trees and other objects create.

There comes to us sometimes a darkness of heart, but so long as there is a living hope and an eternal love in the world there will be light that will stream up into the hearts of us all. How we love the contrasts in nature! I love to watch the clouds as they race at times to make a dive into the pool below them. Even the rain is welcomed to bask in the sunshine.

Shadows are endless in their designs, and how they play upon themselves, as though they were to be sold by the yard! Shadows are substance; even though they melt away, each one is self-assuring that it will return another and newly garbed, and more friendly than ever!

We are not yet spiritually intelligent enough to translate all that a shadow or a star can mean. Perhaps in God's Interpreter's House the knowledge sought might be revealed! Meanwhile we may well lose ourselves in the mystery and beauty of shadows and perhaps take our first lesson in understanding. Oh, what is Man?

To Your Good Health

BALONEY — NOT THE SAUSAGE KIND — CAN COST YOU LOTS OF MONEY

Today's topic will be baloney —the kind that costs you quite a bit of money.

There are a lot of patent medicines on the market of a relatively new type. People are buy^ and large, getting wise to those that promise to cure liver trouble, or indigestion, or dandelion, or whatnot. No doubt, there are a lot of rich men, having their doctors take care of their health, and paying the bills with a trifling share of the fortune that were built by selling those patent medicines.

But as I said, people got wise to them. They realize that there isn't any "secret formula" that will automatically cure everything that goes wrong with the liver, or with the skin, or the nose, toes or scalp.

Today the profitable nostrums are, instead, preparations that are supposed to make you young, or keep you vigorous, or keep you healthy, or keep you nourished properly, or pep you up.

Whatever may be said for or against some of these products, one thing is sure — many of them have the most appealing brochures proclaiming the product! Gorgeous color pictures. Glowing testimonials. Rosy promises. Or implications that don't really promise or say anything, but seem to.

Don't get me wrong. Not all of these products are worthless. I've received scads of brochures saying that readers have been taking these "diet supplements" and they cost a lot, and what do I think?

What I think is that some of them are nothing more or less than vitamin capsules, with or without the addition of various mineral minerals. You get the same thing, but without all the printed baloney, and at a fraction of the price. It's marginBUY FROM RELIABLE BUSINESS

All the big pharmaceutical companies sell vitamins. They sell them in such a variety of combinations that you can certainly find one to suit your needs, and usually anything that suits your fancy, which is a different matter.

The question, however, is this: How are you going to know? The only answer is to ask your doctor, who can look at the list of contents in various vitamin capsules and tell you (since he knows these facts in mind all the time) whether the particular tablet is right for you, or whether you should take something else.

As for the flamboyant baloney, if it promises all sorts of things, and claims to be the newest and best, and gives you a mess of names and figures that look impressive . . . don't stop and ask yourself why they are trying so hard to impress you.

From the figures I've seen, these super-duper vitamins must cost a lot of money, because the vitamin tablets are sold for two to three times the price of the ones from the compounding of the whole drug store.

And as for the extravagant claims of the "secret" formulas — well, the reason they are secret is because if the "secret" were made public, it would turn out to be something that scientists have known for from 25 to 30 years. I'm not plugging anybody's pet products but I am suggesting that you be suspicious of the big promises. Read the kind that cozs you quite a bit of money.

What Price Ads on TV?

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

What do people do in their homes between television programs? The answer to that question should be of great concern to advertisers, for they foot the bills for the cost of the various television programs.

Some light on the research organization south of the border made a survey to find out how the average television household operates its television set. It covered 1,000 cases of a representative three-station market.

The result was as disturbing to the television networks as it was encouraging to newspaper business offices whose aim is to increase the portion of the advertising dollar that is directed into newspaper channels.

The survey showed that 77 per cent of the audience viewing a program is lost to advertisers the moment the program ends. That means obviously that only 23 per cent of the audience is being reached by advertising blurbs between programs.

Here is how the survey of 1,000 tested households behave between television programs, the survey group reported:

Twenty-eight per cent leave the room for various reason, broken down as follows—seven per cent go to the kitchen for snacks or drinks;

Eight per cent go to the children's room;

Five per cent do personal or household chores;

Eight per cent go to the other parts of the house.

Fifteen per cent study the TV schedule, look at newspapers or magazines;

Five per cent make telephone calls;

Five per cent merely chat with the family.

Of the remaining viewers, 10 per cent change channels and 12 per cent leave the house. That accounts for all except two of the 77 per cent. They couldn't remember precisely what they do between programs, but they definitely they are not watching their television sets between programs.

The survey must raise some doubts in the minds of network executives as to the value of TV advertising when it comes to getting the message across with sustained interest.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"WE GIVE THEE BUT THINE OWN"

We give Thee but Thine own,
Whate'er the gift may be;
All that we have is Thine alone,
A trust, O Lord, from Thee.
Nay we Thy bounties thus
As stewards true receive
And gladly, as Thou blessest us,
To Thee our first fruits give.
To comfort and to bless,
To find a balm for woe,
To tend the lone and fatherless
Is angels' work below.
The captive to release,
To God the lost to bring,
To teach the way of life and peace —
It is a Christ-like thing.
And we believe Thy word,
Though dim our faith may be;
Whate'er for Thine we do, O Lord,
We do it unto Thee.

The distinguished English churchman is known throughout Christendom for his magnificent hymns — "For All The Saints Who From Their Labors Rest", "O Word Of God Incarnate", "O Jesus, Thou Art Standing Before Thee", "The Fast-Closed Door", and others.

He was born at Shrewsbury, England in 1823, was ordained to the ministry in 1846, and held a number of important posts in the Church of England before being consecrated a bishop, in 1888. He died in 1897.

Of all his hymns, "We Give Thee But Thine Own" is the most widely used. It was written for the Church Offering Service, and is sung at the presentation of the offerings. It is a hymn of consecration, and is based on the thought that all we have is God's, and that we are but stewards of His bounty.

Bishop W. Walsham How wrote this hymn of Christian stewardship in 1864.

Perhaps he, was remembering that bit of Scripture in the seventeenth verse of the nineteenth chapter of Proverbs — "He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord") as he penned his final stanza:

"And we believe Thy word,
Though dim our faith may be:
Whate'er for Thine we do, O Lord,
We do it unto Thee."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Honoring the Holy Maccabeus

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Friday, August 1 — Today as in the large part of the Christian Church honors nine saints who never came within two centuries of being Christians and probably would not have been Christians even if they had lived in the Christian era.

In the year 168 B.C. the Syrian King Antiochus Epiphanes, who had conquered the Jews and was occupying their little country, decided he would introduce the sophisticated Greek culture to replace the Jewish ways, which he considered crude and primitive. What he did not know, but soon found out, was that Jewish life was inseparably tied up with religion. It was not just a matter of changing a few customs.

He was shaking the foundations, and he ran into a solid wall of resistance. Furious, Antiochus decreed a strategy. If he could get the Jews to eat pork, that would be a breakthrough. And if he could get their most pious and respected citizen, a 90-year-old man named Eleazar, to eat the forbidden meat, then the chances were the others would follow.

So they tried to persuade Eleazar then to bribe him, and finally to force him. But they got exactly nowhere with the devout old man. They put him to death — the first of the Holy Martyrs whose steadfastness is celebrated today, and the only one whose name is known.

Then followed seven brothers and their mother, bringing to a total of nine the number of martyrs executed for the crime of not eating pork.

WHY CALLED MACCABEES?

Maccabeus was the surname of the rebel leader Judas, who headed the Jewish revolt against Antiochus Epiphanes. His popularity was so great among the oppressed Jews that his name was adopted by all who became His Followers in resistance against the foreign king. A tradition, impossible to support now, says that the relics of the seven brothers are in the Church of St. Peter ad Vincula ("St. Peter's where the chains are") in Rome.

MOSES WITH HORNS

In this same church in the city of Rome stands (or sits) the famous Michelangelo statue of Moses, which shows the great Jewish leader with two horns on his forehead. A reader, recently returned from Rome, writes in to ask "Why the horns"?

The answer is that they are from Mount Sinai bringing with him the stone tablets on which were engraved the Ten Commandments. It is recorded there that "the skin of his face shone."

Now, here is where the mistake came in. The word used in the original Hebrew was qaran. Literally it means "sending forth beams." The Hebrew word for horn is qeren. The early translation of the Bible, in which Michelangelo had access, was made before scholars had introduced vowels into their study of Hebrew, which means that all the translator had to work with were the three consonants "q-r-n". If he put e's in, it came out horns, if he put a's in it was beams.

The translator, using his own judgment, rendered it "his face was horned", and not only Michelangelo but several other medieval artists depicted Moses with horns.

Based on a mistaken translation of the passage in Exodus, Chapter 34, Verses 29 and 30, which tells how Moses came back down from the mountain with the tablets in his hands, and did not know that his face shone because the skin of it was horned.

A Lift for Living

Lord Loves a Cheerful Giver

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

From infancy we were reared by those who gave themselves for others — mothers who spent sleepless nights, fathers who worked to provide for us. Our birthdays were gladdened by presents.

The schooling we received was for service beyond what we paid for. The protection of our laws, the freedom of our land, the enriching friendships along the way — all these are gifts. Only by the spirit of givers are we alive today.

Now reverse the view. Suppose we never had a chance to give to anyone. Suppose we could never give to our children, never see their eyes dance with joy at something we do for them. Suppose you should see a little child struck down in front of your house by a passing truck, lying there in his limp and bleeding, turning its large wounded eyes of pain imploringly toward you, before the tears begin to flow, and you cannot give any aid whatsoever.

A friend of mine had an only child, who was killed in a motor accident a few years ago. She left a little daughter who is in the keeping of her father and family. My friend, the grandfather, is never allowed to see her or to do anything for her. His heart is full to bursting, as he yearns to give but is frustrated.

I know how many appeals we get and how we become irritated by them. But suppose we were never asked to give at all. A man once prominent in a Pennsylvania city lost his position and property. He had been a leader in his community.

A LONELY MAN

He drifted into New York and took lodgings, looking for a job. He said to me: "Once I was besieged by phone calls to the point of distraction. But now the phone never rings. The lonely silence is unbearable."

Mothers are worn to the edge of patience by little tots who tug at them, trying to pull them towards counters to buy things they do not need and cannot afford. But what mother would not rather feel the pull of those provoking little toddlers than to look into the eyes of her child lying too sick to ask for anything or to be tempted by any toy?

Never to receive anything — that would be fatal, for we cannot live without what others give to us. But never to give anything — that also would be fatal.

The Master saw those who defeated themselves by thinking only of getting, those who lived plinched lives by pinching their pennies.

He told the story of the rich farmer who thought only of building larger barns to house his bountiful crops and the... died in the night.

In contrast to such niggardly people Jesus was drawn to those generous persons like the poor widow who put into the temple treasury all she had, and like the grateful woman who, not counting the cost, poured the precious perfume on His head and feet.

Jesus said, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." And can we not see why? Because a cheerful giver is a lovable character. We all love generous, magnanimous givers.

When Jesus, therefore, bade people to give, He was not a beggar. He was a life-begetter. And when worthy causes today ask you to give, do not think of them as begging merely for their own interests. They are really begetters of life. They are opening the channels to bigger, better, more joyous living. It is through giving that we fulfill our selfhood.

TALKED OF MONEY

Why did Jesus talk so much about money? He seemed quite indifferent to money as far as His own needs were concerned. Jesus never solicited funds for Himself. Yet He talked about money more than about heaven.

Why? Because money is a symbol of values which represent our work, our thought, our character. The way a person uses his money reveals what he is today and helps determine what he will be tomorrow.

One blessing of giving is that we can extend these lives of ours. We may not be able to add years to our lives, for death is no respecter of riches. But we can add life to our years.

At this vacation season the thought of travel lures us. Many of us desire to save money so we can travel when we retire. Good! But why not let our lives travel even now while we are tied to our jobs?

I know a teacher who spends some thirteen weeks each year in India. She is helping support a girl in a school in Lucknow. As the poet said, "Where I love, I live."

A man in the Middle West made considerable money. In his affluent years he gave an organ to his church. Later reverses came.

Now in his reduced circumstances his luxuries are gone, but he finds one of his chief joys is in going to church and listening to the organ which he gave.

Don't we wish he had that money back? No. His reasoning is like that of another cheerful giver who said:

What I saved, I lost;
What I spent, I had
What I gave, I have.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

TANNER—REID—On Saturday, July 12, 1958, at Foxboro United Church parsonage, by the Reverend H. F. Darke, Anna Hazel Reid, eldest daughter of Mrs. Phillp Vance, of Harold, Ontario, and the late Mr. W. J. Bateman, to James Archie Tanner, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tanner. Mr. and Mrs. William Tanner, of Belleville, attended the couple. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Stirling Hotel.

Cleaning Tips For Summer

It is rare indeed to get through a picnic or party without some minor mishap, such as spotting or spilling, especially when there are young children around. Chocolate ice cream, a favorite with the youngsters, seems to be forever turning up on blouses and dresses. It can be removed from practically any fabric, and this method given by Chatelaine Institute in August Chatelaine has proved most successful.

Sponge the stain with dry cleaning fluid, then cool water. If the garment is washable, launder in hot water with soap or detergent. If the stain still persists, apply a diluted solution of appropriate bleach: 1 tablespoon chlorine per cup of water on white or colorfast cottons and linens; 2 tablespoons of 3 percent hydrogen peroxide per cup of water on silk, wool, rayon acetate, delicate sheer synthetics, embossed finishes or drip-dry garments.

Another frequent query at this time of the year concerns clogging straw handbags and shoes. Light or natural colored ones can usually be cleaned at home satisfactorily. First test in inconspicuous area, to be sure of results. Then, using 1/4 cup mild soap or detergent and 1 cup of cool water, work up a stiff lather and scrub with a stain like or old toothbrush. Wipe with a damp cloth. For quick touch-ups use [illegible]

FARMER — CONNOR

St. John's United Church, Tweed, was the setting on Saturday, July 12th, for the marriage of Miss Carol-Ann Elizabeth Connor, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Howard Connor, Tweed, to Mr. David Edwin Farmer, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Albert E. Farmer and the late Mr. Farmer. The Reverend Douglas Louie officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with large baskets of Regal lilies and delphinium and the guest pews were designated with white satin bows and small pink garden flowers.

Mr. Fred Porter, church organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Dr. Douglas H. Connor, of Toronto, brother of the bride. "Wedding Meditation," with words and music composed by Mr. Dorland F. Houston, of Woodbridge, a lifelong friend of the bride's family, was sung immediately after the mother of the bride was seated. Other selections heard were a beautiful setting of the hymn "O Perfect Love," as a prayer during the ceremony, and "Love's Coronation" while the register was being signed.

Mrs. James Goldie of Peterborough, who has been the church's recent vocal teacher, sang Grieg's "I Love Thee," at the reception.

Mr. Donald C. Mortimer of Toronto, was groomsman, and the ushers were Dr. John T. Bate and Mr. Ross Walters, of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her father, the beautiful young bride wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Made by her mother it was designed with a low, rounded neckline and short sleeves, both trimmed with lace appliques. The very full bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train, and her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a fuller cap of matching lace appliques. Short white gloves and an all-white cascade bouquet of regal lilies and stephanotis, with fern, completed the radiant picture.

The similar style were the gowns of the senior attendants, Miss Jacqueline Smith, of Glastone, Michigan, maid of honor, and Miss Josephine Rizzo of Belleville, bridesmaid. White length gowns of white Swiss embroidered organdy over white taffeta were worn, with wide, cherry colored taffeta sashes tied in large bows at the back with streamers falling to the hemline of the skirts.

The junior bridesmaids, Misses Sally and Susan Dawson, of London, and flower girl, Miss Kathryn Cole of Peterborough, all nieces of the bride, were dressed alike in white taffeta frocks of the same material as the senior attendants, with similar cherry sashes.

All attendants wore short white gloves and ribbon head dresses of matching cherry taffeta. The bridesmaids carried small cascades of pompons of sweet peas and baby's breath, and the flower girl carried a dainty basket of similar flowers.

The reception for the more than 100 guests, which immediately followed, was held in St. John's church hall, which was decorated with baskets of Regal lilies and delphinium.

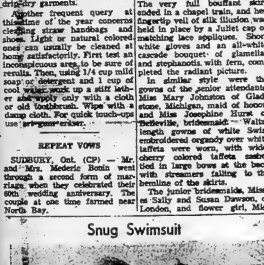
The bride's table was attractively arranged with silver candelabra and large bowls of New Dawn roses, sweetpeas and delphinium on either side of the round, three-tier wedding cake. Small vases of sweetpeas and baby's breath decorated the guests' tables.

The guests were received by the bride's mother who wore a sheath dress of beige, embroidered silk organza over taffeta, beige shoes and hat. Her hat was contrasting pale green, with matching gloves, and her corsage was Talisman roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in rose lace over taffeta with matching shoes and gloves, large black velvet hat and corsage of pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Upon leaving for their honeymoon in the Laurentians, the bride donned a sheath dress and matching duster of powder blue shantung, large picture hat of blue tones, white shoes, bag and gloves, and a corsage of sweetpeas.

Out-of-town guests were from Toronto, Montreal, Waterloo, London, Peterborough, Arthur, Belleville, Woodbridge, Napanee, Gladstone, Michigan; Foxboro and Madoc.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Edward Breadman are pictured cutting the wedding cake during their recent marriage in Shannonville United Church. The bride is the former Miss Helen Margaret Vivian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vivian, of Shannonville. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Breadman, also of Shannonville. (Photo by Carl Roluf, Belleville.)



BREADMAN — VIVIAN

Tall, white baskets of pink and white snapdragons, gladioli and ferns formed an attractive setting in Shannonville United Church, for a recent wedding when Helen Margaret Vivian, of Shannonville, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vivian, became the bride of Delmer Edward Breadman, also of Shannonville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Breadman, of Shannonville. The Reverend A. W. Lougheed, of Trenton, assisted by Mr. J. P. Robinson, of Shannonville, officiated.

Mrs. Harry Sine rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Norman Hinsley, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown in promenade length of gardenia white, pure silk chiffon accented with beiewelled motifs outlining the bateau neckline, which featured satin. Matching gloves, and headdress encrusted with iridescent sequins, with chapel-length veil in circular style of silk tulle illusion completed her ensemble. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink and white carnations with streamers falling to the hemline of the skirts.

Previous to her marriage, she was entertained at a shower given by Miss Mary Moult, of Belleville, and also at a shower held at the home of Mrs. Vernon Rump, of Shannonville.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS.

How well do you really know Front Street?

T and T trusts that Bellevillians recognize it in more detail than we did. If confession is good for the soul then we're at least confessed our deficiencies. Do not misunderstand us, please. Of course we are on Front Street every day of the week, that is, on business now and often on Sunday too. Undoubtedly, we would have assured you with confidence and possibly a little impudence if anyone had asked us seriously "How well do you really know Front Street?" Common courtesy might have prevented us from expressing our mental reservations to such a silly question.

T and T hopes that most Bellevillians know Front Street as well as we carelessly thought we knew it. There may be something in the fact that familiarity breeds other short comings. Border cities have a special pride in Belleville precincts any Belleville resident, however, did not know Front Street quite as well as we imagined we did.

Daily we go about our business that brings us to Front Street, Front Street is the street where we pass to and fro, back and forth. It is our "Main Street". It is the street known to everyone of us. It is everyman's street. It houses the big shops here. The business man finds his activities concentrated here. Here are banks. It is here we find ourselves meeting for luncheon with all kinds of reasons. How well do you know it?

STROLL OF DISCOVERY

This week your reporter was by a friend was said "let's walk up Front Street to the new government building." We hesitated no essence at the time. We strolled lackadaisically. We were surprised to see seeing what we had seen daily but had not really seen. In short we found ourselves observing what we had seen but passed by.

We became aware of a mild excitement as it dawned on us that Front Street is Front Street nearly as well as we had taken for granted. Gradually we realized it assumed new proportions and what is so familiar became a bit more intimate. Certainly a street may becoms intimate. Is it not a truism that what becomes intimate becomes also the subject of more specific and detailed scrutiny? It is claimed that we are always more critical of those things we love.

Anyway, we caught ourselves remarking "I never noticed that before" or "when did that go" and so instal that new front" or "when did that business move" or "heavens, I am ashamed of myself because Front Street is like everything else that is forever changing" or "I'll never take Front Street for granted again." And so it went and T and T was conscious of a new awareness of our "road street".

If we thought remotely that all was figment of our imagination, we soon learned we were not alone in our feeling and others too had experienced the same rediscovery of the ever-changing scene on Front Street. For a few moments we stopped to visit with a friend who has lived within a stone's throw of Belleville all her life. We stated our discovery about our excitement and she replied, "My husband and I have the same feeling after a few Sundays ago. We went to church and had lunch up town. Then we took a route we strolled along Front Street and realized that what we took for granted was not as familiar as we believed it to be."

RESOLUTION

Although T and T hopes that there aren't too many as guilty as we have been in taking Front Street for granted, we recommend a stroll when the daily routine does not prevent recognition of the changing scene. We intend to be going to it periodically.

Whether Sir William Watson ever had a similar experience we do not know but a few lines from his pen set the weekend thought:

"Strange the world about me lies,
Never yet familiar grown,
Still disturbs me with surprise,
Haunts me like a face half-known."

With a bow to Front Street T and T offers its confession. How well do you know it?

Camping Out for the Holidays Proving Popular This Summer

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

It looks as if this is the biggest year for camping on the old Queen's grounds since the Civil War.

Camping, that's our man's idea of vacation, and between recession and inflation there are more of us now than at any time since the great depression gave this kind of holiday its first impetus.

The postwar emergence of the station wagon as a virtual way of life for many families is a big help in helping along the rage for sleeping and eating outdoors as a substitute for restaurants on a holiday.

A wagon is a near-essential for this type of vacation. The best way to carry the assortment of bulky equipment camping requires, and most wagons can be adapted to sleeping quarters when camp sites are not available.

Before planning a camping vacation you should be sure that what you'd like. The investment in equipment would pay for a regular touring vacation for most families, and if you try it and don't like it, there'll be a lot of expensive dust collecting in the cellar afterwards.

How do you know if you'll like it? Most of all, you have to go for sleeping in a bag under a tent.

Novel Nightgown

By VERA WINSTON

Soft silk chiffon in two tones of blue and green plaid is the fabric for this shift nightdress. Cut on trapeze lines, it is gathered to fall in a very full flare of folds from the self - piped and bowed neckline. It is the same in front and back.

Starting at $15. Bigger ones cost more but help pay for themselves in enabling you to take more food from home. Food sold in parks is usually expensive.

Pots and pans; tableware and [illegible] (paper or otherwise!) for wrap and food, with no more perishables than you can keep a reasonable length of time.

A 30-cent kerosene lantern, flashlights, two galvanized buckets for cleaning up, pillows and a first aid kit, plus a picnic stove and canned fuel if you don't choose to use the fireplaces in parks.

Optional, depending on your interests, are fishing and swimming gear, a tent and swim suits.

BACK, STRAPS

You may find there's no room left in the car after you get all this stuff in, so a rack and sturdy straps atop the car may be a good idea, too.

The only safe, comfortable and convenient place to camp a r state, national and provincial parks or, if you're so inclined, trailer parks with camp sites. Fees are modest enough, ranging from nothing to $1.50 a night.

There are enough public camp sites around the continent, complete with picnic tables, sanitary facilities, boat rentals, and supervised crafts and nature programs, to make camping in unprotected places neither desirable nor necessary.

Site information can be obtained from all state and provincial park and conservation commissions and state and provincial capitals; from the National Park Service, Department of the Interior; and the Geological Survey, all in Washington, D.C. Public libraries also have camp site information.

Once you get the hang of it, you can decide whether you want to invest in all sorts of expensive and esoteric camping equipment ranging from portable log houses ($12,95), canvas showers ($21.50), and folding toilets, to elaborate tents and trailers. A $600 camping trailer, or even a $2,850 Volkswagen Camper complete with built-in studio bedroom-living room, stove, refrigerator, and folding table.

Neighbors' Aid Plans Future Activities

2nd THURLOW — Mrs. William Lazarluck entertained the Neighbors' Aid for the July meeting on Wednesday afternoon. About 35 adults and several children attended. The president, Mrs. J. Clumbley, presided, and extended a welcome to all and thanked the hostess for opening her home for the meeting. Mrs. R. Atkins acted as secretary for the meeting.

Thank-you notes and expressions of appreciation were voiced by those receiving cards. A picnic was discussed and it was decided to hold it on Bird's Beach, Oak Lake, on July 30th.

It was also decided to have a pot-luck dinner with one hot, one cold dish and everyone to bring his or her own beverage and dishes, dinner at 12 o'clock noon.

There will be no August meeting and the September meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Manley Mitchell with Mesdames H. Gay, Ralph Pegg Thomson; reading Betty Anne Croft, "Then and Now"; duet, Marlene and Carolyne Mitchell, "God is Good to Me"; "Faraway Over Jordan", "Whisper a Prayer in the Morning", "God Answers Prayers in the Evening", were enjoyed; baton twirling, Suzanne and Donna Lazaruick.

Trim Turban

By ALICE ALDEN

With this season's blithe young hats, it's no wonder hatlessness is on the wane. Just right for now is this deftly draped turban, white Bemuda dotted in navy-colored cotton. All-over stitched, it is softly pleated away from the face in the latest millinery mode. Good with almost any daytime costume in town or out, it's also a handy traveller.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

CORRECT ORDER OF PROCESSIONAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in September, at a morning ceremony in a Catholic church. My attendants are to be: matron of honor, my only sister; four bridesmaids (close friends); a junior bridesmaid (my niece, daughter of the matron of honor); a flower girl; the best man, and four ushers. My father will escort me up the aisle. What is the correct order for the Processional. — Kate

The Processional. First, the four ushers, two by two, the shortest leading; next, the junior bridesmaid, alone; then the four bridesmaids, two by two, the shortest pair first; next, the matron of honor, alone; then the flower girl, alone; and last, you and your father.

PAPER WRAPPERS SHOULD BE REMOVED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last Saturday evening my husband and I went to a small, informal dinner (not buffet) at a friend's house. The dessert was brick ice cream, individually wrapped in the usual white paper wrapping. The hostess left the paper wrappers on the ice cream when she served it to the guests, from her place at table. Could this be considered correct? Even at such a small, informal dinner? — Reader

No . . . not correct, even at the small, informal dinner. Before serving each piece of ice cream, the wrapper should be removed.

PROPER TO GIVE SHOWER FOR SECOND BABY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is going to have a baby in about three months. This is her second child, but since her first child was born when she was living a great distance from here, her friends here (and she has many) were not able to have a stork shower for her. Now I would like to plan a baby shower, inviting all her close friends, but I'm hesitating because I've been told that it is not proper to give a baby shower for a second baby, only for the first. True or false. Mrs. Beeckman? — Rita W.

False- It is just as proper for the close friends of the mother-to-be to give a shower for the second baby (or third or however many) as it is for the first baby. No reason not to.

DON'T USE "CREAMER" FOR "CREAM PITCHER"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle a discussion between my girl friend and me? She criticizes me for saying "creamer" for a cream pitcher, for example, "sugar bowl and cream creamer." I think it's just as correct to say "creamer" as to say "cream pitcher." Which is right? — Readers

Your friend is right. "Creamer" is not correct. You should say "Cream pitcher." The bowl is the container for the sugar . . . the pitcher is the container for the cream.

QUESTION:

Enclosed is recipe for Light Fruit Cake. The flavor is delicious but there is something wrong with the texture. After 3½ to 4 hours baking when cut the cake is as moist if, almost seems raw . . . please try it and send your remarks . . . Mrs. F. T.

ANSWER:

The letter is dated Jan. 7 and I received it Jan. 9. Since then I have replied once and tried the cake twice — the last time only yesterday. Because you state the cake was moist I used 4 very large eggs and did not sift the flour. I will give the recipe as I made it up here for I think our readers will welcome it as a surprise summer fruit cake.

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

(Courtesy Mrs. F. T.)

One-half lb. butter (could be margarine), 2 cups white sugar, 4 extra large eggs (or 5 medium) ¾ lb. each candied cherries and pineapple sliced, ½ lb. each chopped blanched almonds and citron peel, 2 cups desiccated (fine) coconut, 2 lbs. very light sultana raisins, 1 cup milk, 2¼ cups sifted hot not sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 drop essence of lemon or 2 drams oil of lemon or ½ teaspoon artificial lemon flavoring (I do not recommend the latter). Prepare all of the fruits and nuts and add ¼ cup of the required flour to them. Cream butter well, cream sugar into it very well. Beat in eggs, then milk and flavoring. Sift the remaining flour with the baking powder and fold it in then fold in the fruits. Bake in 2 buttered multi-paper lined loaf pans at 275 deg. F. with waterpan in oven about 3 hours. I thought the texture was delicious and correct.

QUESTION:

Would it be convenient for you to send me 2 of your good recipes? City Chicken and Cabbage Rolls. Can I put City Chicken in the deep freeze before they are cooked? . . . Mrs. W. F.

ANSWER:

I am mailing to you recipe for Cabbage Rolls which appeared here August 30/57.

CITY CHICKEN:

You require equal quantities of veal and pork steak cut into squares of 1¼" by ½" thick. Run the squares of meat alternately on wooden skewers, allowing about 1-3 lb. per skewer, pressing them tightly together. Roll each drumstick in milk then in fine crumbs. Repeat to thoroughly coat. Fry in deep fat until browned. Transfer to roaster, sprinkle with salt and pepper, add enough hot water to just cover bottom of pan, cover and bake slowly 1½ to 2 hours at 325 deg. F., or until meat is chicken-tender. Remove cover during last ½ hour to brown, and raise temperature a little. I have not frozen city chicken. Try freezing about 2 lbs. of them, wrapping in foil, excluding all air possible. Freeze at zero and open and cook after 2 weeks and test them for yourself. I'd sure like to know how they turn out.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Vernon S. — Why must I stick to a bad mistake?

Diane D. — I don't want to break up a home.

* * *

Vernon S. — I have been married six years and have a 3-year-old child. Our marriage has been stormy from the beginning a n d seems to be getting worse all the time. My wife and I are incompatible in every way.

About a year ago I became involved in an affair with a girl in the office where I work. She is everything I want in a wife — pretty, sweet, intelligent and truly sympathetic. I am very serious about wanting to marry her. I am sure that I can get a divorce.

To my complete surprise, t h e minute I mentioned divorce, Diane clammed up and wouldn't have anything more to do w i t h me. I have explained that she wouldn't be responsible for t h e breakup of my home. That was a gone years ago. My religion does not outlaw divorce. Why must I stick to a bad mistake?

* * *

Diane D. — I didn't really understand what I was letting myself in for when I first started going out with Vernon. He is an attractive man and I was flattered by his interest. I mistook this for love.

Well, now that I am confronted by the possibility of marrying him, I just don't know what I really want to do. I certainly don't want to be responsible f o r breaking up anyone's home. I'm not that kind of girl. In spite of what Vernon says, I feel I would be responsible.

I feel Vernon wants to show me he wasn't trifling with my affections. I realize he is very sincere and wants to do the right thing. I guess I have been foolish, but I feel that I really wasn't cut o u t for the role of the other woman. I don't see myself going through with this thing.

The Council: Both Vernon and Diane are quite dishonest with themselves about their motives, and have gotten themselves into a tangle of deceit.

As we see it, Vernon is essentially interested in getting out of his marriage and was trying to use Diane as a steppingstone. If he sincerely loved her, he would not have involved himself in an affair with her. He would have taken steps to extricate himself from his marriage and asked Diane to marry him when he became free.

If he had done this Vernon would have gotten a yes or no answer and would not have been left in his present quandary. He had expected to get out of h i s marriage on the strength of h i s involvement with Diane, but now he is left nowhere because he has made no real decision about his marriage unrelated to Diane.

As for Diane, we are most mistrustful of her protestations of refusal to be "the other woman" or to break up a home. It is quite unlikely that a girl who so involves herself in an affair with a married man is deeply concerned about such niceties. We doubt very much whether she ever sincerely believed she was in love.

This has been a very shabby relationship and Vernon and Diane ought to face it. They have tried to use one another toward selfish ends and both probably would have a bad aftermath.

Vernon should try to come to terms with his marriage. If he finds he can't, after an honest effort, he should take on the responsibility of extricating himself. He should not try to use some woman for that end.

Now.. New Semi-Private Coverage through Blue Cross

for Individuals

A new Blue Cross service designed to cover the difference in charges between standard ward and semi-private accommodation in participating hospitals* is now available to residents of Ontario for an effective date of January 1, 1959—the date your Ontario Hospital Insurance comes into effect. If you enrol for standard ward coverage through the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, you can prepay semi-private care through Blue Cross.

*Sanatoria, hospitals for the chronically ill, and mental hospitals are excluded.

Blue Cross DEPENDABILITY

Available to all individuals who enrol for Ontario Hospital Insurance, Blue Cross semi-private coverage carries with it the same dependability you have come to expect from this non-profit community service.

ONE PAYMENT-ONE CERTIFICATE

Through an arrangement made with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, one payment covering the cost of both plans will be made to the Commission and one certificate confirming coverage in both will be provided. Regulations governing payment to the Commission will apply to Blue Cross which means that your initial one month payment will prepay your coverage from January 1, 1959, to March 31, 1959.

EMPLOYERS: To add supplementary semi-private Blue Cross coverage, indicate those of your staff wishing this additional protection on your Group Application Form 101 prior to mailing to the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, and designate Blue Cross as your supplementary carrier.

REMEMBER—TO BE ELIGIBLE FOR BLUE CROSS SEMI-PRIVATE COVERAGE, YOU MUST ENROL FOR BASIC COVERAGE THROUGH THE ONTARIO HOSPITAL SERVICES COMMISSION.

How to Enrol:

PRESENT BLUE CROSS SUBSCRIBERS who are paying direct to Blue Cross will be receiving complete details of this new service along with an application which will enable them to enrol simultaneously for Ontario Hospital Insurance and Blue Cross semi-private coverage. This material will be mailed to all those concerned during the latter part of July.

NEW SUBSCRIBERS for Blue Cross should obtain an application from their local hospital, local Blue Cross office, or from the Toronto head office. It should be completed and mailed with the application for Ontario Hospital Insurance. The initial payment must accompany the application.

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR SEMI-PRIVATE COVERAGE SHOULD BE MADE PRIOR TO SEPTEMBER 30, 1958.

The Week's News

By GAVIN SCOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev boldly demanded a summit conference on the Middle East crisis on an "anytime, anywhere" basis. After the Western powers recoiled from his idea of an emergency meeting in Geneva Tuesday, he agreed to the West's suggestion that the session be held under aegis of the United Nations Security Council in New York. His chief condition was that India's Premier Nehru and representatives of the Arab world be invited.

Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan, under the pressure of public opinion and the Labor opposition at home, took the initiative in urging President Eisenhower to accept Khrushchev's bid. Eisenhower, on the other hand, was anxious to go slow on plans for the talks lest the conference lend itself to Khrushchev propaganda before the eyes of the world.

DE GAULLE UNCERTAIN

Continuing objections to the meet by General's Premier de Gaulle clouded the outlook as Eisenhower forwarded his reply to Khrushchev. De Gaulle frowned on the idea of having it at the UN. Prime Minister Nehru of India also listed in Khrushchev's proposal as a prospective participant in the conference, but quickly accepted. Egypt's President Nasser let it be known he was anxious for an invitation to attend.

LEBANON ELECTION

As the high power discussions went on in Western capitals, all was comparatively quiet on the mideastern front. In Beirut, attention was centered on next week's parliamentary election of a new president.

Rebel Leader Saeb Salam said the rebels would not permit presidential elections as long as pro-Western President Chamoun is in power and foreign troops in Lebanon. Parliament postponed the election until next Tuesday to give negotiators time to agree on an acceptable candidate. If he isn't found, Lebanon faces real civil war.

Meanwhile, the Iraqi regime seemed to be settling into stable government. An increasing number of countries accorded diplomatic recognition.

CYPRUS ROUNDUP

In Cyprus, British troops continued to arrest Greek and Turkish Cypriots in a mass roundup that was necessary, the British authorities said, to prevent outbreak of civil war between the two factions seeking sovereignty on the strategic eastern Mediterranean island. More than 1,400 Greeks and 50 Turks were under detention as the Greeks staged a general strike in protest of the arrests.

22 MILES AN HOUR

Happier news came from British Columbia, where Princess Margaret, undaunted by continuing hot weather, made a foray into the Fraser River in the ferry farmlands. A royal auto caravanside, lying to make up 10 minutes in her schedule, hit 85 miles an hour between Abbotsford and Chilliwack.

The princess received a doctor of laws degree from the University of British Columbia in Vancouver and attended the literary-governor's ball at HMCS Discovery before boarding a train for her journey across Canada.

LONG TIME DREAM

The people of Saskatchewan have been dreaming of a dam and irrigation project on the South Saskatchewan River for years and this week finally found it a reality. Federal Agriculture Minister Harkness signed an agreement with the province for the $120,000,000 project that will create an estimated 1,000 new farms in the dry area of southwestern Saskatchewan.

The power plant to be built in conjunction with the dam could produce 375,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity, materially reducing the province's power costs.

NKRUMAH VISIT

In Ottawa, visiting Ghana Premier Kwame Nkrumah urged that a joint Commons-Senate session that Commonwealth countries pay more attention to political aspects of economic development. He said the North American business recession "most profoundly" affected Ghana's plans for an aluminum industry.

Dr. Nkrumah's thinking, associates said, is coupled with knowledge that leaders in underdeveloped countries have to deliver the political goods, or get out. The longer the recession lasts, the harder it will be for needy nations to obtain Western aid.

Read Earlier Letter Again More Carefully, Eisenhower Bluntly Tells Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is President Eisenhower's latest letter on a summit conference sent Friday to Soviet Premier Khrushchev:

I have studied your letter of July 23. I find in it apparent misunderstandings of the views expressed in my letter of July 22, which I would request you to read again more carefully.

I then said that if, despite the facts established in the recent meetings of the Security Council, your government still desires to allege that the situation in Lebanon constitutes an imminent danger to peace in the Middle East, the proper forum for appropriate discussion is the United Nations Security Council. I am glad that you now recognize the responsibility of the United Nations and have withdrawn your original proposal which would have gravely undermined the prestige and authority of the United Nations.

My letter pointed out that the charter of the United Nations authorizes members of the government, and that of course includes heads of government, and foreign ministers, to represent a member nation in the Security Council and that if such a meeting were generally desired, the United States would, in the following that orderly procedure, it is, of course, not yet certain that such a meeting is in fact "generally desired," although that may prove to be the case.

You now make specific suggestions dealing with the composition of the Security Council and the conditions under which nations other than members of the council may participate in discussions of the council.

THERE ARE RULES

My letter to you of July 22 urged that one of the advantages of proceedings in the Security Council is that there are established rules on these matters and it is accordingly not necessary to rely on improvising. I pointed out that when rules of this kind are sought to be improved there is raised a whole series of new problems, notably as to the participation and non-participation of various states.

The United States will adhere, in these respects, to the charter, which lays down the conditions under which nations which are not members of the council may participate in the discussions of the council.

As to the agenda, we agree that it should be limited to discussion of the problems of the Middle East, including the causes of these problems. I would, however, be lacking in candor if I did not make clear that to put peace and security on a more stable basis in the Middle East requires far more than merely a consideration of Lebanon and Jordan.

These situations are but isolated manifestations of far broader problems. In my opinion the instability of peace and security is in large measure due to the jeopardy in which small nations are placed. It would be the purpose of the United States to deal with the specific incidents you raise within that broad context. To do otherwise would be to be blind to the teaching of history.

You will recall, Mr. Chairman, that World War II was brought about by a series of acts of direct and indirect aggression against small nations. In March 1939 the then head of the Soviet Communist party pointed out that the failure of non-aggressive nations, among which he named Britain and France, to check direct or indirect aggression against small countries meant "giving free rein to war and, consequently, transforming the war into a world war." That forecast unhappily proved true.

You will also recall the 1950 peace through deeds" resolution of the General Assembly which condemns the "fomenting of civil strife in the interest of a foreign power" as among "the gravest of all crimes."

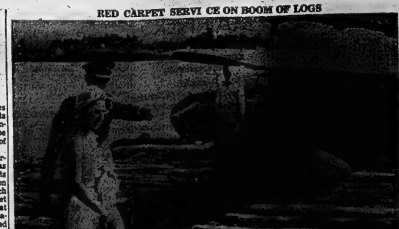
It is my earnest hope that through the United Nations Security Council steps can be taken in regard to the Middle East which, by making peace more secure there, will help promote it elsewhere.

In conclusion, I suggest that the permanent representatives of the members of the United Nations Security Council in New York should exchange views, under arrangements made by the secretary - general, to ascertain that a meeting of the kind and under conditions I suggest is generally acceptable. If so they should also agree upon a date which would be generally satisfactory. The date of July 31 would be too early for us.

I am today authorizing our own permanent representative to act in this sense.

Sincerely,
Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Moscow Warns Turkey Against Attack on Iraq



LONDON —(AP) — Moscow Radio says the Soviet Union has formally warned Turkey against attacking Iraq.

The broadcast, in the Turkish language, said a note to that effect was presented to Turkey on Friday.

Turkish circles at the United Nations in New York, commenting on the Soviet action, said: "This is nothing new, it should not be taken too seriously. A similar note of this kind was sent to Turkey during the last Syrian crisis in the U.N. Turkey has no plans of any kind to attack anybody."

Moscow Radio quoted the Kremlin note as saying that "according to reports the Turkish government is preparing to begin military operations against Iraq in a few days' time."

HOG PRODUCERS

Opposing producers argued that shipping their hogs to yards located direct to the packing plants meant higher handling costs and weight losses among hogs. They issued a leaflet saying they did not seek to throw out co-operative marketing but wanted to "open the door for re-organization, eliminating compulsion, under new personnel."

Since the producers voted 'in 1957 for collective action, the plan has given rise to several court actions aimed to overthrow it or aimed at producers who bypassed its provisions.

In one case a request was made to the Supreme Court of Ontario for an order prohibiting a magistrate from hearing charges under the province's marketing act. Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson granted the order, ruling the plan as it now stands was established without a vote of producers.

In another action, hog producer Theodore Parker of Sebringville went to the Supreme Court of Canada in 1957 in an effort to uphold his right to sell direct to packers. The court upheld the marketing plan in general but the provincial government was forced to make amendments.

Finding Reason Your Car Stalls May Take Time

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Stalling troubles plague y o ut Before you find out why, you may have to check out many possible causes.

As far as the ignition is concerned, look for dirty or burned breaker points — fouled or poorly gapped spark plugs, dirty, loose, corroded connections or terminals — defective condenser — sticking breaker arm — faulty coil — dirty or moisture-laden distributor cap.

Often a minor fuel system kink, such as low engine idle speed setting is to blame. Dirt or water in the fuel, a sticking choke and air leakage into the manifold will cause engine stalling . . . so will a binding or leaking carburetor float.

And, in hot weather months, of course, stalling and hard starting is very often due to the hot fuel conditions known as vapor lock and percolation.

From M. F.: "There is a clicking or tapping noise under the hood of my car and I'm sure it is coming from the fuel pump. Can this pump become noisy?"

(A) Yes — several things might cause it. A damaged rocker arm, spring or pin, or a loose pump are the usual suspects.

G. H. asks: "There's an oil stain around the seat of o n e spark plug but nothing around the other five. What should be done about this?"

(A) Oil can get around the well if the spark plug hasn't been tightened properly. Have y o u r garage do this if you don't have a torque wrench.

V. V. writes: "I believe my problem is on the unusual side. My engine always runs too cool — never any hotter than 120 or 125 degrees. What do you suggest?"

(A) Better have your temperature gauge checked.

From J. T.: "I drive a 4-cylinder foreign made car which needed a new oil pump recently. The garage bill listed a stiff labor charge which included removal of the engine. Isn't the pump installed in the oil p a n where it's accessible without taking off the engine?"

(A) On the model you own, the oil pump is installed on the rear of the camshaft, and to replace it requires removal of the engine.

SPORTS WRITER DIES

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Onesime Heroux, 60, veteran sports writer, columnist and translator with Le Nouvelliste, died Thursday after a lengthy illness. A newspaper man for more than 40 years, he was the brother of Omer Heroux, one of the founders of Montreal Le Devoir, and Hector Heroux of the editorial department of Le Nouvelliste.

Dairy Industry Most Important Farm Segment

GUELPH (CP)—Ontario Dairy Commissioner Everett M. Biggs says the dairy industry is the most important segment of agriculture in the province.

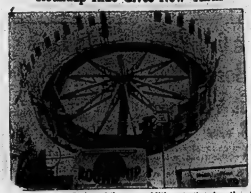
The industry is said to be the most regulated in the province. He said "the reason for this is that it is an essential food. Legislation has been brought on by demands of the general public. The improvements and conveniences have resulted because of attention of the public and because the industry is moving forward."

Mr. Biggs spoke to a banquet sponsored by the Ontario agricultural department for the 150 rural clergymen and their wives attending a school for rural clergy at the Ontario Agricultural College.

The dairy department works closely with both the producer and the consumer, he said. Ontario produces more than half the total milk in Canada, about 5,500,000,000 pounds yearly. There are 160,000 dairy farms of all sizes which process 2½ billion pounds.

CLERGY ASKED HELP

Mr. Biggs said despite the existence of four large producer groups and corresponding processor organizations, some farmers do not understand the facilities and help available to them. He urged the clergy to bring attention of such farmers that there are organizations that can help them. Fieldmen are willing to go to the farms and correspondence is welcomed.



The producer faces a problem now. Marketing legislation has been placed with the act for the producer to use. Producers as a group can market co-operatively but there are still a lot of farmers who want to act independently.

Some concern has been expressed in the requirement of fluid milk cooling tanks. However, Mr. Biggs said there has been a 26 per cent upward adjustment in milk production as result of this legislation. It means that many small producers have to get out of the business.

CLEAN UP FOR PRINCESS

TORONTO (CP)—The polluted Don River is to be cleaned up as part of an intensified drive to prepare the city for Princess Margaret's visit here July 31. Metro works commissioner W. H. Clark announced Thursday. City and railway officials have already started to remove weeds, pungent smells and broken fences in the east end Don Valley-Riverdale Park area.

Roundup Ride Gives New Thrill

The Roundup ride offers an entirely new thrill from other rides in that the riders all stand up instead of being seated. After the riders are standing around the outside of the giant cage it begins rotating. Faster and faster it whirls, and then the fun begins. The giant platform starts to tilt, still whirling, until it is straight up and down and the riders are actually facing the ground without falling. The sensation is of course terrific, but it is perfectly safe, because the ride is based on the principle of centrifugal force, and naturally the laws of gravity do not apply.

In addition to the new Roundup, Conklin Shows will of course have the time honored Merry-Go-Round and Ferris Wheel, and no midway would be complete without the twisting, twirling Tilt-a-Whirl.

Introduced by Conklin Shows last year, the sensational Scrambler will also prove to be a popular and interesting ride.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

OPTIMISTIC KINGBIRDS

Mr. and Mrs. Kingbird were both flying back and forth from one bank to the other across the outlet of the little Laurentian lake. What could they be doing? Each trip, a pause was made for an instant on the trunk of, I be dead tree that precariously overhung the water and stretched almost a quarter of the way to the other shore. Our eyes focused on the spot and, about 15 feet above the water with what seemed to be an untidy knot, vines and grasses drooping from it like some kind of drapery, "It's a nest!" we exclaimed simultaneously.

Sure enough, it was a nest, and what is more, it contained baby birds, because the parents were arriving alternately with what might have been a dragonfly or other large insect, its wings and legs protruding from the bill. So many trips in such a few minutes! There must be several babies, but we could not see into the nest and the sun was in our eyes. We must try from the other side.

QUITE CONTENTED

The kingbirds evidently knew they were safe, for they made no fuss as we passed quietly through the narrow passage into the lake beyond, turned the canoe around, and took our bearings. One parent was on the nest now, looking quite contented. What optimistic kingbirds! Their home could easily be touched with a paddle. We set our camera and paddled gently forward; but broken branches and tufts of grass growing in the water prevented us from coming close. No, it was impossible to get a glimpse of the babies; the nest was above the level of our eyes. However, we had a good view of a parent sitting on it.

Did you ever try to take a photograph from a canoe when the wind was blowing? Just as we were about to click the shutter a gust swirled our bow around, our distance was wrong again, and we were drifting backwards. The kingbird kindly remained put while we made one attempt after another, but were finally rewarded.

What had persuaded the pair to build in such a spot? Thinking back, we realized that they had dutifully intended the nest to be out of reach, but the weather had played tricks on them. The home must have been finished and the eggs laid shortly before the dreadful storm which caused the lake to rise four feet. Yet, how was it that the nest had survived that deluge? The optimistic kingbirds had been right in their judgment after all.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

If you're a Yankee fan this piece should tickle your wishbone. If you're a Casey-hater, turn the page and note what's going on at your favorite flicker house.

The Bombers from the Bronx, one of the most powerful machines ever welded by the ole perfesser, is rolling along at an incredible pace, blasting all who dare to offer any symptoms of opposition.

Yankee fans at home and abroad are rubbing their hands, chortling to themselves as the Stengel machine crushes American League foemen with almost monotonous regularity, and already visioning this year's pennant waving from the staff in Yankee Stadium.

But accustomed as he is to seeing the seven fee clubs eat his dust in the schedule race, Ole Casey is worried. This "How to Break up the Yankees" stuff is getting his goat. He does not think his Bombers raise the tirade they are getting from anti-Yankees all over the nation.

Casey who can double-talk the Queen's English with the same verbal dexterity that a way-back dyed-in-the-wool Brooklyn fans can "molder" it, was plainly irked the other day. The Ole Perfesser, who can blow his top or take a joke with the rest of them, was not in an amiable mood. A lot of talk about his Yankees steam-rollering the American League into a no-opposition affair has dug deeply under the Stengel epidermis. He was jest plain mad.

"Why is everybody mad at us?" he demanded. "Even some of my best friends are sore at me."

"What do they expect us to do, roll over and play dead? Draw up a chair and sit by the roadside until the rest crawls in. Sure, I admit we've won the seven other clubs in the American League. But why take it out on us?

"It's like I said to a man the other day," Casey went on. "He was a big man in pictures. You could tell he was a millionaire from the way he stood. He said to me, 'Casey, I'm a baseball fan, and a Yankee fan. But why do your Yankees have to be that good so we cannot have a pennant race?'

"I said to him, Well, mister, it's like this. You have made yourself a big success and your business is a big success. It would be that way no matter what your business was. If you ran a delicatessen store you would want that store to be the best delicatessen store in the your neighborhood and in your town. You wouldn't stop until it was.'

"Well, that's the way it is with the Yankees. We aim to be the best and we ain't never goin' to stop."

As one New York baseball expert puts it: "And that's about it. What's going on now is merely the swiftest growth of what was so clearly evident during spring training days last March. The baseball writers all wrote of the extraordinary well-rounded club Stengel was molding; of the intermingling of keystone combination of Tony Kubec and Gil McDougald; of two superb third basemen, Jerry Lumpe and Andy Carey, one of whom swings from the left, the other from the right.

"They would of an overpowering pitching staff — of an understudy of the great Yogi Berra in Elston Howard, who would be the first-string catcher on any other club—and a brilliant young outfielder, Norm Seibern who, very quietly, was just beginning to hit like Joe."

Yankee supporters claim the Bombers are a team George Weiss started to build years ago and what's to be done about it has everybody baffled. There is nothing the Yankees can do to make the race closer. Even that everybody would like to see a little closer competition.

Changing the rules would not help. They tried that back in 1940 and it didn't work. After the Yanks of that period had dreeled off four flags and world titles, they made a rule that prohibited a pennant-winner from making a trade during the enusing year.

What happened? That year the Detroit Tigers won it with a patched club. And if ever a team needed trades to keep it in business it was the Tigers. So they promptly set out and the Yankees were right back in business in 1941 starting a new parade of pennant-winners.

SOULD WIND IT UP TONIGHT

The Ox Pointers with two wins in their wigwam could wrap up their district league semi-finals bracket tonight when they entertain the fighting youngsters from the Trenton Legion.

The Legion entertainers will be fighting for survival this evening and you can depend on it, will go all out to prolong the series. Game starts at seven o'clock.

Four-Hits Tribe in 6-0 Win As Chisox Blank Boston 4-0; Braves, Cubs Split Verdicts

By Ed Wilks
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh's onetime patsy Pirates now are a bunch of bellbusters, leading the baleberos out of the ball in a drive for National League's first division.

They made it Friday night, smacking 16 hits, 10 for extra bases, while rookie righthander Curt Raydon pitched a four-hitter for his first major league shutout in a 10-0 breeze past San Francisco. It was the second shutout in a row for the second place Giants.

That gave the Pirates a four-game winning streak and a share of fourth with St. Louis. 6½ games behind first place Milwaukee and a half game shy of the third-place Chicago Cubs.

Milwaukee moved a full game ahead of the Giants again, winning their 4th in a split in a night pair with the Cubs. The Braves won 6-5 after a 2-4 defeat. St. Louis split with Cincinnati, winning the twi-night opener 5-4, then losing 8-2. Los Angeles rapped Philadelphia 7-3.

STRUCK OUT SEVEN

Raydon, who struck out seven, walked four for a 4-3 record with the Pirates. He got a big right-fielder Roberto Clemente got Raydon out of his only jam, nailing Willie Mays at the plate when the Giants managed two hits and two walks in the seventh.

Bob Skinner and Dick Groat each had three hits and two RBI apiece for the Pirates. Skinn socked homer (No. 8) building a 2-0 lead in the second inning, and Groat homered in the second inning.

The Cubs, leading the NL with 114 home runs ended their losing string at five games with three homers in the Reds' 8-2 win. Ted Kluszewski, Ernie Banks (his 27th) and ex-Brave Sammy Taylor did the bombing.

WINS HIS FIRST

Juan Pizarro, from Wichita, won his first decision of the year with a nine-hit job in the nightcap. Joe Adcock was 3-for-3, driving in two runs and Hank Aaron hit his first homer for the Braves.

Both games were decided in the ninth at St. Louis. Don Newcombe, whose only victories are a pair over the Cards, lost his 12th by yielding a line-breaking run home with two out in the first-game ninth.

A wild, sacrifice and an error broke a 2-2 tie for the Redlegs in the night-cap ninth. Bob Purkey, hitting his major league high, won his 12th.

Ray Jablonski drove a 2-0 lead in the eighth, then scored five in the ninth. Jackie Collum singled for two and Don. Zimmer tripled for two.

Detroit Club Favored to Win Henley

By Ron Andrews
Canadian Press Staff Writer

POINT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP) Detroit Boat Club is on the verge of breaking the four-year monopoly Buffalo West Side and St. Catharines Rowing Club have held in the Senior championship of the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Going into today's windup program, Detroit had 113.75 points to 91.5 for second-place West Side. New York Athletic Club was third with 83.5.

Brockville Rowing Club was fourth, a half point behind New York. Ecorse (Mich.) Boat Club was next with 77 points and host Club St. Catharines dropped from second to sixth with 58 points.

Riders Reduce Squad by 13

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League Friday cut six imports and seven Canadians from their roster.

A surprise cut was that of Fay Mitchell, a Canadian halfback who scored a touchdown in Riders' intra-squad game Thursday night.

Other imports dropped were Don Overlock, Bob White, Chuck Stanley, Rocco Cinelli and Fred Polzer.

Canadians cut were Ed Moorjadian, George Mombery, Mitchell, Tom Unwin, Bob Carbig, John Bennett and Paul Bolsay.

Just a couple of weeks ago, it appeared this was going to be the year Whitey Ford finally won 20. Now it looks as if the stubby southpaw one of the New York Yankees might bundle up the American League shutout and earned-run titles, too.

He lowered his ERA to 1.68 with a third consecutive shutout Friday night, blanking Cleveland on four hits for a 6-0 victory that gave him a 9-5 record and pushed the Yankees into a 14½-game lead, their largest yet.

Ford, who beat Chicago White Sox 5-0 on three hits and Kansas City 8-0 with a five-hitter while running his string of scoreless innings to 27, now leads the majors with six shutouts. That's his one-year high.

While the Yankees won their 59th in a row, the White Sox moved off second place Boston 4-0 on Dick Donovan's eight-hitter. Baltimore moved within a game of the Red Sox by whipping Kansas City 8-3. Washington clipped Detroit 6-4.

YIELDS FEW HITS

Ford, 29, gave up a third-inning double to Jim Piersall and two singles to Rocky Colavito (in the fifth), pinch-hitter Minnie Minoso (in the seventh) and Fred Brown (in the ninth). He walked but two, fanned six.

Donovan now is 7-10 with his fourth consecutive victory, fifth straight game without a setback and shutout. Three double plays helped him out of trouble.

Right-hander Arnie Portocarrero, whose best winning year was a 9-18 season with the Athletics, is 5-3 with a 3.91 ERA.

Baltimore's Gus Triandos socked his 20th homer off Connie Johnson and Toronto's Rudy Minarcin.

Frank Herrera walked to open the inning. Woody Smith hit a single to right and Herrera raced to third. Smith stole second. With first base open, manager Dick Williams decided to walk Bert Hamric to set up a possible double play.

Micelotta looked at one ball, then smashed his game-winning home run.

Royals, Leafs Take It on Chin; Red Wings Win

By The Associated Press

A scroll containing the tragedy of Bill Bethel's black pitching record was burned at home plate in Memphis last night.

Bethel, a strapping Texan, who showered with horseshoes, rabbits' feet and other good luck charms. An Indian chief sent word that he was casting an evil eye on Rochester Red Wings from his teepee on the Mataqoui River.

All this was supposed to help Bethel snap out of his losing baseball streak with the International League Richmond Virginians. Nothing worked.

Bethel lost a 4-3 decision to the Red Wings in the second game of a doubleheader. His record: 14 defeats, three wins.

The Red Wings won the opener 5-3 with a five-run outburst in the fifth inning when they were trailing by three runs. Meanwhile, Havana Sugar Kings defeated Montreal Royals 5-4, Columbus Jets shut out Buffalo Bisons 2-0 and Toronto Maple Leafs beat Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0.

IN THE NINTH

Nino Escalera hit a two-out single in the ninth inning, to give Havana victory. His hit followed a double by Jim Colamarino which tied the score 4-4.

Escalera got his 19th home run for Montreal.

Whammy Douglas posted his second shutout and eighth win and his 11th of the season as he blanked a four-hitter Columbus. His second shutout of the year was jogged at the expense of Hillis Layne. Bip Coleman, who gave up only six hits in the seven innings he pitched.

Bob Micelotta, .227 hitter, unloaded a grand - slam homer in the fifth inning off Curt Simmons to beat Leafs. The blow ended a scoreless pitching duel between John Anderson and Toronto's Rudy Minarcin.

Fresh Herrera walked to open the inning. Woody Smith hit a single to right and Herrera raced to third. Smith stole second. With first base open, manager Dick Williams decided to walk Bert Hamric to set up a possible double play.

Micelotta looked at one ball, then smashed his game-winning home run.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Miller Had the Foeman 'Put' Snyder Won It by a Foot

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Big Ed Miller may turn poet and write an ode to Referee Bert Maxwell. It would be no use.

It would probably be a modern paraphrase of Gunga Din's famous "In His Blindness".

Or the old adage, "Give him enough rope and he'll hang himself."

For the ropes proved Large Wilbur's saviour on not few occasions in his main bout with popular Walter Snyder last night — and by the same token they were his undoing.

For Maxwell whose eyesight was the subject amidst a perimeter of two-feet, erred grievously in the third fall when he awarded Big Bill the fall and match.

William had Wilbur flatter than a swimmer's wallet in the third heat after the pair had split the first two falls.

What William and Albert did not know at the time was that Wilbur had one of his pinkies curled over and about the ropes. Albert counted three, raised William's hand and started a near riot.

A crowd of protesting fans surged to the ringside waving their arms and shouting their disgust at the decision.

So emphatic was the protest that Master Maxwell decided they were right and promptly changed his decision.

He signalled to the triumphant Big Bill who was strutting about the ring on his way to the dressing room, ignoring the Maxwellian armwaving, and gave Miller the nod and grimacing at the fans.

Then he decided something was wrong and he and started to peel his way back to the ring. Meantime, Albert had been congratulated at William's apparent unwillingness to return and started to leave.

Unfortunately for the middle aged Miller the fans and Maxwell's arms were pumping faster than his feet. He arrived at ringside just in time to see Maxwell hoist Snyder's arm aloft in token of victory — and that was that.

Miller, playing strongly on one of Snyder's legs, handed out some stiff punishment to the eagle youngster before he forced him to say "uncle" in the first fall. He again went for the leg in the second but Snyder clamped his abdominal stretch on the 270 - pounder — and that equalled matters.

Little Beaver and his new buddy, Tito Infanta, a Spanish type with Fuzzy Cupid and Ski-Lo-Lo formalizing the "bad guys" roles, again put on an hilarious show that had another large crowd in stitches. Beaver had them standing with his acrobatic antics while an occasional slap to the official puss did not hurt matters any. The Indian and pal won the fall after twenty minutes after Beaver had released Rosco* and pinned Ski-Lo-Lo in a body press.

Ed. Miller, close relation of Big Bill, upheld the family honor in the preliminary by pinning Leo Garibaldi after eighteen minutes of fast but rough action.

Argos Squad Cut by 13

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Hamp Pool has sliced his Toronto Argonaut football squad to workable size in announcing the release Friday of 13 players.

Twelve of them left Friday as cuts with the import tackle Sam DeLuca, left voluntarily. The Big Four squad now is down to 40 players, a number Pool feels he and his coaching staff can handle better.

A former all-American at the University of South Carolina, DeLuca came to Argos from the National League New York Giants near the end of last season and sparked them to four wins in their last seven games.

Pool said DeLuca approached him Friday and suggested he would like his release. When he didn't show for practice the club assumed he had left.

Australians Clinch Empire Games Swimming Title

Smash Every Standing Mark To Win Eleven Gold Medals; Canadians Second in Medley

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — Welshmen blazed the British Empire Games a food goodbye today although they probably still are wondering what all the hurry was about.

Record after record was drowned in the Empire Pool or trampled into the just-laid Cardiff Arms Park cinder track this week. The pool probably took the worst beating. When the six-night swimming program ended Friday night, there wasn't a Games record left, vital Swimmers filled all the places on the victory rostrum.

EACH A TWO-MEDALLEATER.

Each one who accepted a medal from the prince was the world leader in his event. Number, Ilsa Konrads, the chunky 16-year-old redhead who is set to become the greatest swimmer the sport has ever known. In seven pool places at routine pace Dawn Fraser, 20- year old Adelaide girl, Australia's fast- est at 110 yards and chubby Lorraine Crapp, defending champion at 440 yard breast-hoker for the 440 who won third place and the bronze medal.

Lorraine's record still is secure as. Ilsa was clocked in four minutes, 44.4 seconds, more than a second slower than Miss Crapp's 4:43.3 at Vancouver.

Ilsa Konrad's victory along with Miss Crapp's on Friday night clinched the Games swimming title for the Australians who sent a contingent of the 18 events to receive gold medals during the week. That's the number their sand they would win in swimming weeks ago,—but they have to add another medal for a goal of 40 champions in the nine-sport games.

The 40 race gave them 22, three more than England, and only nine fellows needed to be decided today—eight in track and field and the 100 mile race.

CANADA LOOKS POOR.

But it was astounding compared to Canada. The Aussies, with a total team personnel of 109 against Canada's 96, make the Canadians appear a sickly ragtag. The Canadian total, including one silver and two bronze medals, made it nine silver and 15 bronze to add to the gold medals they got by the opening night at Lake Padarn Tuesday.

Four world records and more than 30 Games records were smashed in the opening Friday night the Aussies broke one world smark—in the men's 440 medley relay and the girls' crapp came up with a double world record performance.

Canada finished second as the Australian quartet of John Monckton, Terry Gathercole, Brian Wilkinson and John Devitt captured the world record time of 4:14.2. The previous mark was 4:19 set by the same four- some earlier this year.

BEAT ENGLAND

Canada's team of Bob Wheaton, Victoria; Peter Bell, Winnipeg; George Park, Hamilton, and Percival Cowan, Grosse Point, Mich., England for second place in 4:18.3-1.

Just 30 minutes before, Wheaton appeared surprised when he placed third in the men's 110 - yard backstroke. Monckton's new world record- holder who broke the Games mark of 1:06.5 earlier in the week, won in 1:04.7, followed by fellow Aussie John Hayes.

Australia's six champions in swimming, thrilled the crowd in the women's 440 with a world smark of 4:44.4. Australia was second and Canada third.

The English girls, led by Judy Grinham, world 110 backstroke record-holder, clipped three tenths off his time set by a Dutch foursome in 1957, Australia was second 4:55, also better than the world mark, and Canada third in 5:01.2.

CANADIANS LAG

Of the women's medley, the Canadians finished about 15 yards back of the Australian and English women. The Canadians were Sara Barber, Brantford, Ont.; Irene Service, Vancouver; Margaret Iwasaki, Vancouver, and Gladys Priestley, Verdun, Que.

Bill Slater was fourth in the 1,500-yard freestyle with a time of 18:31.4, better than a minute behind the winner, Jon Konrads of Australia in 17:45.4, a Games record. Hamilton's Irene Mac-Donald, silver medalist for her freestyle spot in the springboard diving earlier in the week, finished fourth in the event finally won by Charmian Welsh of England, also the springboard champion.

B. E. Games Standing

CARDIFF (CP) England picked up points in 17 of the 21 events run off at Cardiff today and virtually clinched the unofficial team championship of the 1958 British Empire Games.

Australia is certain of finishing second no matter who can position but would have to finish about one- two in all of the events scheduled for the final day Saturday to have any chance of overtaking her British and English squad.

On the basis of a 10-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finishers, the Canadian team is lying in fourth position after today's team standings with 180 points. England has 327½, Australia 439 and South Africa 248.

Coaches Expect New Rule To Open Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's pro football coaches expect a new rule extending unlimited blocking will open up the game and at least one coach says it's a move towards the unlimited blocking used in the United States.

The rule, adopted at 24 Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting in Toronto last March, allows downfield blocking to the third five-yard stripe in advance of the line of scrimmage. Formerly the limit was 10 yards from the scrimmage line. The change means that in some cases blocking will be allowed for 15 yards.

Although some say it will unbalanced, most coaches in the Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union welcome the "third stripe rule," ah it has been helpful and, therefore, will aid the game, say coaches.

"It will probably help to open up the Canadian game," says coach Hampton Pool of Toronto Argonauts. "Defensive teams will better runs and that's one of the things we like to see."

Pool says he favors unlimited blocking "and we may be moving toward it."

NOT AS EFFECTIVE

Terry Evanshen thinks wide end runs will not be nearly as effective under the new rule. He sees no hope for the passing game.

Hap Shouldice of Montreal, eastern representative for national football commissioner C. S. Hart, feels the new rule is designed to ease the problem of manning the backfield and ought to help both officials and players.

Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders is enthusiastic about the change. "It should open the game up."

Quarterback Cornel Kennedy of Montreal Alouettes is still awaiting reaction from his players. "I like players like it and they understand it this will help the offense. We've got to study it and see how it operates."

CARDIFF (CP) — Australia reaped a harvest of six gold medals and British Empire Games Friday but it still wasn't enough.

The Aussies, who predicted they would cart off golden trinkets back home, now have 25 salted away. The total is three more than that of England, but with only 10 events remaining they must fall at least five short of their pre-Games forecast.

A Helping Hand for the Beginner

Each year we see them, looking at bait hooks in the sporting goods stores. No trouble to spot them, almost at once. The questions they ask, the sales talk they listen to with interest, the way they handle tackle, are things they have all signs point in one direction. They are the beginners, best on "taking up" fishing.

The next place you spot them is on the lakes and streams. Few, if any, of them have taken the trouble to learn how to use their new tackle. They simply peel their nice shiny gear into the car and go fishing, hoping for the best. They don't catch very many fish.

It is not the purpose of this discussion to criticize the beginner. Rather, it is an attempt to lend a helping hand, thereby to add to the pleasure, enjoyment and relaxation to be found in fishing. For it is very much worth while to learn all you can about it.

First of, it is not a wise thing for a newcomer at angling to purchase his tackle without some advice and guidance from one who has had experience. That way you get fitted out with the gear you should have. No use to handicap yourself with inadequate tackle.

Once you have your tackle, learn how to use it. Don't attempt to do this by yourself. Bad casting habits are easily learned, and, once acquired, they are difficult to lose. It is best to ask a friend who is an expert caster to teach you the fundamentals. Then have him check your casting from time to time until it's second nature. That way you can't go very far wrong.

BE PREPARED

The reason behind the insistence on learning to cast, at least passably well, is that you are not are fishing by yourself, often you find those valuable spots where the fish are feeding and taking lures eagerly. Then, if your casting is not what it should be, you will miss a great deal of sport simply because you are not prepared to take advantage of good fortune.

Should you be fishing from a boat, bad casting places a penalty not only on your self but on your partner as well. After all, fishing a shore line from a boat is a partnership affair. You want to fish as while the other handles the boat. Surely it is unfair to practice casting on the other man's time.

So many beginners seem to have a dread of fishing alone. We see so much of that here in Pennsylvania, especially on our larger trout streams. Beginners congregate at the most accessible location areas — bridges, good parking spaces, spots where cars can be placed within easy walking distance—from the stream. There they huddle, like McCormick, San Francisco lemmings elbow-to-elbow, while miles of equally good trout water go unfished day after day.

Another trade mark of the beginner is his tendency to stand on top of a large rock in order to do his casting. This is true both of streams and lakes. Actually, casting is much easier from an elevated position, but the novice lobby perch places the angler in full view of every fish within

There are many good books on fishing, every sort of fishing. All of them make interesting reading. All right, go to your public library and get some of them. The time you spend digesting the information on their pages will be well-spent indeed. You can learn plenty how much about fishing, and never be bored at the same time.

Angling etiquet is something that is rapidly disappearing from our lakes and streams these days. Time was, quite some years ago, that there was a hard-and-fast code of courtesy among anglers. Anyone fishing a pool in a trout stream or a stretch of shore line in a lake was entitled to fish that water to his heart's content, with no interference from others.

THE GOLDEN RULE

Today, courtesy, to most anglers, is merely a word in the dictionary and "fair play" is merely a pool" in a trout stream — fishing to be had while the fish recover from alarm caused by disturbance and start feeding once more,

Dutchmen on Fence in Senior Hockey

KITCHENER (CP)—Directors of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association NOHA say they do not know whether the hockey club will operate next season.

They decided not to commit themselves until a satisfactory contract has been reached with the Kitchener Auditorium.

The league had set Aug. 1 as the date by which clubs must say definitely whether they would operate. Dutchies had an operating loss last year of $6,300.

The auditorium commission has indicated it will decide by Aug. 14 whether to accept a new rent proposal made by the club. The Dutchmen are asking an 80-20 split of league game revenue.

TV MOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

The sudden spate of western programs to hit the TV airlanes the past few seasons has introduced many fans to the fast draw artists of a bygone era.

In case you follow the cactus circuit but can't keep straight between a "Road Agent Spin" or a "Pinwheel", here is a rundown on a few gun-handling tricks of the Old West: The Pinwheel, for example, is merely the act of spinning a gun more than two times. The Road Agent Spin, the art of holding onto a gun with the trigger finger while seemingly handing it over. Fetch is a term denoting a straight draw. The Border Shift is a two gun draw and calls for emptying one gun and simultaneously flipping guns from hand to hand and emptying the second gun with the shooting hand.

Actually, we're not too handy with six-shooters at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, but when it comes to handling the tools necessary to putting your set in top condition that's another story. You can expect careful, thorough work and low repair costs when you deal with CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 503 Dundas St. Phone WO 8-6791, in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Windsor Dogs File Petition For Bankruptcy

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs hockey club has filed a petition for bankruptcy, Col. Charles Sale, official receiver in bankruptcy, said Friday.

The action on behalf of the Senior A club in the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association, was initiated by A. E. (Tony) Wisne of Detroit, owner of the club for the last two years.

A month ago a Supreme Court action against the club was filed by the Bank of Montreal and Eastern Canadian Greyhound Lines. The Supreme Court action is for debts amounting to approximately $8,000.

The team franchise now will revert to the OHA. Bill Butcher, Windsor Arena owner has said he sold the Windsor team to Wisne in 1956, said he anticipated formation of a new company.

OFFERED GARDEN BOOT

TORONTO (CP)—George Chuvalo of Toronto has been offered a main bout in New York's Madison Square Garden in September, co-manager Tommy McBeigh said Friday. The offer, from the International Boxing Club, is for a 10-rounder with national television coverage. The opponent for Chuvalo, 10th-ranking heavyweight, has not been determined.

Ann Sothern Will Produce And Star in New TV Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Ann Sothern and Lucille Ball were walking together along a street at Desilu Studios.

"Don't you get a funny feeling in this place," said Lucille, gazing around her.

"I sure do," said Ann. "We used to be starlets together when the studio was RKO. Now you own the place and I'm a producer."

Lucille and her husband, Desi Arnaz, became owners of the studio through the success of I Love Lucy and their other TV ventures.

Now Ann, with one successful TV series behind her, is blossoming out with another.

"Yes, I'm going to produce the series myself," she said. "I don't know exactly how I got into this. I'm really more interested in what I'm doing before the camera than with worries about scripts, dressing rooms, casting and so forth."

But she's plunging right into the new series. It's called The Ann Sothern Show.

"I think we have great prospects for a powerhouse lineup on CBS Monday nights. First will come Father Knows Best, then Danny Thomas and my show, followed by Desilu Playhouse."

SET IN HOTEL

Ann plays the assistant manager at a swank hotel. There are several wacky continuing characters. And since it's a hotel, there's no end to the new figures who can be introduced.

Among those who are already scheduled to sign the register are Lucy and Desi themselves.

The new series will find Ann on TV very week, while she used to alternate with Jack Benny with Private Secretary. She'll have to film 32 shows, and that will keep her hopping until next March.

"I've got a beautiful house waiting for me in Sun Valley, but I won't get to see it except for a three-week vacation," she sighed.

Half-Village Goes on Trial In Kentucky

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—Half the population of Smith, Ky., goes on trial next week.

There are nine defendants, eight of them related. A 10th resident of Smith (population 19) is sought on a moonshine charge.

Charges began three years ago to drunken driving.

Six men sided of the law after the home of Walter Daniels burned. His stepdaughter, Jessie Setliff, was charged with arson. She accused him of shooting at her feet. He faces charges of malicious shooting.

Four of Mrs. Daniels' relatives were charged in the arson case. In another case, Mrs. Daniels' aunt is charged with malicious shooting and her aunt, Mrs. Rosie Stevens, in a cutting and wounding case.

Meb Middleton, a cousin, is charged with drunken driving and his son, Maynard, is sought on a federal moonshine warrant.

All, except Maynard, will be tried by Judge Cam Smith—of Harlan.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mrs. F. Stapley, Beverly, Eddie and Billy, Madoc Junction, spent the week-end with the former's mother, Mrs. Cyrus Summers.

Mrs. Milton Hagerman returned to her home at Carmel on Sunday.

Miss Dawn Hubel is spending the summer months at Presqu'ile.

Mr. and Mrs. John Carlisle recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Neal.

Mrs. Lemuel Sharp, Ridge Road, spent Sunday at Mount Pleasant and attended the morning church service.

Mrs. Arthur Sharp attended a W. A. executive meeting at Albert College, Belleville.

Mrs. Meadius, Mrs. Hankford, visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson on Monday, on the occasion of their wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy, Wellman, spent Sunday at Mount Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. William Korrie and family, of Ballimary, Maryland, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson.

Miss Joyce Bailey and Mr. F. Bailey, of Consecon, attended the morning service at Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Luella Brooks, of Prince Albert, Sask., is holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brooks, at Carmel.

Mr. Robert Donnan was in charge of the morning service at Mount Pleasant Rawdon as the minister was on vacation. Robert is well known as he attended Sunday School at Mount Pleasant while visiting relatives when he was a small boy.

Guests attended the service from Wellmans, Carmel, Madoc Junction and Ridge Road. Mrs. Mac Sharp officiated at the piano for the hymns.

Robert gave a forceful message on "The Power of Jesus' Love."

Douglas and Donnie Potts are holidaying in Northport with their uncle, Rosemary Mills.

Rawdon folk were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when they went to the village to shop. The various store keepers were all dressed in the mode-date panama centennial hats which looked smart. This new headgear was popular both inside and outside the stores. A special identification button will be the main attraction this weekend.

Quebec Hydro Defends Sale Of Gas System

MONTREAL (CP)—The president and commissioners of the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission today defended Hydro's sale of its Montreal household gas distribution system to the privately-owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

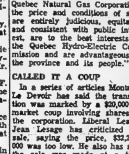
In a prepared statement they said:

"It is the unequivocal and conscientious opinion of the signatories of this statement that the sale of its manufactured gas enterprise by Hydro-Quebec to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, the price and conditions of sale are entirely judicious, equitable and consistent with public interest, are to the best interests of the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission and are advantageous to the province and its people."

CALLED IT A COUP

In a series of articles Montreal Le Devoir has said the transaction was marked by a $30,000,000 market coup involving shares of the corporation. Liberal leader Jean Lesage has criticized the sale, saying the price, $52,275,000 was too low. He also has said the sale was made at a time when, with the advent of natural gas, the gas business of Quebec province could have been greatly expanded.

In their statement, the hydro officials said hydro's main concern is the production and distribution of electrical energy and the development of hydraulic resources—"energy and resources that belong to the province and are subject to its full control."



The statement described hydro's gas enterprise as a secondary activity. The enterprise was "dependent upon raw materials of foreign source and upon other factors of equally foreign nature —American coal and its transportation from the United States to Montreal."

District Farmer Offers 300 Acres for Airport

By DON HARVEY

Last week's column which attempted to interest a group of citizens in probing the possibilities of building a public airport in the Quinte district resulted in an offer of 300 acres of land for the site.

A district farmer, who will remain unidentified for a time, approached me early this week and offered to sell 300 acres of his farmland. The land is situated on the north side of Highway 2 between Belleville and Trenton. He said that before RCAF Station Trenton was built in the late 1920s and early 1930s, his land had been considered for the air station.

As the crow flies, this man's farm is about three miles east of the air station. It is flat land with some timber and bush growing here and there. Certainly 300 acres ought to be a large enough parcel of land for a start.

It appears as though the bell has started to roll.

LODA COMMENT

Robert G. Hamilton, secretary of Zone 3 of the Lake Ontario Development Association, commented on the survey of district businesses and industries which the Association recently conducted last winter. It would conduct. Mr. Hamilton said the survey is by no means completed, although because of factory shut downs and vacation schedules, some phases of it are more or less static at present.

Late last week Mr. Hamilton sent out questionnaires to numerous businessmen, merchants and industrialists in and around Belleville soliciting their interest in a public airport. Several replies have already been received, he said, and most of them are favorable. A few city merchants have said that although they themselves would have no use for airport facilities, other than perhaps for taking the occasional jaunt to a city, they are behind the project one hundred per cent.

WHAT $4,000,000?

The same farmer who offered to sell his land for a public airport was curious about why such CF-105 Arrow will cost about $4,000,000 to build. The Arrow, you may recall, has been the subject of heated debates in the Commons at Ottawa and in other quarters. The federal government is expected to decide some time this year whether to order the twin-turbojet interceptor into full production for service in RCAF squadrons.

Modern fighter aircraft cannot be built as cheaply as World War II fighters if they are to cope with high speed, high altitude enemy planes. Almost everyone realizes that Russia has some very advanced bomber and fighter aircraft. For that reason, then, Canadians must develop an interceptor that is capable of engaging enemy bombers and fighters on an equal or better footing. It would be folly for Canadians to believe that a future global war would be fought in Europe and Asia. Unfortunately, because the United States is in the most powerful nation in the Western world, a Third World War will be fought in Canada and the U.S. Why are there three continental radar picket lines in Canada's northland? To give us warning of aerial invaders coming over the North Pole, of course.

The distance between Russia and the United States is shortened considerably by flying the polar route.

SOME FACTS

But why will each supersonic CF-105 cost an estimated $4,000,000? To begin with, the 105 will be powered by two Orenda-built Iroquois turbojet engines with after-burners.

The refrigeration system in each plane will produce the same cooling effect as 50 household air-conditioners. And the number of tubes in the complex maze of electronic equipment could operate 300 television sets.

These remarkable engineering achievements are bound in a flying platform 50 feet from wing tip to wing tip and some 80 feet long by 21 feet high. Gross weight of this aircraft, which will carry a pilot and radar-navigator sitting in tandem, will be over 30 tons, approximately the same weight as one of Trans-Canada Airline's 40 passenger Viscounts.

Perhaps calling an aircraft a flying platform sounds odd. But that is exactly what the CF-105 is, regardless of its sleek lines. It will carry radar equipment which will automatically lock the plane onto its target and fire the missiles at the correct range and deflection — all without requiring the use of a man crew to even sight the enemy.

What truth there is in it? I do not know, but several informed people have said that the CF-105's predecessor, the CF-100 Mark V, packs the same destructive power in its 104 rockets as a Second World War battleship. Imagine, then, the destructive potential of a CF-105 carrying Sparrow air-to-air missiles.

A REMINDER

Although this column is only two weeks old today and the editor's note which prefaced the first column is probably still fresh in your memory, perhaps you have neglected to record some questions regarding a particular aspect of aviation. Jot them down on a slip of paper and send them in. It may take time, but your questions will be answered in this column, if possible.

Your Second Crop of Vegetables

By FLORA M. RAVILLE

As soon as the first vegetables are pulled use the space for a second crop of a different type. Give extra space to a wider variety of salad plants. Have you tried the new Ruby lettuce. This was a bronze medal winner in the All-American awards. The leaves are deep rich crimson, a real addition to the salad bowl. Other good varieties are Bibb, Great Lakes, Matchless and Bronze Beauty, an oak leaf type with red-brown leaf edges.

Soak the seeds in ice water, or freeze over night to sprout a few days in hot weather. Make a portable lath screen to shade the seedlings. Feed lettuce with side dressings of balanced fertilizer which has a high nitrogen content. This type fertilizer is good for all leafy vegetables such as cabbage, broccoli, swiss chard, rhubarb and parsley.

Feed peppers, tomatoes, squash, melons, cucumbers with side dressings of fertilizers which are low in nitrogen and high in phosphorus and potash, for an abundance of large fruits.

Mid-July is the time to plant Chinese cabbage. This is a good fall vegetable to be used cooked or in salads, crisp texture and delicate flavor. Broccoli too is best in the fall when many of the summer vegetables are passed. It can be cut for weeks and will stand several frosts. Early purple head is good. No color change to green when it is cooked.

Brussel sprouts are easy to grow and extend the fall vegetables by many weeks. They can be pulled late in the fall and stacked. With a light covering they can be kept on into early winter. Grow as cabbage; dust or spray to discourage cabbage worms. They need 115 days to mature.

Plant beets and carrots soon for winter use. Detroit Dark Red is good for pickling and keeping. Red Core Chantenay or Imperator carrots are crisp and tender. If you have difficulty keeping these vegetables in heated basements dig a pit in the fall, line it well with leaves and cover with more leaves and one foot of soil. store your carrots and beets until January or February. They will be as crisp as when first dug. Vegetable oyster (salsify) and parsnips can be stored in the same way.

There is still time to plant cucumbers for table and pickling. Stokes Hybrid, a good table type, take 56 days. Double Yield pickling and Yorkstate are good pickling kinds and are resistant to mosaic and mildew.

If you have room for another crop of wax beans choose Round Pod Kidney Wax. This is built for hot weather growing, good for canning and freezing. Kinsman Wax is also good.

If you plan to grow celery for winter harvesting choose Utah No. 15. Crisp green stocks stand up well to blanching and growing leaves do not mottle. Emerson Special is recommended where blight has been troublesome.

A small section of the garden given over to herbs can provide extra flavor for many dishes. Start with a few and add others as your until you have found the ones that please the family. Among the best liked are parsley, summer savory, caraway, dill, Florence fennel, sage, chives, sweet marjoram and thyme.

Will Maintain Baghdad Pact Says Macmillan

Opens Meet in London of 4 Remaining Members

LONDON (AP)—British Prime Minister Macmillan today opened the Baghdad pact council meeting without Iraq "present and announced that the remaining four member nations "intend to maintain the aims" of their alliance.

The British leader told the conference, which U.S. Secretary of State Dulles is attending as an observer, that "we have all suffered a great loss in the violent deaths of His Majesty King Faisal and of our other staunch friends and allies."

"We intend to maintain the aims of our alliance and to consider how to do this in the light of the present situation," Macmillan added.

"While we are necessarily faced with many difficulties, we do not, I am sure, mean to face them save with courage and to-gether. . . ."

COLLECTIVE SECURITY

"Our purpose is to reaffirm the intentions and principles of the instrument (the Baghdad pact as a means for collective security)," he told the first meeting with the prime ministers and foreign secretaries of the Turkish, Pakistan and Iran as well as Dulles.

Iraq, the only Arab member of the anti-Communist alliance, has been withdrawn from the treaty but appears unlikely to play much if any part in the organization in the future. However, growing tendency within the governments of the Iraqi people and the Baghdad group is reported the Iraqi regime was re-

Some of the tasks facing the current council meeting are:

1. A reappraisal of future operations in the light of Iraq's expected withdrawal. This involves changing the name, the headquarters, and the military and economic program.

DOCUMENTS STUDIED

2. An assessment of the significance of Soviet-pulled Iraq's possession of most of the allies' political secrets. The Iraqis submitted many of the important military and political documents formulated for the defence of the region when they took over the Baghdad pact headquarters building from the Iraqi capital.

3. An examination of the prospects for greater co-operation of the Russians throughout the Middle East.

4. Formulation of a common attitude — probably involving recognition of Iraq — and the new government in Baghdad. The U.S., British and Pakistan are reported to acknowledge the new Iraqi leaders as the effective rulers of the country, but Turkey is less inclined to do so.

5. Discussion of the political feasibility of coming to some sort of terms with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic. The United States and Britain have been thinking of trying for the return of normal relations with the Arab nationalist leader to reorganization of Iraq's dependence on Russia.

Waitresses Ask Boost in Wages, Now 47 Cents

KINGSTON (CP — Thirty-one employees of the Terminal Restaurant went on strike Monday protesting dismissal of three fellow-employees.

They also charged an "alleged" anti-union attitude on the part of their employer, Miersel Novak, who leases the restaurant from Colonial Coach Lines.

Valerie Rutkan, spokesman for the strikers, members of the United Hotel Workers of America, said: "Mr. Novak was trying to make us all quit because we wanted to join the union."

The union was certified July 18.

Miss Rutkan said the waitresses are seeking an increase to their hourly wage, now 47 cents; time off on holidays, weekends and overtime pay.

Mr. Novak said he opposes hiring union workers until 75 per cent of the restaurant employees in the city are union members.

HAMILTON HAS OWN CRITICISMS THROWN AT HIM

Postmaster-General Defends Service

OTTAWA (CP — Postmaster-General William Hamilton had bumped hard into the same kind of Commons criticism of the postal department that he dished out as a member of the opposition.

The once caustic critic of Liberal post office policy took it on the chin for nearly five hours Saturday.

Liberal and CCF members came well-armed with extracts from speeches made by Mr. Hamilton when he was chief opposition spokesman on the affairs of the department he now heads.

They aimed a barrage of questions at the minister asking him why he hadn't introduced twice-a-day mail delivery service in Canada. He had asked for it often in opposition.

Mr. Hamilton said he began to change his mind while in opposition on the virtues of twice-daily delivery.

The step was "not now warranted." There had been general public dissatisfaction in earlier years but householders now appear satisfied. Besides, the change would cost taxpayers $6,000,000 annually.

SECOND TO NONE"

Mr. Hamilton described Canada's postal service as second to none in the world as he introduced his department's $181,600,-000 budget for the current fiscal year. He said his past criticisms had been directed at former Liberal ministers rather than postal employees.

There had been no change in his attitude, improvements had been made, and he had traveled across the line since taking office last year, seeking ways to better service.

Attendance during the Saturday session was low. At 5 p.m. EDT there were only 41 members—33 Progressive Conservatives, six Liberals and two CCFers in the chamber. There are 207 Progressive Conservatives, 48 Liberals, eight CCF and two vacancies in the 265-seat House.

SUSPENDS AUDIENCES

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The Pope has again suspended his Sunday audiences. Vatican officials said Sunday night the next audience would be in town until Aug. 10. Two weeks ago, after the Iraqi revolution, Pope Pius suspended private audiences to give himself more time to study reports on troubled international situation.

Member of Swedish Royal Family Seeks to Buy Kingdom in Caribbean

LONDON (Reuters) — A member of the Swedish royal family was reported Sunday to be negotiating to buy a Caribbean kingdom.

The London Sunday Express named him as Count Bertil Bernadotte, 33, cousin of Prince Karl and nephew of the Swedish throne.

The kingdom is being offered for sale for $3,000 by an Irish poet, 46 - year - old John Gawsworth.

His kingdom is the island of Redonda, in the Leeward group of Caribbean, inhabited by 100 natives and many birds. Its sole industry is selling guano.

Gawsworth inherited the title from an Irish trader named Matthew Shiel who landed there a century ago. Shiel declared himself king and the colonial office did not dispute his title.

Gawsworth gave himself the title of King Juan but found the upkeep of kingship too heavy recently and advertised the island for sale.

He received nearly 200 replies but the one which interested him most came from Count Bertil Bernadotte, whose father was the United Nations mediator assassinated in Palestine.

"I can't afford the luxury of being king," Gawsworth said. "I haven't the money to keep body and crown together."

Woodward, about 30, son of a prominent B.C. family. (CP Wirephoto).

Summit Meet Preparations Are Just Getting Underway

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — On this day proposed by Russia's Premier Khrushchev as the starting date for a summit conference, the preparations for such a top-level meeting under the auspices of the United Nations were only getting into a hesitant start.

There was little doubt as the headquarters, however, that the world leaders will gather here in early August to thrash out the problems of the Middle East and perhaps hold a face-to-face discussion on other outstanding problems of the cold war.

Whether any concrete results will be achieved by such a meeting is a talking point only among optimistic sources here, but an impression persists that a get-together of the world leaders directly concerned with the latest Middle East outbreak could do much to lay to rest the fears of a general world war that followed the July 14 revolution in pro-West-ern Iraq.

That overthrow of a key government supporting the West in the strategic oil lands of the Arab world has since been given tacit if not official recognition by Britain and the United States.

And the crisis moves of American troops into neighboring Lebanon and British forces into adjoining Jordan have left the two big Western powers on the hook from the point of view of reaction in the Arab world and elsewhere.

The headquarters of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has been going quietly ahead regardless while in an effort to strengthen the small observer corps the world organization placed in troubled Lebanon and Jordan. The aim of the Swedish diplomat who heads the UN in a neutral capacity has been, as a start, to put enough uniformed representatives of the UN into Lebanon to have a strategic withdrawal of the American forces.

At the same time the office of the secretary-general now is concerned in the setting up of a summit conference within the UN framework as called for by the Soviet leader. And during the coming week the permanent representatives on the Security Council—from Russia, the U.S., Britain, France and Nationalist China—will begin their regular meetings at the UN headquarters here.

5-Year Trip Through Space. Faces World's New Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) The world's newest satellite is off on a spectacular start on a five-year journey through space.

Scientists keeping a critical eye on Explorer IV announced the heaviest and most vital of the three U.S. moons is circling earthward smoothly during its first 24 hours.

The launching by the amazingly reliable Jupiter-C rocket on Saturday was a successful effort by that Explorer IV probably will be the most durable Army satellite yet.

Officials at first expressed concern that the latest Army moon might be short-lived.

As it looped through an elliptical orbit every 110 minutes, the satellite beeped out loud and clear signals on an intense field of radiation 600 miles in outer space.

Latest estimates placed Explorer IV as close to earth as 183 miles and as high as 1,375 miles as it swings around the globe an average of 33 times a day.

The orbital path, a new one for U.S. satellites, gives Explorer IV the more densely populated areas of the northern latitudes. It already has circled twice over the heart of Russia.

The 30-pound tube, six inches in diameter, crossed a wider geographical area — spanning the 70,000-pound Sputnik III, but it probably has the most important job of the four moons now in orbit. It houses four instruments to measure deadly rays at different energy and intensity levels.

Two radios will beep back the information to earth continually for the next two months.

QUEEN CREATES SON CHARLES, 9 PRINCE OF WALES

Announcement Made In Speech at Games

LONDON (CP) — Nine-year-old Prince Charles sat before a television set Saturday and heard his mother proclaim him Prince of Wales—a title last held by his uncle, the Duke of Windsor.

The chubby boarding school boy with the mischievous bent thus became the 21st holder of the title reserved for future kings.

"I intend to create my son Charles Prince of Wales today," the Queen said in a recorded speech closing the British Empire and Commonwealth Games here at Cardiff Arms Park.

Moments later Buckingham Palace confirmed that title was automatically Charles' the moment the Queen spoke.

A crowd of 38,000 at Cardiff Arms Park stood in stunned silence when the surprise announcement came. Then a great roar of jubilation went up.

"God Bless the Prince of Wales," the crowd shouted as Charles' Prince Philip, present around the sports track in his field coat.

WELSH EXCITED

A great wave of patriotic excitement gripped most of the Welsh people. Spontaneous celebrations broke out in the mountains, mining villages and cities.

Drink flowed freely. Women and children were weeping with joy in the streets.

Prince Philip told young Charles of his mother's investiture in Caernarvon Castle. With the self-control commensurate with royal child, the young prince kept his secret.

Saturday he and a group of his classmates gathered around the television set to watch the ceremony at Cheam School in the Berkshire countryside 30 miles southwest of London.

Charles, a shock of mouse-colored hair hanging over his forehead, squirmed excitedly in his chair while the last events in the Empire Games were run off.

Lost Letter Found About Lost Letter

BRANTFORD (CP)—They're still blushing at the Brantford post office.

Recently the post office's mail-handling equipment was moved to a new addition. Out from behind a sorting counter fell a letter addressed to what apparently rested there 36 years ago.

Postmaster Frank McDonald opened it and found it was dated January 6, April, 1920 from the postmaster in Woodstock to the postmaster in Brantford.

The subject?

A complaint about a letter that never reached its destination.

Khrushchev Says Talks Could Be Held In Moscow

Would Meet Any Place In Europe, He Asserts

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev accused President Eisenhower today of trying to scuttle an East-West summit conference proposed for New York. He offered as an alternative to convene the talks in Moscow or any other place in Europe suitable to the four other powers.

By the four other powers he meant the United States, Britain, France and India.

He said the Soviet government would guarantee the safety and security of the participants if they met in Moscow.

He was making this offer, he said, because American diplomats and the American press had expressed concern about the difficulty of guaranteeing security of the participants if the meeting were held in New York.

Owen Sound Would Play Host To Khrushchev

OWEN SOUND (CP)—This city has invited Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit Canada.

The invitation was sent to the Soviet premier by cable Saturday by Owen Sound's trade commissioner.

Alan McKenzie, who becomes the city's trade commissioner Aug. 1, said the commission decided to invite Mr. Khrushchev because such an invitation has not been given by any official in Canada.

The trade commission is willing to underwrite all expenses for civic welcomes and other celebrations in connection with a proposed tour for Mr. Khrushchev of Owen Sound and surrounding district.

Mr. McKenzie said if the invitation is accepted the commission planned to set up a camp to accommodate as many as 500 newspaper men.

Seize Marijuana Worth $340,000

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit customs officials arrested three local men Sunday riding in a car containing 340 pounds of marijuana packed in one-pound bags.

Held for investigation of narcotics smuggling were Thomas Avery, 29; Marcellino Tovar, 43, and Gabriel Miranda, 38.

They were nabbed by agents from the Detroit Narcotics Bureau, state police and U.S. Bureau of Customs who patrolled four main highways leading into Detroit by boat and by motor.

Detective Inspector Russell J. McCarthy said: "These men are merely couriers. They work for a ring or a big boss, probably in Mexico."

London Mirror in Letter to Dulles Accuses U.S. of Stalling on Talks

LONDON (Reuters) — The left-wing London Daily Mirror today wrote an open letter to John Foster Dulles laid it on the line in big, black headlines: "Stop the American fooling!"

In the letter spread over front and back pages the thundering tabloid, which with a daily 5,000,000 has the world's largest circulation, bluntly accused the United States of stalling on East-West summit talks on the Middle East crisis.

The reasons for the stalling, The Mirror claimed, is President Eisenhower's fear of "your bad face."

"2. That the Middle East crisis, with its grave potentialities, is a huge and urgent issue on which to bring the leaders of the nations together, whatever the result.

"3. That America is trying to delay, delay and delay—or perhaps even sabotage—the meeting."

The Mirror letter opened: "Dear Mr. Dulles, welcome to London. But there is no time to be flattering or effusive.

"You know that you never get a very good press," or sustained applause, in this part of the world. . . . We have decided that any of us within these shores doubts for one split second your intelligence, your likelihood, or your diligence. . . .

"What appals the British is your point of view—your unerring genius for obstinacy, getting it wrong the wrong end of the stick and refusing to let the damn thing go.

The Mirror said that most Britons and their newspapers believe:

"1. That summit talks are essential.

"2. That the Middle East crisis, with its grave potentialities, is a huge and urgent issue on which to bring the leaders of the nations together, whatever the result.

"3. That America is trying to delay, delay and delay—or perhaps even sabotage—the meeting."

Wedding Party Uninjured in Six-Car Crash

BANCROFT (Special) — A wedding party just returning from the church, was involved in a six-car collision near Bancroft Saturday afternoon.

The mishap occurred at 4.30 p.m. on highway 28, about 100 yards outside the village limits.

No one was injured, but total damage was estimated by Bancroft detachment of the Provincial Police at approximately $2,000.

All six vehicles were proceeding east on highway 28, when a car ahead of them made a left-hand turn. The first five vehicles stopped.

The sixth car, a '55 Ford, driven by Rodger Paulen, 30, of 187 Taschereau St., Bourem, Quebec, failed to stop and banged into the back end of a '50 Chevrolet, driven by Rodger Tessier, 30, of Bancroft, resulting in a chain of rear-end collisions.

The last four cars contained the wedding party of Real Leviere and Claudette Tessier, of Bancroft, who had left the church at Cardiff Township and were proceeding to Bancroft for the reception.

Drivers involved in the collision were: Earl D. Kruger, 36, of Deller, Ont., driving a '55 driver of a '50 Chevrolet; and Rodger Paulen, 30, of 187 Taschereau St., Bourem, Quebec, driver of a '55 Ford.

City 'Slickers' Seek Country To Escape Heat

Pity the poor souls who live in Toronto.

Sunday afternoon Torontonians were out in force "picnicking" along Highways 401 and 400.

Folks in "Hog Town" do not have the park facilities that people in the Quinte district have, so the soft shoulders of superhighways must do.

Midway between Toronto and Barrie thousands of city slickers congregated at a quarry-turned-swimming pool to escape from the torrid temperature and humidity.

A count of vehicles westbound on Highways 7 and 2_be-fore sunset last night revealed that Torontonians certainly do like to escape on weekends from the asphalt jungle. No less than 100 cars were counted streaming west in groups that stretched over one mile long.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police reported a relatively quiet weekend with one break-in and a serious accident to ease an otherwise routine 48 hours.

In the city, police were kept busy settling family arguments, investigating minor crashes and rounding up drunks.

Patrick McClary of Belleville, was arrested in a hotel on Saturday and charged with false pretences. A companion, John Bevan of the Toronto district was similarly charged. Police allege the pair bought four gallons of paint at a city hardware store and charged the bill to a local contractor, for which neither worked. McClary is also wanted by police in Lindsay for false pretences.

Police reported that "some cars" which were parked behind a store on Front St., Saturday afternoon received an unsolicited dappling of paint when a spray gun, being used nearby, proved to be no competition for the wind.

Cash Register Yields $46

Ontario Provincial Police are investigating a break-in at Ireland's service station at the corner of North Front and College Streets.

The incident occurred some time overnight. Police said $46 was stolen from a cash register after thieves broke a window in the rear of the building and entered.

Crop Improvement Assoc. Holds Twilight Meeting on Madoc Farm

On July 24th the Hastings County Crop and Soil Improvement Association met at the farm of Philip Harris, Madoc, for their twilight meeting. Meeting with them were the South Hastings 4-H Grain and Grain Corn Clubs.

Here they were able to view the barley drill width demonstration plots and hear Mr. Douglas Parks, Field Husbandry Department, Kemptville Agricultural School, discuss the varieties. Brant is the variety of choice being demonstrated were Brant, York, Nord, Parkland and Herta. Brant is one of the good varieties of feed barley. It is high yielding and has some resistant to most strains. York is a new variety just licensed for use this year and is showing good promise of becoming an excellent variety for this area.

Nord is a very early variety and is desirable when growing with oats of an early maturity. It is especially designed for Northern Ontario.

Parkland has established itself well and is the only malting barley in the demonstration plots. It has yielded consistently higher than the older malting varieties.

Herta is a two rowed barley and is late in maturity and mixes well with Garry and Rodney. However, it is not a high yielder in this part of the country although this plot looks well this year as it has been a cool year.

Mr. Harris spoke briefly on his hay and pasture program, mentioning he likes the rhizoma alfalfa for pasturing as this variety has a very low crown and so grazing does not harm it to the same extent as other varieties. However, for a general hay and pasture mixture the Vernal Alfalfa is still the recommended variety.

In the district hay competition Mr. Harris won the second prize last year and third this year. Commenting on this he mentioned that last year the field had more alfalfa and less brome and so made a more desirable mixture.

This year he was very pleased

(Mary) Haslip of Belleville; and four brothers, William H. Hickey, Harry F. Hickle, Thomas A. Nickle and Bruce D. Nickle, all of Belleville.

Will rest at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue. Funeral announcement will appear in a later issue.

Tunisian Says Only U.S. Saves Western Europe

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—President Habib Bourgiba said Sunday Europe is "playing like a spoiled child" and that only the United States can save it.

He warned that if the United States should give up hope and abandon the Western world, Soviet Russia would invade within 24 hours.

Tunisia, he said in a statement to the newspaper L'Action, intends to seek friends wherever it can find them, but his great hope still lies with the West.

"What needs to be said is that if the United States gives up all hope in the Middle East and in Africa and resigns itself to pulling back into its tent with its materiel and its planes, if it does not provide bases over which so many people complain, if it abandons the whole world including Great Britain and France, not 24 hours will pass before the Russian armies will have invaded western Europe," which has him playing like a spoiled child."

Traffic Heavy But Only Mishaps Of Minor Nature

TRENTON — Only one slight accident occurred on streets thereof the weekend despite traffic which was considered the heaviest this year. Ontario Provincial Police in Brighton also reported one slight mishap, with traffic on the highways also heavy.

In Trenton Edgar Bedford of Howmanville backed into a car behind him and damaged the bug screen on the car, being driven by Sam Mills of 79 Bay Street, Trenton, to the extent of five dollars.

Mrs. Bedford told police he had been following an army truck and when the truck had stopped at the red lights on the Dufferin and Dundas Street intersection, he backed up to pass the truck which had signalled a left hand turn. After backing up he bumped the car behind him. Constable Herb Chatson investigated.

The only mishap reported by the Brighton OPP happened near the Murray Motel and damages were only slight.

From early Saturday morning until late Sunday night thousands of motorists visited the Trenton as hundreds of motorists headed for summer cottages and resorts.

Beaches all over the Quinte district were reported to have been crowded yesterday as the mercury climbed to 88 degrees in the afternoon, on unofficial thermometers in town. Swimming conditions were good with warm picnickers said it was much cooler in the country with a slight breeze blowing most of the day.

Ditches Car To Avoid Hitting Woman

TRENTON — Glen Farrell of 113 Princess Street "took to the ditch" Saturday in a successful attempt to miss a pedestrian who was crossing Bay Street.

Ronald Williams of Heber Street and Earl English of Bay Street were passengers in the car at the time.

Mr. Farrell reported to police that he was going east on Dundas Street East and had started to turn onto Bay Street when an unidentified woman started from the curb on the east side of Bay Street and in front of the Bo-Peep Restaurant.

He said he thought the woman was going to walk in front of his car and pulled over hard right and the car went through the north corner of the Royal Hotel and a hydro pole. It bit a row of stones on the corner before and damaged the left front door. Damage was estimated at about $65.

Sgt. Gord Steenburg and Constable Fred Nokes of the Trenton Police Department investigated.

It was the second mishap involving a pedestrian to happen in Trenton Saturday. On Friday C. Cowdy of 181 Dufferin Street reported he was going west on Dundas Street West and about at Mark Tripps Tobacco Store when Terrance Goodrich, 16, of Trenton ran into the side of the car he was driving. He said the girl was not injured. Constable C. Schwager investigated.

Three-Year-Old Falls From Wall Fractures Leg

TRENTON — Three-year-old Gregory Kearns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kearns, 20 Dundas Street West suffered a fractured leg yesterday after he fell over a wall at his parent's Bay Shore cottage.

The youngster was brought to the Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was treated by Doctors Dr. Johnston and Williamson. X-rays showed the thigh bone had been broken and it will be necessary to keep the lad in bed with his leg up in the air until the bone knits back into place. It will then be put in a cast.

It is reported that the youngster and a friend of his were playing with a wagon with Gregory riding in it. The wagon apparently was pushed and going down a slight incline over the lawn, was retaining wall and down a drop of about four feet onto the beach.

The boy was not scratched or hurt other than the fractured leg.

His grandmother said that as a rule the boys did not usually play near the wall but that the wagon went out of control and the youngster did not realize he should have stayed out of it and went over the wall. There were no stones at the bottom of the wall.

Discover Truck In Canal After Boat Hits It

TRENTON — Some people use boats for fishing or pleasure. But somebody last week unwittingly used his boat to help recover a truck.

O.P.P. reported today that a half-ton panel truck, owned by Gerald Maxwell Marshall, RCAF Station Trenton, was found on Thursday in the Trent Canal near the Highway 401 bridge after Constable Ferdinand-John Hanna reported a navigation obstruction. The lock operator at Seaman's vessel is said to have struck the submerged vehicle.

Marshall, a member of the RCAF, reported on July 4 that his truck had been stolen from the corner of the No. 6 Repair Depot Road and Highway 2. He has it back now, apparently none the worse for its soaking.

Ohio Governor Opposes Tolls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Canadian proposal to levy shipping tolls at the Welland Canal and in the Canadian section of the St. Lawrence Seaway has been opposed by Ohio Governor C. William O'Neill.

The canal, used by ships to bypass Niagara Falls, has been toll-free since 1871.

In a letter sent to President Eisenhower Saturday O'Neill said he hopes talks on the seaway will be fair and equitable, but added: "It is my opinion that the imposition of tolls on vessels engaged in inter - lake traffic through the Welland Canal will do serious damage to the ports and industries of Ohio which are served by this inland waterway transportation."

The Canadian seaway authority has proposed the tolls for the canal. Hearings on toll charges for the seaway begin Aug. 4 before the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Helena Milette Covell, of Brighton, Ont., woman who celebrated her 100th birthday last July 15, will sit in the royal box when Princess Margaret visits the Canadian National Exhibition on Thursday.

It will be Mrs. Covell's first trip away from Brighton and she is "praying to the Heavenly Father for strength to make the trip."

In another special block of seats at the CNE, another 2,000 elderly citizens are expected to be grandstand.

Mrs. Covell said her only wish is that "it won't be too hot." She will travel with her physician, Dr. B. D. Campbell, and her son and daughter-in-law.

U.S. informants reported their government was ready to consider an agreement with the Soviet Union for a Middle East arms embargo if it did not extend to Iran, Turkey and Pakistan, the Baghdad pact nations. This in effect would freeze the present arms situation between Israel and the Arab countries. It seemed unlikely the Russians would agree.

The trend toward recognition of the Iraqi government was based on a realization that the regime was in power to stay and nothing apparently can be done about it.

As the West meanwhile awaited Soviet Premier Khrushchev's reply to President Eisenhower's proposal that the Security Council arrange the summit conference on the Middle East, an Associated Press survey of the world indicated that at least seven of the 11 council members would favor holding the conference within the United Nations.

Nationalist China, Iraq and Panama were as yet uncertain on the proposal. French Premier Charles de Gaulle wants the meeting held in Europe but has not said he wouldn't come to the UN.

But Britain, Canada, the Soviet Union and the United States are known to favor the idea. Denmark, Japan and Sweden were expected to.

Radio Moscow said in a broadcast to Arab countries that the Baghdad pact countries in London was being held to plan an attack on Iraq.

Jordan Denies Wanting Britons To Stay 5 Years

AMMAN (Reuters) — Jordan was reported planning to seek a treaty relationship with Britain and the stationing of 5,000 troops here.

While Jordanian and British officials said there was nothing of such a plan, reliable sources here on Sunday this could be one of the possibilities the Jordan government is considering now that the country appears more secure ward of the West.

The official Jordan spokesman denied that Jordan intends asking British forces to stay here five years. "The British troops are authorize us to deny these lies completely," he said.

He said Jordan has asked for military assistance as a purely emergency measure and forcibal troops would leave when the United Nations finds practical steps to maintain the security and independence of Middle East countries.

At Jordan's request the previous Anglo-Jordanian treaty was terminated and British troops pulled out of Jordan in March, 1957. Two weeks later the British troops returned to the country after King Hussein had appealed for help in view of the threat to his rule posed by the revolution in neighboring Iraq.

THOSE WELLAND CANAL TOLLS

Senator Pat M. McNamara, Michigan Democrat, has urged the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee to study what he terms a "Canadian" proposal to collect tolls on the Welland canal and to determine whether the collection of such tolls is "consistent with the letter and spirit of our seaway law."

We shall be interested to learn the results of the committee's deliberations if it undertakes such a study, for it sticks in our memory that somewhere along the lengthy and tortuous trail of negotiations for the building of the St. Lawrence Seaway there is an explanation which lifts the responsibility for this move from Canadian shoulders.

It seems to us that at one time there was some suggestion from Canadian authorities that the new seaway should be toll free, but that U.S. authorities, experiencing extreme difficulty getting the seaway bill past the railway lobby and the Atlantic ports lobby and other opponents of the project, insisted that it should be self-liquidating.

Memory also tells us that it was as the result of the U.S. insistence on tolls on the new seaway that Canada decided to change its former policy and impose tolls on the hitherto free passage of vessels through the Welland canal, which she is spending $27,500,000 to improve.

Supporting this view on the matter there is the fact that tolls for the Welland canal are included in the proposals agreed to by the tolls committees of both the Canadian and U.S. seaway agencies.

The U.S. may have a case against this, for it is spending $141,000,000 to deepen connecting channels between Lakes Huron, Erie and Superior.

Still, we think that it ought to be remembered that the first move to depart from the hitherto accepted policy of free canals on the lakes was made with the whole-hearted approval, if not the stubborn insistence, of the U.S. Congress.

HOUSE OF LORDS - - - AND LADIES

Another male citadel has fallen. Women have entered the British House of Lords.

This has been achieved through a new departure, the naming of "life" peers and peeresses.

Their titles will not be hereditary.

But the appointment of four "life" peeresses, breaking a precedent, is sure to set somebody thinking and eventually questions will arise as to why hereditary titles should be preserved for the males.

There is no practical reason why titles could not be handed down from peeresses to their eldest daughters.

But perhaps the women will not want this. As long as their representatives in the House of Lords are all "life" peeresses, women can be certain that their sex will be better served than the men. No woman will be appointed a life peeress until she has proven her ability; the male members will include, as well as some brilliant men, the average number of nonentities.

Down in Frankfort, Ky., four women were playing bridge at the country club when they got a surprise. In order, they picked up 13 clubs, 13 diamonds, 13 hearts and 13 spades.

The odds against this occurring are high. The mathematical figure is one octillion, 200 septillion to one. To make it plainer, the Associated Press translated this into figures - - 2,200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 to one.

We'll add our little bit of clarification. If a billion of the world's inhabitants play bridge and if they played twice a day, fifty weeks to a year and dealt 44 hands at each session, they would have to play two million billion years before another deal of that nature occurred.

Believe it? No, neither do we.

WHAT THE SUN DOES

SHE

I used to think that he was fair,
And handsome as a man can be;
I liked his wealth of curly hair,
His manly form was good to see.

"An eye like Mars," as Hamlet said,
He shrewish and command,"
he had,
And there was that about his head
To make the heart of maiden glad.

But now I turn upon my heel
And all his fond attentions shun;
His hair has started in to peel,
His neck is blistered by the sun.

HE

But yesterday I would have sworn
No lily fairer was than she;
The dew-kissed rose at early morn
More beautiful could never be;
And there was none with pen and horn
Could catch her charms and hold for aye
The perfect lustre of her blush,
The smiles that fairly brushed of May,
But, Oh, what change is this I see?
The maid, once fairer than the rose,
Smears cold cream on her cheeks,
By Gee!
And has a red and shining nose.

Crying Wolf Is Dangerous

Vancouver Sun

It grows apparent that an intensified water safety campaign is needed to combat the number of drownings on city beaches, swimming holes and rivers.

One concrete step would be a drive to eliminate twin yells that are needlessly filling the air every year: the unnecessary cries for help by practical "jokers" and, growing out of that in large measure, the tendency of many to ignore pleas for help.

Matters could add advantageously be displayed wherever people gather at the water: "Don't cry for help unless it's needed. Give help even if you think it isn't needed."

Every year people drown, or come all too close to it, because someone, often the friend they're gone swimming with, think their cries for help are "just in fun."

These incidents directly reflect the ancient story of the shepherd boy who cried "Wolf!" as a "joke" so often that when the wolf did appear the other shepherds didn't come to help him. They thought it a joke.

It's a simple lapse from ordinary common sense that it must fairly be labelled stupid.

It is pitiful but true that the person who cries needlessly for assistance is not the one who suffers for it can safely be someone else's urgent begging for immediate aid that is ignored. Let the thoughtless pranksters think of that.

Those who deserve assistance must take blame, too. They are thoughtless rather than callous, as a rule, but the net result is the same, or can be — death by drowning.

There's plenty of time afterwards to lecture or paddle anyone who abuses man's natural impulse to help his fellow man. But all the time in the world cannot restore a lost life. Fear of being taken in by a "joke" is pretty small excuse.

This is all a very elementary lesson, but it is apparently still unlearned. So let's paper our beaches with it, teach it in our swimming classes, at every pool and club.

Don't cry for help unless it's needed. Give help even if you think it isn't needed.

"Held it, we're building up too much inventory."

This Is Real World Series

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The "world series" in baseball, which is equivalent to the world championship, is played every year between two United States teams of two different leagues. It is sometimes, or even so, that other American team wins the challenge the winner, they would be held to "world series" and play.

Another "world series" has just been held in Sweden. It is a championship has been won by Brazil. That is the world soccer championship. Here are the 16 countries originally entered—all but later issues. Seven Americas teams whittled down to 16, the survivors met in a three-week tournament in Sweden. Brazil won, as pointed out by France, which finished fourth. England, second; Yugoslavia, England, France, West Germany, Sweden, Russia, Wales, Northern Ireland, Paraguay, Russia, Scotland, Sweden, Wales and Yugoslavia. Here are Canada's runners up.

Clearly that is a real "world series." More nations could enter if they chose, but apparently they do not feel they have a chance of winning, and the expense of bringing a team, even from Spain, probably 20 mgs, from South America or the Balkan States would be heavy.

Soccer — called football in the British Isles — is perhaps t h e most widely played game in the world. There are about 80 nations in the world federation. Its spread was chiefly attributed originally to the crews of Royal Navy ships ing it when ashore in various countries.

Then was when English or Scottish teams played exhibition games against teams from all over the European continent, and handed them tremendous beatings. The football style is the short foot pow. Continental and South American teams broke more time to training and mastering the skills of the game than do t h e United Kingdom teams, and when Scotland and England have taken tremendous beatings from teams representing Yugoslavia a n d Hungary.

Excuse is made that what with touring other countries during the close season, English players do not get this rest they should between the end of April and the beginning of September, and have enjoyed many visits from touring English and Scottish teams, and the game is really making great progress here as the result of these occasional tours, especially when a touring English team beats a touring Canadian team, as in the recent visit of Manchester City and Hearts of Midlothian. There are now over 600 registered soccer clubs in Canada.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SAVING HABIT

One of the most inspiring books I have ever read is a very small one, full of possible accomplishments, one that has often led to the building of a successful business in later life. I refer to that small yet significant book — the Savings Bank Book!

I have listened to many a story about what that small Savings Bank Book has accomplished for many. When I step up to the wicket and receive the tokens, I love to watch the expression on the face of the person who puts up to put in or take out. I like the process of putting in best and I imagine others follow me in this, in an emergency it may be a godsend!

Regular savings in a Savings Bank should be as important as insurance premiums. Remember that your savings are protected by the government up to $10,000. This gives impetus to save and re-invest. I believe in having the dollars work for me just as the ones who earned them. Money should be taught to work, if it lies idle and lazy. What a multitude of things have come about from our shrewd Savings Banks!

Just as soon as the child c a n drop pennies into a small bank, then should he be taught to impress upon that child all that the larger and more permanent Savings Banks stand ready to serve. It is a service that further urges thrift and systematic saving. Any significance of saving should be one of the first things taught to a boy or girl. Its usefulness in after years can hardly be estimated.

If the idea of saving can be made a habit, so much the better. It will then grow and grow a n d grow! And with it happiness of mind, because of its security and reserve. Influence in character.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NATURE OF TIME

Until well into the sixteenth century the people of Europe used the Julian calendar which w a s quite inaccurate, so much so that it picked up an extra day o n e every 128 years. Then we have the Gregorian calendar which is self-correcting because of leap years. But all these are mere measurement of time. When we ask what time is, we find ourselves in still another realm with our heads swimming. Einstein called time a fourth dimension. Maybe so. The philosopher Kant called time a category of the mind. What does the Bible mean when it speaks of eternal life? We find it impossible to conceive of anything which has no beginning and no end.

But although we cannot understand the nature of time, we can understand its significance. A certain amount of time is given to us to use. Some babies die in the first six months, and some men and women live to be over a hundred. There was one old Englishman in the reign of Charles II who was said to have lived 185 years. Again, maybe. But whether it be 185 years or 150 minutes, all time has its significance. It is our time. It is our chance. When it is past, it will never come back. It has an eternal aspect.

The Bible deals with the eternal aspect of time. It deals with all earthly aspects of life you and I must deal. Eternity is in God's hands. The present is in God's hands and in ours. We are fellow workers — cooperators — with God.

Find River In Pacific

New York Sunday Times

A gigantic submerged "river in the sea," 250 miles wide and 1,000 feet deep, has been mapped by scientists of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography in the Pacific Ocean. Fishery investigations of the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

Measurements show, the announcement states, that the newly mapped subsurface current "is as strong as a thousand Mississippi Rivers and as swift as the Gulf stream. It flows eastward along the Equator for at least 3,800 miles."

Dr. Rodger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution, hailed the find as "one of the greatest physical discoveries of our time, comparable with the warming discovery of the jet stream in the atmosphere." He added that "this is one of the most exciting discoveries by which I h a ve been associated. The Scripps Institution has been involved."

The mapping was done on a cruise of two research vessels operated by the institution, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences' National Committee for the International Geophysical Year. The ships spent thirty-two days at the intersection of Longitude 140 degrees West and the Equator measuring currents from the surface to a depth of more than 2,000 feet. Only 100 feet beneath the westflowing surface South Equatorial Current, the scientists located and measured the east-flowing under current.

The current was first located at the Equator and Longitude 150 degrees West by the late Townsend Cromwell, then with the Fish and Wildlife Service, in July, 1952, but until the Dolphin Expedition it was not known how far east the subsurface river flowed. Nor did how wide it is, or how fast it flows. The expedition found an "extensive" area of maximum flow, extends east to the Gallapagos Islands. Its core lies about 300 feet beneath the surface, becoming shallower toward the east; it is about 250 miles wide, and its speed is about three knots, three times as fast as the South Equatorial Current on the surface.

The new subsurface current, for which the name, Cromwell Current is suggested is no longer the favorable seat of Santa Isabella Island, in the Gallapagos group. Where the water goes from there, or where all the water from this great undersea river comes from, is one of the present mysteries that oceanography must solve.

The current, Dr. Revelle said, is probably an important mechanism in making the equatorial waters one of the fertile pastures of the sea, supporting the great variety of marine animals are unusually abundant."

HERE'S THE WORLD'S BEST CURE FOR INSOMNIA

Insomnia, or the inability to go to sleep and stop stewing about things, is not as common a complaint as it is cracked up to be. I mean real, honest-to-misery insomnia.

Some children and a lot of animals are the only critters I know of that haven't ever been bothered by insomnia — and dog lovers will admit, I'm sure, that even the much-loved family mutt sometimes prowls around the house at night clicking his claws on the floor.

The rest of us — well some of us can honestly complain that we perpetually have trouble getting to sleep, and therefore are genuine victims of insomnia. Most of us, however, encounter the problem only occasionally. Whether we complain about it depends on our philosophy of life, and our particular amount of patience.

There aren't many of us who don't, once in a while, have trouble getting to sleep, and the routine of pills to wake up and pills to lie down. (They can break the habit quickly if they set their minds, but by that time they don't even seriously want to do it).

Here, however, is what I consider the world's best cure for sleeplessness, and I'm not indulging in loose talk. I mean it.

A leisurely, warm shower followed by a glass of warm milk is better than all the barbiturates you can take.

CIRCULATION IS CHANGED

Why? Because the shower, the flow of warm water over your body (a warm shower, not as hot as good as a warm shower, and maybe better) changes the pattern of your circulation. It also diverts your mind from whatever problems you have, and makes you devote your attention to such placid matters as regulating the shower, lathing the soap, and keeping the water out of your eyes.

It lets your mind and your muscles relax. Relaxation is one thing you need to go to sleep, and when you are in the mood for insomnia, relaxing is the hardest art in the world.

Why the glass of milk? Because it will set your digestion in operation. This will draw blood to the digestive tract, and divert some from your overtense muscles and your overactive mind.

Of course, if you are bound and determined to have insomnia anyway, and are going to insist on fretting and fussing and being exhausted in a hundred ways, you'll still stay awake. But if you will follow not only the words but the spirit of this, you'll . . .

Are Machines Catching Up?

Christian Science Monitor

The "Perceptron" will be an amazing machine. According to its designers at Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, it will when completed, be the first electronic computer to operate similarly to the human brain.

Preliminary tests have already demonstrated some of its expected capabilities. For example, the "Perceptron" system can instantly recognize printed or handwritten letters of the alphabet.

Scarcely two months ago we hailed certain advances in computer design. We pointed out that one has only to walk through the countryside to surpass the greatest of the giant calculating machines. "No computer cannot calculate" we said. Nor seems or identify a wood lark by its call.

Now, it seems, what engineers call "the state of the art" has advanced a fact that latter half of our conclusion is outmoded.

THE PACKSACK

By-GREGORY CLARK

Past my summer cottage two or three times a week pale flotilla of half a dozen canoes, with three teen age young voyageurs in each. These are the canoe trips which are a feature of the several boys' camps that are located up and down the shore. They tent out several nights, on rotation.

In most of the flotillas, I notice that there is always one canoe dawdling twenty or thirty canoe lengths, sometimes further, behind the busy main cluster of the group.

At the steamer wharf the other day I got into conversation with one of the counsellors who are in charge of the parties. I suppose there are two elderly teen agers, around 18 or 19, in charge of each party. And I enquired about these laggard canoes.

"Oh, those are the l a z y paddlers," explained the counsellor. "In every group there is one bound to be some lazy boys. So we segregate them. We put the loafers together in the same canoe."

"Good heavens!" I said. "Don't you realize this is in defiance of the best accepted principles of child guidance? Aren't you afraid you will promote those loafers' Disturb their psyche?"

The young counsellor laughed lightly.

"We also," he said, "put the troublemakers together in one canoe, where overbearing kids get a taste of themselves, so to speak. We feed it works fine."

Fire Destroys House at Maple Leaf

BANCROFT (Special) — Fire of undetermined origin totally destroyed a one-and-one-half storey frame house at Maple Leaf, Ont., on Highway 62, five miles north of Maynooth, on Saturday, causing damage estimated at around $5,000.

The home, belonging to Douglas Olmsteed, was unoccupied at the time.

It is believed the fire started around 11 a.m. First to notice the fire was Clarence Wasmund, a local store owner, who phoned in the alarm to the Lands and Forests fire department around 11.30 a.m. Mr. Wasmund's store is only two houses from the Olmsteed home.

By the time the fire department reached the scene, some 23 miles distant, the house was beyond saving, Chief Ranger Orvill Goodman reported.

"By the time we got there, the house was only fer goos, and our job was just to put out the fire," Chief Ranger Goodman said.

The Olmsteed family had recently moved temporarily to the home of Mr. Olmsteed's mother. They had planned on doing some redecorating to their own home.

Mr. Olmsteed told the Lands and Forests Department he had no idea how the fire could have started. There were no fires going in the house when the Olmsteed family left their dwelling.

Chief Ranger Goodman was accompanied by Chief Ranger Elmer Card. Cause of the fire is still unknown.

Says Monarchy Now a Religion Among Britons

LONDON (Reuters)—The waspish London Daily Mirror columnist Cassandra claimed today that the monarchy has become the "popular religion" in Britain with its near-hysteria among the people.

Cassandra, pen-name of writer William Connor, said that the announcement Saturday that nine-year-old Prince Charles had been named Prince of Wales produced "a mood of deep emotion such as if a new son had been born to the nation."

"Never has royalty been so popular," he wrote. "Never has the throne stood so high."

"The monarchy has, in fact, largely taken the place of popular religion. The near-hysteria that greets the Royal Family wherever it goes has much in common with the mood of the old-fashioned revivalist meeting.

"The fairy princess, assisted by an over-enthusiastic press and an all-seeing television, has come to life.

"The strong moralist, preaching a rigurous gospel complete with heaven and hell, stands little chance in popular esteem compared with the forces of Buckingham Palace."

Heat Wave Adds Grief To Firefighters

VANCOUVER (CP)—A scorching heat wave gripped most of British Columbia today and heaped more grief on the province as it battled some 280 fires in parched timberlands.

Temperatures that went over 100 degrees in several areas Sunday brought the province's forests to the driest point this year. It was expected to get worse today.

Kamloops, in the interior, had a searing high of 107 degrees and Lytton, in the same area, had 103. It was 104 at Hope, 80 miles east of Vancouver. Vancouver was a cool 82.

The weather office here could see no relief. Officials said it probably would be hotter today because there would be little or no breeze.

WORST YET TO COME

Costs of fighting the fires has topped the 1951 record of $1,500,000. And the part of the year in which the fire hazard is the highest — the middle two weeks of August — is to come. There has been little rain in B.C. since early spring.

More than 600 loggers and forresters were fighting 41 fires in the Vancouver district. Included were four new fires which broke out in the Campbell River area on Vancouver Island.

Four new fires broke out Sunday in the Prince George area where more than 1,000,000 acres has been burned over.

The largest fire burning was in the Lower Post area at the northern tip of the Rocky Mountain Trench.

Three firefighters have been killed so far this year.

Expects Record In House Starts

OTTAWA (CP)—Works Minister Green says the forecast now is that 150,000 housing units will be started in Canada this year, an all-time record.

The present high for housing starts is 138,276, established in 1955.

Previous estimate for 1958 construction was 140,000 new starts. Mr. Green said Saturday in an interview, He had just received confirmation of the 150,000 figure.

Since the federal government launched its $350,000,000 program for direct housing loans last May, $59,340,245 had been spent.

The balloonists reached 82,000 feet.

The happy-go-lucky fliers had their toughest decision after a release mechanism failed to detach the balloon from the gondola as they attempted to land.

The 17-storey-high gas bag banged the round aluminum capsule onto an east central North Dakota pasture, then carried Ross and Lewis aloft again when

Wedding

MARSH — JONES

TWEED — Potted ferns, pink and white peonies, roses and phlox formed a lovely floral setting for the wedding in Sulphide United Church recently, of Donna Lorraine, eldest daughter of Mrs. Cecil Jones, of Sulphide, and the late Mr. Jones, to John Donald Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Marsh, of Sulphide. The Reverend Douglas Lentz, officiated.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Rutter, who also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Fred Purchase, who sang, " I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Leonard Jones, the young bride wore a lovely wedding gown of white Alencon lace and nylon net, with lace jacket featuring long tight-fitting sleeves which came to fit points at the wrists. A coronet of seed pearls held the bridal veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Clifford Purchase, of Sulphide, was attired in blue nylon net over taffeta and lace. The strapless bodice was concealed by a matching nylon shrug. She carried mauve 'mums, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Little Judy Jane Jones, flower girl of bride, was a dainty flower girl in a full-skirted dress of yellow nylon. Her nosegay was mauve and yellow 'mums and baby's breath.

Mr. Ronald Marsh attended the bridegroom, and acting as ushers were, Mr. Harry Kirby, both of Belleville.

The banquet hall of Stoco Lake Hotel was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells for the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's mother received the 75 guests in a gown of eggshell lace, with white hat and accessories, and corsage of pink rosebuds. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in grey sheer taffeta silk, with navy accessories and red rose, corsage.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, and vases of pink rosebuds. The guests' tables were decorated with vases of roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and points east, the bride donned a pale blue ensemble, with white hat and accessories. On their return they will take up residence in Sulphide.

Out-of-town guests were from Boston; Lindsay; Havelock; Madoc; Toronto; Belleville; Tweed; and Picton.

PRINCESS FINISHES B.C. TOUR

At Chilliwack, B.C., Princess Margaret signs the city register, after a greeting by an Indian chief, who was surprised to learn, on presentation of the local board of trade. There is a chance that Princess Margaret will establish a farm on the island given to her by British Columbia. Her next few days were spent at Banff, Alta.

Princess Sees Rockies in All Their Grandeur

By RICHARD ANCO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Like any tourist, Princess Margaret is enthralled by the grandeur of the Canadian Rockies.

The mountains were on every hand Sunday as she rested on her first full day in Alberta.

The princess wasted little time after church service Sunday to get as close as possible to the mountains.

She changed into a brown riding costume; tied a kerchief about her head and went horseback riding through the trees and bushes along the shore of beautiful Lake Minnewanka, near the lodge where the royal party has taken up residence while in Banff. She was accompanied by a lady-in-waiting and mounted RCMP guards.

She will see more of the picturesque mountain scenes and river valleys around this resort town today.

The princess was also to tour the Canadian Army cadet camp, a cluster of log barracks accommodating 227 cadets, visit a buffalo paddock and receive an Indian buckskin costume as a gift from Banff.

AFTER B.C. TOUR

Princess Margaret arrived here by train Saturday night after a two-week centennial tour of British Columbia. On hand to greet her with hand-clapping and an occasional cheer were about 5,000 people.

The princess, wearing a white organdy coat that set off her red-and-white print dress, met government officials and Superintendent G. H. L. Dempster of Banff National Park and inspected a 100-cadet guard of honor.

After the official reception, she was whisked away to palatial Fairholme range across the Bow River.

Princess Margaret's privacy there has been assured by a security guard of more than 100 Mounties who patrol the area on foot, on horseback or by motorcycle. RCMP tents are pitched around the ranch, making it impossible for outsiders to penetrate what one official described as "the armed camp."

SIGNS BOOK

The princess attended services at St. George's-in-the-Pines Anglican Church here Sunday. She signed the prayer book used by her parents, when they visited Banff in 1939.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta read the lesson.

The princess attended church in a striped pink and white shantung blazer over a pink shantung dress and wore a white cloche taffeta hat.

Following the service, Princess Margaret was taken on a 20-minute tour of Banff's terraced rock garden, spotted with some 50,000 plants, cascading water falls, stone-flagged paths and rustic bridges on the slopes of Sulphur Mountain.

'Frozen Sleep' Surgery Has Great Future

Pioneer "Frozen Sleep" surgery by researchers, under Dr. Wilfred Gordon Bigelow at University of Toronto, has led to the performing of hitherto impossible operations, reports J. D. Ratcliffe in August Liberty Magazine.

Experimenting with hibernating ground hogs, Dr. Bigelow discovered it was possible, by reducing body temperature to 68 degrees, to cut off blood supply to heart and brain for 18 to 15 minutes without harm. Since then, more than 1,000 delicate operations have been performed with the aid of "hypothermia", as the new cooling process is called.

In October 1955, Kenneth Ross, a 22-year-old athlete from Durham, Ont., underwent three "deep-freeze" operations in a row at Toronto General Hospital — one on the main artery, near his heart, then two delicate brain operations a week later. Mrs. Sleeman, a 43-year-old Vancouver housewife who underwent "deep-freeze" for a rheumatic heart, said of the cooling process, "I didn't shiver at all. I seemed to be lulled to sleep." One 26 year old woman, weakened and wanted by a hole in her heart, was put to sleep and cooled to 72 degrees while the hole was repaired. Two months later, she was doing housework.

COLD REDUCES PAIN

When the body is cooled below 90 degrees, the cold itself acts as a pain killer and sleep producer, so that often, no further anesthetic is necessary. And, since normally all anesthetics are poisonous, hypothermia has the added advantage of hastening recovery from difficult operations, reports Ratcliffe.

"Hypothermia is proving exceptionally useful in brain surgery," Ratcliffe says. "With the patient cooled to the low 80's, the blood supply can be cut off for up to 20 minutes. That gives surgeons time to work with new, unhurried confidence".

While 86 degrees is considered today's safe temperature, the low-ger ones may be achieved soon. Dr. Bigelow: "It is quite possible that, within the next few years, prolonged interruption of the circulation at very low temperatures will be safe." When this happens prolonged operations — out of reach today — may become as common as consillectomies.

LEADING LADY LOSES HER ROLE IN FESTIVAL PLAY

Five days before the opening of the Vancouver Festival play "World of the Wonderful Dark", leading lady Rosemary Bird above, was dropped and understudy Lillian Carlson of Vancouver given the role. Rosemary, 16, who emigrated from England to Toronto four years ago, was given rave notices for her acting and was expected to "steal the show" in the Festival. "Extreme nervousness and fatigue" were the reasons given for her dismissal.

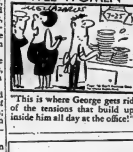
Most Home Economists Marry Shortly After They Graduate

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (CP)—Graduation, the ninth international congress on home economics was told today.

Dr. Helen C. Abell of Ottawa submitted a survey of education in home economics in Canada which said:

"In 1957 over 1,000 young women were taking university courses in home economics, but most college-trained home economists marry and either cease or temporarily suspend their activities as wage earners; they are employed as teachers, in industry and by the government, and the demand far exceeds the supply."



The report is one of 13 submitted by countries taking part in the congress attended by 1,000 home economists from all over the world. The surveys review home economics education in connection with social and economic conditions in each country.

The Canadian report says Canadians are marrying earlier, living longer and going to school longer. More women are working and "the unquestioned authority of the male is being replaced by a sharing of family authority and responsibility by the husband and wife."

In schools, "education in the improvement of home and family living is an integral part of the education of Canadian youth."

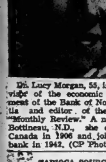
TRUE LOVE'S PATH WAS NEVER EASY



Love may laugh at locksmiths but not at bungled plane schedules. When Dragica Jovanovich arrived from Yugoslavia to join her proxy husband, Nedeljko, he was nowhere to be seen and she was not laughing. Through some mixup, he expected her to be in Sault Ste. Marie where he was anxiously pacing the airport runways. Everything worked out allright when they finally established telephone contact. Now worry is, "How will he like my cooking?" They were married by proxy a year ago.

KINGSTON (CP)—Child development films for parental education have been praised by an Ottawa expert and mother of five children, Mrs. Polly Mackay-Smith.

"Loads of people think films of this kind are ridiculous and confusing to parents but they can help them to realize that understanding their children is a bigger and broader problem than they thought," she said Saturday at the close of a three-day film seminar at Queen's University.

Her audience, members of eastern Ontario home and school associations and parent - teacher associations, earlier heard an Ottawa psychology professor declare more advanced films are needed in sex education.

Dr. F. R. Wake of Carleton University said:

"The attitudes of young people change so quickly we must keep up with their arguments about sex standards and be prepared to meet them in discussion of what constitutes adequate standards.

"There is scope for several really good films dealing with methods of imparting sex education. We can't afford to be backward in the choice of material for sex films when children have the opportunity to see so much material that is, to say the least, 'not in very good taste.'"

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

EITHER BLACK OR WHITE TUXEDO JACKET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it at all proper for a man to wear a black tuxedo coat in the evening in the summer, or must a white tuxedo coat be worn?
— Ben H.

It is entirely proper for a man to wear a black tuxedo jacket in the evening in summer, although the cooler white tuxedo jacket is cooler, and cooler-looking.

CONCERNING GUEST-GIFTS AND GUEST-TIPS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband and I have become very close friends with a married couple, and this past season we have been able to invite them to several important occasions at my husband's club. They have a house at the shore, have invited us for a long weekend visit, and have asked us also to come for the Labor Day weekend. Do you advise that we take a guest-gift with us when we go for each visit?

2. They speak about a woman from the nearby village who comes to the home for them every year during the summer months. When we visit them, should we tip this woman helper, or would it be better taste to bring her a present? — F. C.

1. A guest-gift isn't necessary . . . but it's thoughtful and gracious for guests to take a gift to the hostess. And today more than ever guests are making this gracious gesture. Perhaps one of the reasons is that today there are so many things to choose, not necessarily expensive presents but imaginative, "fun presents" or interesting food presents, or decorative and useful paper or plastic items, or many useful accessories for cook-outs or the ever-popular buffet service.

On your first visit you might take a quite simple present . . . a book alertly about when you are on the visit . . . and decide that might be "just the right gift" to take with you on your Labor Day weekend visit.

2. Unless you most fortunately happen to possess something this helper really and truly would like to have, she doubtless would prefer money. You might give her the money in an envelope and explain that you had in mind to bring her stockings or gloves, say, but you thought she would prefer to choose her favorite kind and shade.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FOOD GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I were invited to visit some dear friends of ours at their summer cottage, a few weeks ago. They were most thoughtful hosts, we had a wonderful time, and now (I guess we must have behaved ourselves!) they have invited us for the labor day weekend. On our first visit, we brought them a large box of various kinds of sweets (the candy is a specialty of our city), candied fruits, and nuts, glazed, spiced, and salted. They seemed to like these very much, served them in various ways and combinations.

For our guest-present for this labor day weekend we'd like to take a more important present, but still in the food-line. (We have no summer place, and have no way to return their hospitality with hospitality.) If you approve of this plan, what foods would you suggest? As one housekeeper to another, I'm quite sure the hostess would appreciate food gifts!
— Devoted reader

And as one housekeeper to another I think you have an excellent idea here. Let's face it . . . a gift of interesting foods, imaginately chosen, is mighty welcome to a hostess, particularly to a summer-cottage hostess with hospitality-inclinations. Do choose foods that are gaily and attractively packaged, so that they announce themselves with a gift appearance, albeit most practical. For example, an attractive can of roast chicken or turkey or guinea hen or ham. A gourmet gift is a collection of various kinds of pates, liver, spiced chicken, deviled ham, and perhaps pate de foie gras with truffles; or one or two of these and a choice of spreads.

Or a festive box or basket of jams and jellies; with these perhaps some packages of interesting crackers — bland, sweet, salted. Or perhaps one important cheese, or a group of individual cheeses, with a box or two of suitable crackers. For the beverage-enthusiast, a box of herbs of various kinds; or two or three kinds of herbs, olive oil, French or Italian; one or two kinds of vinegar and mustard . . . ingredients for tasty salad dressing. Sometimes you can buy such a collection packaged with an attractive, large, gaily-designed pottery salad bowl.

WHEN THERE IS A DIFFERENCE OF FAITH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have our first baby in about three months. As the baby's godparents, my husband and I would like to ask a couple whom we dearly love, whom we have long considered our most intimate friends. They are very religious people, but they are of a different faith from ours. Would it be all right for us to ask them to be our child's godparents? — Parents-to-be

When there is a difference of faith, the wise thing to do is to consult with the minister who is to perform the christening ceremony . . . and you should do this before you mention to your friends your wish that they be godparents.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Evelyn A. — I have a awful inferiority complex.

Mrs. F. A. — She just worries too much.

* * *

Evelyn A. — I am a 15-year-old girl and I am terribly worried because I have an awful inferiority complex.

I'm not bad looking and I'm doing pretty well in school. I have some friends, but I'm not popular. I'm very shy and blush something terrible when boys talk to me. My friends all say it's because I have an inferiority complex.

My parents are not at all understanding and don't help me in any way. When I tell my mother about this she said she always thought I had too much of a superiority complex, and brushed me and he said that it was no complex — that I'd never solve my problems with a family like that!

* * *

Mrs. F. A. — Evelyn has been making life hard for many of the past year and a half. She does nothing but brood about herself and her problems, about everything and everybody in the family. The latest thing is this inferiority complex that is driving us all crazy.

Evelyn spends hours in front of the mirror preening and fussing over herself. She is really so vain that I begin to worry what will become of her when she is forced to think about someone besides herself.

One of the girls in Evelyn's school goes to a psychiatrist and Evelyn seems to think if we cared about her we'd send her to see him. But nothing's wrong with her except that she worries.

* * *

The Council: Worry is the most common teenage complaint. If up this could be taken for granted by both Evelyn and her family, it might help ease things for everyone concerned.

After all, it is natural for teenagers to worry. Who has no problems? Who has more challenges? Adults may have difficulties, but they usually know what they are and they know their limitations and capacity for solving the difficulties.

It's not that way with teenagers. Most of the time they don't know why they feel the way they do, and they have no idea whether they will be able to measure up to the lowest adult standards — much less their own often-grandiose dreams.

Evelyn is right about one thing. She can probably do with a little more understanding at home. Her behavior and notions may seem terribly silly, but she is merely asking in a confused sort of way for some guidance.

If she is laughed at or given a reverend answer, the case for discussion is closed and she cannot unburden her problems. This is one she thinks longingly in terms of a psychiatrist to whom she can open up her mind and feelings.

It would be a good idea for Evelyn's parents to get into the habit of questioning her sympathetically when she comes out with statements that appear absurd. If they had questioned her more closely about her "inferiority complex" they would have easily learned that she is simply disappointed in her shyness and discomfort with boys. They might have given her a bit of reassurance that this would disappear with time and social experience. Evelyn may simply be the kind of teenager who requires a little more encouragement than most in meeting the challenge of growing up.

Mother's Helper

WHEN you're traveling with the children, it may be necessary to readjust your meal-time schedule, to avoid rush-hour crowds. This is especially true on the fine new Skyways where there are a limited number of restaurants. Stop to eat before the conventional time, or you may find yourselves waiting in long, hungry lines.

Throw A Summer Dessert Party

by Mary Moore

Last week I was meaty. This week I'm fruity.

If we could have color pictures these fruit dishes would win your hearts ' without any sweet talk from me.

Try to picture a cool golden ring mould full of grapefruit sections — the centre filled with juicy sweet cherries or raspberries — to gar and flour in upper part of double boiler. Add beaten eggs, vinegar, fruit juice and grated rind. Cover over gently boiling water, stirring constantly until thick. Chill. Just before serving fold in whipped cream.

MERINGUES:

Into a large bowl put 2 egg whites, 1 teaspoon each vanilla, lemon juice (or vinegar) and water, ½ teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat with electric beater (or by hand) until softly peaked. Now begin slowly to add 1 cup fine sugar and beat until very, very stiff. Cover cookie sheet with wet-strength wax paper. Brush it over with wet cloth. Butter it. With 2 tablespoons arrange 12 "nests" of the meringues — not touching. Bake at 275 Deg. F. for 1 hour. Turn off oven and leave meringues in it for 1 hour to dry out. When cold serve a scoop of ice cream in each and cover with berries or fruit (or butterscotch or chocolate sauce).

NOTE:

Store uncovered or they will "weep".

MONDAY

Hot Corned Beef Brisket; Mustard Pickles; New Cabbage Wedges; New Potatoes in Parsley Sauce; Cucumbers in Sour Cream Dressing; Summer Applesauce; Warm Uniced Plain Cake; Coffee.

Then cast your mind's eye along plates with meringues filled with ice cream, and covered and allowing over with plump raspberries or sliced peaches. You don't have to be a whiz of a cook to make either of these sensational desserts, but if you do invite some of the folks to whom you owe hospitality and do serve these with plenty of hot or iced coffee and good talk, you will have a reputation overnight of being a whiz of a hostess.

PALM BEACH SALAD MOULD:

Two 18-oz. cans grapefruit sections, canned grapefruit juice, 2 tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 3-oz. package cream cheese, ¼ cup diced pimiento, or maraschino cherries, sliced strawberries, ½ cup diced celery. Drain grapefruit sections; measure syrup. Add canned grapefruit juice to make 3½ cups. Sprinkle gelatine on 1 cup of liquid to soak. Dissolve over boiling water. Add sugar and salt. Add to remaining grapefruit juice; cool. Form cheese into balls; arrange in pattern in 2-cup ring mould with several whole grapefruit sections and some of the pimiento. Spoon in small amount of the cooled gelatine mixture; cool until almost firm. Chill remaining gelatine mixture until slightly congealed. Fold in 1 cup of the remaining grapefruit sections, celery and pimiento. Spoon on top of almost firm first layer. Chill until firm. Unmould and fill centre with berries or sliced fruit in season. Serve with

FRUIT CREAM DRESSING:

Three tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 lemon, juice and grated rind, 1 cup pineapple juice, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Mix sugar and flour in upper part of double boiler. Add beaten eggs, vinegar, fruit juice and grated rind. Cover over gently boiling water, stirring constantly until thick. Chill. Puss'n Boots—made from fresh, whole fish

These fresh-filleted fish are rushed from Canadian coastal waters into sanitary canneries, where the whole fish is processed into Puss'n Boots Cat Food.

...gives your cat Sparkling health and beauty

THE secret of a cat's health and disposition is in its fish feeding, according to experts, the best single food you can give your cat is whole fish. Not just any part or scrap of fish. There's an important scientific reason for that word "whole". It's really an exciting story for any cat owner who wants a healthy, contented and good-looking pet.

Only Whole Fish has Life Balance

In a living fish there's a balance of those mysterious elements which nature uses to sustain a healthy, thriving organism. When whole fish is prepared for cat food, those elements are retained intact, just as they were in the living fish. The fillets supply rich proteins. The bone and glands yield precious vitamins. The bone structure provides calcium and phosphorus. From various parts of the fish come iron, vitamins, calcium, manganese and all those vital food elements which nature uses to sustain full vitality. That's why cat food made from parts or scraps of fish is not enough. Without the one part supplies something valuable, your cat needs all those nutrients, in nature's own life balance. Only the whole fish supplies them all.

Puss'n Boots is made from Whole Fish

Our business is cat food. Puss'n Boots is not made from parts of fish or scraps. We process whole fish, with nature's balance of nutritive elements intact as they were in the living fish. Valuable cereals are added for flavor and all round nutrition. Castator Nips Eric Hanson To Win Amateur Golf Title

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Castator dropped a tee shot...18 feet from the pin at the 32nd hole Saturday, sank his birdie putt and downed off a gallant bid by Eric Hanson to win the Canadian amateur golf championship.

The one-up victory gave Castator the Earl Grey Trophy and his first win in any major golf competition. Only once before had he competed in his national amateur tournament and then got only to the second round.

The all-Toronto final started with rather drab, mediocre golf and finished in a blaze of birdies, spectacular shots and a weird chain of breaks that favored Hanson.

Grim determination Castator's part played a big part in his win. He saw his two-hole lead vanish on the twenty-first and nine when Hanson sank chip shots of 60 and 50 feet at consecutive holes. But the Weston club player refused to crack, grabbed the lead on the 30th and stiffly fought the last four holes.

HAD LEAD TWICE

Hanson, playing over his home course all the Scarboro club, had a one-hold advantage twice. That was along the front nine of the morning round of the 36-hole match. Castator pulled even each time. He built up a two-hole lead on the second nine of the morning, winning the 14th with a par and the 16th when Hanson drove into the woods and finally picked up after two unsuccessful attempts to get back on the fairway.

Hanson got one hole back at the 17th with a 50-foot birdie putt but went two down again at the 18th, won by Castator with a par.

The first nine of the afternoon round was halved in pars all the way except at the 30th, where Hanson got his first break. Coming out of a trap, he sent his ball skidding off the back of the green, flip and bounced back on the green.

The cart was parked among spectators on the far edge of the green, in direct line with the shot. Before hitting the cart the ball was headed for the woods back of the green.

FIREWORKS BEGAN

With Castator still two up after 27 holes, they halved the 28th and then the fireworks started.

At the 29th, Hanson's tee shot struck a tree and fell out of bounds on the green and bounced back 15 feet from the pin. He sank his birdie. Castator, meanwhile, had driven four feet from the stick and he, too, sank his putt.

Hanson holed out his 60-foot chip shot for a birdie three at the 30th and pulled the trick again at the 31st with a 40-footer, to square the match.

Unshaken, Castator unerringly found the green at the 220-yard 32nd and ran down his 15-foot putt for a birdie deuce to Hanson's par four.

Hanson got out of trouble nicely at the 33rd, playing his second shot from under a tree, and halved the hole. Hanson birdied the 34th with a 12-foot putt and, as tension increased, Castator got down an eight-footer.

CLOSE WITH CHIP

They halved the 35th in par fours. Hanson coming close with a 30-foot chip effort, and Castator was leading by one hole.

With one more chance, Hanson had a poor drive at the 549-yard 36th and his second shot left him 45 feet short of the green. Castator put his second on the front of the green, 40 feet from the pin.

Hanson lifted his third from the sloping fairway to the edge of the green, 25 feet away. Castator confidently sent his long putt to within a few inches of the cup. Conceding the short putt, Hanson walked over and shook hands with the new champion.

Castator succeeds Nick Wadlock of Windsor, who lost in the opening round last Wednesday to Hanson.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Wheatley Stables' Bold Ruler found no trouble and six of seven lightly-weighted opponents too much to handle Saturday and ended up badly beaten as Greentree Stable's Cohoes won the Brooklyn Handicap at Jamaica.

Bold Ruler, giving from 22 to 31 pounds to his rivals in the mile and three-sixteenths test, defeated only one horse in going down to his worst defeat in a 32-race career. He was beaten by 15 lengths.

Cohoes finished a length in front of Sharpsburg in 1:59 3-5.

Third Brother finished third but moved up to second when Sharpsburg was disqualified on a foul. Inside Tract then took over third money.

EXCITING FINISH

At Delaware Park, Christiana Stables' Exclusive captured the $140,562 Delaware Handicap over 1¼ miles in an exciting finish which saw Dotted Line miss by a bare nose. Third place went to Woodlawn.

In a tight, surprising finish at Arlington Park, lightly-reckoned Dragon Killer, 17-to-1 shot, captured the $146,575 Arlington Classic for Sycamore Stable.

A Dragon Killer surged across the finish line of the mile event three-quarters of a length ahead of Talent Show. In third place, a neck behind Talent Show, was Nedlic.

Circle M Farm's Watch Your Step equalled Needles' stakes record of 1:10 3-5 in winning the 13th running of the $87,200 Saratoga Stakes at Monmouth Park.

4½ LENGTHS BACK

Intentionally was 4½ lengths farther back and a head in advance of Reshaud Wind, the even money favorite in the field of eight.

At Detroit, Swoon's Son staged a brilliant stretch drive and won the $50,000 added Michigan Sweepstakes, wiping out the memory of the surprise defeat by the Canadian Longshot Neerchi a week ago.

Swoon's Son, owned by E. Gay Drake, won by half a length over the fast-closing Canadian-owned Mister Jive.

CANADIAN YACHT WINS

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. S. A. Would End Short-Term Fish Derbies

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The executive of the 10,000-member Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters Saturday night approved a resolution supporting a lands and forests department move to discourage short - term fish derbies.

Stan. Hodgkiss of Terrace Bay, vice-president of the federation, introduced the resolution at the final session of a three-day central executive meeting here.

Th federation supported Dr. W. J. K. Harkness, head of Ontario's fish and wildlife division, who said the original idea of fish derbies was to help promote conservation, but now the chief interest was winning a prize.

APPROVE BADGES

The executive also approved a proposal that hunters wear large badges on their backs bearing the numbers of their hunting licences, as is done by hunters in northern Michigan.

The badges would be about six inches in diameter and probably would be black with white lettering.

Supporters of the plan said it would deter hunters who misbehave. If they were not conducting themselves properly, farmers or bush camp operators would have an opportunity to take their numbers and report them.

The executive urged the Ontario department of lands and forests to rigidly enforce regulations prohibiting importation of live fish bait and use of live minnows as bait.

It also asked stricter control on all types of live fish supplied by dealers and a halt in the commercial netting of minnows in Lake Nipissing.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The exuberant Cobourg Merchants gave notice Saturday night that they're going to wind up this district league semi-finals business once and for all tomorrow night, and send the Belleville Bobcats back to their lair licking their wounds and figuring on what team they will meet in the first round OASA Intermediate AA playdowns.

They let it be known to all and sundry that they will send their second ace "Sleepy" Dawe against the not-so-terrible Tabbies of Trenton in the first game of the series scheduled for CNRA Park tomorrow evening.

For the languid one basking in the cheers of some 1,400 of the local faithful Saturday evening set back the Cats 7-4 to take a 3-1 lead in the three-of-five series, while Point Anne swept its way into the finals with a 7-4 win over the pinchy Trenton Legion Juniors.

Chief Tabby Temple, however, has ideas different to those of the lakeshore toad rivals. He does not believe and "Sleepy" one will get tomorrow night's assignment—and even if he does, he believes his Cats will again come up with their potential and send the Cobourgers home with the series all even.

He will send his ace, Bobby Hull, against the Merchants in the fourth game regardless of who takes the mound for the enemy. The Blonde Bomber from Point Anne came up with a sensational hill performance in the opening game of the series and but for the goddess of luck would have emerged from the 12-inning duel with a win.

Regardless of who pitches who, tomorrow night's tilt should be one for the books. There is as much hot stove league talk as a couple of alley cats' caterwauling and with the Cats having their backs against the wall, the tussle should be productive of some topflight softball duelling with possible fireworks tossed in for good measure.

The Cats as a whole are fully confident they can take the measure of the Merchants tomorrow night and force the fifth and final game in Cobourg on Wednesday night. And if they're batting eyes are the same as in the second game when they walloped the former 10-4 with a hitting spree, they might just do that. Game gets under way at seven o'clock.

Scouting the squads and fully aware that a tough job looms for them in the league championship series, will be Bob Ashton, Point Anne Committee man. Should the three-straight semi-final victory over the gallant Trenton Legion Juniors, the league leaders will be idle until the other half of the semi-finals bracket is settled either tomorrow night or Wednesday.

It is not known at this writing when the championship series will begin, but it is likely the four-of-seven finals will get under way the latter part of the week with the first game scheduled for Ox Point.

Whichever squad faces the Pointers in the finals series, there will be no pushovers. The proud record of twelve wins and two defeats in schedule play stands for nought in the "money" series and the Pointers would do well to take that into consideration. Either Cobourg or the Cats will be tough nuts to crack with the chips down and Phil Lofi's crew will have to be on its toes all the way if it wants to emerge with the league's top honors.

While their record established them as strong favorites to take the semi-finals series from Trenton and Cobourg, the beardless ones tossed a scare into them on a couple of occasions.

Charlie Drake's non-roters had the Ox Pointers beaten in the second game of the series until the ninth inning when they exploded for eight runs to snatch the victory. Saturday night the fact they erupted for five hits and as many runs in the first inning won them the 7-4 victory for after that they had but three safeties and two runs while the youngsters counted four. Then, too, the Pointers were loose afield, four bobbles helping in as many opposition runs. They don't be able to afford such shenanigans against either Cobourg or the Bobcats.

Colavito Homers Big Factor, Bob Turley Beaten in Second; Bosox Trim Tigers; Bucs Win

The Sunday curfew has done it again in the National League. Two games, topped by the clock in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, will dangle on a limb of the law until Sept. 9.

Milwaukee is ahead at the moment by one full game. You won't know until Sept. 9 whether the San Francisco Giants really are a half game or a game and a half behind. By that time, it may not matter.

When the clock hit 6:59 p.m. Sunday baseball suddenly lost its last standing in Pennsylvania where San Francisco was battling Pittsburgh and Los Angeles was hard at it with Philadelphia. But this only temporarily arrested what a pestilential winning rally by the Phillies.

Milwaukee moved out front by whipping Chicago Cubs 4-1 with Henry Aaron driving in two runs and Carlton Willey winning with ninth-inning help from Don McMahon.

The Giants were knocked out of a doubleheader by the Pirates. Bob Skinner's ninth inning home run tied the score and Dick Groat finally ended it with a sacrifice fly in the 14th for a 3-1 Pittsburgh decision.

CAME FROM BEHIND

The Pirates came from behind to tie the second at bat when they was supplanted with Pittsburgh batting in the eighth. It will be considered significant that both the talents of manager Billy Rigney of the Giants was rejected for stalling just before curfew fell.

Robin Roberts won his 199th game (10 this year) as the Phils squelched Brooklyn Dodgers 5-3 in a dozen hit two homers and Carl Sawatski one in that first game. In the second game the Phils had rallied to go ahead 2-1 and were poised to win No. 6 with their play was suspended.

Cincinnati remained tied with Pittsburgh in the race by splitting two with St. Louis. After Larry Jackson pitched the Cards to a 4-3 victory in the opener, the Redlegs bombed Bob Mabe and his relievers for 10 in the second game.

On Saturday the Giants edged upward, blanking Pittsburgh 1-0 while Chicago defeated the Braves 7-4 in the game that hemered Philadelphia 10-4 and Cincinnati downed St. Louis 3-1 in the other games.

In the Milwaukee game Sunday, Willey was in trouble until the ninth when he loaded the bases with one out. McMahon came on to retire the side with one pitch as Sammy Taylor tripped into a force play.

TIGHT STRUGGLE

The Bucs at Pittsburgh was a tight battle between Ronnie Kline and Al Worthington in the early stages. The Giant run was a homer by Ray Jablonski, the Pirates' two-run homer in the second game helped Pirates overcome an early Giant lead.

Roberts lasted all the way to take the first game in Philadelphia although clipped for 12 hits including a homer by Don Zimmer. Zimmer homered in the second game.

Alex Grammas was Cincinnati's second game winner at St. Louis. Frank Robinson, whose single in the second game homer almost upended Jackson in the opener, had a five-for-eight day.

Pointers Clinch Spot in Finals Score 7-4 Victory Over Trenton

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

POINT ANNE — The Centremen were glutted their softball loins today in anticipation of what they believe will be a tough final series with the winners of the Bobcats-Cobourg semi-finals.

For Saturday night in a loosely-played game they turned back the Trenton Legion Juniors' final bid 7-4 to sweep their semi-finals series in three straight games.

It was well, perhaps for the Phil Lofi crew that they scored five runs off as many hits in the first innings before Trenton's Dave Wanamaker got settled away on the mound.

After that the stocky youngster limited them to four hits and two runs while his mates pounded ex-guard Cord Maroney for eight clouts and four errors and got abetted by four Ox Point bobbles.

Wanamaker blanked the Pointers in six of remaining seven frames, a triple, walk and long fly accounting for the Pointers' two remaining runs in the fourth. He struck out three and walked four.

Maroney scattered his hike fairly well but his mates miscues figured in all the runs scored against him. He whiffed two and walked the same number. His clutch hurling cut off Junior threats in three innings.

The Trenton youngsters got one of their spotted five counters back in the second frame and added another in the fourth. They threatened in the seventh when they scored twice with one out but Maroney retired the next two batters easily to gullet the rally.

The lumbering five-run outburst put the game in the bag for the Pointers. Claude Carr singled. Umpires — Ethier (P), Thomas.

Bobby Hull's mates was sacrificed to second and third by Ken Hull's pinch-hit. Batchelor walked and Pat Gilmour popped out. Jones singled Hull home and scored himself on Jack Elliot Jr's hit to centre. Garry Coyne got on via the fielder's choice scoring Elliot and Maroney grounded out to end the inning.

The Pointers scored their two clinchers in the fourth—Carr who had walked galloping home on Jackie Wardhaugh's long triple. Doug Hull hoisted a long fly to centre scoring Wardhaugh. Coyne other batters grounded out.

Top slugger for the Juniors, Neil Williams blasted a three-bagger in the second and raced home on a Pointer miscue. Singles by Williams and Burns and the second Ox Point bobble were good for another run in the sixth. A walk, Drake's single and some wild toss by the Pointers sent home two Trenton runs in the seventh. Maroney had the situation in hand from then on.

Williams hit a triple and three for Trenton with Drake getting a pair and Burns and Lewis getting one for lone hits.

Doug Hull's double and single led Ox Pointer's attack with Wardhaugh getting two singles, Wardhaugh a triple and Carr, Gilmour, Elliot Jr. and Coyer belting with singles.

Trenton—Austin, Drake, Alexander, Williams, Aseltine, Burns, D. Cole, L. Wanamaker, Ros Wanamaker.

Point Anne — Carr, Wardhaugh, D. Hull, Batchelor, Gilmour, Jones, J. Elliot, Jr., Coyer, Kingston, Maroney.

Americans Lead Russians in Track Meet

MOSCOW (Reuters) — American track and field stars grabbed an eight-point lead over Russia Sunday in the first half of a two-day meeting with Soviet athletes —the first ever between the two countries. No world records were broken.

The United States won seven of the 10 men's events and two of the five women's events. American champion Rafer Johnson also won the decathlon over the 10-event decathlon over Russia's Vladimir Kuznetsov after the first five events.

With points awarded on a 5-3-2-1 basis the United States had 33 to 75 by the Russians.

The surprise of the first day was the strong performance by the American women athletes who had been given little chance.

Barbara Jones won the 100-metre race in 12.2 seconds to beat Russia's Vyera Krepkina, and Isabel Daniels. All three were clocked in 11.6 seconds.

The U.S. women also won the 400-metre relay.

All-Stars Will Scalp Braves Today Says Walker

TORONTO (CP) — Dixie Walker, manager of the International Baseball League all-stars, predicts his club can "scalp the world champion Milwaukee Braves in tonight's third annual all-star game here.

If Walker's prediction does come true, the all-stars will have to show more than they have the last two years.

Two years ago the Braves were the deciding behind the one-hit pitching of Bob Trowbridge. Last year the triple A squad did better, but still went down the short end of a 2-1 score after 11 innings against Brooklyn Dodgers.

Braves, regular annual visitors to Toronto to play the Leafs, will be making their first visit to Canada as world champions. They currently lead San Francisco Giants by a full game in the race for the National League pennant.

One of the reasons for Walker's optimism could be the record play of the all-stars' slugging first baseman, Rocky Nelson of Walker's own Toronto Maple Leafs.

Nelson currently leads the International League in batting (.323), home runs (20), runs batted in (63) and runs scored (72). Walker hopes he can continue his torrid pace against the Braves, who will probably start former Leaf Humberto Robinson. The remainder of the all-star lineup includes second baseman Spider Jorgensen, Montreal; shortman Clyde Parris of Montreal Royals, shortstop Dick Checoni of Rochester Kings, catcher Bob Oldis of Richmond Virginians, outfielders Tom Alston and Bob Lennon of Montreal and Jim Pendleton of Columbus and pitcher Pat Scantlebury of Toronto.

Walker has indicated Benny Daniels of the Jets and Tom Lasorda of Montreal will also see action on the mound.

Caesar's Army Discovered Salmon on Invading Gaul, Now Popular Game Fish

By SANDY CAMPBELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — When Julius Caesar led his conquering armies into Gaul, all of which, as any schoolboy knows, was divided into three parts, the Roman legion-aries were fascinated by a fish they had never seen before.

They nicknamed this fish "salmo," a derivative of the Latin infinitive "salire," which, as every schoolboy probably does not know, means "to leap."

In modern times, still flourishing and still leaping, the fish found its way into scientific nomenclature as "salmo salar." Latin is likely all Greek to most anglers but everyone is familiar with Atlantic salmon, probably the most popular game-fish in the world.

DIRECT DESCENDANTS

Atlantic salmon, which abound in the rivers and along the coasts of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, are direct descendants of these "salmo" which fell before the skilled and disciplined Caesar's soldiers.

The salmon have thrived and for many years have provided sport fishing as well as a lucrative commercial fishery. But, scientists believe, there has been a decline in the last two decades.

L. E. Baker, chief supervisor of the Department of Agriculture and Marketing's inland fisheries division, says that a specific reason for the decline is not known but better conditions this year have boosted the catch back to normal. In Nova Scotia, for instance, more than 3,000 salmon were taken by the middle of July compared with about 1,600 all last year.

At one time salmo salar were known to spawn in the headwaters of the Don River near Toronto. Fisheries department biologists are confident that the lordly fish which has flourished since at least 12 centuries before Christ—an ancient drawing on a piece of reindeer bone was discovered in France's Pyrenees—will not be exterminated by factories and DDT.

DDT's main fault is that it has an oil base and washes down in rainstorms, eventually finding its way into salmon streams. Department fisheries minister George Clark told the House of Commons recently there is hope of finding a spray for bud-worms which will not kill fish. The federal government and private industry are co-operating in the search for a new spray.

Fisheries minister MacLean says that at present the problem is simply a matter of conservation versus the spruce budworm could eventually destroy entire forest areas which would in turn be fatal to salmon.

Despite the inroads of civilization experts are confident that the lordly fish which has flourished since at least 12 centuries before Christ—an ancient drawing on a piece of reindeer bone was discovered in France's Pyrenees—will not be exterminated by factories and DDT.

England's Athletes Win British Empire Games

Finish in Front of Aussies With Harvest of Medals; Canadians Take Fourth Spot

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP)—Arnold Ashton Park, a sacred strip of ground for record-busting British Empire Games athletes, today is a cleared-up pile of junk, victim of spadewielding workers.

The last, echoes of a wildly cheering 23,000 crowd at closing ceremonies Saturday had hardly died down when demolition crews went to work on the red cinders that had yielded a two-day, nine-title, two world records broken, two penalized and Games mark shattered and reshattered 44 times. The park will be turned back to the greyhounds and rugby players.

Eulogies to the track and field stars for hotfoots were swimmers who closed out their six-night program Friday with a flourish to cut every Games record in the 14 swimming events and, with the loose - limbed Australians going crazy in the freestyle races, established seven world records equalled two and broke dozens of Games marks.

DRAMATIC FINISH

But their tremendous efforts were temporarily forgotten in Saturday's games - ending program of track and field, dramatically closed out in a three-minute recorded message from the Queen. She brought the crowd to its feet with the announcement that Princes Charles would become the Prince of Wales.

The day was marked also by a harvest of gold medals, by English runners and the less glamorous field-event athletes. The host nation England its second straight overall championship in points and medals, leaving the dedicated speed-demon Australians a badly beaten second.

But the Aussies owned the pick-up boy of the Games, bustling Herb Elliott, who breezed to a 3:59.0 mile victory.

The 20 - year - old Elliott, conqueror of the four - minute mile six times previously this year, ran away from the nine-man field with lap times of 61.3, 60.1, 58.9 and 56.7 for the second gold medal of the Games. Just 48 hours earlier he had won the 880-yard final to become the only man in the 36-year history of the Games to win both the mile and half-mile.

BIG LEAD

On the basis of 10-5-4-3-2-1 points for the first six finishers in each event, England ended with a whopping 533½ points against 466 for Australia. And in the medals department the Englishmen went home with 30—20 gold, 22 second-place silver and 29 third-place bronze against 27 gold, 22 silver and 17 bronze for an Australian 66 total.

South Africa was third with 258 points and 31 medals, including 13 gold. Canada's 96-athletic team, which officials had predicted would win at least four gold medals, was a limping fourth with 179 points and 27 medals. It produced only one champion, the eight-caxed University of British Columbia crew, the only repeat winner in the rowing events.

The Games had its full quota of heroes and heroines—double individual winners such as Elliott and teammates Mrs. Marlene Matthews Willard in the women's sprints, Will Powers in the six miles and marathon, the powerful Jon and Ilsa Concannon who won three between them and contributed to the winning of two more of the Aussie's bag of 11 swimming titles.

ONLY REPEATER

There was only one repeat winner in the entire track and swimming roster. That honor belonged to dusky-skinned Keith Gardner of Jamaica in the 120-yard hurdles. He also won the 220-yard sprint with a record-breaking 9.4-second clocking.

England, despite its over-all dominance, failed to win an individual track title. Its distance men, who cleaned up in the mile, three miles and six miles at the British Empire Games in 1954, couldn't pick up a medal in these events.

Australia filled the first three places in the mile, New Zealand was the three and Australia the four.

The mile wrote a glorious last chapter to the Games.

Two other four-minute men—Britain's Brian Hewson and the Aussies' Merv Lincoln—also met the starting gun but it was evident that the sun-scorched Elliott would take it without too much trouble.

BUNCHED FIELD

He stayed contents to the tightly bunched field until the half, took the lead going into the third lap. At that stage Britain's Gordon Pirie was second, Lincoln third and [illegible] Albert Thomas from Australia fourth.

Elliott kicked up his heels in the back stretch, opened up a 15-yard lead and broke the tape 18 yards ahead of Lincoln, who was timed in 4:01.9. Thomas hurtled past Pirie on the last bend to take third place in 4:02.7. Six yards behind was the puffing Pirie, timed in 4:04.1, the fastest a Briton has covered the distance this year.

Murray Halberg, plucky New Zealander with a withered left arm who created an upset victory in the three miles, was fifth in 4:06.6, and Mike Berisford of Scotland was sixth in 4:07.8.

Hewson was eighth in 4:11.1. Neville Scott, also of New Zealand, was last in 4:11.9.

SECOND VICTORY

This was Australia's second victory of the day. Earlier, 22-year-old Norma Thrower won the women's 80-metre hurdles in the Games record time of 10.7 seconds in a photo finish over England's Carol Quinton, but the record wasn't recognized because of a following wind.

England then took over, winning the women's 440-yard relay in the world record time of 45.6. The Australians, who held the world mark of 45.2 set in Moscow in December, 1956, were second in 46.1.

Canada picked up a silver medal on a second-place finish in the pole vault by Bob Shedd of Vancouver and a bronze medal when the women's 440-relay team became third behind the speedy English and Australian girls. The Canadians narrowly missed another bronze on a fouled-up first-leg baton exchange from Saskatchewan's Carol Quinton to Stan Leveson of Toronto.

Fourth - place finishes also went to Marie Deprez of South Burnaby, B.C., in the discus and to the men's mile relay team. Jackie MacDonald Gelling of Toronto was ninth in the discus and Bob Cividin of Trail, B.C., finished eighth in the pole vault.

The six - man cycling team picked up one point on the sixth-place finish of Art Higham of Toronto in the 120-mile road race.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Three records fell at Old Woodbine Saturday night in one of the biggest harness racing programs of the season.

Debora Frost won a $1,500 class A pace in 2:02.4 to set a seasonal mark for the mile in heeling. American import Mr. Galvia by a length in the seventh race.

The public set the other records, wagering $34,909 on that race for a new single-race parimutuel mark and over $12,860 on the daily double for another record.

Feature event, the $10,000 Canadian juvenile circuit pace, was almost anti-climatic. Rosemary Frost, the odds - on favorite, owned by Orlin Armstrong of Brampton and driven by Del Miller, broke stride as she was heading for the lead on the last turn and finished out of the money. She had won her heat earlier in 2:05.4.

The winner was Darcy Direct, owned by Clover Land Farm of Brownsburg, Que.

HULL, Que. (CP)—Arnaz, from Brockville, with Vic Lattman driving, was the first event at Connaught Park trotting races Saturday. Hope Bingen from Brantford was second.

Josedale Beauty Brook from Midland, Ont., driven by Howard Perkins finished the fifth race, a limit condition pace, a dead heat with Sonney Cash of Hull.

Nathan Hanover from Hagersville took the sixth race with Mohawk Van, Caledonia, Ont., in second place.

Williams Mark Smashed in Empire Games

By ED SIMON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP)—For years the name of Percy Williams headed the list of British Empire Games record-holders as the first man ever to run a British Empire Games 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds.

Today the Vancouver speedster's performance, flawed by a following wind but unmatched under any conditions for another 20 years, ranks no better than fifth in the record book.

Tommy Robinson of the Bahamas disposed of Williams on July 24, 1934 before 16,000 fans and officially speed, by running a preliminary heat of the 100 in 9.5. The following Saturday Robinson and Keith Gardner hit 9.6 in their semi-final and the last word by winning the final in 9.4.

Actually, there were just one time, distance, height or poundage listed as a Games record in 1934 that was not dated farther back than the Vancouver Games of 1954. And only nine of the 1954 achievements stood up to the Cardiff challenge.

The unofficial 1930 mark had seniority among the 47 records wiped off the books, which had been extensively rewritten at Vancouver. But the Cardiff athletes repaired a few more omissions by their Vancouver predecessors.

The only pre-1954 record in sight was the 14.6 12m-yard hurdle victory of South Africa's Tom Lavery in 1938. Gardner only managed to equal Lavery's time in picking up his second gold medal.

Jack Smyth of Winnipeg was one of two men who improved on the record of 51 feet, 8½ inches for the hop, step and jump which had stood since 1934 but the Canadian's 51-5¾ was only good for second place behind the 51-7 foot Australia's Tom Tomlinson.

No fewer than eight marathoners, exceeded the 2:30:49.8 winning time of South Africa's Jack Holden at the 1938 Games, headed by Australia's double winner and record-breaker, Dave Power, who also headed a four-man assault on the six-mile mark.

Power's new marathon record was 2:22:48.8. Cord Dickson of Hamilton managed 2:28:42.2 and had to settle for fifth place.

SLATER SHAVED MARK

Dickson wasn't the only Canadian who broke a Games record and didn't get a medal for it. Bill Slater of Vancouver shaved a full 10 seconds off the previous best in the 1,650-yard freestyle with his clocking of 19:51.4 and finished far behind two Australians and a South African. The new mark, set by Australia's Jon Konrads, was 17:45.4.

The swimmers didn't leave a single Games record intact. The men's 220-yard breaststroke mark was beaten 10 times and equalled once in the various stages of the competition. Pete Bell of Winnipeg, who missed it by less than two seconds, couldn't make the final.

SCHOOL CREW WINS

BEDFORD, England (CP)—Canadian oarsmen, cooling out after taking two victories apiece in the British Empire Games last week, shuffled their crews when they participated in the Bedford Regatta Saturday. The results were mostly disappointing. The University of British Columbia eight, winners of a championship gold medal at Lake Padarn, Wales, last Wednesday, rested five of its oarsmen and was beaten by four feet by a boat from Oundle Public School.

Sleepy Dawe Sheathes Cat Claws With 7-4 Victory in Third Game

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Cobourg Merchants took advantage of walks in the initial frame to score three runs and then quelled a Bobcat rally in the ninth to down the Belleville club 7-4 Saturday night in the third game of their 3 and 10 softball semi-final.

Fourth game in the three-of-five set is slated for CNHA Park here Tuesday evening at seven o'clock. Cobourg will pitch "Sleepy" Dawe in an attempt to wind up the series while Bobby Hull will toe the rubber as the 'Cats seek the equaliser. If a fifth game is necessary it will be played in Cobourg on Wednesday night.

Southpaw Bobby Green went the 9 the full for Temple's nine with only the benefit of a couple warm-up pitches Saturday nigh and could not get the ball across the plate. His walks in the first three batters and Clarcy drove one in with a single. Campbell's fly ball plated the second and after Bevan popped Green issued two fourth and fifth walks of the inning to force in the third.

Green settled down then and went until the seventh, giving up all the Merchanes' runs off six hits and nine free tickets. The wheeled third strikes by seven, "Bep" Guidolin tossed one-hit ball in 1 1-3 relief innings, framing one and passing another.

The Bobcats did nothing with "Sleepy" Dawe's stanis until the top of the ninth when they hit him hard. He gave up only two hits until the final frame and had a 7-3 lead when the visitors rallied. Guidolin singled to lead-off and Green drove him home with a double. Barclay also doubled to plate another while a fiel ler's choice and singles by Brown and Hall fi lled the sacks again before the final put-out.

Dawe went all the way for victory, tagged for seven hits. He walfted only eight and walked four. Three of these walks followed Green's base hit to lead in a run in the eighth while another walk, an error by Guidolin and fly ball scored one in the seventh.

Campbell's single, Bevan's flights, sacrifice and an error netted Cobourg one run in the third while Jim Hart hit a solo home run in the sixth. Green got off the track again in the seventh with three walks. An error and Edgell's hit helped plate two runs before Guidolin came in from left field.

Dick Turpin was the lone Merchant with two hits while Jim Hart homered. Burke Clarcy, Brian Hart, Rolly Campbell and Brian Edgell also hit safely. Bob Green poled a double and two singles for Bobcats and had their only two hits going into in the ninth. Barcuy doubled while "Wiener" Brown, Hull and Guidolin singled.

Lineups: Bobcats — Barclay, Crawford, Brown, Hull, Faulkner, Cousins, Guidolin, Russell, Green, Locke, Casey, Bone, Temple.

Cobourg — Turpin, Boncardo, Dawe, Clarcy, Campbell, Bevan, D. Hart, Edgell, J. Hart.

Marlins Blank Maple Leafs 3-0; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International League all-stars face Milwaukee Braves at Toronto tonight. The all-stars will need more in the way of hitting than they got from their sluggers Sunday.

Seven of the league's batters came to the plate for a total of 28 at bats and could squeeze only four hits and a single run batted in.

In Sunday's games, Montreal Royals blanked Havana Sugar Kings 5-0 and Miami Marlins did likewise to Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0. Columbus Jets defeated Buffalo Bison 2-1.

Saturday's scores: Toronto 9, Miami 8; Montreal 6, Havana 5; Richmond 8, Rochester 3; Buffalo 3, Columbus 2.

Sunday's Joe Brover pitched a seven-hitter and hit a home run Sunday as he helped himself to victory over Rochester.

Helped considerably by four double plays, Brver encountered little difficulty in scoring his 12th win of the year, despite the fact the Royals got only four hits. Besides inflicting the third Montreal shutout in four games on the sag- on four hits.

Stamps Nip Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Calgary Stampeders edged B.C. Lions 18-17 Saturday night in Western Interprovincial Football Union exhibition game that was five quarters long. Attendance was 13,381.

The first quarter was a special exhibition of the teams' Canadian talent. The score was cancelled as part of the main contest.

Stampeders jumped to a 7-0 lead in the Canadian quarter. In the other four, Lions outscored the visitors 17-11.

ing Sugar Kings, Birver batted in both of his team's runs.

Miami pitcher Satchel Paige got another win out of his veteran's system.

He went the distance and yielded seven hits—one more than the Marlins made against Jack Crimian and Ernie Broglio, who shared pitching chores for the Leafs.

The Marlins scored in the second inning on a single by Woody Smith, a double by Bob Usher and a single by Johnny Bucha. Frank Herrera made it 3-0 in the 6th with a home run, his 8th of the season.

The third Miami run also was a four-bagger, this one by Chuck Cottier.

Relief specialist George O'Donnell of the Jets responded to his starting pitching performance of the season by handcuffing the Bisons on four hits.

Three Arrested After Riot at Soccer Game

TORONTO (CP) — Three men were arrested after a near-riot started among 2,500 soccer fans Saturday night at Fred Hamilton Park.

In the game Toronto Hungaria edged Montreal Castalia 3-1.

The scrapping started among the players and spread to fans who jumped the fence surrounding the field at the conclusion of the game. One Toronto player and two members of the stadium staff were struck during the melee that followed.

Within minutes 35 policemen had dispersed the crowd.

Vilo Caccuccioli, 31, of Toronto and Paolino Zanzabrea, 23, of Montreal were charged with creating a disturbance and obstructing police. Held for causing a disturbance is Vincent Andello, 22, of Toronto.

Durelle, Moore Fight Still In the Making

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—A proposed title fight between light-heavyweight boxing champion Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., was still indefinite today.

Things may be cleared up Tuesday when Durelle's New York representative, Lew Meyers, meets Tommaso Gilardi, president of the International Boxing Club, in New York. The IBC and Montreal promoter Eddie Quinn are trying to get the fight staged in Montreal.

Vancouver is attempting to land the scrap. Promoter Earl Kalasi has asked Chris Shaban, Durelle's manager, to meet him in Vancouver today to discuss contract negotiations.

"Kalasi has the $100,000 Moore wants for a fight and all I have to do is sign," Shaban said Sunday night. "However I believe I can get a better financial deal from a Montreal fight. And Yvon would be more at home there.

"We'll wait and see what develops Tuesday. I don't want to lose this match."

Shaban said Kalasi offered Durelle 15% per cent of the gross gate after taxes and 12½ per cent of television and radio rights.

Durelle revialed his British Empire light - heavyweight title two weeks ago by knocking out Mike Holt of South Africa in Montreal.

AT THE PARK — A scene from "Hot Rod Girl," starring Richard Eyken-lyan and June Kenney in a thrilling story of a wild young driver who turns comeback in a race with tragic consequences. Now in the conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program more thrills in the "Cry Baby Killer," starring Harry Lauter and Carolyn Mitchell. Both dramas are from Belleville showings.

Canada Made Lame Showing At Empire Games

By STEWART McLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP)—In terms of relative manpower, Canada made a lame showing at the British Empire Games.

The Canadian collection of 37 medals, considering the fact there were 96 athletes, seems rather pale against the 66 medals grabbed by 39 Australians. Australia's collection was a healthy one compared with the 80 medals grabbed by Englishmen piled up.

Just about anyway you look at it, the Canadian record is unimpressive. Sixty-nine members of the South African team did much better with 31 medals in beating Canada out for third place. When you consider the little 18-member Jamaica team's four gold medals, two silver and one bronze in track, compared with Canada's none, the situation looks even worse.

Jamaicans can thank one man for much of that. Twenty-eight-year-old Keith Gardner won a Gold medal for first place in the 100-yard dash and the 120 hurdles and a silver medal for second place in the 220.

In terms of team strength and production, no country can match the Bahamas. Its one-man team of speedy Tommy Robinson left with a gold medal for the 220, and a silver for the 100.

Singapore was a close second to the Bahamas. Singapore's two-man squad was composed of two weightlifters and each picked up a gold medal.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Mirdar, owned by J. E. Frowde Seagram, shattered the track record as he ran one mile in 1.36 3-5 over the grass course in winning the $7,500 Fair Play Stakes at the Fort Erie racetrack Saturday.

Mirdar, ridden by Sam Cosentino, sprinted into an early lead and won by four lengths. Top Tours was beaten for second money when Culpeper closed with a rush in the final 100 yards.

For the first time in the 61-year history of the track three stakes races were run in one afternoon. There were also two divisions of the Summer Stakes, each division carrying a purse of $5,000.

Willowdale Boy, owned by Peter Del Greco, won the first division by slightly more than a length. Bull Vic was second while Bold Brigand was third. Willowdale Boy, ran the five and one half furlongs in 1.07.

Grand Passion, owned by Larkin Maloney and Coon Smythe, won the second division in 1.08. Her more widely fancied stablemate, La Grand' Rouge, was second. Rapid Break finished third.

Games Standings

CARDIFF (CP) — England's athletes gave one of their most impressive displays in international competition today as they swept to the unofficial team championship of the 1958 British Empire Games.

The champions, first in seven of the final-day events and among the top six in all but one, added 106 points to swell their total for the seven days to 633½. Australia finished second with 496, 137½ points behind the leaders.

South Africa was third with 238 and Canada fourth with 179.

The unofficial standings, based on a 10-6-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finishers in each event, are:

England	633½
Australia	496
South Africa	258
Canada	179
New Zealand	143½

Detroit Club Winners of Canadian Henley

By RON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—Detroit Boat Club, after 47 years of finishing behind the leaders, now knows what it is like to win the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta.

Detroit won the Maple Leaf Trophy Saturday, finishing first in point standings after the four-day program. The winner thus broke a nine-year monopoly Buffalo West Side and St. Catharines had held on the championship.

The Detroit entry rolled up 379.75 points, second-biggest total in the 10-year history of official point standings, to finish well ahead of second-place St. Catharines, which nosed out Buffalo by a half point with 345.

With a 122.25-point lead over Buffalo going into Saturday's program, Detroit coasted to the championship midway through the afternoon's events. Altogether 18 events were entered in 18 final events and won 12 of these. It finished second in two others and third in another three.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, July 29, 1958

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Your views and those of one in authority do not coincide at all. Before you set remarks from this unusual day, it is wise to listen attentively to the ideas of Bigwigs. Then by learning, you are successful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Be wary of entering into any venture with strangers today, no matter how sincere and lucrative it may appear, or you will regret it. Be sure to look into the matter thoroughly. Also, discard any plan from literature in the mail.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Are most eager to spend far more than your pocketbook will allow today. Strengthen your willpower, present financial position, making present financial position, making present business pop more by being more efficient and wide awake.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Your partner is certainly in a new today and very likely to take part on you. Understand that is due to an inner conflict. Make it your business to have perfect balance and set a precedent. Arguing helps not at all.

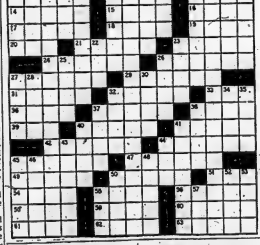
Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Here is a day when you impress others with your fine equilibrium in the face of emergencies. This is the greatest lesson anyone can learn and it will stamp you as a leader, help you to a better position in life.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Anxious as you are to be ready for important social function in the evening, you could very easily today be rather short with beautician, barber, tailor. Relax with them instead and you will find yourself beautifully composed in P.M.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) That unpleasant situation at home could certainly turn into a battle today if you feel led to fire fire, don't enter that new deal unless aspects are more favorable for you.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you do not exercise care while driving or walking today, you may be laid up for some time to come. Be sure to give a word of praise to your relatives and friends so that greater harmony may be achieved between you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you do not attend to monetary affairs with great wisdom and cleverness today, you could lose much of the hard-earned savings you have. Think twice before you spend, and go over accounts carefully before you pay.



Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) How you are tempted to give those about a good piece of your mind today! This would be foolhardy. Relax and analyze situation calmly, find out what is at the bottom of it all. When you know, plan accordingly to own advantage.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fuming and fretting over some unavoidable mistake does you no good at all. Get busy with commitments you have made and restore your wounded ego. Also, be sure to help those who need help badly, but only the most deserving.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) You have some older and terribly serious friends who feel you should tag along with them, and are very puerile not to do so. Don't be swayed. Profess having some very important work to do and busy yourself at something.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting little child born today is the type who will soon start arguing over every little thing. If you permit, plus being a past master at working out all sorts of schemes. So it is your duty to instill directness of method into your youngster and how far to let fellow man. Then when a deep philosophy and diplomacy are also learned, the child is fine for a really brilliant career.

Princess Plans Ranch on Island Given to Her

VANCOUVER (CP)—Princess Margaret plans to establish a residence and possibly a cattle-breeding ranch on the island given to her by the people of British Columbia, Provincial Agriculture Minister Newton Stacey said Friday.

The princess, he said, would like to establish a ranch on the island as "a hobby."

The island, formerly Portland Island and renamed for Princess Margaret, was purchased by the provincial government in a $100,000 barter trade, so the government could give it to the princess. Recreation Minister Earle Westwood said Friday.

Mr. Stacey said the princess added that she hopes to come and visit the island after establishing a residence there.

QUEEN CREATES

Then his mother's voice came on the air. It was firm and clear with no trace of the stomatic which has kept her confined at Buckingham Palace for nearly three years.

STILL RANKS THIRD

The title brings no financial reward, nor does it affect the status of his 37-year-old wife as the first gentleman of the realm. Charles will still rank third in the formal order of precedence, behind the Queen and her husband.

As Prince of Wales the prankish schoolboy automatically became Duke of Rothesay 12 years ago in 1301. Charles already held one of the longest list of titles in the land. Even before until now has been:

The Royal Highness Prince Charles Philip Arthur George, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles and Prince and Great Steward of Scotland.

As Prince of Wales Charles also automatically became a knight of the Order of the Garter.

From the moment Elizabeth seconded the throne in 1952 it has been until now the only name Charles Prince of Wales.

URGED ACTION

Leaders of the Welsh community also urged the Queen in 1952 the people of Wales petitioned her to recreate the ancient title. But the Queen has always told friends she wanted to hold off until Charles was old enough to appreciate the honor. Saturday she made it clear that she will not formally invest him for a while yet.

"He is still a grown up I will present him to you at Carnarvon," she said.

Carnarvon Castle, where the Duke of Windsor was invested at the age of 17, is home to the birthplace of the first prince.

SCHOOL NOW OUT

Charles returned to Buckingham Palace today for the summer holidays and found a strange homecoming awaiting him. His catarthal sinusitis and his father absent on state visits in the southern England.

But the young prince had good news for them about his school work—top of the class in geography and good marks in French and mathematics, he told the Queen.

Charles returned to Buckingham Palace in London to be cheered by a small crowd at the palace gates.

Sunday was the first in 22 years that prayers had been said in churches for the Prince of Wales, the title traditionally given since the start of the 14th century by the eldest son of the reigning monarch.

HAMILTON HAS

Yvon Dupuis (I—St. Jean-Iberville - Napierville) defended the record of the late Liberal Postmaster-General Alcide Cote.

He said Mr. Hamilton, in opposition, had joined in partisan "acts" as if they had been invented by the Liberals." He had claimed mail service declined in the postal service. But Mr. Hamilton now admitted that in the last his five years' criticism of Liberal administration had been "only a video."

"AS STUPID"

Mr. Dupuis said Mr. Hamilton had once described Mr. Cote as stupid.

"I have never seen more stupid a man who has spent five years criticizing others and who, once in power, proves worse by repeat on a single error committed by the government he criticised so much."

Mr. Hamilton said mail burglaries increased by 100 per cent nine months in office but that was country-wide increase.

However, losses had been cut in the period to $130,000 from $160,000.

Mr. Hamilton said radical changes in mail handling and handling will be introduced in the next five years and would be widely used in Canada within 10 years. But he cautioned against any fears that staff would be drastically reduced. Some jobs—mailmen for example — would never be replaced by machines.

Canada's own electronic "accountant" machine has been a major project costing nearly $3,000,000 for research so far.

The basic idea shows promise, Mr. Hamilton said, "but at no point up to the present could it be said that the machine is anywhere near the point at which it might be placed—even at a certain basis—in a post office to test it on regular mail for any period of time."

SUMMIT MEET

The best guess now for the talks is Aug. 11, giving the council all this week for working out the ground rules, and the interested powers all the week following that for their preparations for the trip to New York.

WEST DIVIDED

The preparations went forward as the West's approach to summit talks on Middle East issues was marked by divisions among the U.S., British and France.

Observers indicated letters sent by Khrushchev Saturday to Macmillan and French Premier de Gaulle and Friday by Eisenhower showed some differences existed.

Macmillan wants speeding up a UN meeting in New York. De Gaulle's letter reiterated opposition to such a session because it held the danger of becoming an increasingly unwieldy affair. He wants a summit meeting in Europe.

In another summit reference, Russia warned the West Sunday that any move to bring Jordan and Lebanon into the Baghdad pact would be a "premeditated attack at the very idea of a summit conference."

Yellowknife Mayor Is Also Editor of a Sub-Arctic Canadian Newspaper

By ARCH MACKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Ted Horton is the crusading editor of one of Canada's most northerly newspapers, the weekly News of the North.

He also is mayor of Yellowknife, N.W.T., the only mayor in a region comprising about one-third of Canada's land area.

Editor Horton worries sometimes about reconciling responsibilities of impartial editorial criticism with his duties as mayor of Yellowknife, the gold-mining town of 3,000 which sprang up 21 years ago on Great Slave Lake 600 miles north of Edmonton.

His dilemmas of sorts became apparent here during his visit to the regular meeting of the Northwest Territories Council. He sat at the press table but from time to time was asked by council members to elaborate on some aspect of northern affairs—in his capacity as mayor.

On Yellowknife's civic nomination day earlier this year, a delegation called on the 50-year-old editor and suggested he "put up or shut up." They reminded him of various civic matters that had drawn sharp editorial criticism. Mr. Horton, on reflection, ran for mayor, won and has served six months of his two-year term.

"The dual role has bothered me sometimes," he acknowledged in an interview. "I know that on some council matters in the last six months I'd have risked hell in the papers."

He writes a weekly column for his paper, entitled From the Mayor's Chair. But this, he confesses with a grin, tends to be weighted by the mayor's views.

Mr. Horton, a short, stocky man with a head of thick, bristly black hair shot through with grey, arrived in Yellowknife in 1946 from Edmonton where he had been legislature reporter for the now-defunct Bulletin.

He had borrowed $500 and with his wife and three children had flown north on the strength of an attractive offer to edit the News of the North for its owner. Mr. Horton did not find conditions to his liking but dug in. He later formed a company and bought the paper. Starting with an old circulation list he discovered, he built the weekly's circulation to 1,500.

He was on his own from the start, operating on the principle that a newspaper has to be critically independent to live.

"It's dead any other way," he said emphatically, claiming that a campaign to get Canadian Pacific Airlines fees reduced has been one of his main projects. He says he got two reductions.

Municipally, he's practised what he used to preach in his editorials by going in for deficit financing with a program of civic improvements. As editor, he still feels free to take pot shots at business, civil servants and the federal and territorial governments.

Earthy jokes sprinkled liberally through his paper are a feature known throughout his vast circulation area, ranging from the Mackenzie River delta in the Arctic to settlements near the Alberta border.

Their tone may be a "little risque," he confessed, as he recalled with relish the time a councillor complained about three of them.

The council delivered a reprimand — although editor Horton stresses it was not unanimous.

"But the unkindest cut was that when the three jokes were told to the council, not a darned member laughed. That hurt."

In the past, after such a protest, he has been known to run the next week's joke column empty except for a large "censored." But, gradually, the jokes crept into the News of the North returns.

Mr. Horton has pangs of nostalgia at times about southern Canada. He is a native of Vegreville, Alt., where he learned the printing trade in his father's shop. He sometimes misses trees and grass—Yellowknife is north of the tree line.

But he is an enthusiastic booster of Yellowknife — right down to the golf course with its peat greens where golfers have been known to carry shotguns in an effort to stop ravens from hawking the balls.

JAPAN BUILDING A BIGGER EIFFEL

It may look as though the famed Eiffel Tower is being torn down, but this scene is actually taking place in Tokyo. The Japanese TV tower is expected to be completed in December, 1958, with a planned height of 1,083 feet which will make it the world's tallest independent tower. It will top the Eiffel by 104 feet and will be the third highest man-made structure, behind a 1,610-foot supported tower in Horwell, New Mexico, and the 1,472-foot Empire State building.

FIRST TILT-WING PLANE IN FLIGHT

The Vertol Aircraft Corporation has announced that the world's first tilt-wing VTOL (vertical take-off and landing) research aircraft had successfully completed transition flights. Here's a close-up view of the VTOL, which can take off and land like a helicopter and fly in level flight like a fixed wing aircraft. For take-off and hovering as shown in this photograph, the pilot tilts his wing up to the vertical position and climbs straight up. For forward flight, he tilts the wing forward to the horizontal position. The VTOL will be capable of attaining speeds in the 350-450 mph. range.

Youth Misses Injury From Runaway Boat

CAMPBELLFORD — Seventeen-year-old Paul Linton, of Campbellford, narrowly missed being struck by a runaway outboard motor boat in Meadowgrass Bay on the Trent River north of here on Friday night when he was thrown from the craft, which was travelling at high speed.

Linton left the cockpit to make adjustments to the 35 hp. motor at the stern. Witnesses estimated the boat's speed at 30 mph and said the balance of the craft shifted when Linton went to the rear. The boat jumped twice, tossed the boy out, circled twice—Linton managed to duck each time—charged down the bay—struck a cement pier supporting a channel marker, then careened onto tiny Tee-Pee Island.

A tourist, Bob Blakely of Toronto, heard Linton's shouts for help and took his boat out and picked the lad up. Damage to the boat was extensive. It was owned by Linton's uncle, Chas. Calver of Campbellford.

Whistling past the graveyard

This driver is a lot closer to the graveyard than he thinks. At the speed he's going, even a minor mistake in judgment could cause a major highway disaster.

Reckless speed is the cause of too many fatal accidents on the road. And sometimes even the speed limit can be misleading—you can be within the limit and still be going too fast for driving conditions.

Here's an easy rule of thumb to guide you to a safe speed: always drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in the distance that's clear ahead. At night, drive at a speed that will permit you to stop within headlight range. If you are tired, or inattentive—don't drive at all.

One simple way to check whether your speed is too high or not is to watch the traffic around you. If you are passing most of the other cars on the road, you are going too fast. If most of them are passing you, you are going too slow.

Your Ontario Department of Transport urges you to observe the speed limits—slow down and live!

LEBANON PREMIER ESCAPES ASSASSIN

Ike Said Ready To Denounce New Proposal

U.S. Sees Talks Off, But British Still Hope

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is reported to be ready to denounce Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new proposal for a quick Middle East summit conference outside the United Nations.

It is understood Eisenhower will reaffirm his willingness to attend a summit parley—but only within the 11-member UN Security Council.

Barring a sudden Soviet change, Khrushchev's angrily-worded letter appeared to kill chances for any emergency heads-of-government meeting in the near future.

Eisenhower was expected to make his attitude known today after meeting with Secretary of State Dulles who is flying back from a flying visit to London.

VICIOUS, INSULTING LETTER

In advance of this, authoritative officials called Khrushchev's message to Eisenhower as vicious and insulting.

Eisenhower will meet certainly, they said, reject as unacceptable Khrushchev's bid for immediate five-power talks in Moscow or any other European city.

Some authorities felt Eisenhower should counter Khrushchev's bid by announcing he will show up for a high-level Security Council meeting, whether or not the Soviet leader does.

ATTITUDE UNCHANGED

The White House foreshadowed Eisenhower's attitude late Monday when it announced there was no change in the president's proposal for keeping the meeting within the UN.

One of Khrushchev's accusations was that Eisenhower was "not working for a settlement of the military conflict . . . in the interests of preserving peace" but seeking to expand Middle East conflicts "with the threat of world catastrophe."

These remarks were looked upon as not only personally offensive but as part of a renewed campaign to convince the world that British and American troop landings in Jordan and Lebanon pose an immediate war threat.

LONDON (AP) — Britain still clung to hopes of a summit conference today, despite the increasing bitterness of preliminary exchanges.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's latest notes to Western leaders were seen as a setback to summit plans, but no reason why they should be scrapped.

The Khrushchev messages accused the United States and Britain of trying to avoid a conference.

They were a sharp blow to Prime Minister Macmillan who, under constant pressure at home, has led the West in working for a swift meeting.

It wr: felt the Kremlin has given Washington ample pretext for delay.

There was no immediate official foreign office comment but it is learned Macmillan will continue to press his proposal that heads of government should meet in the Security Council setting of the United Nations Security Council.

Macmillan is expected to study th Soviet note with members of his cabinet today.

HOUSE STUDIES NEED TO ASSIST TOURIST INDUSTRY

Talk Out Motion To Provide Loans

OTTAWA (CP) — The tourist trade, Canada's third - largest earner of foreign dollars, has drawn a day-long Commons discussion on some of its peeves, problems and potential.

The occasion Monday was a private resolution offered by Gordon Allen (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka), asking the government to help provide loans for building or improving tourist accommodation.

It drew support from speakers of all parties but the debate ended without a vote, consigning the proposal to a pigeon-hole for the rest of the session. In the process, many members took the opportunity to voice generous praise of the tourist attractions in their own constituencies.

Mr. Allen said neglect is losing Canada its tourist industry position. Resort operators needed government-backed loans, available through accredited lending institutions in the same way as farmers are.

AFTER NEWSPRINT, WHEAT

The trade was a seasonal one, not regarded as basic security but came to obtaining loans. Yet the industry ranked only behind newsprint and wheat in bringing in foreign earnings.

The Canadian Resident in United States tourist dollar is declining, he said.

William Knock (L—Niagara Falls), speaking as member for a prime Canadian tourist attraction, urged the industry is fiercely competitive international-ly.

Canada should glamorize her attractions, holding more Canadians in spend inside the country. Canadian spending in other countries last year was equivalent to $98.50 for every person in Canada, while tourist capita amount of any country in the world, he said.

SHOULD BE LONGER

He added that persuading more Americans to stay longer in Canada would prevent a big warned that Canadians should take care to wipe out anti-American attitudes which had been developed.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) suggested the government allow its members to vote on the tourist resolution, which his party strongly favored. It contained some "pretty good" suggestions.

He said there seems to be a "tendency to have [illegible] tory" residence by Americans in Canada which [illegible] would cause more logging roads were taken over by the government of Ontario.

Andrew E. Robinson (PC — Bruce) said the primary proposal should make available, in case of war, better accommodation for Canadians evacuated to his area as a civil defence step.

Marvin Howe (PC—Wellington-Huron) said the Canadian tourist industry has not kept pace with that in other countries.

The reason might be in poor accommodation, unfair prices, unpleasant food. "People who travel make comparisons" and in other foreign newspapers before distribution.

Laos Censors Foreign Papers, Fears Red Coup

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Foreign newspapers were placed under censorship today after a surprise weekend shooting which alert was ordered for the police and army of this little Asian kingdom.

The alert was ordered Saturday and means that successors to the Communist-allied Pathet Lao forces in Sam Neua could be a cause they were forced out of the government last week. Former Premier Souvanna Phouma is expected to form another government within the leftist Neo Lao Haksat party.

An army officer said the alert was ordered in an effort to recover some army arms and ammunition reported to have been sold illegally to the public and smuggled into neighboring Thailand.

Police also are trying to trace radio equipment of the International armistice commission which was sold at auction recently.

The commission of Canada, India and Poland, established in 1954 to supervise the armistice that ended the Indochina War, has been at work in Laos last week. The implication was that the equipment might also have been smuggled into Thailand.

No reason was announced for the censorship of the Thai and other foreign newspapers before distribution.

Dies to Avoid Crashing Jet Into Houses

SELFRIDGE AIR BASE, Mich. (AP) — A 30-year-old veteran of the Korean fighting died in a plane crash in Lake St. Clair rather than let his disabled Sabre jet plummet into a residential area, officials said Monday.

Killed was Capt. Charles Tabor, of Mount Clemens, Mich., father of three children.

Tabor had requested an emergency landing at the base. The fighter caught fire. The request was granted and the field cleared.

But Tabor instead decided to head the burning plane out over Anchor Bay to avoid the possibility of crashing in a populated area near the base.

Police in Poland Raid Monastery, Carrying Away Records of Vows

WARSAW (AP)—Roman Catholic officials have protested the police invasion of a monastery in southeast Poland in which the Church taken by a million Poles. The raid came after a demand by the state prosecutor for information on the Institute of National Vows founded by Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland.

The Church charged that police broke down the gates of the monastery at Zakrzew (Hill) monastery, a national shrine, and stripped the building of records of vow books, records, and tape recordings.

A spokesman for Cardinal Wyszynski said the police beat a man who tried to stop them and that three truckloads of reserves dispersed a crowd of protesting pilgrims outside.

A million Poles made a pilgrimage to the monastery in August, 1956, and took vows of allegiance to the Church which were kept in the institute.

After Year's Hunt Phone Co. Finds Boys' Private Exchange

PITTSBURG (AP) — Three teen-age boys, described by police as "absolute geniuses" in making electronic devices and in making trouble for themselves", were in custody today on charges of stealing and tampering with telephone company equipment.

Officers said the boys built their own phone exchange in an underground telephone tunnel with hundreds of dollars worth of equipment stolen from the phone company.

The arrest climaxed year-long investigation by police and phone company detectives. The company's electronic equipment was unable to trace the source of long distance calls made from somewhere in the city's Highland Park section. Linemen tried to trace the calls by making a pole-by-pole check but had no luck.

"We never dreamed they had gone underground," said a phone company detective. "These boys would all make first-class electronic engineers."

Police said the oldest boy, who is 17, designed a device that would be used to tap phone calls without being detected.

The boy bragged that the device was good as anything the phone company has, or better."

Princess Ends Rockies Tour Royal Train Being Readied

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Princess Margaret ended her Canadian Rockies visit Monday with an horseback jaunt, a successful search to look at a family of black bears and then cocktails and filet mignon at a state dinner.

Earlier in the day she mingled among 600 students at a mountainside art school where she and Prince Charles cries of "Vive la Princess" and made a brief tour of the nearby army cadet camp.

Tuesday Banff time — mornings for a public consisting chiefly of about 30,000 national park guests.

The afternoon or herself at a mountain lodge that served as a ranch-style official residence.

VISITS CALGARY TODAY

After the Alberta government dinner, she boarded a special train for a night's sleep. The princess took leave for Calgary, where she will make a 100-minute stopover. She will see a minature performance of the famous Calgary Stampede.

The princess then will fly to Albert national park, where she will spend the night in a luxurious Waskesiu townsite cottage. Travelling by helicopter, she will visit a dairy farm Wednesday before boarding a plane for Toronto.

The princess went to bed Monday on a horse named Eagle for a trip through the nearby valley, to see, among other things, the mountain which was named, for her.

With her went her two ladies-in-waiting, chief national park warden R. H. Hand and park superintendent G. H. L. Dempster. They returned to the lodge and the princess said she wanted to see some bears.

(PRINCESS Page 13)

TORONTO (CP)—There are 128 square feet of mystery aboard the train which will carry Princess Margaret on most of her tour of Eastern Canada beginning Wednesday.

When Toronto newspaper men viewed the royal train on a sliding Monday, two rooms measuring 16 by eight feet in the 11-car train were locked. One was marked "For Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret" and the other "Princess Elizabeth's Wardrobe."

Canadian National Railways employees declined to unlock the doors of the compartments for the press group.

PAINTED PINK

"Nobody is allowed to see the princess' bedroom," said porter Percy Corbin, 66. But Albino Faulcon, 29, panamanian, said the princess' bedroom is painted pink, has two windows, wall dressing table and private bathroom and shower.

Attlee Feels U.S. Ignorant About Mid-East

LONDON (CP) — Earl Attlee, former Labor prime Minister, told the House of Lords the British government should take a stronger lead in the Middle East.

"I do not think that our American friends have the wealth of experience that we command in this country on Middle East problems," he said.

"I always found in my time that there were an awful lot of lawyers in the state department and I do not think they are awfully good in foreign affairs."

6 HAITI REBELS SEIZE BARRACKS, THEN WIPED OUT

Capture 50 Soldiers In Daring Revolt

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) A band of exiled army officers seized barracks next to the national palace early today but the rebels were reported wiped out in a swift government counter-attack.

The band, believed to number no more than six, landed by launch under cover of darkness, commandeered trucks and seized the yellow stucco Caserne Dessalines army post shortly after midnight.

The band captured 50 soldiers after a brief clash in which the army said three rebels and an artillery officer were killed.

Government forces counter - attacked, retook the barracks, then killed the last holdout rebel in a burst of machine-gun fire, the army reported.

Radio Port-au-Prince said the rebels were supporters of former president Paul Magloire, now in exile in the United States. It also said two Americans were in the rebel group.

Shooting broke out shortly after midnight and was still going on at 8:30 a.m.

A succession of radio announcers at the only station in operation this morning urged the people to arm themselves and go to the police and army fighting Francois Duvalier. The radio also summoned all soldiers to the barracks.

The situation was extremely confused as no one seemed to know what was going on.

Palace sources expressed the belief the rebellion was led by two former army captains who have been in exile in Miami, Alix Pasquet and Phillip Dominique.

They were reported to be supporters of Magloire, who was overthrown by a general strike in December, 1956, after serving as president for six years.

The rebel band also had seized the army barracks at St. Marc, about 100 miles north of Port-au-Prince. St. Marc is a small port city with a highway leading to the interior.

President Duvalier has held office for nine months. During that period he has crushed two conspiracies against his government.

Police Probe Fatal Shooting

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—City detectives Monday continued their investigation into the shooting death of Mrs. Joyce Alexander, shot through the heart with a .22 calibre bullet early Saturday in her basement apartment here.

Police are treating the case as suicide but the bullet which killed the 31-year-old housewife may never have been fired from the pistol that night.

Charged with her murder is Pal Salamon, 49, a recent Russian-born immigrant. Salamon was remanded to Aug. 5 for preliminary hearing.

Police say the shooting was a sequel to a house party attended by Mrs. Alexander and Salamon. Chamoun.

ALL SEEM AGREED

Parliamentary Speaker Adel Osseyran said there was general agreement among all parties that Shehab will be elected to succeed Chamoun.

Misses Death By Split Second As Car Explodes

Bomb Intended for Him Kills 8 Other Persons

BEIRUT (CP)—Prime Minister-Saeq Solh missed death by a split second today when would-be-assassins blew up a parked car a few yards ahead of his automobile.

The prime minister was not hurt but eight other persons perished and a five-year-old girl was hurt so badly she was given little chance to survive. The dead included a policeman on a motorcycle, three gendarmes in jeep and four persons in a car just ahead of the prime minister's.

Detonator wires from the exploded car run up the hillside along the road to a spot from which two men were seen to run away.

THEY WERE HOT HASTY

It appeared they were trying to kill the prime minister but pushed the detonator too soon. Had they waited a fraction of a second longer the prime minister would have been killed by the blast. The incident occurred on a road two miles east of Beirut.

The prime minister passes here daily en route to his Beirut office from his home in suburban Koubeyr. The radio also summoned all soldiers to the police.

The situation was extremely confused as no one seemed to know what was going on.

Palace sources expressed the belief the rebellion was led by two former army captains who have been in exile in Miami, Alix Pasquet and Phillip Dominique.

President Duvalier has held office for nine months. During that period he has crushed two conspiracies against his government.

The assassination attempt was a blow to rising hopes that the insurrection was nearing an end. The optimistic forecasts of Saturday night after Gen. Fuad Shehab, Lebanese army chief, was officially proposed as a candidate for the presidency.

Shehab, who has walked tightrope between Chamoun and the rebels, was endorsed by a group of government parliamentary deputies, along with many opposition leaders and groups and third-force "neutralists."

Parliament was scheduled to meet Thursday as an electoral college to decide on a new head of state.

ALL SEEM AGREED

Parliamentary Speaker Adel Osseyran said there was general agreement among all parties that Shehab will be elected to succeed Chamoun.

Seeing Pyjamas Underneath Gown, Boy Betrayed Nuri Said to Mob

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)—Nuri Said, late Iraqi premier and power behind the throne for years, was betrayed to the mob by a little boy sitting in a tree.

An uncensored account of the last hours of Iraq's "iron man" which reached Beirut from Baghdad told how the little boy gave the signal which started a mob tearing to pieces Nuri's corpse.

Iraq's woman, Sabieh Abbas, died at his side.

Nuri and Sabieh, escaped from his palace in the early hours of July 14 while the Baghdad mob surrounded the palace grounds.

The fugitives claimed sanctuary in the house of a friendly doctor. But when Baghdad Radio began broadcasting offers of 10,000 dinars ($28,000) reward for Nuri, the doctor became frightened and asked them to leave.

Nuri shaved off his mustache, made up his face, donned black clothes of a woman over his pyjamas and put on a veil.

The doctor handed them a bottle of his car and they were driven to the other side of the Tigris. There they left the car and began walking.

But the chauffeur was suspicious and in the meantime had informed the army.

Within minutes, tanks and cars began to converge on the area. In the wake of the army came the mob.

Nuri and Sabieh were being questioned by officers when they finally reached an acquaintance's house. But the door was slammed in their faces and once again they were pushed out into the street among the mob.

They wandered through the streets until they passed a little boy sitting on the ground. The boy saw Nuri's pyjamas protruding from his disguise and told a group of soldiers.

Dulles Pledges Aid to Members Of Baghdad Pact

LONDON (AP) — The United States continued discussions today with Britain as the key partner in the Baghdad Pact with Britain, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan.

Secretary of State Dulles arrived in Washington would confer and the three Asian nations still active in the alliance in the bolster the group after the apparent loss of its only Arab member, Iraq.

Dulles' arrival here Monday sightened U.S.' military commitments in the area but did little to extend them. Iran is the only one of the four active members now with which the United States had no direct military alliance and it is in the Northern Tier Pact zone area that Washington had promised to aid against Soviet aggression.

John Hay Whitney, U.S. ambassador to Britain, was to represent the United States as an observer at the meeting of the alliance's council of ministers.

"Dulles flew home Monday night after signing a new pact of military support with the prime ministers of Iraq and Pakistan.

The U.S. action was welcomed in Britain and by the three delegates from Asia but drew the expected criticism from Moscow radio. Dulles' views of fishing muddy waters, especially in those he himself has muddled," a Soviet broadcast said.

Polio Vaccine Better Than Salk's Coming

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) A polio vaccine that can be swallowed will replace Salk vaccine in one or two years, an American professor said today.

Dr. Albert B. McKelvey, professor of obstetrics and gynaecology at the University of Minnesota, said the new drug is "far superior" to Salk vaccine and promises nearly-total immunity.

Developed by Dr. Harold Cox a scientist in an American drug company, the drug is presently in Mexico and Colombia the spokesman said. It is stated to be promised almost total immunity. It is not necessary for a doctor or nurse to administer it vaccine and therefore it is cheaper.

It will not only prevent a person from developing active polio myelitis, but also prevent his carrying or spreading the disease, McKelvey said. Salk vaccine apparently has reduced the paralytic rate of polio considerably, but it does not prevent persons from contracting the germ and transmitting it.

Finance and Revenue Commissioner Fay Young gave himself $7.50 instead of $375.

On Saturday night, Hank Walton and Orval Thornton, of Belleville, were fishing in the upper reaches of the river and landed a 'muskie' weighing 36 pounds, and measuring 56 inches in length. This is not the first time the Thornton fishers have landed a muskie, as about five or six years ago Mr. Thornton and his older son, Archie, caught one weighing 37 pounds and 45 inches in length.

Council to Seek Clover-Leaf at Purdy Sideroad

City council decided Monday afternoon to petition the provincial government in an attempt to have a clover-leaf built on Highway 401 at the Purdy Sideroad, just east of the city.

Council voted unanimously in favor of Alderman William Arzow's recommendation during a special meeting called to iron a couple of money by-laws.

Before formally presenting his recommendation, Ald. Argue explained that it is "either obvious another access road, between Highways 401 and 2, is desirable if not a necessity."

Ald. Argue pointed out that the closest clover-leaf to Belleville in the east is at the Shannonville Gravel. He contended that failure to build an access road closer to the city might result in a decline in business for those concerned, in particular and local merchants in general.

Present access roads close to Belleville are located on Highways 14 and 37. Ald. Argue declared an obvious traffic congestion at these points if tourists are obliged to detour to the city down those highways. A third clover-leaf at the Purdy Sideroad would alleviate the possibilities of traffic snarls further west.

Both the Chamber of Commerce and the Belleville Transportation are in favor of the city's making representation to the provincial government, he said.

62 Young Girls Rotary Guests At Roblin Lake

Sixty-two young girls were guests of Belleville Rotary Club last night when the club held a supper meeting at the Salvation Army Children's Camp at Roblin Lake.

The Rotary Club was invited to the camp by Capt. Morgan Flannigan of the mid-Ontario division, Toronto, to see what is being done for the less fortunate children.

The little guests, ranging in age from eight to 13 years, hailed from such places as Port Hope, Bowmanville, Kingston, Picton and Campbellford.

Brig. Flannigan explained the first 8-day camp session was for girls outside Belleville, while the second group will be primarily Belleville and district children. Seventy children have registered for the second session. Similar camp periods will be held for the boys next month.

A brief business meeting was conducted by the president, Jack Wannamaker, at conclusion of the dinner.

The guest M.C. for the evening was Brig. Flannigan who welcomed the Rotarians and their guests. "These precious ones come to us for a short time . . . and go back to their homes better Christians and certainly better Canadians" he said.

A novel gesture was the crowning by Mrs. Flannigan of Rotarian Dr. Austin Walters as King-for-a-day. Dr. Walters conferred with the little blond crowned Miss who had been crowned Queen-for-a-day at an earlier camp session.

Rotarians were then taken on a tour of the camp to view the facilities provided for the children.

Don't Be Scared The Mud Puppy Won't Hurt You

Sometimes anglers and commercial fishermen especially in Prince Edward County, catch a strange live beast about 1 ft. to 18 inches long, with four legs and large feathery gills on either side of its head. This is a Mud Puppy and is one of our most interesting animals.

It is a relative of the salamanders, but unlike most of them becomes sexually mature while still in its juvenile form. A few salamanders also have this peculiarity. Unlike the rest of the Canadian Amphibians (frogs and salamanders) the Mud Puppy does not hibernate in winter, but can often be observed moving around under the ice, sometimes in considerable numbers.

Although it is commonest around Lake Ontario and in southern Ontario it extends north to about the 50th degree of latitude, but is not common that far north. The food habits of the Mud Puppy are not well known, but it probably feeds mainly on insects, but will not be averse to fish if it can catch them or find them dead.

It almost certainly will not interfere in any way with game fish or disease, so that it is many believe it to be, in the least bit poisonous.

The tender from Lightfoot — $14,782.75 — was the lowest one received. Cobourg Construction Co. submitted a tender to do the work for $16,589.15.

Ald. Douglas Moxam congratulated City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull for "the great job he has done and for saving the city of Belleville over $2,000."

Council also passed a by-law authorizing the borrowing of $120,000 upon debentures for the construction of an addition to Belleville General Hospital.

City Manager Drury Denyes explained that the addition has already been built and that borrowing of the money is to fulfill the city's pledge to the hospital. Another $50,000, he said, will come from the county.

The city was authorized to borrow $18,228.27 upon debentures to finance the construction of trunk roads on South-view Ave., Hyde Park Ave., and Porter Ave. City Manager Denyes explained that the work has been completed.

A by-law before council was a by-law authorizing Corby Public Library to be remodelled and enlarged at a cost not exceeding $100,000. It was passed by unanimous consent, as was a by-law authorizing the construction of a concrete curb on part of Southview Ave.

Next meeting of city council is scheduled for September 2.

Use Satellites To Detect Bombs Is Proposal

GENEVA (Reuters)—Scientists from Britain and America announced Monday they have reached agreement regarding the problem of detecting nuclear tests at high altitudes and revealed that earth satellites could be used for monitoring such tests.

The 21st closed session of the nuclear test detection conference ended with a communique, which said:

"The conference of experts today approved conclusions regarding the problem of detecting by nuclear explosions carried out at high altitudes with the aim of controlling a possible agreement on the cessation of nuclear tests.

"The conference agreed that it is possible to use the registration of gamma rays and neutrons, with properly instrumented earth satellites, of ionospheric disturbances by appropriate techniques, and of light, for the detection of explosions at several high altitudes.

"The conference then exchanged views on the applicability of the various methods of detection in varying circumstances, preparatory to discussion of how the methods might be combined in a control system."

The scientists already have approved the four basic methods of detecting nuclear explosions—by acoustics, by electro - magnetic waves, by seismic waves, and through the collection of radioactive products.

IN MEMORIAM

SHAFFEE. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Stella Shaffee, who passed away 29th, 1956, and father, Mr. Jack Shaffee, who passed away one month ago today.
We think now when we awake the morn,
The sorrows the day would bring;
For the calls were sudden, the shocks severe,
To part from those we loved so dear.
—Betty, Glen and boys.

Clean up Don Far as Princess Can See, Smell

TORONTO (CP)—A crew of workmen was busy Monday tidying up the murky Don River for the arrival of Princess Margaret, Thursday.

The princess is to disembark from the royal train beside the river near a zoo in midtown Riverdale Park and cross a foot-bridge to be greeted by lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay and Mayor Phillips.

The while bridge was repainted Monday and streams of water played along the banks in an attempt to push accumulated muck and garbage into the river. Gallons of chlorine and other chemicals will be dumped into the water upstream from the bridge shortly before her arrival.

A city engineer said the plan is to clean up the river as far as the princess can see—about the next 200 yards on either side of the bridge.

Say Price War Used in Effort To Get Monopoly

OTTAWA (CP) — The restrictive trade practices commission says two Canadian companies in 1955 initiated a price war in an attempt to monopolize the manufacture of zinc oxide in Canada.

A 193-page commission report made public today by Justice Minister Fulton, says Zinco Limited, Company of Canada Limited, with the assistance of Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company Limited, tried "to discourage any other person from establishing a zinc oxide industry in this country."

The report, dated July 3, recommends that the federal government seek court orders restraining the two companies from entering into price concessions in effect between them during the period of the price war.

It also suggests that consideration be given to removal of customs duties on refined zinc, the metal from which zinc oxide is produced.

AIMED AT BRITISH FIRMS

The report says the price war was designed to eliminate two competitors of Zoco — Durham Industries (Canada) Limited and Canadian Felling Zinc Oxide Limited, both British companies.

More Rabies Reported in Grey County

CHESLEY (CP) — Three more cases of rabies have been identified in Grey County during the week, bringing to 15 the number of rabies - infected animals killed in the area since July 1.

Dr. T. J. Cornish, federal veterinarian for Grey and Bruce counties, said Monday night.

"Every case so far has been in the red fox," he stated. "If some method could be found to control them, the disease could be eradicated in Grey County."

The federal veterinarian said that the disease has not spread during the past week from the townships of Osprey, Artemesia, Proton and Collingwood, where it had been identified earlier in the month.

Virus Affects Tomato Crops In Essex County

HARROW (CP) — Widespread virus infection is threatening pepper, tomato, cucumber, melon and tobacco crops in southwestern Ontario.

Dr. C. D. McKeen of the science service laboratory here said Monday that the virus epidemic in Essex County is the worst since 1950.

"One hundred per cent infections of plants in many crops have been observed," Dr. McKeen said. "Tobacco fields have not escaped the virus although flue tobacco is less susceptible than burley varieties."

Dr. McKeen said that with proper treatment plants can show a considerable recovery. He said a survey showed Essex is more seriously affected than other areas in Ontario.

Flying Saucers Not Just Rumors Says Scientist

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Dr. Carl Jung, Swiss psychologist, says that unidentified flying objects are real and "show signs of intelligent guidance by quasi-human pilots."

"I can only say for certain these things are not a natural phenomenon," Jung said in a report released Monday. "A purely mechanical explanation is ruled out."

Jung, who started his research on the objects in 1946, released his report through the Aerial Phenomena Research Organization here.

"I have gathered a mass of observations of unidentified flying objects since 1944," Jung said. "The discs do not behave in accordance with physical laws, but as though without weight . . .

"If the extra-terrestrial origin of this phenomena should be confirmed this would prove the existence of an intelligent interplanetary relationship. What sort of fact that would be for humanity cannot be predicted. . . .

The sawdust pile near the cooperage mills has been cut five acres in size, but has never been a threat. Firemen soaked down the sawdust to cut the smoldering fires there.

Summer must be officially here. Yesterday while driving down Front Street a resident was seen taking his storm windows off. The last few days with temperature rising to the eighties must have been too much. He was the second resident of Trenton during the past week observed at this same task. Another citizen reports he still has storm windows left on and, if it will make one any cooler, he plans to prepare his windows for the coming winter months today.

Cigaret Firm Admits Smoking Linked to Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — A British cigaret manufacturer says its research division now is proceeding on the basis that a link between smoking and lung cancer "has been established beyond all reasonable doubt."

Patrick O'Neil-Dunne, world technical director of Rothmans of Pall Mall, said Monday in a statement "the enormous weight of statistical evidence linking lung cancer with heavy smoking can no longer be refuted."

While the exact relationship between smoking and cancer of the human lungs is not known "for the obvious reason that laboratory experiments cannot be conducted on human beings," the statement says application of tobacco tar on the skin of animals has produced cancer "and therefore proved that tobacco smoke condensate contains carcinogenic (cancer-causing) substances which are at least active in animals."

TO REDUCE TAR INTAKE

Mr. O'Neil-Dunne adds, however, there is increasing scientific belief that if the tar intake from a single cigaret were reduced to 20 milligrams there would be "a significant reduction" in the risk of smoking. "Most of the world's cigarets today," he says, "are in the vicinity of 30 milligrams. There are many which exceed 40 milligrams."

The tar intake from a single cigaret, the statement says, may be reduced by the use of tobaccos of low tar content, filting an effective filter, or stubbing out the cigaret about one-third the length of the cigaret.

BABIES, REFRIGERATORS AND CARS

Bishop De Mel of Kurunagala, Ceylon, attending the Lambeth Conference of the Anglican Church in London, has been bemoaning the fact that refrigerators are a formidable obstacle to the state of holy matrimony in his homeland. Refrigerators are so very important in that hot country that a married couple may regard the possession of one as a sine qua non - - without which they have nothing.

"But in countries like Canada with a more moderate temperature, most of the year as at any rate, the sine qua non is an automobile," observes the St. Thomas Times-Journal. A car, says the St. Thomas paper, "takes precedence over a baby."

"The young folk," it adds, "also feel that a car is a hallmark of social standing. The poorest people can have babies - - and when they count their blessings they may find that a baby brings more happiness than a car."

We wish some other editors, and politicians, would read this and endeavor to reconcile the St. Thomas paper's argument with the contention, widely advanced whenever the question of excise taxes on automobiles is discussed, that a car is a necessity in our modern civilization and that therefore it should not be burdened with what is essentially a luxury tax.

The resulting argument should be interesting, for we think there is much to be said for both sides.

We were never convinced that a car was an essential for everyone, but at the same time many families would have to change their way of living if they were deprived of an automobile. By this we do not mean that they would merely have to change their places of residence, or find themselves new jobs nearer their homes. Indeed, there may even be cases where the possession of a car makes it possible for a family to afford a baby, rather than depriving them of that pleasure. It is a dangerous subject on which to generalize.

Whether the same holds true for refrigerators and the state of holy matrimony in Ceylon we do not know.

THAT CANADIAN EXHIBIT AT BRUSSELS

Considerable criticism has been voiced, both inside and outside the House of Commons, regarding Canada's exhibit at the Brussels International Exhibition.

Party lines have been crossed, one of the most recent critics in the Commons having been J. C. Horne, the voluble Progressive Conservative M.P. for Restigouche Madawaska, while outside the House the latest to take up the cudgels on behalf of the critics is the Sudbury Star, a staunchly Conservative paper.

"Some of the earlier criticisms were that the planning of the Canadian exhibit had been left in the hands of the 'arty' crowd and 'modernism' ran wild in design," says the Star.

The same complaint, in much stronger words, has been voiced by other publications by what may be termed the conventional school in art.

However, much though we doubt that the average Canadian has any deep affection for so-called "modern" art, we can not bring ourselves to be greatly troubled by the charge that "modernism" has predominated in our exhibit because of the influence of "the 'arty' crowd."

It seems to us that "the 'arty' crowd" is exactly the group which should be responsible for arranging an exhibit of Canadian art and if the "modernists" are influential enough to obtain their own way with respect to the exhibit, then the exhibit presents a reasonably accurate picture of the state of art in this country.

We are willing to even-tempered when we are told by the Sudbury Star that "it was impossible to find good Canadian products such as maple syrup and Canadian apples." If this be true it is a grievous fault and grievously should somebody answer for it. The first thing we know they'll be telling us that there is no Toronto Hastings scheduled to be had in the Canadian pavilion. Add this to the fact that the restaurant in the pavilion is run by a Belgian and you wound a Canadian's pride where it hurts much more than in the field of art.

FEELING SUPERIOR

There is nothing like the power to demolish and leave in ruins the superstitions and fallacies that others cherish for inducing a feeling of superiority. The scorn of a six-year-old regarding his junior by one year wise to the fact that Father Christmas does not make the journey down the chimney to fill the stockings is something he will never equal in later life even if he is destined to be known as "the Rupert of debate." —(The Times of London.)

STIRLING CENTENNIAL

This year the neighboring village of Stirling celebrates its 100th birthday. Centennial celebrations are being held August 3rd—9th, and a special souvenir booklet has been prepared by a committee under Mr. D. A. Macfarlane.

Dedicated to "all those who have labored and built that we might live more abundantly" this booklet tells the story of Stirling from the earliest beginnings down to the present day.

It was after the American Revolution (known by our good friends south of the line as the "War of Independence") that Stirling found a place on the map. In 1784, the United Empire Loyalists reached Adolphustown, and settlement spread into the township of Rawdon, from which township Stirling is located.

Early records show that on August 2nd, 1819, John Bleecker and Caleb Gilbert, government officers who had acted in the front of Sidney, were allotted lot 11 in Rawdon township Peter, now Stirling, subject on condition that they build within two years. Settlement followed before the mills were completed and Samuel Rosebush built a saw mill in 1820.

In the 1830's and 30's, settlers from the British Isles began to arrive in the Stirling area. Among the earliest was Robert Fisher, who, with his family, near Stirling, Scotland, in 1831, and settled on lot 20 where he built a family's interest in the Marmora mines but later purchased land in Rawdon Township, constructed a mill at Wellman's Corners, operated a lumbering export trade, and operated "Parker's Tavern" at Stirling.

Another was Richard Fidlar, the owner of the Stirling mills after 1831, who helped to shape the growth and development of Stirling in its earlier days".

The present village has been known by several names — Fid- on its 100th Birthday.

lar Mills (after mill owner Edward Fidlar); Seldon Mills (after a former mill owner, Sheldon Hawley); and Rawdon Mills (after the township).

The present name was given the community in the middle of the 19th century because the Scottish people thought that the surrounding countryside closely resembled that of Stirlingshire in Scotland, from whence many of them had come.

In 1832, there were probably only a half dozen houses where Stirling now stands. By 1846, the hamlet had acquired a population of about 125 persons, and boasted 1 grist and saw mill, 2 stores and one tavern for every 62 inhabitants.

By 1880, the population was estimated at about 700.

The County Directory for 1850-51 provides this interesting description of Stirling:

"The village of Stirling was incorporated in 1851. It is situated in the Township of Rawdon, is surrounded by a good agricultural country and is in a central position commands a large trade. Its buildings are of an excellent class, well finished, and composed of durable material.

"It has made rapid progress within the past few years, and from its natural location, and having an enterprising and wealthy people, is destined to become an important inland town.

"There are several first-class dry goods stores and grocery shops, and manufactories of various kinds. It has one of the finest flouring mills in the country—a substantial edifice of four stories high, and 50 by 72 feet in extent. Also, a Woollen Factory, a saw and blind factory, a carriage, cart, and cabinet and cooper's shops.

"The village has a pleasant situation, and is remarkably healthy."

The executive and members of the Hastings County Historical Society join with the people of the entire Quinte district in saluting the Village of Stirling

DEEP IN STUDY

Rev. Marie-Benoit, at 83 one of the oldest of the 54 monks in the Trappist order's monastery in the Lake St. John centre of Mistassini 300 miles north of Quebec City, is seen studying in the monastery library. He is a professor of philosophy and, with other members of the strict order, spends 17 hours each day in prayer and labor. (CP Photo).

Trappist Monks Are Said To Be Expert Farmers in Que. Agriculture Regions

MISTASSINI, Que. (CP)—One of the most important agricultural regions in Quebec province credits its prosperity to the work of the silent Trappists.

Toward the end of the last century, when the Lake St. John region was sparsely settled and uncultivated, the Quebec government and the Roman Catholic hierarchy of Quebec asked the Trappists — one of the strictest religious orders in the world—to establish a monastery here.

One reason for the request was that several years earlier the order had founded a monastery at Oka, north of Montreal, and the presence of the monks had encouraged settlement.

2,900-ACRE GRANT

When the Trappists consented and sent their first monks in 1892 the provincial government granted them a 2,000-acre tract of meadow and sandy hills near this village 300 miles north of Quebec City.

Today the Trappists' farm is a show place and through their example and encouragement colonization has surpassed the fondest hopes of religious and government officials.

The 54 monks forming the Mistassini community have constructed a village that is just about self sufficient. They have a dairy, a canning plant, a sawmill, a blacksmith shop and a refrigerated warehouse.

One-third of their land is under cultivation but their main source of revenue is livestock. Their 150 milk cows are considered among the finest in Canada.

One section of the farm is used for raising poultry and its flocks are 600 turkeys and 149 pigs.

PRAY MANY HOURS

While the Trappists have gained fame through their mode of farm they still devote most of their time to religious work. Of their 17 waking hours a day, 12 are reserved for prayer and meditation.

They live a communal life in absolute silence. When necessary information must be exchanged, a sign language is employed. Only the superiors of the order communicate with the outside world, and this on a restricted basis.

The monks pray for the general good of humanity without always knowing the immediate needs of the world. Sometimes, however, their prayers are more specific—as last summer when they prayed for settlement of a strike which paralyzed the booming aluminum industry in nearby Arvida for four months.

The monks see no papers or periodicals and they are told of important world or area happenings by their superior. For example, they were told the results of the June, 1957, federal election in which, for the first time in the history of the Mistassini Trappists, the monks were given permission by their order to vote.

The Trappists sleep fully clothed except for shoes and stockings, in a dormitory divided into alcoves by screens. They rise early to chant Matins, and retire late.

The monks could almost be classed as vegetarians. They are not allowed to eat meat, fish or eggs in addition they fast approximately seven months a year —from Sept. 14 to Easter. This is in addition to the regular fasts imposed on all Roman Catholics.

Another form of hardship comes from the periodic readings by the superior of the rules of the Trappists in an assembly of all monks. Often, usually about once a week, the superior ends the meeting by offering the floor to those who wish to accuse themselves publicly of having broken the rules.

Before accusing himself the monk prostrates himself while the others gather around. After public confession he is given a penance—usually prayers to be said while prostrated at the door of the refectory.

GREATEST TRIAL

These penalties, the long hours of prayer, hard work, frugal nourishment, perpetual silence, the vow of stability—living and dying in the same monastery, the interrupted sleep—All of these are considered light by the monks compared with the greatest trial of their existence, communal life 24 hours a day until death.

The natural inclination for privacy or to follow on intellectual or physical task of his own choice is never permitted a Trappists. His personality must become completely submerged in the community. This the monk considers his greatest cross.

There are about 300 Trappists in Canada in four monasteries. Besides the Mistassini and Oka monasteries while others are located at St. Norbert, Man., and near Rogersville, N.B.

Picnicking Families Cheer As if at Football Game When Pope Enters Church

By JAMES BACON

ROME (AP)— Some of the 50 pilgrims from England, France, Spain, Italy, Germany and other countries.

Next he circulates among the pilgrims, speaking in English, French, Italian or German.

His English is particularly good. He chattered with a Jewish couple from New York City. The wife a middle-aged woman, told His Holiness that this was the first time she had ever been inside a Catholic church.

"We are Jewish," she said. The Pope answered: "Then we are all brothers under Christ because Our Lord was a Jew."

All this time, the Pope never stopped smiling. The cries of "Viva Il Papa" continued. Pilgrims handed him rosaries and prayer books. He blessed each one individually.

His aides, some of them doctors, tried to get the 82-year-old Pontiff to cut the audience short, but he was enjoying it as much as the pilgrims.

Finally, after 90 minutes, the Pope ascended the throne again and gave the papal benediction to all and was carried out — to more cheers.

East-West Fight Goes on In Exotic Laos

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian who helped put a political lid on the Indochinese war says a critical struggle between East and West is taking place in Laos, land of opium smokers and parliamentary insouciance.

"It's an interesting struggle because Laos is one of the few places regarded by many as still in contest between Communist and anti-Communist forces," said William Olivier of Sherbrooke, Que.

The 43-year-old Olivier, once a reporter for the Sherbrooke Record, has just returned from Laos where he headed Canadian representatives on the three-power international supervisory commission.

External Affairs Minister Smith announced Friday that the commission has adjourned indefinitely. Canada and India agreed Thursday in Laos was finished and Communist Poland argued work should continue.

Parallel commissions remain in Cambodia and divided Viet Nam, the other Indochinese states. The Cambodian body likely will be dissolved shortly.

In Laos, what could develop into a ministerial crisis has arisen with the resignation of the prime minister, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

"Now it will be interesting to see whether the right-wing government forces can work out some agreement among themselves, and what effect the pro-Communist elements will have upon them," Mr. Olivier said in an interview.

For First Time 'Douks' Bomb Track of CNR

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—The Canadian National Railways was struck Monday for the first time in the long history of terrorist bombings in the British Columbia interior.

A 23-inch section of CNR track was demolished in an explosion 20 miles south of here in one of three bombings in the Okanagan area. A power pole was blasted nearby, cutting power to the surrounding district for several hours.

The other explosion was at Oliver, 60 miles south, where a small hole under CPR tracks, delaying the regular 9:45 train by an hour. CPR tracks have been a favourite target for the terrorists in southeastern B.C.

FAMILIAR PATTERN

The bombings follow the pattern of similar violence long associated with the Kootenay district to the east. CPR tracks and power poles were often blasted.

The explosions followed withdrawal of the large force of RCMP posted to the Okanagan district during Princess Margaret's visit two weeks ago.

The explosions gave evidence of a change in the main area of terrorist operations to the Okanagan from the easterly Kootenays, home of most members of B.C.'s Sons of Freedom Doukhobor.

The sect, which objects to compulsory schooling and other B.C. regulations, long has been linked with arson and dynamite.

Will Free Youth Who Wed Heiress

LONDON (AP) — Dominic Elwes, who defied the law by running away with shipping heiress Tessa Kennedy and marrying her in Cuba, will be released from prison on Wednesday.

Judge Rosalid Roxburgh ordered his release in high court today and thus put the end on a happy ending to the couple's troubled romance. The judge declared

"He has been in prison long enough to vindicate the rule of law and long enough to deter like-minded youths from indulging his foolish escapade."

Elwes, 36-year-old son of portrait painter Simon Elwes, came back to Britain with his bride two weeks ago and promptly broke up. Awaiting him was a high court order committing him to prison for contempt of court. The contempt order had been issued when he and Tessa, an infant ward of the court, eloped last December.

Charge Pilot Stole Plane

TORONTO (CP)—Jersey Dropzynski, 29, a part-time pilot, was charged Monday with theft of a plane Saturday night from Wheatley, Ont., to Toronto's Island airport.

Drozynski was arrested when he visited the airport Monday afternoon.

Airport attendants said the plane was landed by a man who identified himself as Hugh Borland of Wheatley, head of a construction company and owner of the plane. They said the man paid parking fees and said he would pick up the plane later.

In Wheatley, Mr. Borland said the plane was stolen. He said he received a telephone call from a former employee who told him he would never see the plane again unless he was paid $17 in back wages.

"Jest a Second"

"Excuse me sitting so close to you, but this place is so crowded later, and I like to choose who I'm crowded next to".

Sack, Chemise Absent From Paris Showings

PARIS (Reuters) — Hemlines were short but the sack, chemise and trapeze were absent from the collections of Jean Patou and Lanvin-Castillo which opened the Paris fall and winter fashion shows Monday.

Patou introduced a "X" line—the silhouette in profile resembling the letter X. The collection is the work of a hitherto unknown Swiss designer, Roland Karl.

With Lanvin-Castillo, the hemline has risen to 30 inches, barely covering the kneecaps, while waistlines have gone up to empire heights.

The Patou collection is restrained, using rich, luxurious fabrics elegantly underscored in Parisienne black, while hemlines are stable at 17 to 18 inches, just below the knee.

The princess silhouette is established with a lightly - fitted bodice and a waist, flaring sharply into stiffened flange-shaped skirts.

Millinery comes down from the high and mighty into small shapes, tiny berets, casques and toques for day wear. Big headdeaus, bows or face veils secured by ribbons with formal clothes.

GOWN ADMIRED BY VANCOUVER WOMEN

This gown worn by Princess Margaret drew many appreciative comments from Vancouver women who attended the lieutenant - governor's ball. It is the most formal she has worn so far on her Canadian tour.

'Sinker' Signifies Good Baking Potato

A "sinker" may be lunch companion for a doughnut, but it also signifies a good baking potato.

To fine housewives are aware of a simple salt water test which separates bakers from boilers. Baking potatoes sink and boilers float when dropped in a brine of one part salt to four parts water.

The outer appearance of potatoes is no indication of their cooking qualities, and too often potatoes from the same sack produce varying results. Difference in specific gravity in the individual potatoes is the reason. It is here that the salt brine comes into play. Potatoes that are mealy and suitable for baking or French frying have a high specific gravity, or a higher total of solids and less water. These potatoes sink in a salt test. "Waxy" potatoes which hold together when boiled have a lower specific gravity, and thus float in a salt water bath.

Use at least a quart of water and four ounces of salt to make the test. As a word of caution, don't overload the salt water. Drop in only two or three potatoes at a time so they have ample room to rise or sink. The test is simple and worth the effort, not only to sort good, mealy bakers, but to bare boilers or French fries that produce uniform results when cooked.

Missionary Leader Says Canada Should Lower Barrier Against Orientals

By EDNA UBBER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — If Canada aspires to be a moral leader in the world it must admit Oriental and other colored immigrants, says Mrs. H. D. Taylor, a leader in missionary work of the United Church of Canada.

These people resent the fact that Canada has no immigration quota for them, said Mrs. Taylor, executive secretary of the overseas missions section of the Woman's Missionary Society.

"I do not believe we have a color bar," she said. "It is simply that some groups of Canadians are afraid these people will work for lower wages and have an adverse effect on our economy.

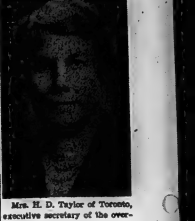
CAREFUL APPROACH

"Experience shows that immigrants have a good effect on the economy, but even so, I do not advocate opening the back-ard entry by Negroes and Orientals.

"At the moment, the important thing is that an immigration quota for nationals of Europe and other countries should be introduced—Canadians will then find themselves much more welcome abroad."

Mrs. Taylor, a 63 - year - old widow, tours United Church mission stations all over the world. She spends about four months of every year abroad. She has waded rivers and traveled by bullock cart to reach out-of-the-way spots.

"Little - unorthodox transport is necessary now," she said. "Airrice is as modern as Canada, and cars and airplanes are easily available."



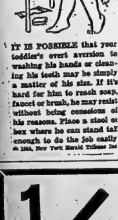
STUDIED LANGUAGES

Dr. Taylor was born in St. Catharines, studied modern languages at the University of Toronto, taught at Bath, near Kingston, Ont., and then at Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, Ont.

When she married, she accompanied her husband to Szechwan province, 2,000 miles inside China, and worked as a missionary with him from 1920 to 1931.

After 22 years as secretary with the missionary society she says of her work: "It is fascinating and full; I work with women with nations, and I know that if women will teach their children Christian principles, Canada's economic - fear barrier will vanish."

ADVOCATES CHANGES



Mrs. H. D. Taylor of Toronto, executive secretary of the overseas missions section of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, says Canada must admit more colored and Oriental immigrants if it is to become a moral leader in the world. Mrs. Taylor, a 63-year-old widow, tours church missions throughout the world and spends about four months each year away from Canada. (CP Photo).

The Chemise Playsuit

By TRACY ADRIAN

This summer's beachcombers can be right in the fashion picture, whether they are relaxing in the sun or playing a fast game of handball, because the chemise and unisex styles are very much in evidence in sports outfits.

The one pictured is a chemise playsuit made of cotton pique knit. It is sleeveless, with a rounded bateau neckline, a contrasting front panel closing and a hip-length belt.

Old Fashioned Sponge Cake With A Variation

by Mary Moore

She called herself a prim old maid, and we knew her as a strict no-nonsense teacher, but we loved her. She wore a starchy nurselike white uniform and taught us "Care of the Sick" and "Quantity Cookery". As I write this it is a hot afternoon and I can hear Miss Gray's voice saying "For dessert on an invalid's tray serve choice berries in a stemmed glass with a piece of fresh spongecake. It is very appetizing." (a direct quote from my school notes).

Now if your appetite needs tempting there's your dish. What my appetite needs is reducing — but nothing — not even the bathroom scales — can hold me back from this sponge cake.

It is slightly different and larger than one I gave you in June, and will serve 10 easily.

OLD FASHIONED SPONGE CAKE:

Six large eggs — yolks and whites separated into large bowls; 1 1-3 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ cup water, 1 teaspoon each vanilla and almond flavoring. Sift 1 cup of the sugar with the sifted flour, salt and baking powder into a medium bowl. Add the cream of tartar to the egg whites in a large bowl and beat until soft peaks begin to shape up. You may use rotary beater, wire whip or electric beater. Gradually begin to add the remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until this is very very stiff. To the 6 egg yolks add the water and flavorings and beat enough to mix them well but not more than 1 minute. Add the yolk mixture to the sifted dry ingredients and beat at high speed on electric beater, using rubber scraper to scrape down sides, or 75 strokes by hand. Fold egg yolk mixture into stiffly beaten whites using about 40 folding strokes in all. Do not stir or beat. Pour into ungreased 10-inch tube pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Cool cake upside down in pan for 2 hours, then coax and loosen from sides with dull spatula, and pull out cake. Pulled apart with 2 forks, chunks of this fluffy stuff look luxurious and taste divine.

VARIATION:

To make "Butterflies": Bake the sponge cake batter in 24 fluted paper cups —only about 10 or 15 minutes. When cool cut a piece from the centre. Fill depression with rich lemon filling: ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, dash of salt, ½ cup water, 1 well beaten egg, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Combine all but butter, lemon juice and rind in top of double boiler and cook stirring until thick, then covered 10 minutes. Remove and add remaining ingredients. Cut top piece into 2 "wings" and press at an angle to one another in the filling. Sprinkle sparingly with powdered sugar.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Michael L. — Vera is a nag.

Vera L. — It's too late for me to change.

Michael L. — My wife and I have been married 18 years and have three children. We have not been very happy. We've had many problems — mostly financial. But the worst of it is my wife's nagging.

From the minute I walk into the house until I leave, she is after me every minute about this, that and the other thing. I could understand it if while we were having the worst of our difficulties, but now things have eased up a bit and Vera remains the same. She is always worrying about something.

The children are badly behaved in spite of the fact that Vera is constantly after them for one thing or another. I think that her nerves have had a bad effect on them.

Vera L. — I realize I am a very nervous type, but I don't seem able to control myself. I am 39 years old and I'm afraid it's a little too late to change myself.

I had a very unhappy childhood. My father left us when I was 8 years old and my mother was always brooding, bitter and unhappy. I guess she transferred a lot of her feelings to me. I don't want to do the same thing to my children, but in spite of everything I do to try to control myself, I fall into my old habit.

Every day I make a new pledge to change, but by the end of the day I find all my good intentions are ashes. I have gotten to hate my own personality.

* * *

The Council: Certainly Vera has taken the first step toward change by realizing the need for it. Her dissatisfaction with herself is the first struggling step toward a shedding of her old skin.

Unfortunately, many adults stop at just this stage because they find it more gratifying to worry and disparage themselves than to put out the energy needed for positive action. Then they complain that they know their faults but it is impossible for an adult to change.

We say anyone can change at any age. Sometimes outside circumstances force changes in individuals who seemed frozen into a particular role. But outside circumstances are not always so obliging. Sometimes we have to force our own changes on an outside situation.

This is what Vera must try to do. As long as she goes on making pledges that she "won't" act in an undesirable way, she remains in her rut of grinding worry and nagging — with it a new addition of nagging herself as well as her family. We would suggest she try to create situations in which she is forced to behave differently.

Psychologists and counsellors find that individuals change most often they actively try to help others. This has been one successful form of treatment applied by Alcoholics Anonymous.

Vera has a situation close at hand which requires her help — her children. The behavior problems they have begin to show can for some creative thinking a n d working on her part. She should talk to their teachers and get advice from child guidance clinics on what she can do to help them toward more successful living. It will take far more than the absence of nagging to redirect them.

Vera should also recognize that she needs some activity outside of the home. She should involve herself in club work, church work or community activity. Without even realizing when it happened she will suddenly find her o l d nagging skin has been shed and a more vital, happier woman h a s emerged.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S TIP ON TABLE MANNERS . . EATING ICE CREAM

Of course, of course, that i c e cream is "yummy" . . . but even so you'll find mighty unattractive if you lick the ice cream off the spoon, pulling the spoon in a n d out of your mouth as you w o r k down to the last drop. It will taste just as good to you, and you'll be more attractive to look at, if you use the grown-up technique, taking a smaller portion on your spoon and eating it before taking the next portion.

SHOULD BRIDE CHOOSE RECEPTION-HALL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Would you be so kind as to settle a slight disagreement my mother and I are having? I am to be married next Spring, and my mother says that she should choose where the reception is to be held. I think I should select the hall for my own reception. Who is right — E. R.

What is the basis of the disagreement about the reception hall? If your parents are paying the rental of the hall for your wedding reception (which traditionally is the responsibility of the bride's parents), they naturally must choose the hall they can afford. Be gracious and understanding and appreciative.

If several halls are being considered, having the same or approximately the same rental-cost, and you have a special reason for choosing one (perhaps a more attractive or convenient location), present your choice straightforwardly and reasonably and I am sure your mother will try to grant your request.

AVOID HAZARD

Peanut butter should satisfy the youngster who is fond of peanuts, avoiding the risk of choking on the nuts.

Here are the FACTS about exchanging your 3% wartime Victory Bonds

1. What is the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958?

It is an offer to replace all unmatured 3% wartime Victory Bonds with new 25-year 4½% Canada Conversion Bonds. (Other bonds of shorter term, bearing interest rates of 4¼%, 3¼% and 3% are also available.)

2. Why is the Government making this conversion offer?

In order to reorganize the national debt on a longer term basis and thus reduce the volume of Government refinancing over the next few years. There is widespread public and business agreement that this is a sensible idea and will help protect the soundness of the Canadian dollar.

3. What interest will I receive on the new bonds?

On the 25-year bonds the interest rate is 4½% — this is 50% greater than the old Victory Bond rate. The increase on the 14-year and the 7-year bonds is also substantial.

4. As a Victory Bond holder, will I be required to make any additional payment?

No. On the contrary, you will receive an immediate cash adjustment.

5. Do I have to convert my Victory Bonds?

You may, if you wish, hold your Victory Bonds until maturity and on the due date you will be paid their full face value. The Conversion Loan offer is open only to Victory Bond holders; and the "right" to convert gives Victory Bonds a special value until the offer expires. This is because there are many people trying to buy them in order to invest in the new bonds.

6. What will be the total of my cash adjustment?

It will depend on the type of exchange. For example, a $500 8th Victory Bond exchanged for a $500 Conversion Bond paying 4½% will give you $8.75 in cash immediately. This includes earned interest.

7. Does this offer apply to Canada Savings Bonds and other Government of Canada Bonds?

No. This offer is limited to unmatured wartime Victory Loan Bonds only.

8. What steps should I take if I am away from home on vacation and wish to take advantage of this offer?

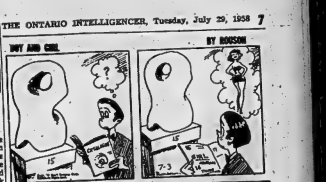
You should write immediately to your bank, investment dealer, stockbroker, trust or loan company, requesting literature and application forms.

9. Does it matter that the Victory Bond I hold is very small?

Every holder of a Victory Bond, even though the amount held may be only $50, should take advantage of this offer. It is in his best interests as well as in the best interests of Canada.

10. How long is this offer open?

Until September 15, 1958, but it is to your advantage to convert as quickly as possible and have the benefit of the immediate cash adjustment.



11. Where can I exchange my Victory Bonds?

At any bank, investment dealer, trust or loan company, or through your stockbroker.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The story of Andy O'Brien, a magazine sportswriter, who was covering the British Empire Games in Wales, to the effect that there is a possibility of European protests over use of reinstated pros by the Canadian representatives to the world hockey tournament in Prague next February, caused not a little bit of worry and headscratching in Canadian hockey circles generally and the McFarlands' camp particularly.

The rotund Andy stated he had visited Bunny Ahearne, the cagy British travel agency head, who presides the International Ice Hockey Federation in London, "in the Smoke."

Ahearne is reported to have told O'Brien that the Canadian hockey outlook in future world hockey championships might be clouded by European complaints of the eligibility of some Canadian players.

Manager Drury Denyes of the McFarlands, after reading the story in this column was openly worried. He had heard nothing regarding the matter. At a meeting here a few weeks ago between Denyes and the top brass of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, held to discuss a number of eligible players, the majority of them pros, nothing was mentioned of the possibility of European protests.

After reading the story as reported by O'Brien, Denyes immediately contacted George Dudley, secretary of the CAHA by telephone. Dudley is the Canadian member of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

"I have heard nothing of such protests," Dudley told the Mans' manager. "Go back to your club and tell them there is nothing to worry about. And don't worry yourself."

According to O'Brien the nation which was considering a protest in the matter was Soviet Russia. Dudley (Kitchener Record) Taylor, who was overseas with the Kitchener Dutchmen when they represented Canada a couple of years ago, says, "The Russkis with a team of state amateurs, are in no moral position to complain and would not get majority support if they did."

The rule which they say Canadians violated specifies that a reinstated amateur can only be made eligible in the season following that in which he obtains reinstation received notice of his reinstatement. It also specifies that a pro may return to amateur ranks three years after ceasing to be a pro.

Taylor suggests that Andy not let the thought of protest disturb his thoughts over daily stint of art-and-art. If the European complain they'll likely be kicking their toes against a pretty solid wall.

It so happens that the world federation, when it came to terms with the North American countries back in the late thirties agreed to let Canada and the United States operate under their own rules of eligibility with no questions asked.

According to CAHA secretary Dudley who was concerned in the merger operations that ended a global hockey war between two "world" bodies, this clause was a main klieb in the agreement. Even at that Dudley was not in favor of Canada joining the world federation at that time, although he now admits the move has worked out very well.

But it is a fact that the international association has never questioned Canadian eligibility because of this agreement and can hardly do so at this time without stirring up a major hockey storm.

Taylor says: "Since the Canadians are the best draw at the tournament and we can't imagine them operating very successfully without the wearers of the Maple Leafe, we doubt if anything will come of it."

Speaking of the "wearers of the Maple Leaf," the McFarlands will wear the same sweater as on the front of their sweaters for the world, tournament, the CAHA has decreed. Any advertising such as the name "McFarlands" will be worn on the sweater hacks. This was brought about by complaints that the current Whitby world champions wore "Whitby Dunlops" on their sweater fronts last winter, while all other competitors wore national titles.

And before we leave jolly old Andy O'Brien it is recalled that he is the sportswriter who covered the world tournament the year the Kitchener Dutchmen represented Canada and predicted the Dutchmen would double the score on the foremen in every game they played, including the finals. The Dutchies finished third to the Russians and the the United States.

Yankees Outslug Kansas City In Home-Run Orgy

Mick Mantle Bludgeons Pair As Does McDougald, Cerv; Giants Dump Phillies Twice

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It is becoming more evident that San Francisco Giant pitchers have been getting a bum rap.

For weeks critics have been claiming the Giants would be far out in front in the National League if only they had some respectable pitching. The hitters have been the guilty ones not the pitchers.

Monday night's impressive route - going performances by southpaw Mike McCormick and righthander Ruben Gomez in the Giants' 3-2 and 2-1 victories over Philadelphia Phillies furnished additional proof San Francisco hurling has been underrated.

PITCHERS CARRYING LOAD

In their last seven games the Giant pitchers have permitted 20 runs, half of them in one game. During the same period, the hitters have produced only 10 runs.

It is true the pitchers' credit with such feeble hitting support they were able to win three and tie one of those seven games. Monday's double triumph — the league's only action-packed twin bill — within one percentage point of the leading Milwaukee Braves.

McCormick hurled a nine - hitter for his seventh victory. Ruben Gomez provided the key hits in the Giants' victories. Also followed a fifth-inning double by McCormick with a home run to provide the key blow in the first game, although it took an error by relief pitcher Farrell to provide the Giants with the winning run in the ninth.

Cepeda figured in both second-game scores. He singled home Bowyer with the winning run in the second inning and drove in Mueller with another single in the sixth.

Apparently the rest cure was all Mickey Mantle needed to emerge from his prolonged batting slump.

Handicapped by a sore right shoulder practically from the start of the campaign, the New York Yankee slugger stubbornly shrugged off repeated suggestions that he take a brief rest despite a steadily diminishing batting average that dipped as low as .270.

It took another injury — a bruised left forearm—to sideline the outfielder just before the team's current western swing. Since returning to action in the second game of this trip, in Detroit, Mantle has cracked 11 hits in 27 times at bat for .556. That sevengame surge boosted his mark to .294.

Mantle walloped two home runs and a single Monday night as the Yankees outslugged Kansas City 16-7 in a his orgy in which Gil McDougald of New York and the Athletics' Bob Cerv, also slammed a pair of homers.

NOW LEAD BY 13

The victory, coupled with Detroit's 8-4 triumph over Boston, widened the Yankees' first-place margin over the Red Sox to 13 games. The Chicago White Sox snapped a four-game skid with Kansas City, shading Washington 6-5, Baltimore and Cleveland were idle.

A big five-run New York inning featured by Mickey Mantle's laser-clearing triple, decided the game against Kansas City. Zach Monroe, starting, batted out in the sixth, was credited with his second victory. Dick Tomanek was the loser.

The White Sox overcame a four-run deficit to defeat the Senators. Sherman Lollar's three-run homer in the fourth climaxed a fourth-inning rally against Washington starter Pete Ramos. Billy Pierce, who had a shutout going into the fifth but Chicago regained the lead in the sixth on a triple by Minnie Minoso and a run-scoring single by Jim Rivera.

Turk Lown, National League reliefer, gained his first American League triumph, in relief. Dick Hyde was the loser.

Larry Doby's bases-loaded pass to Charley Maxwell with two out in the bottom of the ninth gave Detroit's winning run against Boston. Al Kaline of the Tigers had smacked four hits, drove in two runs and scored once. Bill Fischer, in relief, was the winner.

Braves Didn't Figure on These Last Spring

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Three pitchers who didn't figure prominently in Milwaukee Braves' plans last spring have accounted for just as many victories in the last six weeks as the three who did.

Joey Jay, Carl Willey and Juan Pizarro belong in the first category while Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Rush are in the latter.

Since June 13 when Jay made his first start, the Braves have won 23 games. Jay, Willey and Pizarro have accounted for 11 of the victories; the same number as Spahn, Burdette and Rush. Don McMahon was the other game in relief.

The 22-year-old Jay leads with six triumphs, followed by Burdette with five, Spahn and Willey with four apiece, Rush with two and Pizarro with one in his only start during the span.

Jay has been with the club all season. He probably would have been sent to the Braves' Wichita, Kan., farm affiliate at cut-down time except for the fact that his options were used up.

Willey, 27, was optioned to Wichita May 14, but recalled June 3. Pizarro, the youngest at 21, was recalled from Wichita July 31.

Jimmy Carter Placed on Retired List

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)— The California State Athletic Commission announced Monday that Jimmy Carter, former lightweight champion of the world, had been placed on the permanently retired and unavailable list for boxing.

A commission spokesman said chief inspector Clayton Frye watched Carter in action last week and Jimmy Grove in Hollywood Legion Stadium and concluded the ex-champion's reflexes were inadequate.

"He was taking too many punches," the spokesman explained. "He was being given a drubbing and could have lost the fight except that Grove got his eye slashed."

Carter was credited with a knockout victory.

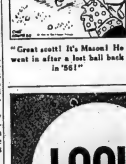
London Gives Empire Athletes Warm Welcome

LONDON (Reuters) — More than 1,000 men and women athletes, just arrived from Cardiff after last week's Empire Games, were guests of the British government Monday night at the Palace of Westminster.

Thirty-four Empire and Commonwealth countries were represented, and each athlete was greeted personally by Lord Kilmuir, lord chancellor; the Earl of Home, Commonwealth relations secretary; and Alan Lennox-Boyd, colonial secretary.

It was the first event in a "welcome week" in which London is their host.



One Canadian said on leaving, "this is tremendous. I would not have missed it for anything."

In Hitting Cerv Leads American League Willie Mays Nudges Musial

NEW YORK (AP) — Big Bob Cerv of Kansas City, who suffered a fractured jaw May 18 and couldn't eat solid foods for more than a month, fattened up on Baltimore pitching during the weekend to slide over the American League batting lead with a .330 average.

The Athletics's star outfielder collected seven hits in the three games against the Orioles and moved past Cleveland's Vic Power and Chicago's Billy Goodman.

Pete Runnels of Boston, last week's leader, went hitless in five trips Sunday and fell into a fourth place tie with Nellie Fox of Chicago at .324.

Power moved up one notch to second place at .326. Goodman dropped to third with a .325 mark.

In the National League, Willie Mays of San Francisco picked up 10 points on pace-setting Stan Musial of St. Louis.

LOST SEVEN POINTS

Musial, seeking his eighth batting title, had nine hits in 21 at bats and slumped seven points to .354. Mays climbed three points to .347 with an 8-for-20 showing. Musial led by 17 points a week ago.

Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia had seven safeties in 17 trips to raise his batting mark at .331. Bob Skinner of Pittsburgh advanced to fourth with a .500 effort (10-for-20) that lifted his mark to .328.

Pittsburgh's Frank Thomas moved into undisputed possession of the senior circuit's home run lead. He walloped a pair, giving the senior circuit's home run lead. He walloped a pair, giving him 28 for the campaign. Ernie Banks of Chicago is the runner-up with 27.

Banks, however, wrested the runs batted in lead from Thomas. Ernie drove in seven runs and Thomas only five. Their season's totals: Banks 80; Thomas 79.

Jackie Jensen of Boston remained on top in the American League home run and RBI races. He has 29 circuit blows and 80 runs batted in. Jackie hit one homer and scored six runners last week.

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Signing of a 19 - year - old Kentville Wildcats' outfielder by the Chicago White Sox has stirred up a controversy in this baseball-conscious town of 5,000.

Ron Northey, a scout for the American League team, announced Monday he had signed Stanley Johnston of Auburn, Add.

A Kentville club official, who asked not to be identified, said later that if major league teams "want to kill the goose that laid the golden egg—all right, but surely they have more sense than to ruin a league which has given professional baseball so much talent in the past."

Several Halifax and District League players, including Dick Gerwertz of Boston Red Sox and Moe Drabowsky of Chicago Cubs, have graduated to the majors.

Thomas only five. Their season's totals: Banks 80; Thomas 79.

Jackie Jensen of Boston remained on top in the American League home run and RBI races. He has 29 circuit blows and 80 runs batted in. Jackie hit one homer and scored six runners last week.

Braves Unveil Enough Power To Edge All-Stars

Champions Grab Early Lead Settle Into Strong Defence; Nearly 11,000 See Pastime

TORONTO (CP) — The world champion Milwaukee Braves unveiled enough—but just enough—of their awesome potential Monday night to make the most of two unearned runs and coast to a 3-2 victory over the International League all-stars.

The Braves, currently struggling with San Francisco Giants for the National League pennant, appeared much more relaxed than their nervous Triple A rivals. They scored one run in each of the first three innings and then settled into a strong defensive game.

Each team used four pitchers with the Braves outshining the all-stars 7-6. Starter Gene Conley collected the win.

All Milwaukee runs before 10,506 fans at Maple Leaf Stadium were scored off starter and loser Paul Stuffelbeam in the first.

FIRST-INNING HOMER

Second baseman Mel Roach counted the first with a basesempty homer which Scandlebury insisted was foul. Joe Adcock singled to left in the second, went to third when outfielder Solly Hemus let the ball roll between his legs and scored on Del Crandall's single.

With two out in the third Scandlebury set up the final Brave run by bobbling Ed Mathews' grounder. Hank Aaron's double sent Mathews to third and he scored on Adcock's single.

Drake led off the bottom of the first with a single and scored when Aaron left George Anderson's drive get past him. All-star catcher Tex Thompson, replacing Bob Oldis in the eighth, tripled and was driven in by a sacrifice fly by Nino Escalera.

Regular action in the International League resumes tonight with Richmond at Toronto, Columbus at Montreal, Miami at Buffalo and Havana at Rochester.

Blue Bombers Travel East For Two Games

WINNIPEG (CP)—The defending western football champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers test their strength this week with exhibition games tonight in Montreal against the Alouettes and in Toronto Thursday against the Argonauts.

Surprise starter in the 40-manned trip was Frank Rigney, a tackle from Iowa, who just arrived in Winnipeg Sunday night following his discharge from the United States Army Saturday. He played with the third choice of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

The tackle spots have been the glaring weaknesses in the Bomber make - up during the training periods. Rigney is expected to start in a big help.

The remainder of the positions are in capable hands. Thirty of the 40 players making the jaunt have previously worn the blue and gold colors, including centre-tarback Eagle Day from Mississippi, who played for Winnipeg in 1956 but missed last year due to an injured hip.

All - star quarterback Kenny Ploen appears to have the signal-calling job almost sewed up, with Day and Jim Furlong from Michigan are still in the fight.

Durelle, Moore May Fight In October

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Meyers, co-manager of New Brunswick's Yvon Durelle, said Monday he will contact the International Boxing Club, today about a title match with light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore. Meyers indicated a mid-October date was a possibility.

Montreal promoter Eddie Quinn wants to land the fight. So does promoter Earl Kalasi of Vancouver who has contacted Chris Shaban, Durelle's other manager.

"Kalasi has the $100,000 that Moore wants for a fight," said Shaban in Moncton, N.B., "all I have to do is sign. However, I think I may be able to get a better financial deal in Montreal. Yvon would be more at home there. We'll wait and see what happens Tuesday."

Grid Coaches Testify Draft Unfair Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three top college coaches Monday kicked off on pro football's draft. They called it unfair to the players and said it's not true that pros need it to survive.

Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, one of the three who testified before Senate sports investigators, said that regardless of the draft only players of rare ability should undertake the professional game.

Either those, Wilkinson told the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee, or athletes with a definite goal who play for pay in order to finance graduate education.

"Beyond that," Wilkinson said, "anyone who plays is making a bad mistake."

Wilkinson, Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State and Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee attacked the draft whereby National Football League clubs gain exclusive negotiating rights to designated collegians.

They declared it prevents young men from marketing their talent for the highest price. They said it conflicts with the objection of NFL commissioner Bert Bell and other advocates that the football needs the draft to equalize team strengths.

All three coaches opposed legislation to give pro football, baseball, basketball and hockey exemption from the anti-trust laws. They said professional sports are businesses and no reason for special treatment.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — The first dead heat in three seasons at harness racing's Greenwood ended in the second race at the Old Woodbine Monday night.

Doc Johnston, a three-year-old gelding owned by Lorne Johnston of Dresden and driven by his son Ross, came on slowly and steadily in the stretch to catch Joan Grattan, three - year - old filly owned and driven by Clarence Young of Lucan.

In the featured eighth race Bonnie Sang, owned and driven by Allan Walker of Owen Sound, thrilled a crowd of 3,208 when she moved to the outside of the field at the half-mile pole and drove down the stretch to finish a head before Laddie Hanover.

Favored Miss Lake City was third.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Favorite Atom Direct, owned by Hugh McBurney of Ottawa and driven by Neil Curran, paced the night's best time of 2:05 on a muddy Connaught Park track Monday night to win the featured eighth race. The gelding edged True Spencer of Collingwood, by a length.

Biggest surprise was Debbie Herbert's fourth race win. The Prescott filly paid $44.80, $41.10 and $16.00.

Seeded Players Come Through In Opening Tennis Tussles

VANCOUVER (CP) — The doubles players take over the Canadian tennis championships today after an opening day devoted to weeding out the also-cans in the singles.

With few exceptions — third-round singles matches in men's and women's singles and opening play in veterans' singles — the second day of the championships are set aside for doubles competition on the nine grass courts of the Vancouver Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

While there was nothing that could be classed as an upset Monday, there were developments that cast a shadow over men's singles play.

AUSSIE IN PAIN

Bob Howe of Australia, one of the world's best doubles players, pushed himself through his only singles match of the day. He was bothered by an attack of bursitis in the right shoulder and said it might eliminate him from the tournament. He is seeded second among non-Canadians here.

By the end of his 6-4, 8-6 victory over George Sterfitt of Vancouver, his shoulder was churning with pain.

A second player with troubles was Paul Willey of Vancouver, third - ranked Canadian in the tournament. He limped slightly from what doctors told him is a leg cartilage, but he managed a 6-2, 6-4 decision over Ron Sandys of La Jolla, Calif.

Not all the giants had an easy time. Whitney Reed of Lamesa, Calif., No. 1 in the foreign seedings here, had a tough job beating Wali Stuckberg of Vancouver, 7-5, 6-4.

TOP CANADIANS ADVANCE

The best of the Canadian entries passed without trouble into the next round.

Bob Bedard, defending singles champ from Sherbrooke, Que., won 6-3, 6-3 from Len Monson of Vancouver. Toronto's Don Fontana beat John Garbor of San Francisco 6-3, 6-4.

The distaff side was free of upsets although there was a surprise. Patty Miller of Portland, Ore., seeded first among the foreign players, drew from single play because of a commitment to play elsewhere next week that might have prevented her from lasting until the tournament ends here Saturday.

BELL IN HOSPITAL

CINCINNATI (AP) — Centre-fielder Gus Bell, out of the Cincinnati Redleg lineup for three days, entered hospital Monday for treatment of an ankle injury. Bell was hit on the ankle by a foul ball last week and Redleg general manager Gabe Paul said the ankle was aggravated by bolls. He said Bell will be in the hospital three or four days and probably will be out of the lineup for a week.

Gets Another Chance With Argo Team

TORONTO (CP)—Tackle Sam DeLuca, who quit the Toronto Argonauts training camp Friday, has been given another chance to make the team, head coach Hemp Pool said Monday.

Pool disclosed that the former New York Giants lineman came to him Saturday and requested that he be allowed to rejoin the club. His departure followed what Pool called a "misunderstanding" between them.

DeLuca, the club's best lineman in the final half of last season, has been slow in getting into top condition this year.

Jung Says Views Attributed to Him by Mistake

OTTAWA (CP)—Douglas Jung said Monday night that statements which gave rise to some angry words in Parliament—were views "in error, attributed to me."

But "I am concerned with correcting any impression that some may have formed that a reade irresponsible statements."

Research Scientist Offers 'Tales of Universe' Program

By RALPH DIGHTON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A wise man once pleased his king so greatly he was asked to name him: "As a reward you may have anything you desire, up to half my kingdom."

"Sire," said the wise man, "my desires are very simple. I would be more than content if you would reward me in grain for the first square on the chessboard, in rice for the second, in this manner:

"Lay one grain on the first square of a chessboard. On the next square, two grains. On the third square, four grains. And so on for each of the 64 squares on the board."

The king thought this was a small request, until he tried to pay off. There wasn't that much wheat in his kingdom, or even in the world.

NEW SERIES

This is one of the "Tales of the Universe" that research scientist Dr. Heinz Haber is bringing to television this fall.

How many grains of wheat did the wise man actually request?

"The figure is astronomical," said Dr. Haber, "and for all practical purposes, meaningless. You can get a pretty fair idea of it, though, if you say that all the wheat harvested in the world since Christ was born wouldn't be enough."

Dr. Haber, science consultant for Walt Disney Studios and television station KLAC-TV, will be up 52 Monday-hour programs, each answering such apparently simple questions as "Why is the sky blue?" and "Why do stars have such funny names?"

AIMED AT ADULTS

The show, which will start about Oct. 1, is aimed at adults, but youngsters probably will enjoy it, too. It will be telecast live from the studios of the University of California at Los Angeles. When it's over with Dr. Haber can take a long rest of his time, the university gave him a leave of absence.

South Ontario Beavers Shipped To Northland

TORONTO (CP)—Southern Ontario beavers again are being shipped north to the Big Trout Lake area where their country has had trouble making a living.

This year they have a new weapon—vaccinations.

Department of lands and forests officials said Monday that for the first time, and on a controlled experimental basis, beavers have been inoculated against tularemia which in the 1950s almost wiped out the beaver population at Big Trout Lake, about 365 miles north of Port Arthur.

Rod Standfield, departmental biologist, said that six animals were being transplanted from beaver-abundant areas to localities in which they were not replentiful, it was decided to give them anti-tularemia shots to see whether it would help them survive.

Tularemia is a fatal infernal disease, which attacks the liver, spleen and blood, and is transmissible to humans in whom the disease causes glandular enlargement. The disease is similar to blood-poisoning.

Beavers are being trapped in the Sweet, Lindsay, Kapuskasing and Kenora areas by traps, nets and hand.

Thus far 35 beavers, packed in wet burlap bags, have been airlifted to the Gordon Ontario lake. Dr. Audrey Fyvie, in charge of tularemia planning for the long-range trip, said that of the first 35 sent, only four died.

Out of Army and Glad of It Gary Crosby Doing Nicely

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gary Crosby, a chubby, blond replica of his famous father, Bing, is back from the army to launch his own career—and doing right nicely.

Without even a breather, he jumped out of army khaki into a cadet's uniform. He plays a student soldier who has a spree in New Orleans, along with Pat Boone, Tommy Sands and Richard Sargent. The picture: Mardi Gras.

In addition he has TV guest spots, a record contract with Verve, talks of more movies and the chance to play Las Vegas.

Does all this make him happy?

Well, not really. Bing has jauntily called his eldest son a "bundle of bitterness." There's no doubt that Gary, 24, is a serious young man, though he has a ready wit.

WANTS TO SUCCEED

Perhaps his seriousness is the normal veteran's anxiety to make a go of it after returning from the service. Also, it appears army life did not agree with him.

How's that? I recalled that his Pa once remarked that the army would do a world of good for Gary.

"That's his story," Gary retorted. "He's never been in the service. He doesn't know what it's like."

The lad readily admitted he is no walking recruiting poster. He blames service life for physical troubles he is now enduring. For one thing, a bad stomach.

Gary tends toward beefiness. He was over 200 pounds in his football days.

"Now I'm down to 178, about as low as I can go. I'm a big-boned and heavy-muscled and it get weak if I weigh any less."

HE NEEDS HERBERT

He said he also developed a neuro - convulsive condition in the army which makes him nervous. But he denied reports he consults a psychiatrist.

"The doctor I go to is also a psychologist or something and he says that he's not he's a head-shrinker."

Was army tougher because he was a Crosby?

"No comment," he said rather firmly but he added, "poor Elvis!"

Gary spent much of his time in Germany, appearing on the army radio and touring camps with an entertainment troupe.

Federal Govt. Boosts Pensions Of Ex-Employees

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has decided to boost pensions for retired employees of the civil service, the armed forces and the RCMP.

Finance Minister Fleming announced in the Commons Monday that pensions to former civil servants, the RCMP and armed forces personnel, and their widows and orphans, will be raised by amounts up to $660 a year.

They will be retroactive to July 1 and the extra money should start appearing in pension envelopes in August.

AT THE QUINTE DRIVE-IN—"Reach For The Sky" starring Kenneth More and Muriel Pavlow with Alexander Knox, Eric Pohlmann and Alec Mango; with Kenneth More and Muriel Pavlow also in "Moviland Magic" with John Payne in "Moviland Magic".

At the highest amounts will go to pensioners who retired in 1945 or earlier—before salaries in the higher brackets of government services were hoisted and living costs began to rise.

The government, like many other employers, provides retired employees with pensions based on earnings and length of service. For each year of government service, the retired employee receives two per cent of the salary he earned before retiring.

The highest increase will be to the pensioner who retired in 1945 or earlier and now is receiving $2,000 a year. He will get a boost of $660.

NOT EXCEEDING $3,000

Only pensions not now exceeding $2,000 annually will be raised and—the top for a pension plus increase is $3,000. For the widow, the maximum pension qualifying for a raise is $1,500; for a child the orphaned child $600.

The rate of increase for persons who began receiving pensions after 1945 will be scaled down according to retirement date and length of service.

Mr. Fleming estimated the increases would affect some 15,000 persons—12,000 former civil servants, 2,000 former members of the armed forces and 600 former RCMP officers. These figures include widows.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen's three physicians decided to cut their daily visits from two to one Monday after seeing their patient recovering from a five-week-old bout with catarrhal sinusitis.

Clergymen Hit Suggestion for Bingo, Bookies

TORONTO (CP)—Presbyterian and Baptist clergymen have denounced Labor Minister Daley's suggestion that bingo and bookies be legalized.

Organization of a "Gamblers Anonymous" to combat a rising gambling fever in Ontario was suggested by one of the clergymen, Rev. Ariano di Gangi, chairman of the board of evangelism and social action for the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

He said in an interview that gambling is becoming as much of a disease as alcoholism in Ontario.

"It is dangerous for them to imagine that by by-passing human laws they can legalize something which is unlawful in the eye of the Christian church.

Legalizing bingo and betting "would be the beginning back-ward step," said Rev. F. P. W. Ziemann, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

The labor minister made his suggestion last week in a speech to a gathering of policemen in St. Catharines. He said bookies should be legalized so that "we know who they are." It was "nonsense" that a law should be passed allowing "casual" bingo.

3 THE BELLS — Shirley Booth and Anthony Quinn, both Academy-award winners, are teamed in Hal Wallis' exciting production, "Hot Spell", playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. The picture also stars Shirley MacLaine and Earl Holliman.

Alberta Seeks Winter Olympics

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Alberta MPs put in bids Monday night to have the 1968 Winter Olympic Games in their province.

Art Smith (PC—Calgary South) said in a Commons debate that the tourist industry that the Olympic Development Committee of Calgary is trying to get the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association to seek the 1968 Winter Olympics for the Banff, Lake Louise and Calgary area.

He said the spot where Olympic Games are held "immediately becomes a tourist attraction."

Hugh M. Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson) said he agrees with Mr. Smith, but would like to see the Games split between Banff and Jasper. By 1968, it was hoped a new road between the two communities would be open.

WETTEST JUNE

LONDON (CP) — The British meteorological office reports that June, 1958, was the wettest month in 36 years.

Tied up alongside one another, these three destroyer-escorts of the Royal Canadian Navy's Pacific Command present a unique picture at their home port of Esquimalt, B.C. From left, the submarine hunters are HMCS ships Skeena, Fraser and Margaree — all of which took part in recent British Columbia Centennial celebrations, including 'a Royal Fleet Review by H.R.H. The Princess Margaret. (RCN Photo).

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, July 30

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — A. M. is filled with frustration because you find that your personal finances will not permit your carrying through with artistic endeavors close to your heart. Do the best you can. Tonight, ease tensions in company of dear ones.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you do not keep your emotions in check, you could have quite an argument with higher up, which would be very unfortunate. P. M. those in own clan come to the rescue with fine ideas and plans. Work out a most practical schedule.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Don't waste another day moaning your so-called present ill luck. Get into the world of progress and activity and there find your proper niche; meet the people who will make your future very bright indeed. Be smart!!

Moon children (June 22 to July 23) — A rather jealous so-called friend will today try to put a stumbling block in the path of your ideas for self and property improvement. Don't argue with him or her. Pretend you do not understand and carry on with plans positively.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take care you do not get caught in the web of an intricate quarrel between an associate and an official. It does not concern you at all. P. M. meet those persons of great power who will pave the way to better security for you.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Continuing to slave away at something that has proved to be quite a dud is both foolhardy and time wasting. So step out into the world of progress and find yourself a better niche in life and work you really enjoy.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — Steer clear of that would - be expeditor who feels he is more cognizant with your problems than you yourself are, although he hardly knows the fundamentals. Solve them yourself in approved, orthodox fashion.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Here is a day when you must handle everyone with proverbial silken gloves. See that you clearly steer clear of any arguments, too. In this fashion you know what to do that will bring abundance and good will your way.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Endeavoring to force other persons to think as you do especially those you marry a friendship and prestige, if you try. Spend time with correspondence or digging up information that is vital to your career and happiness.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Since you have taken such pains in setting up the present fine venture you are so proud of, it would be foolhardy indeed to jeopardize it by the whim to have a good time at all costs. P. M. get finances straightened.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be careful or you get in Dutch with close ties today, or there is some situation there that needs immediate attention. Later, be sure you make headway with associates by real cooperation and clear thinking.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A private party might prevent your being with comrades today who wish to assist you in some venture. Spend some time getting better informed through paper, other literature. Also, have quiet conferences, follow your hunches.

If your child is born today ... The ffhe child born today will have a rather a puzzling time of it in early youth trying to get adjusted to life as it truly is and how it would appear to be through theoretic study. Your good example and the benefit of as fine an education as money can buy will work wonders, however, and this chart will then be a truly fine one, with unlimited possibilities of success.

Canada Would Continue Adding Water to Lakes

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Canadian asks for the United States co-operation in the Great Lakes—east last Jan. 1 was made public today at a hearing of the Senate public works committee on water diversion from Lake Michigan.

One Illinois Congressman protested because the U.S. state department had not released the note previously.

In the note, Canada urged that diversion of water in her country to maintain a navigable flow of water for hydro - electric purposes at three points on the Great Lakes system be continued.

The note, while not specifically opposing a proposed additional diversion of water by Chicago, said an existing diversion of the Long Lac and the Ogoki River into Lake Superior should be continued.

FOR POWER PURPOSES

The two rivers normally flow north into James Bay. Their waters were diverted at Long Lac to hydro-electric production at St. Mary's Falls, Ont., and Sault Ste. Marie on the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River.

The Canadian note suggested that an equivalent diversion should remain available for use until the effects of the proposed Chicago diversion have been ceased to have been felt in the Great Lakes system.

Democratic senator Paul H. Douglas of Illinois said the state department by not making prior disclosure of the note "has not shown good faith."

The bill authorizing Illinois to divert an additional 1,000 cubic feet a second of water from Lake Michigan for treating sewage and for improving navigation between the lake and the Mississippi, has passed the House of Representatives. A year ago now is permitted to divert 1,500 cubic feet a second.

Thomas J. O'Brien, Democratic Representative from Illinois, who led the successful fight to have the bill's passage last year, said he favors a compromise but sees no need to write it into the bill.

Prior to compromise, drafted by Deputy Budget Director Robert Merriam, would limit the diversion to one year on a trial basis.

Two governors, Averell Harriman of the New York and George M. Leader of Pennsylvania, sent statements in opposition to the diversion. Arrayed against the proposal were representatives of the eight other U.S. states bordering the Great Lakes. Illinois was the lone advocate.

Westerners Now Safe in Iraq; 5 Died in Riots

BAGHDAD (AP — Westerners appear to be safe in Iraq now and this ancient capital's large foreign colony reports no trouble at all since the July 14 revolution.

On that day three Americans, a Germas and a Briton were killed by mobs but the rioters were quickly brought under control by the new republican regime.

Most foreigners here seem convinced the army and the new government did not anticipate anti-Western violence during the uprising. The army's fault lay in letting the mobs get out of control.

Since July 14 the army has taken special precautions to protect foreigners.

A platoon of soldiers guards the Hotel Baghdad, an air-conditioned building of some 200 rooms. Several groups of about 100 demonstrators have marched on the premises to protest the U.S.-British troop landings in the Middle East or to welcome some visiting Arab dignitary. Each time the soldiers jumped to the alert, unslung their carbines and trained a machine gun on their fellow Iraqis. There was no violence.

The Iraq Petroleum Company, an internationally owned combine which pumps Iraq's main source of income out of the ground, has operated normally throughout the political turmoil.

His Devotion to Outdoors And Driving Will to Work Make Him Successful Artist

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—It was as a boy in Vancouver that Denver L. Gillen learned the loves that helped him become a successful artist.

A devotion for the outdoors and a driving will to work have placed Gillen in a happy position among illustrators. Oddly, his career started from a period of sickness.

"I left school at 13 and worked as a trucker and on various coastal vessels," says Gillen, 46, who comes from seafaring stock and whose mother lives in Burnaby, B.C.

PASSING THE TIME

"Around the age of 17 I was laid up by sickness for months and turned to drawing to pass the time. My doctor encouraged me and arranged an interview with the manager of the art department of the Vancouver Bay Company. That was the start."

Gillen's skill was recognized readily when the company proposed to design a gardening and horticulture stamp for the United States. The three - cent green stamp shows a female figure carrying a horn of plenty, wreathed in and shrubs.

"I was very honored," said Gillen when he was interviewed at the Society of Illustrators here, then added with a smile:

"Pity you couldn't have interviewed Cleopatra was a sea captain and much more colorful than I. He gave me 'Laredo' as middle name because he happened to be sailing through the straits of Laredo when I was born."

The father, the late William H. Gillen, had a wide interest. He commanded several ships, including the RCMP vessel St. Roch on important Arctic explorations.

Gillen credits artist Bill Mailman with early guidance and acknowledges a debt of gratitude to Frederick Waugh, a distinguished Canadian painter.

ARTISTS STRIKE

His first move from Vancouver to Brigden Studios in Toronto, but a strike of artists prevented him with a problem—"I didn't want to starve, so I went to Chicago." It was from that he got into the national advertising and art business, coming to New York eight years ago.

Gillen, whose first job paid $20 a week compared with his current $20,000 a year, has a leathe. look that was fostered by mountain climbing. He also likes to ski and boat.

Living at New Milford, Conn., with his wife, Jeana, and four children, his combined home and studio overlooks Candlewood Lake in a mountain section. Besides his illustration jobs for such important magazines as Reader's Digest, he paints and exhibits.

EARLY STARTER

"I don't work at night like most artists," he said. "I often start in the early morning around 4 or 5 a.m., if extremely busy. That gives me time for fishing and swimming in the afternoon.

"I find deadlines stimulating in fact I force them on myself.

"There's nothing mysterious about how to work as some people think. Most people could be reasonably good if they have just two things—the desire; and the willingness to work like the devil."

The publication American Artist in a profile about Gillen declared:

"It is in the field of draughtsman with early guidance and acknowledges a debt of gratitude to Frederick Waugh, a distinguished Canadian painter.

A Canadian artist, Denver L. Gillen of Vancouver, is the designer of a new United States post office three-cent stamp dedicated to gardening and horticulture. An American art magazine recently said of the Canadian artist: "He is well on the road to an unlimited future." (CP Photo.)

De Gaulle's Plan For Constitution Given Committee

Chief Aim to Separate Executive From House

PARIS (Reuters) — Premier Charles de Gaulle, brought back to power by a revolt in Algiers, has proposed a new constitution for France that would probably prevent such a thing happening again.

Under the draft constitution for the Fifth Republic that he presented to his advisory committee Tuesday, the power of the executive would be strengthened and the capricious course of governments in the National Assembly would cease.

The chief object of the constitution is to separate executive and legislative powers. The special committee, whose powers are purely advisory, has until Aug. 17 to present its findings to the government — which could ignore them.

NATIONAL VOTE IN 'FALL

De Gaulle plans to submit the new constitution to French voters at the end of September or early October. General elections for a new assembly will follow in November.

There seems little doubt that Frenchmen, fed up with the parliament of the Fourth Republic, will approve the new constitution.

Under the old constitution the all-powerful National Assembly could—and did—overthrow governments at will. Premiers found themselves incapable of following consistent policies on major issues and unable to push unpopular measures.

The main points of the de Gaulle proposals are:

The president would be elected for seven years by the assembly, the senate, the county councils, overseas assemblies and delegates from city councils. Now the president is elected by the assembly and senate.

POWER FOR PRESIDENT

The president would have the power to arbitrate between the government and parliament, name a premier without consulting party leaders and dissolve the assembly if he thought it necessary. The power presidents have lacked up to now.

The president could take emergency powers to safeguard the independence of the nation—powers which have never been granted at present.

The government could be overthrown only by a majority of the assembly—one-half of the house. Now there is a censure vote after 20 days. Any deputies who abstained from voting would be counted as voting against the censure motion.

Parliament would meet only for seven months a year—now three months and nine months.

Deputies have been elected by proportional representation and a system of party alliances until now.

CABINET NOT IN HOUSE

Deputies and senators would have to resign their seats before accepting ministerial positions.

The last two lines of the draft constitution give the government power, if it wishes, by decree the electoral system — whether party representation is elected in November.

Deputies have been elected by proportional representation and a system of party alliances until now.

House Repeals Tax On Special Editions

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson says something must be done to protect Canadian magazines from special Canadian editions of American magazines.

He said in the Commons Tuesday night that Time and Reader's Digest, the only U.S. periodicals of that type, can duplicate Canadian magazines' advertising rates by leasing on their wealthy American parent magazines.

It was a "form of journalistic gerrymandering."

Mr. Pearson described the situation as "a threat to Canadian national problem" which must be met if a "distinctive Canadian item" is to be maintained in Canadian periodicals.

He spoke as the Commons approved a resolution repealing a 25-per-cent excise tax on Canadian advertising revenues of special Canadian editions of foreign periodicals.

Mr. Pearson said there were 17,000,000 Canadians living beside the 175,000,000 speaking the same language and in an intimate relationship with Canada. This encouraged the production of so-called "Canadian editions" of United States publications, which could sometimes "lean on the Canadian scene."

Referring to Progressive Conservative plans for a campaign of education about the "vision of Canada," Mr. Pearson said that Canadians have "more subtle distinctions "alien in spirit...alien in origin and perhaps alien in some other respects."

A U. S. marine walks with his hands up and armed rebels push him ahead through a street in the rebel held quarter of Beirut, while residents look from the threshholds at the unusual sight. The marine, with other comrades, was captured when a sniper fired made a wrong turn and drove into rebel strongpoint. They were then released, after an interrogation, and they said they were not mistreated.

U.S. Now Agrees To Private Talks Besides UN Meet

Moves Closer to Stand Taken by British Govt.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Informants in London and Washington say Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Eisenhower are ready to propose that a summit conference on the Middle East crisis be opened in the Security Council within two weeks.

Both the British and American leaders have drafted messages to Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Informed sources in Washington said Eisenhower's note suggests a range of dates between July 10 and 15.

Britain and the U.S. are reported to be trying to re-coordinate the diplomatic negotiations more closely with France. The consultations will result in some changes in the messages—France doesn't favor a meeting at the UN—but Premier Khrushchev is expected to be sent to Moscow within a day or two.

One possible modification would be to propose a meeting of the U.S. officials said that in addition to the formal meetings of the Security Council, at which all the great powers are members, there would be private talks which would bring together such men as Premier Khrushchev, Macmillan, Premier Charles de Gaulle and possibly Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada, by the council, Prime Minister Nehru.

TO BRITISH VIEW

The move is a bit closer to the British view. Conservative Leader H. A. Butler told the House of Commons Tuesday that "I think we think it most desirable that the conference should be associated with the United Nations, we also strongly support the principle that there should be private meetings simultaneously."

One unpublished U.S. official said the United Nations headquarters in New York is the logical place for the extraordinary session but that Eisenhower is willing to go to Geneva or any other privately General — if others prefer.

Eisenhower's latest note is in answer to an angry Khrushchev message on Sunday.

The Soviet leader accused Eisenhower of virtually rejecting a Soviet call for summit conference, of being responsible for aggression in the Middle East and of plotting at new military adventures there.

Khrushchev also called again for a five-power meeting outside the UN. But the official news agency Tass said Tuesday night this was not a rejection of a UN conference and added: Khrushchev still is willing to attend a Security Council meeting.

— HAND FREEZES

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A 16-year-old youth was in a hospital Tuesday with a frozen hand after he stuck it into a can of dry ice to help after it got caught in a soft drink machine. He said he didn't want to be mistaken for a thief.

Fleming Drops Change in Tax For 'Ad Sheets'

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming says the government has dropped a proposed excise tax change that would have removed certain publications from the tax exemption granted newspapers.

The proposal, in the June 17 budget, read: "That advertising sheets, local bulletins, local circulars and similar publications be excluded from the (excise tax) exemption for newspapers unless they have qualified as a newspaper eligible second-class mailing privileges."

Mr. Fleming said, Tuesday night during Commons debate on amendments to the excise tax act that "some misunderstandings . . . have arisen as to the nature of the resolution."

He said its purpose was to assist authorities charged with enforcement act by clarifying and define newspapers.

The study was followed by the post office in determining second-class mailing privileges was that, "if the advertising does not exceed 70 per cent of the space, it is still numbered as a newspaper."

"The exemption created by the act is in favor of newspapers and will have to be left to other means to define what is the meaning of the word newspapers," he said.

Recommend Railroad Wage Boosts Half Amounts Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases less than half of those asked by the non-operating railway workers are recommended in the majority report of a conciliation board dealing with the dispute between railways and 130,000 employees.

The majority report made public Tuesday, which the union representative joined with the board chairman—provided:

1. A wage increase of five cents an hour, retroactive to last Jan. 1.

2. An increase of three per cent effective next April 1, both of which would be made under the latter increases calculated on the base under effective last Dec. 31.

4. The new contract to run for two years from last Jan. 1. The old one expired June 30, 1957.

The majority report of company nominee Philip Vineberg, Montreal lawyer, recommended no change in present wages for 1958.

The majority report — which Labor Minister Starr said in an accompanying statement constitutes the report of the board — was signed by Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson of Regina, chairman, and Toronto lawyer David Lewis, nominated by the unions.

The 11 non-operating unions engaged in the biggest of Canadian labor disputes had asked for a combination increase of 21 per cent plus 17 cents an hour, calculated to be worth about $100,000,000 a year.

The unofficial calculation indicated that, on the basis of figures presented by the two major railways at hearings, implementation of the board's findings would cost them roughly $35,000,000 a year.

The board would be decided between the 17-cent first-year-effective-boost of four cents an hour and $13,540,000 for each of the succeeding two.

Putting the increases in effect for other employees generally would run the total to around $50,000,000 a year.

The report of the conciliation board is not binding.

Meanwhile, it will serve as a basis for renewed negotiations.

Mother, Six Children Drown When Car Plunges off Wharf

WHYCOCOMAGH, N.S. (CP)— A mother and six of her 10 children were drowned Tuesday night when the brakes of her car failed and it plunged off a ferry wharf at nearby Little Narrows.

Dead are Mrs. Anthony MacNeill, 38, her sons, Allan, 12, Ronald, 11, Carl and Larry, 9, and daughters Frances, 14, Agnes, 13, Jeanette, 8, and Eleanor, 4. All were from nearby Iona. Whycocomagh is about 50 miles southwest of Sydney.

Another passenger, Andy Campbell, 76, also of Iona, was the lone survivor. He jumped from the car before it fell into the swirling 40-feet-deep waters of St. Patrick's channel.

Mrs. MacLean is hospital in a state of shock and later gave reporters this account of the accident:

"As we came over the hill approaching the ferry, Allan screamed that the brakes had failed. The car sped down the incline to the ferry approach. It struck a pole. I jumped and landed on the end of the wharf."

The accident happened about 10 p.m. while the group was returning from visiting Andy Campbell's mother, a patient in hospital at Baddeck, N.S. The ferry is about midway between Baddeck and Iona.

Eyewitnesses said the car shot about 50 feet through the air when it left the wharf. Its headlights kept shining for more than an hour but attempts to haul it to the shore were hampered by heavy seas.

Early today a diver located the auto and a truck hauled it ashore. The bodies were still inside.

TORONTO PLANS ROYAL WELCOME FOR MARGARET

Sea of Flowers Will Greet Princess

TORONTO (CP) — A crowd of 1,500 will be allowed into suburban Malton airport tonight for a glimpse of Princess Margaret as she alights from her plane on the eve of a brief visit to Toronto.

Thousands more are expected to gather in the vicinity to get a look at her as she boards the royal train which will take her to a siding in Toronto for the night.

Tuesday evening from Prince Albert, Sask., goes to Stratford on Thursday at 3:25 p.m.

Toronto has been making preparations for weeks for the brief visit.

On Friday Margaret visits Niagara Falls and Hamilton before heading to Ottawa.

In Toronto, bombs and rockets will be exploded. A mammoth display of fireworks has been arranged. Servicemen will line the streets. A tourist home built for the event at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds will serve as a royal residence. It has been prepared.

Fast fountain rockets will burst overhead, releasing flags of eight Commonwealth nations. Another rocket display Saturday would release a smoke cloud over the centre of the city. The rest of Toronto the princess has acknowledged her reception.

More than 1,000 persons in the CNE grandstand are expected to join in a mammoth cheering welcome as she walks amid the fireworks. She is scheduled to receive the city's highest honor, the acknowledgment.

Before she arrives at the CNE she will tour the heart of Toronto. Streets will be lined with nearly 10,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen, most from militia units in this area. RCMP formation dancing members will provide a guard of honor at the hunting-and-fox-headed city hall.

Tonight she will rest in her railway car. When she arises, she will begin her tour by crossing the line River to her waiting railway car.

The Don, ordinarily a murky, sluggish, refuse-filled eyesore, has had its banks washed and scrubbed for the occasion and up stream to give it a fresher smell.

Skunk Attacks Four Dogs, Believed Rabid

ORILLIA (CP) — A skunk, believed to be rabid, was shot Tuesday by Mrs. Phil Bowerman nearby Atherley after it attacked four dogs, biting one of them.

The nearly painless attacked by the dogs' barking, ran to their master's aid and killed the animal before Mrs. Shedd arrived with a shotgun.

The skunk was taken to department of agriculture laboratories in Bowmanville for rabies test.

Ban Preliminary Hearing Reports By Papers Urges British Report

LONDON (Reuters) — A long-standing controversy popped back into the limelight today on the question of a newspaper's right to report certain court proceedings.

An accused person makes his first court appearance before the magistrate, who has to decide on whether the police have made out a case sufficiently strong to stand trial in a higher court. The proceedings are usually preceded with the police giving evidence of the accused's alleged misdeeds. The judge then normally says nothing. His lawyer usually enters a plea of not guilty and reserves his defence for the trial in order not to give away his case to the prosecution.

These committal proceedings now are open to the press and reporting and in a major case, such as murder, the public benefits from the papers' reports in detail.

Critics of this system argue that this is unfair to the accused, whose case is not argued. They also argue that these reports are bound to prejudice the minds of readers who will subsequently be called as jurors of the eventual trial.

A legal committee headed by Lord Tucker was set up to investigate and Tuesday issued its report: newspapers should not report preliminary hearings.

The press split for and against today as the controversy re-opened.

The Times, opposing the committee's views, says the suppression of these reports, while the hearing remains open to the public, "would not only be unwise, but unjust."

"If this recommendation is accepted by the government then, as almost always happens when any power is misused, a penalty will be put on whispering campaigns."

The Manchester Guardian argues that the freedom of the press is essential to democracy.

"The rights of the press exist in order that the rights of the public and the freedom of individuals," The Guardian says, "and it is on a basis that the press is given its privileges and the protection of its freedom."

The Daily Express says:

"The idea a secret court is reported to every citizen in the land. The whole thing is an aspect."

The grounds on which the Tucker committee recommended restrictions on the reporting of committal proceedings . . . are clear and unanswerable. It should not cause any serious opposition from those who have the ends of justice at heart."

Margaret Spends a Quiet Night At Saskatchewan Summer Resort

WASKESIU, Sask. (CP) — Princess Margaret spent a quiet night in a 14-room summer home on the shore of Lake Waskesiu, centre of her Saskatchewan tour.

She arrived in this northern Saskatchewan summer resort by RCAF helicopter Tuesday after a brief visit to Prince Albert.

The trip here topped off a busy schedule during which the princess visited a grain elevator, a pony Stampede in history, drove a locomotive, the streets of Calgary and flew to Prince Albert for another royal welcome.

She was to leave by helicopter today after a 30-minute drive through Prince Albert, 40 miles away, to join the train with head for Toronto.

The princess was an overnight guest in the lodge of A. A. Murphy, Saskatoon broadcaster. She retired to the lodge at 11 p.m. after attending a dinner next door in the cottage of J. C. Parres, a Saskatoon businessman.

"Thank you very much, it was very kind," the princess had heard to tell her host. Lieutenant-Governor F. L. Bastedo of Saskatchewan.

An RCMP constable at a nearby cottage kept watch on the lights so the princess could see to walk to the few steps to the Murphy lodge.

Other guests at the dinner party were Prince Minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the dinner was served the princess on a table built of pace from this area and decorated with flowers. The menu included on the menus was some Lake Waskesiu whitefish and Lake Waskesiu on Tuesday.

Waskesiu, a tree covered resort area, was the princess' home for the visit. About 35 RCMP officers and constables and another 35 were expected today. Fifty-five army signal corps men and 10 RCAF carried luggage for the royal party.

Informants close to Shehab doubted he would agree to any conditions. The 56-year-old army commander has insisted he would not compromise on his stringent demands for Chamoun's immediate resignation.

Shehab's chances of success also doubted he would agree to any conditions. The 56-year-old army commander has insisted he would not compromise on his stringent demands for Chamoun's immediate resignation.

Expect Lebanese Army Chief Will Be Elected President

BEIRUT (AP)—Speaker Adel Osseiran predicted today that parliament will elect Gen. Fuad Shehab as Lebanon's president despite maneuvers of the opposition National Front.

Osseiran said a quorum of the 66 parliament deputies will be present for the presidential election Thursday. He predicted Shehab, the non-partisan army chief of staff, will be elected "by a near unanimous vote" to succeed Camille Chamoun on September 23.

The National Front, which includes leaders of Lebanon's civil war rebellion, said Tuesday it would support no candidate unless he demanded withdrawal of U.S. troops. The front also revived demands for Chamoun's immediate resignation.

Informants close to Shehab doubted he would agree to any conditions. The 56-year-old army commander has insisted he would not compromise on his stringent demands for Chamoun's immediate resignation.

Shehab's chances of success also were attached.

The official news agency said there were reports that Shehab has refused to run because of the opposition demand.)

Some deputies said that opposition members of parliament are loyal to Shehab personally and unlikely to vote him despite the National Front statement.

Prime Minister Saeb Salam threatened yesterday to resign unless the elections were postponed but Shehab's election was published. This followed an attempt to assassinate him in broad daylight on the main street.

Chamoun decided not to go along with Salam after talking with U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock, who was reported to have said the elections should be held Thursday. They already have been postponed one week.

McClintock is said to fear any further delay will increase chances of serious trouble and of U.S. troops being involved.

Lesage Calls Quebec Hydro Defence 'Clumsy'

QUEBEC (CP) — Hon. Jean Lesage, leader of the Quebec Liberal Party, said Tuesday that a statement issued Friday by the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission concerning a controversial provincial gas contract was a "clumsy attempt to justify a decision they either took themselves or which was taken by others for them."

In a statement released during a press conference, Mr. Lesage said Premier Duplessis has failed to explain why Quebec Hydro opted to develop Quebec Hydro's Montreal gas distribution system to the privately-owned firm of Saturday Gas Corporation.

Only a public commission of inquiry which would have the authority to take under oath testimony of the hydro commissioners would satisfy the Quebec public, Mr. Lesage said.

The statement by the president and commissioners of Gas, Mr. Lesage said the transaction was "entirely judicious, equitable and consistent with the public interest."

The statement added that the interest of the province were better served by devoting hydro-electric power to the development of the province's hydro-electric power to the development of natural gas, a foreign product over which it has no control.

Gregory, alerted to look for a stolen car, stopped a motorist Tuesday and ordered him into his patrol car while he searched the other auto.

The man stepped into Gregory's car and drove off. The speedy patrol car was more than a match for the one left behind.

Gregory's car was found abandoned 35 miles away.

Beer Warehouse Workers Seek 32-Hour Week

TORONTO (CP) — Two sets of negotiations covering Ontario's 69 fire main outlets are under way this week. In each case master contracts expired March 31.

Kiwanians Told About Life in German City

Life in Pforzheim, Germany — gateway to the famous Black Forest — was characterized as a "tremendous spirit of co-operation" and like "do-it-yourself plan."

Abe Mazer, president of Avco Jewellery Ltd., recently returned from a two-month business trip to that city of 80,000 population in west central Germany. He gave local fellow Kiwanians a graphic picture of living and working conditions in that German city when he addressed the club Tuesday.

He informed Kiwanians Pforzheim was almost totally destroyed in an air attack about three weeks before the end of World War II. Within 20 minutes 80 per cent of the city's buildings were levelled and 23,000 people killed, he said.

"It took almost completely rebuilt, with modern concrete apartments and business stands rising five and six stories," Mr. Mazer stated. "It took a tremendous spirit of co-operation among the city's remaining citizens to rebuild the city when everything was gone."

MORE SELF-RELIANT

Mr. Mazer said this "spirit of co-operation" is typical of the German people. They are also a great deal more self-reliant than North Americans.

"If you want anything done, from your house needing repainting a house for you to do yourself," he said. "You can buy the paint or a suit for your shoe, but you can't hire anyone to do the job."

Shoe repair shops, for example, are conspicuous by their absence.

Known for their "sharp thrift" just about every German family leases a small plot of land in the suburbs to grow its own garden produce, he said. Women do the farming, and also go in for preserving on a large scale.

Mr. Mazer said Pforzheim's another example of German "sharp thrift" and community co-operation. When the city's Glee Club wanted a concert hall, they simply built one. The men themselves without soliciting financial support. It is now run on a non-profit bases.

Volunteer fire departments are numerous, particularly in the suburbs, and men are taxed according to the number of hours they did not put in as volunteer firemen.

Although Pforzheim has three movie houses, they are generally almost empty. The most popular gathering places are the beer taverns, which provide family or "stammtisch" entertainment, the speaker said.

Beer is cheap — about 6c a stein and 10c a bottle — while a cup of coffee costs 50c by our monetary standards. Coffee costs anywhere from $2 a pound for the cheapest variety up to $3.50 for the good coffee.

"Instead of having coffee breaks as we do here, Germans have beer breaks," Mr. Mazer said.

The cost of living in Germany is double the cost of living in Canada, he asserted. Important foods, such as good cuts of meat, are expensive. Although meat can be bought in almost every form, beef is practically non-existent on the market.

Germany is more socialistic, even than England, the speaker said. Free hospital, doctor, and dental services are provided. Glasses are also provided free of charge.

Workers are thoroughly unionized and compensation benefits are greater than those given Canadian workers, Mr. Mazer stated. If a worker becomes ill on the job, for the first six weeks he is off work he receives his full salary. The employer pays the difference between the state compensation benefits and his regular wage.

Germans work a 45-hour week, but have a longer vacation than North Americans because they usually have a two-hour lunch period.

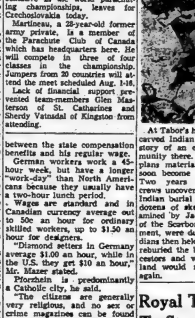
Wages are standard and in Canadian currency average out to 50c an hour for ordinary skilled workers, up to $1.50 an hour for designers.

"Diamond setters in Germany average $1.00 an hour, while in the U.S. they get $10 an hour," Mr. Mazer stated.

Pforzheim is predominantly a Catholic city, he said.

"The citizens are generally very religious, and no sex or crime magazines can be found on newsstands. There is also little sign of juvenile delinquency.

Mr. Mazer, who said he spent half the time while in Pforzheim trying to discover if Jews would live there, said he found no discrimination or discourtesy of any kind.



"The people told me Jews were persecuted in Germany because they were anti-Nazi but just as many Catholics and Protestants who were anti-Nazi were also killed," he said.

The speaker revealed a little-known fact that although the West German government gave $190,000,000 to Israel and various Jewish institutions at the end of the war, for war losses, private claims of up to $10,000 are still being paid out to Jewish victims of Nazi persecution.

Mr. Mazer said Canadians were well liked in Germany — much more so than Americans. They are coldly courteous to Americans but warm and friendly to Canadians, he said.

Well meaning Americans frequently unintentionally insult Europeans, he said. For example at the end of the war, the U.S. sent over hundreds and bushels of corn-on-the-cob, not realizing this delicacy in American delicacy is fed only to pigs in Europe, the speaker explained.

The speaker was introduced by Everett Fairman and thanked by Bob Freestone.

At Tabor's hill, Scarboro, Ont., carved Indian figures recall the story of an early Indian community there. And, if present plans materialize, the site will soon become a national park. Two years ago construction crews uncovered evidence of an Indian burial ground there and dozens of skeletons, being examined by Jack Chester, above, of the Scarboro health department, were dug up. Ontario Indians then held a convention and reburied the bones of their ancestors and were promised the land would not be disturbed again.

Governor Faubus Wins Easily in Arkansas Vote

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Orval Faubus has won an overwhelming endorsement to resist school integration in sweeping to a third-term Democratic nomination for state governor.

"The returns indicate clearly the sentiments of the people," Faubus said in a victory statement.

Crowds of jubilant supporters overflowed into the street in front of his campaign headquarters and a sound truck screeched Dixie, the traditional southern fighting song, as the outcome of the balloting in the preferential primary became evident.

RECORD MAJORITY

Faubus bucked over two opponents by the widest majority ever accorded a candidate for governor in the state, to win the Democratic state, nomination in tantamount to election.

Auto Workers' Board Likely To O.K. Strike

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers international executive board is expected to approve strike action by a large approval request from union negotiating teams at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The board is expected to give permission when it meets here Tuesday. The decision then will go to the UAW's GM, Ford and Chrysler national councils.

They are scheduled to meet in Detroit next Thursday and approval also is expected from them.

The union has been working without contract since May 30. The request for a strike authorization is another step in strategy to force a showdown in the deadlocked contract talks.

UAW Vice-President Leonard Woodcock, head of the bargaining team at General Motors, said Tuesday night the 11-man board at GM voted unanimously to make the strike request.

Woodcock said he could give no indication of a strike deadline. He said, however, "I don't see how we could get past that day without setting one," referring to the board meeting.

LITTLE PROGRESS

The union said there has been little progress towards agreement between the companies and the UAW.

It is common knowledge here that the UAW plans to time deadlines to coincide with the tooling up of 1959 model cars or the period in which stocks of cars are built up for dealer showrooms.

Meanwhile General Motors Tuesday announced pay increases for approximately 4,000 Canadian salaried employees in Oshawa, Windsor, St. Catharines, Scarborough and London.

The increases, effective Aug. 1, are for employees earning $384 a month or less will amount to $10.50 a month or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater.

Salaried employees in the United States received raises in May.

Union Blocks 'Record Hops'

GUELPH (CP) — Some 150 teen-agers have signed a petition asking that facilities be provided for Friday night "record hops" here. The plea was taken up after a recreation movement Friday that such dances at the Royal Hotel were discontinued.

The event was organized by the Guelph Junior Baseball Association to raise team funds. Officials said they were forced to call off the Kitchener Musicians' Protective Association to quit using records. The organization is Local 226, American Federation of Musicians.

Officials told the hotel that it would be blacklisted if the record hops continued, and later told baseball association officials that they could continue if either a six-piece orchestra were maintained or a $50 fee paid to the union.

Was Working on Magazine Story When Posing as Doctor Says J. Brett

VANCOUVER (CP)—Sgt. Paul's Hospital has launched an investigation into allegations by newspaper reporter Jack Brett that he worked as an intern at the hospital earlier this year while falsely representing himself as a graduate physician.

D. A. Thompson, hospital board member and its legal counsel, said Tuesday night the hospital board will issue a statement at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. Brett, now in Prince George, B.C., said he worked as St. Paul's Hospital to gather material for a story for an eastern Canada magazine "to spotlight for public information just how difficult it is for a person to attain or responsible a position without any more than an interest-like interneship in the field."

He confirmed a statement in the Vancouver Province, which published Tuesday he gave up his work at the hospital that he had delivered three babies during his period posing as an intern.

Brett, 38, has been a member of the editorial staff of the Vancouver Province.

George Cilizze since May this year. He also worked for several newspapers in Ontario before being employed by the magazine on the St. Paul's assignment.

The Province quoted Dr. Paul F. Jackson, chairman of the St. Paul's intern committee, as saying a man using the name Dr. Jack Harris served as St. Paul's hospital from April 3 to April 26 and was dismissed when the claims to medical qualification "didn't check out."

Move to Allow Subsidiaries to Trade With Reds

WASHINGTON (CP)—U.S. officials said Tuesday the administration next few days the administrative machinery for handling requests from American-owned subsidiaries in Canada that wish to trade with Red China.

The effect, they said Tuesday, would be to provide a channel through which subsidiaries could apply for an exemption under the U.S. Trading with the Enemy Act which until now has barred U.S.-controlled firms in Canada from exporting orders from Red China.

But this said to Ottawa earlier this month, President Eisenhower agreed with Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the work out procedures that would leave the subsidiaries free to accept such orders. In the past, U.S. parent corporations have been liable to penalty if their subsidiaries traded with Red China.

Officials here said the problem at the moment is to decide just how applications for exemption should be made — whether the subsidiary should make application to the parent, as is now provided, they said, to have applications made to Washington.

The state, one request for exemption has been received here. Formal action on the Canadian Embassy, it involves an order for shipment of pulpwood to China. Officials declined to identify the company.

Sadly missed and sorrowed by you,

My eyes shed many tears,
God alone knows how I miss you,
As the sad 29th year
—Lovingly remembered by husband Ed.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials led the stock market to firmer ground today in light morning trading.

Western oils were the only group off and their losses were small with less than a quarter point index loss. Industrials, after losing almost two points Tuesday, were up more than one-half. Golds gained slightly less than one-half while base metals were up a few decimal points.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 703,000 shares, slightly down from Tuesday's 740,000 at the same hour.

Most of the volume was centered around New Hosco as the speculative issue traded 152,900 shares in the first hour. New Hosco lost 41 cents Tuesday, but regained 36 cents at 21.05 today.

McColl-Frontenac was one of the few industrial losers, it dipped 1 at 60. Most gains were around ¼ point. Among the winners were Abitibi, International Nickel and B-A Oil, all up ⅝. Gains of ¼ point went to Algoma and CPR.

Golds were not active and senior mines were mixed.

United States Shies Away From Joining Baghdad Pact

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States today committed itself in the Middle East though it is, still-shies away from accepting the responsibility of full membership in the Baghdad Pact, the defensive alliance it worked so hard to create.

The U.S. has co-operated closely with the Baghdad alliance since its formation and Secretary Dulles carried that association one step further in London this week when he told the pact's members that the United States would not fail, even at great risk, to act in defence of their independence and integrity.

But, having said that, he gave no indication that the U.S. is prepared to sign the Baghdad treaty and join Britain, Turkey, Iran and Pakistan in full partnership in the NATO-style alliance they set up in 1955 — largely in response to American persuasion — to block Soviet military penetration of the oil-rich Middle East.

ISRAEL BARRED

There are a number of reasons for the U.S. reluctance to join the pact, including the fact the treaty provisions bar Israel from joining and a desire on the part of Washington to avoid giving the impression the U.S. wants to impose a defence set-up in the touchy Middle East.

But the basic reason is that the U.S. does not want to offend Egypt and other Arab states which regard the alliance as a remnant of Western imperialism in the Middle East and as a vehicle to suppress Arab nationalism and divide the Arab world.

An American spokesman at one of the early pact meetings indicated this when he said it was the American desire, while co-operating closely with the pact members, "to retain their friendly and effective ties with other nations in the area."

The possible Soviet reaction to American adherence to the pact was another reason for the initial American decision not to join the alliance. It was considered better that Russia already vilified about American military bases from which she could be attacked, should not be faced directly by the U.S. on that part of her military perimeter.

UNCERTAIN REACTION

The uncertain congressional reaction of full membership also played its part. Formal membership would require ratification by the U.S. Senate, a body whose reactions it always is difficult to pre-judge. If the Senate turned flatly and

Liberal Member Named to Head Accounts Body

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Alan Macnaughton today celebrated his 55th birthday by becoming the first Opposition member in Canadian parliamentary history to be named chairman of a standing Commons committee.

Mr. Macnaughton, member for Montreal Mount Royal since 1949, was unanimously elected chairman of the public accounts committee, which considers government expenditures after they have been made. The throne speech at the opening of the present 24th Parliament proposed that "a member of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition be elected chairman of the committee of public accounts."

The appointment was announced in the United Kingdom Parliament.

down such membership. U.S. prestige abroad would suffer, it is argued here. The U.S. role in the pact's functions could scarcely be larger even if she did sign its provisions.

Though she has only observer status at the formal pact meetings, the U.S. is a full member of the pact's economic, anti-subversion and military committees, contributes to the cost of its general secretariat and provides its members with economic and military aid.

Legion Holds Annual Picnic For Children

TRENTON — The annual Trenton Legion children's picnic, held this year at Cedardale Beach on Sunday afternoon, was undoubtedly the largest and most successful ever held.

Approximately 350 children, accompanied by almost as many parents, attended and all the kids received free ice cream, soft drinks, hats and favors.

Master of ceremonies was Irvin "Mac" McCaughey and the entire affair was organized by co-chairman Kenneth Craddock and K. E. Keezy.

A pee-wee baseball game, a senior softball game and tug-of-war provided much entertainment, with the pee-wees showing amazing ability for children of their ages. The two teams were the Pirates and the Cardinals of the Trenton Peewee Baseball League and the Pirates were the winners by a 6-2 score.

In the tug-of-war, the largest Legionnaires were divided into two teams, one of which was led by John Howe and the other by Ross "Red" Brumwell. The latter trust anchored by John Howe, was declared the winner after taking two out of three pulls.

The program concluded in the evening with a community sing song. Music was provided by Jay DiFrucio and his electric guitar and the singing was led by Don Evans and Len McGaughey. John Williamson, a guest for the occasion, conducted three well received vocal selections.

Winner of the special draw held in conjunction with the picnic was Mr. Harold Dracup of Belleville.

Monday Named Air Force Night By Legion Branch

TRENTON — Monday evening, August 18, has been designated as "Air Force Night" at the Trenton Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Only serving or ex-RCAF personnel will be enrolled in the Legion on that occasion and the initiation ceremony will be conducted by senior RCAF officials who are also members of the Trenton Legion.

The initiation team will be headed by Air Commodore J. R. Harvey, an active and enthusiastic member of Brand 110, who will select several other serving personnel to assist him.

The membership chairman for the evening, Comrade (Flight Lieutenant) Donald R. Craig, anticipates that approximately 100 candidates will be initiated on that occasion. This will increase the total branch strength to almost 800 members.

Town Briefs

NO ACCIDENTS, FIRES

TRENTON — There were no accidents and no fires reported to either department yesterday to bring the first accident-free day in the past week and to bring fire-free days up to three. Traffic through the town is down by well over half from the record weekend last Saturday and Sunday when hundreds of motorists "hit the road". The two latest fires, both during the past weekend, included a grass fire of some magnitude and a sawdust pile fire. There has been no major fires since June 21 when a summer cottage owned and rented out by Senator W. A. Fraser at the "Grove" was completely destroyed in a flash fire.

COOL SHOWERS

Two cool showers brought a brief end to the heat wave in Trenton yesterday afternoon. The rain came in a burst about 4:30 and again about 6:30 p.m. Both downpours cooled the hot pavement and buildings which had been sizzling since 9 a.m. high up in the 90's during the past week.

REMANDED

Magistrate T. Y. Wills remanded Jack Brant of Smithfield for sentencing on a charge of assault in magistrate's court yesterday. Brant was charged following an incident near the Legion hall when he struck Irvine Ketchem on the face breaking his jaw. Since that time Mr. Ketchem has had his jaw wired and the magistrate has elected to await the final bills for medical charges in the case before ruling on a sentence.

Baptist Union Will Not Seek Easier Divorce

WINNIPEG (CP) — President C.G. Carter of the Baptist Union of Western Canada says the union does not plan to seek broadening of the grounds for divorce in Canada.

A Canadian Press story from Regina July 2 said the union's federation committee would be asked to take up with the minister of justice recommendations that insanity, brutal treatment and desertion be considered as grounds for divorce in addition to adultery, now accepted in most provinces as the only ground for divorce.

The union's social service committee presented such a resolution to the June convention but Mr. Carter said the convention as a whole voted it down. He said the union will not request any broadening at present divorce laws nor will the social service committee's resolution be referred to any other church committee.

"I" CARDS FOR PATROLMEN

Last Saturday night an incident occurred at Outlet Beach which amazed the people concerned.

A group of six men and women was busily engaged building a bonfire for a wiener roast, when the sound of an axe chopping wood came to their ears. They looked up and saw a family several yards down the beach hacking with an axe at a stand of green trees.

A short while later, as one of the men in the first party was whittling a spit from a dead branch, a man appeared. He apparently had climbed over a sand dune behind the picnickers. By this time, though, the axe farther along the beach had been silenced.

The man approached the picnic site of the sextet and said: "So, you are the ones breaking off green branches!"

A man in the party turned to the new arrival and asked him to identify himself.

"I am a Department man," said the newcomer.

"What Department?" asked the younger fellow, "Produce you-it' card."

"I am a patrolman with the Department of Lands and Forests," came the reply. "I do not have an identification card, but come on out to the road and see for yourself the sign on the door of my truck, if you don't believe me."

The younger chap did not accept the invitation to go out to the road and look at a sign on a truck, especially since the time was fast approaching midnight. Besides which, he thought the "Department man" had strayed away from a party.

When the picnicker refused to follow him, the new arrival threatened to call the Ontario Provincial Police.

"Go right ahead," said the younger fellow, at which point the other man vanished over a dune.

A few minutes later the man re-appeared with an O.P.P. constable in tow." After a brief explanation, the constable confirmed the man's identification.

All this disturbance would not have transpired had the Department of Lands and Forests man produced an identification card. In future, to prevent recurrences of such things, it might be a good idea if the Department issued all of its employees with proper identification. No one but a fool would accost a stranger in the dark of night to a lonely spot on a beach road, even if the stranger said he was the king of England.

NEW SPEED RECORD

British European Airways is claiming a new speed record. What makes this news is that this time the record was established on the ground. The Airways needed 24 new offices, to house 100 airport employees. The building required was roughly the size of ten modern four-bedroom houses. It was built July 17.

Yes, that's right, "built" on July 17. Not just started July 17.

Started July 17, built and completed all on July 17.

Work commenced at 5 a.m. Trucks unloaded completely pre-assembled units. Cranes placed them on prepared footings. They were unfolded and coupled together. Electric wiring and plumbing were built in. Then, factory arrived and were connected.

By "tea time," the British workman's evening meal, and not society's afternoon tea time, the building was completed.

The British, though, are not always so fast, as the last paragraph of the British European Airways release shows. The office which the contractors, Terraplin Ltd., built in a day will stand on its present site for two years, "until the new hangars being built for BEA at London Airport are completed."

A HEALTH PROBLEM?

We would have given more than a penny this Monday for the thoughts of Hon. Mackinnon Phillips, Ontario's minister of health, when he learned that his home town of Owen Sound had decided to invite Premier Nikita Khrushchev of Russia to visit Canada.

Dr. Phillips, we think, must have been particularly interested, because this invitation was the brainchild of Owen Sound's mayor, Mac McKenzie, former radio announcer and city alderman, who is just stepping into the shoes of industrial commissioner at Owen Sound after having done a stint of publicity work in Dr. Phillips' department.

We wonder whether Dr. Phillips was thanking his stars or cursing his fate that he never had to look on Mr. McKenzie as an ex-employee, although a constituent.

ON PAST JOYS

Do you mourn for the money you spent,
Do you sigh for the food you have had,
Do you grieve bitterly today's discontent
That yesterday made your heart glad?
Do you look back on joys you have known
Once gone with a sigh, and regret
That you had them, because they have flown?
Is that now the reason you fret?

You once had a friend who was true
And you say life is solemn and drear
Since he has departed from you,
And nothing can comfort or cheer?
Oh, arise now, and strive to be glad;
Rejoice in the joys you have known;
Rejoice in the friend you have had
And thus be your gratitude shown.

Viewing With Pride Alarm

By Harold Wolk in the Vancouver Sun

Various items of our current crop of news cause one to both point with pride and view with alarm, and the observer is left, like Hindu Siva, gesturing in all directions.

Heading the list that creates alarm is the statement of the Hon. George Pearkes, Minister of National Defence, that Canada has entered into Norad because, if we hadn't entered, the U.S. "would just move in here and we'd be no more than just as subject to "protective invasion" as any European country that trails in dejected orbit around Russia.

There's no good argument against the general principles of Norad, in fact, the argument in this country exempt from bigoted anti-Americanism. But some of the ideas are disturbingly vague. For instance, Canada will be an automatic reason to believe that if the Americans get scared enough Canada's defence measures are at a moment when we've had no opportunity to familiarize ourselves with their use.

Moreover, if a section of the U.S. should, personally, had to take orders from an American commander, it could possibly and all the more humiliating to disguise those orders as Canadian.

Most Canadians will believe Norad is a useful and expedient. But the element of personal compulsion in it, as described by Mr. Pearkes will stick in every Canadian craw.

Which One Was Smarter?

Canadian Military Journal

A mother took a six-year-old boy to a psychiatrist.

"He won't eat. Doctor", s h e said.

"Well," said the psychiatrist, sympathetically, "why don't you like to eat, son?"

"Never get nuthin' I like", muttered the boy.

"What do you like, son?"

"Worms", replied the boy.

The doctor nodded and sent his nurse out to get some worms. When she returned she offered several large fat ones to the boy on a plate.

"Nay!" shouted the boy, "they gotta be fried!"

Still game. The doctor beckoned to the nurse, who then fried the worms and brought them back to the child.

"I only want one" he screamed.

The doctor removed all but one worm from the plate. "Okay", he said, "go ahead, eat it."

"You eat half first" the boy screamed.

The doctor gritted his teeth, held his breath and managed to eat half a worm, then handed the other half to the boy. "Now, eat it!".

"Naw-" bawled the boy. "You ate my half!"

Slave to Lawn and Garden

New York Times

The garden has become too big, and so has the lawn. The garden has become of such size that all but a few of the week-end hours must be devoted to its care. The lawn takes all the rest. Such is the size of the pair of them that fishing has suffered, golf has suffered, even so simple a thing as tennis has suffered. Swimming impossible. Baseball, of course, is out of the question these days, as is the theater. Even bridge and gossiping with the neighbors. It happens to be because all else is enjoying fishing, golf, driving around and going to the beaches. It happens to be because all else but garden and active spring enlarging the lawn. They were born, it seems, in the wisdom of summer sages, and now they can manage their plans with a little more than half an hour each week. Over on this side of the "line" they are slaves. Slaves to this side the gardener has become a slave to a monstrosity. Or, perhaps, to a child. For the garden has become far too big, and so has the lawn.

• • •

It all dates back to the end of a long winter's seizure. When season finally decided to be gone, there were a few unexpectedly fine days of early spring. Having been shut up in the house so long, the gardener emerged filled with energy and plans. This was foolish, as he recognizes full well just now, but in that first burst of enthusiasm he put out a little row of seeds as a mark on the soil established boundary of the lawn. While he was at it, saw that there was more room available, he added a good many feet to the depth of the garden. Before the week was ended, summoning everyone to see for themselves how the garden would be improved. This, of course, was the second error, since once the enhancement had been made he was stuck with it. Not that he did not appreciate what he had done, but he was stuck and he knew it. The taunts he received were unbearable. He also was unbearable when, after moving the stakes a few times one dark night, he found them all back in their original places the next afternoon.

• • •

The spring digging that went on to reach those stakes could have been equaled—not surpassed—only by the builders of the Panama Canal. There were many stones to be moved, many quite large. There were many apparently live roots to longhead trees to be severed. And how low or two had to be severed. Fertilizer was purchased at great expense in many very heavy bags. Incidentally, this was the third of the year's errors, for whatever was in those bags caused everything to grow skyward practically overnight. The raking and tilling those two extensions recently would have brought to order an average eighteen-hole golf course. Into the garden extension went flat after flat of small plants, potentially gay in color and then of innocuous size. These took life. And one on a still day could almost be heard chuckling as they erupted. Into the lawn extension went some pounds of grass seed. Now usually the birds take care of the grown-up certain percentage of grass seed; some wasted away, some just fails to grow. None of this happened in the lawn extension. Every seed yielded its whole, or more than likely two shoots—like a double yolk egg.

• • •

Now in midsummer the once casual garden has become far too big, as has the lawn. Over in the garden extension there is what this gardener's book-learning speaks of as a riot of color. There is color, certainly, there, but the riot part of the term can be mentioned only in its sense of disorderliness. Throughout the lawn extension the grass has grown with assembly well. Apparently they have conquered without effort both chickweed and the other little things which might slow them down a bit. The once careful cutting has followed an orderly routine, north and south on this part, east and west on that. That extension has thrown out the original symmetry, thus wrecking the routine. Furthermore, that patch grows so fast it must be cut twice a week and thus never is quite the height of the rest of the lawn. It seems to stand there like an alien, a little different from the remainder of the lawn, a definition to remainder. It is a reminder of that bygone foolishness with stakes early in the spring.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

By far the happiest man at our summer resort is a semi-retired businessman who takes all of July and August at the cottage, as I do. He has no box at the post office.

He refuses to accept mail. Our summer postmaster has rigged up a set of wooden boxes on the wall with our names on each, into which the mail each day is sorted. The happy man I speak of has no box. He has instructed the postmaster to return all mail addressed to him marked "N o t known."

Traitorous though it be of me to say it, he takes no newspaper either, and thinks a radio amid our rocks and bays a monstrosity.

Last week, a telegram came for him, and the postmaster personally took the trouble to deliver it in his own boat. The happy man declined it.

"Maybe it was somebody h a d died," I prevailed upon him, when I heard of it.

"Could be," he admitted. "I'll find out about it when I get home around Labor Day."

Then I asked him what he did about the monumental pile of mail awaiting him when he goes home. He quoted Napoleon to me:

"If you don't answer your letters within 24 days, it is astonishing how little of it needs to be answered."

Many of us have this man's nerve. Nor are many of us as orderly careless.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

TRANSIENT CANKERS ARE RESULT FROM VARIOUS CAUSES

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our 25-year-old son has been plagued for a year with cankers in the mouth, tongue, throat, more than a dozen at a time. Is there no known cure? Are they caused by diet? or from nerves? I had always heard they meant acid in the system. M. B. W."

The transient canker sore that appears on rare occasions and soon vanishes is not something to get excited about. Neither is even such a persistent case as described above a reason for alarm. But it is worth attention. Notice the various degrees of troubles: The kind you ignore because they soon pass; the ones that require some thought and some study; and the serious ones that must be attended to at once.

Cankers have various causes. One is the result of some small injury to the mouth — you bit your cheek (the inside of it, of course), or you scratched it with the sharp edge of something. The small wound becomes infected, and you have a sore. Or you may be sensitive to some chemical — it may be an ingredient in a tooth paste or a mouth wash.

Or allergy may be the major factor — you may be sensitive to a food, which might be nutritious fruit juices, or even eggs. Or, it could go on for 20 minutes naming things that have proved to be troublesome to some people.

Persons weakened by poor nutrition vitamin deficiency, or some chronic illness are more often troubled with cankers.

Or a specific infection like Vincent's disease (mouth) could lurk in the margins of the gums can be at fault.

Or, hormones (as in ordinary cold sores) or some other virus infection have been found to be

Acid in the system? That's a hangover from years ago when we hadn't learned as much about the behavior of the human system as we now know.

BODY SLIGHTLY ALKALINE

It is only in cases of extreme illness that the system becomes truly acid. In ordinary circumstances the body is normally slightly alkaline side, although the stomach and the urine are normally acid. For handling cankers, forget about acid or alkaline conditions.

In the case we're discussing today, there are many possible causes. Just a year of such annoyance it is time to check with the doctor and the dentist to find out which of the common possibilities is involved.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had diabetes almost a year. It seems as if I avoid sugar and sweets I still show a lot of sugar in my urine test. Is there anything else one has to avoid in order to get sugar down? I'm 58 and on the heavy side, about 165 pounds. Would reducing help? I take insulin. — M. J."

"Sugar in the body means more than just sweet things. It means, especially, starches, and in the long run virtually any food in excess of your needs, because the body converts the excess to sugar and fat. Hence diet that brings your weight down to normal and keeps it there is vital. I'll bet your doctor told you, and you doubted it."

"Dear Dr. Molner: In spring or summer is there a laxative necessary for children? My husband says I should feed asparagus and boil it up and give some to our boys, 8 and 6. I said I didn't need it. — Mrs. E. B. H."

I imagine your husband was thinking of "greens" and such as idea. Lots of older people were, too. But the fact is that the idea doesn't need "thinning" or thickening. The sassafras tea doesn't won't do the kids any harm nor good either. The only convincing argument I can give (short of a month of lectures on blood) is that the blood which "cleans out" and "purifies" because of the weather, and Eskimos and people in Alaska, and Indians and Swiss urchins and Afrikaaners and others who never saw a sassafras shrub all get along fine without it. And so will your boys.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FEEDING THE SOUL

In that terribly cold period last winter when thousands of cattle died in Florida, one farmer handled the situation with both intuition and scientific skill. He got vitamins into the animals' blood streams and then fed them the worthless moss which hangs from the trees that looked as if the digestive systems might h a v e built. He lost only a single animal during that period of death and loss.

The survivors in the struggle of life are not the people who are without problems but the people who handle their problems intelligently. Some people who go through life with almost no problems come to the end weak, uninteresting, and what is worst of all — unhappy. Then there are other people who never confront a hard situation but that they feel that they have acquired a measure of power, the clicking of vital mechanisms, the release of reservoirs of reason and resourcefulness. George Washington, had he not faced the most terrible problems of the Revolution, would probably have died unknown. Lincoln inscribed on nothing but eighteenth century tax-rolls. Abraham Lincoln had been called upon to bear life-heavy burdens which have left the world richer, have lived and died an inconspicuous lawyer.

Listen to what it ticking inside you the next time you confront a big problem. There is a vast mechanism in there given you by God. It inflates resolve, and provides endowment courage — the visionaries that need to get into t h e blood stream of your living.

House to Review Govt. Spending Under Warrants

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming has reassured the Commons that it will be permitted to review government spending under Governor-General's warrants in the last fiscal year.

Mr. Fleming said Tuesday a resolution to that effect would be introduced shortly.

He was replying to William M. Benidickson (L — Kenora-Rainy River) during debate on a government resolution preliminary to a measure to "clarify the circumstances in which special warrants signed by the Governor-General may be issued." The measure, to amend the Financial Administration Act, was forecast in the income speech at the start of the session.

More than $250,000,000 in government spending was authorized by Governor-General's warrants between the prorogation dissolution of Parliament last Feb. 1 and the opening May 12 of the new Parliament.

Mr. Benidickson expressed concern about the warrants in the 1957-58 fiscal year ending March 31. He said the February dissolution allowed Government study of only five departmental budgets.

Opposes Pipeline Stock Split Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons railway committee has adjourned for a week to think over a Canadian pipeline company's proposed stock split.

Toronto investment banker Claude Pearce, who said he has $2,000,000 invested in Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company, Tuesday to oppose Trans Mountain's proposal.

The company wants to issue five new stocks for each one now held.

The names of some Canadian stocks "stink in the nostrils of decent people" in the United States as a result of stock splits, Mr. Pearce said, expressing concern that the Trans Mountain action would lower the stock's value.

Trans Mountain has been trying to win Parliament's approval, required because it has a federal charter, since early 1957.

Kingston Cafe Strike Ends

KINGSTON (CP)—A three-day strike by 31 employees of the Terminal Restaurant ended Tuesday with the reinstatement of two recently fired employees.

Michael Novak, who leases the restaurant from Colonial Coach Lines, and representatives of the United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) signed a joint statement that differences had been settled and contract negotiations would begin Aug. 12.

The workers struck to protest the firing of three employees and an alleged anti-union attitude on the part of the management. Two waitresses were rehired and the case of Kenneth Haines, another employee, was referred to the Ontario labor relations board.

The staff joined the UMW July 16 and was seeking an increase in the 47-cent hourly wage for waitresses, time off on holiday weekends and overtime pay.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ciro's is no more. The night club, a favorite of Hollywood movie personalities for 18 years, was auctioned off for $260,000 Tuesday because of debts. The purchaser, Manuel Feigenbaum, an auctioneer, said the Sunset Boulevard night spot would be ideal for apartments or business.

Stirling Centennial Program Promises 4 Days Of Grand Amusement For Everyone

MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING — The village of Stirling, with a population of over—2,200, is all set for the Centennial Celebration on August 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th.

The Stirling Chamber of Commerce was formed in 1952 and this group, under the leadership of Don Rodgers, has spent the past two years making exhaustive plans for this outstanding event. They are also planning to start early in September on the next one hundred years in order to make Stirling village a better place in which to live, work and play.

The Stirling Community Building is a picture of beauty with large wide bands of bunting and rosettes with a lettered centre. The decorations are in a color scheme of red, white and blue. A large number of business men have dressed up their stores in this special arrangement, while others have added a row of flags. Several homes are also decorated with flags and bunting. An array of old pictures and relics has been placed in Patterson's window and Belshaw's log house is displayed at "The News Argus." There is also an authentic map of Stirling when only a few were in existence.

ONE OF OLDEST SETTLEMENTS

Stirling is one of the oldest settlements in Upper Canada and it had various names as the years progressed. The earliest settlers came from Scotland about 1821 and records state that in 1853 it was called "Rawdon Village." Then in 1858 this village was incorporated and named after Stirlingshire in Scotland and simply called Stirling. The village Lots 10 to 13 in Rawdon township and lots 19 to 23 in Sidney township. We have been informed that lots and concessions are purely Canadian and we say the way the surveyors ch r; to designate Upper Canada.

Many persons contributed time and effort during the past year in studying past records and compiling a very worthwhile souvenir booklet. This will be an historic treasure for years to come as it gives an interesting account of the village and its activities down through the years. The booklet was published by The Ontario Intelligencer at Belleville and to date the sales have been exceptionally good. It contains numerous pictures and is a very readable book.

The celebration has begun now with white hats and blue hats, centennial buttons, etc., in great demand and everywhere they are being worn.

OLD TIME COSTUMES

On Saturday of this week the village folk, with particular emphasis on those who are in charge of the stores will wear old-fashioned costumes, but everyone is invited to enter into the celebration and wear their old clothes during the next ten days.

The I.O.D.E. will be in charge of the registration at various hours at the lobby office and all those who live out of town or coming from other parts of the world should register at this booth. The registration buttons are approximately three inches around and a plastic window is inserted between the souvenir wording. Here each person can insert his name for easy identification. The button will admit the wearer to a large number of the various functions and will be a grand souvenir.

The white hats are of cowboy type and were soon picked up by the men around town. The blue hats are two-tone in plug style and both men and women are wearing them. "Genial Bob" also decorates the hat "for free" with a Centennial poster.

Saturday will be a red-letter day as folks gather in readiness for the celebration. Many will be guests all week. On Sunday morning, Miss Frieda Matthews of Toronto, director of the National Mission of the Presbyterian Church, will be the guest speaker at St. Andrew's.

St. Paul's United Church, Hon. Sidney E. Smith, Secretary of State for External Affairs, will give the special message. The local Woman's Association, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Patterson and her committee, will be hostesses at noon to all members and guests who can remain an enjoy a buffet luncheon at St. Paul's.

At St. John's Anglican Church a former pastor, Rev. C. C. Brandt, rector of St. Edmund's Anglican Church, Toronto, will be the special speaker. The new rector at St. John's, Rev. Russell Gale, will conduct the service.

NEW LEGION HALL

On Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. the Stirling Branch, No. 226, of the Canadian Legion will officially open their new Legion hall, along Highway 14. The Dominion Legion president, Dave Burgess, and Rev. A. M. Lafferty, chaplain of Queen's University, will be in charge of the dedication ceremony. The large parade of Legionnaires from many points will then proceed to the Cenotaph where wreaths will be laid in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in two World Wars. A special drumhead service will follow at the recreation grounds of King George high school with Canon A. S. McConnell, Belleville, as special speaker.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band and the Bowmanville Pipe Band will provide the music. A large number of dignitaries, including members of both Federal and Provincial parliaments will be in attendance. The porch of the Stirling public library will be the saluting base where the grand march past will be the finale.

At 3.30 p.m. the Regent and members of the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will sponsor their centennial garden party. The admission is free and everyone is very welcome to attend and renew old acquaintances. Sunday evening at 8.15 p.m. the Salvation Army Band of Belleville will provide a Centennial concert

On Monday morning everyone will be busy putting the finishing touches on their floats. Approximately forty floats will be in the parade and it is estimated that it will stretch from the fair grounds to Front St.

Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. the RCAF Starfire Jet Air Show and the large centennial parade will get under way. Three silhouettes of the village have been donated by local firms and will be presented at the recreation grounds to the three best floats.

OFFICIAL OPENING

At 4 p.m. the official opening will take place with the local council members, all in full dress under the direction of Reeve J. V. Holt and Warden Price of Hastings County, officiating over the ceremonies. At this time there will be several presentations, one of which will be a sugar and cream three-piece silver set to the person registered from the farthest distance.

A marching display and baton drill staged by the renowned group from Colborne, who took was fund under the title of "Colborne Recreational Band" will conclude the afternoon.

The members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, are serving a hot dinner for two hours Monday noon and again from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. in the IOOF hall on Charlotte St., on Monday. There will also be various booths where snacks can be procured.

The Horticultural Society is holding an afternoon tea at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, Front St., each afternoon of the three days. The front portion of this home is one hundred years old and the home is situated in a strategic place. Old friends and new are very welcome to drop in and have a chat at any time. It will be "open house" to all and the hostess and the society members extend a hearty welcome to one and all to stop for a refreshing cup of tea.

On Monday evening the arena committee has arranged for a splendid wrestling card and the main star attraction will be Whipper Billy Watson.

There will be a square dance contest at 8 p.m. and an old time fiddlers contest followed by a centennial dance at 10 p.m. Mr. Sidney MacDonald, agricultural representative, has displayed the silver cup for the square dance contest. The donors are business men from Belleville and there will be permanent gifts to the team of eight and their caller.

Every night there will be a carnival and those in attendance will be able to choose their own brand of entertainment.

Tuesday morning, August 5th, features a "back to school" session when old schoolmates will be able to reminisce. The sessions begin at ten o'clock.

At 1.30 p.m. The Farmers' Day parade will feature old and new machinery and three silver trophies have been donated for the winners.

The boys will have their turn in "The Calf Rodeo" at 2.00 p.m. Several entries have been received and three trophies have been donated.

TURKEY DINNER

Mount Pleasant W.A. and Bethel W. A. are serving a turkey dinner on Tuesday at the I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall. The meals will be served from 11.30 a.m. to 1.30 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The competition for the square dance contest and fiddlers' contest will precede the Centennial dance at the Community Hall. At eleven o'clock arrangements have been made for a great display of fire works. Last but not least is Wednesday, August 6th designated as "Children's Day." Each child in Rawdon, Sidney and Stirling is especially invited to take part in the celebration at 10 a.m. There will be all sorts of races and contests at the High School ground under the direction of Mr. Kenneth Gillies, principal of Stirling Public School and Dr. Ralph Vandervoort.

No special meals have been arranged for Wednesday but there are good eating places in the village. Then, too, there will be the Centennial booths and guests can bring along a picnic lunch if they choose.

A "SHUTT" SHOW

A Mutt Show will be staged in the afternoon when every youngster who enters will receive a prize. There is also a good prize list for fat dogs, thin dogs, best dressed dog etc.

The Children's Day parade of bicycles, trikes, wagons, doll carriages, decorated in suitable style or your favorite pet will be a feature for the children. The parade will be led by Trenton Lions Club and each marcher will receive free treats.

The Soap Box Derby is scheduled for 3 p.m. under the leadership of David Duffin and Bill Webber. There are several entries already and four trophies have been donated. There will be three Derby prizes and one for the most attractive soap box car. All children are welcome to the Wednesday events and those in charge are planning a memorable Children's Day.

The Centennial Carnival will continue at 8 p.m. with clowns, games, and fun galore. Merry-go-Round and various attractions; at 9 p.m. another "soldiers" contest will be staged and at 10.30 there will be a draw for $1,000.

Another fire works display is scheduled for eleven p.m.

The grand finale will be a shirttail parade at midnight and thus the celebration of one hundred years of village life will step into history.

Iran, Pakistan, Turkey Plan to Recognize Iraq

LONDON (Reuters) — Turkey, Iran and Pakistan, whose prime ministers are in London for Baghdad pact discussions, are set about to recognize the new Iraqi republic government, a usually reliable source said today.

The source added that the announcement might be made on Thursday.

Britain was expected to follow with an announcement recognizing the Iraqi regime that overthrew the monarchy two weeks ago.

Iraq, though not represented at the meeting, is still officially a member of the pact. Once recognized, the Baghdad government is expected to make known whether it would continue as a member of the pact.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

WALLBRIDGE — The July meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Baker with the president presiding.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and all business arising from them was dispensed with. The bus trip to the Seaway has been cancelled and instead a bus trip to the Toronto Exhibition on the 4th of September was planned.

Mrs. G. Garrison was appointed public relations convener. It was decided to enter a display at Belleville Fair with Mrs. R. Ketchenson and Mrs. Griffin Ketchenson to get it up.

Home economics convener, Mrs. Don Irish, demonstrated making a summer salad, which was pretty and also tasty as each one sampled it during refreshments.

Mrs. McMullen read "Changes in Property Law Urged." "This was interesting as it regarded women's rights in settling estates. She then conducted two quizes on birds and apples. Mrs. Harold Phillips was the winner and received a nice little dish.

Mrs. Art Carleton closed the meeting.

The next meeting will be held at Mr. and Mrs. Don Irish's cottage at Oak Lake on August 7th. It is family night and will be in the form of a wiener roast.

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Baptist churches decided to recommend that legal imprisonment be replaced by probation as the normal means of legal punishment. For most offenders probation, as developed in British, would be more advantageous, delegates to the church's annual convention decided.

ALL PRESENT

KNOWLTON, Que. (CP)—All 17 of their grandchildren were on hand when Col. and Mrs. W. Lugg celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Wedding

VICKERY — BONTHE

Baskets of white poms and large, pink chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a most attractive background in Trinity United Church, Albury, on Saturday, July 19th at 3:00 p.m. for a very pretty wedding when Diane Evelyn Bonther, of Carrying Place, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bonther, became the bride of Richard Vickery, of Albury, of Haliburton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Vickery. The Reverend H. E. Kipfen of Carrying Place, assisted by the Reverend H. E. Hillis, of Belleville, officiated.

Mrs. A. Reilly rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss June Bowerman, who sang, "Because", before the ceremony and the "Lord's Prayer", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her ballerina length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace with scooped neckline, fitted and molded bodice having three-quarter length sleeves. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held by a coronet headdress, and she carried a white Bible, crested with dark pink Sweetheart roses, white stephanotis and white ribbons knotted with tinted lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Carole Bonter, of Carrying Place, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a ballerina-length gown of pink nylon net over a pink satin skirt of white sheer nylon over taffeta with wide rose colored cummerbund accented with a bow and trailing streamers to the back. She wore a matching headdress and carried a nosegay of rose-colored and white carnations, ivy and white satin leaves.

Miss Beverley Kennedy of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Robert Weese, of Carrying Place, and Mr. Keith Ellis, of Toronto, ushered the guests in.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held at the bride's home, which was gayly decorated for the occasion with Bettertime roses, calla lilies and tinted 'mums and Calla lily leaves.

The bride's table was pretty with its hand crocheted lace cloth in aqua shade, centred by the traditional three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by tall white candles in silver candlesticks.

The bride's mother received wearing a teal-blue silk gown with matching jacket with three-quarter sleeves, navy and beige accessories and corsage of dark-pink Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in receiving, in a blue lined, beige lace with white accessories, and corsage of bronze 'mums.

For travelling to the Laurentians, the bride chose a light-blue linen with matching duster and white accessories, and wore a white snowdrift mums. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Vickery will reside in Toronto.

Guests attended from Toronto; Haliburton; Kingston; Canoe Lake; Wanapitei; Wellington; Belleville and Consecon.

Previous to the marriage, the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Robert Weese, Carrying Place, and at a linen and personal shower held by Miss Lorraine Wood, of Toronto.

Those who served were: Mrs. Robert Weese; Mrs. Keith Ellis; Mrs. Jack Pydinch; Mrs. Norma Whitney; Mrs. Lela Weeks and Miss June Bowerman.

Belleville Woman Tells Home Economics Congress TV Could Be All Wrong

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (CP)— The actress on television who demonstrates domestic science may be doing it all wrong, Dorothy Batchelier of Belleville, Ont., told the International Congress on Home Economics today.

Dorothy Batchelier is Mrs. Donald MacKinnon.

Only Canadian to present a formal paper at the congress, attended by 1,000 delegates from 56 countries, she said:

"Many sponsors think an actress can present home economics information more effectively than one of our profession. But on programs devoted to homemaking topics, a non-professional person who has not had homemaking experience cannot always give a feeling of authenticity and poor techniques are frequently used or suggested."

SENSE INSINCERITY

"The public often senses insincerity or insecurity in the TV or radio personality, she said in the text of a speech given to the press in advance of delivery.

Miss Batchelier, home economics director with the Poultry Products Institute of Canada, Incorporated, said there have been technological changes in food and appliances available and home economists must adapt to them.

"A homemaking miracle has taken place." Shopping has switched from corner grocery store to supermarket, and more and better food and equipment is available. Leisure is more important.

"These changes have forced use of mass media to show the homemaker how to use new things available and how to balance labor-saving and cost."

SOMETIMES MISLEADING

Some television and radio announcements mislead the public.

"A great deal of authentic information is disseminated by commercial announcements, and many advertisers have home economists on their staffs, but some inaccurate or misleading information is also given out.

"Wise advertisers using every known psychological approach to get one to buy, a discriminating approach must be developed by the consumer."

CENTENARY W.M.S. - W.A.

The July meeting of Centenary W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. R. Edmondson with Mrs. R. Rieder, the president, opening the meeting with a poem and prayer.

It was agreed to again entertain the ladies of the County Home, and the date tentatively set is August 27th.

An invitation from Johnstown was received and accepted with a number being arranged for.

As the Rev. R. Rickard will be on holidays during August, plans for worship services are made for one of the Sundays. Mrs. Fred Edmondson will be the speaker.

Those who could donate old woollens towards woollen blankets for the bale were asked to leave same with Mrs. K. Ray.

Mrs. Harder brought a splendid book review of the book entitled, "Home Again." As the study is on "Japan" this year, it made the story most appropriate.

Two Japanese boys arrive in America and to meet their picture brides.

The story of these boys trying to get along in the Western world, but brought up in a Japanese world, proved very interesting.

W. A.

Mrs. R. Edmondson, president of the W.A., opened the business meeting of the W.A.

Cards and visits were reported and "Happy Birthday" was sung for Mrs. P. Ray and Mrs. D. Holton.

Mrs. Edmondson welcomed Mrs. Rickard, and reported for the ladies regarding redecorating, painting and decorating having been completed.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. C. Skinkle's in the form of a noon-hour picnic at the camp on the Trent River.

Further arrangements were made for the annual bazaar November 19th and the date of the annual turkey supper is October 22nd.

Mrs. Harder and Mrs. Nobes served refreshments, and a social time was held.

A visit to the market is a colorful excursion these days. Fruitful is the word for the produce since cherries and blueberries, blackberries and blueberries, along with currants and a few melons lead the display. All fruits this year show the effects of just the same. In the early summer by their plumpness, freshness and juiciness. The record heat has made them ripe and luscious. The price of the fresh fruit is not low yet.

There are some early tomatoes and the price is still rather high. We suppose the budget evens out that same. In the warm weather not so much high priced meat is eaten and desserts may be very simple, consisting of the above-mentioned fruits and tomatoes.

Last year we mentioned how Mr. and Mrs. Criminal at New York was being dressed up in its finery even before the construction was completed. Rock gardens, flower gardens, hedges and lawns had been set out before the buildings were finished. We wonder if there is any trend because, more and more, one sees a house in the process of construction but a lawn or a garden or a hedge or all three have been well started. There has been one spot which has caught our eye. Lovely flowers are so decorative that you are apt to neglect or overlook the fact that the house is not furnished. We feel that this is a symbolism of increasing pride and morale. It is wonderful as we have mentioned before to live in a community growing more and more beautiful annually.

In this connection, T and T would like to pay tribute to the petunia. Wasn't there an old song that went something like "I'm only a lowly petunia," Anyway we have turned it quite into its own in a blaze of colorful glory. There is a strength and stubbornness about the petunia. It demands your respect and commands affection with familiarity. The petunia offers a challenge. It says to put him in the soil in spring and he'll provide you with oils of color from the great part of the season. Give him a minimum of attention and although he can die about the every living creature, he will probably grow and conquer. He is a hardy fellow who asks no unseemly platitude but who returns manifold any attention he may receive. The "lowly petunia" may be the unsung hero of forever.

Trousseau Tea Honors Bride-to-Be

Mrs. J. A. Blackburn was hostess at a delightful trousseau tea recently, in honor of her daughter Eleanor Mae, whose marriage to Mr. Howard Johnston takes place on August 2nd. Mrs. Minton Johnston, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, assisted in receiving the many guests.

Misses Patsy Daniel and Sharon Hales opened the door for the guests during the afternoon, and Miss Joyce Blackburn was in charge of the guest book. Miss Naihalia Shevchuk showed the wedding gifts while Mrs. F. Morrell and Miss Leila Abbott displayed the trousseau.

The guests were invited to the tea room by Mrs. A. E. Orr and Mrs. A. Wells.

Those pouring were: Mrs. L. K. Daniel, Mrs. W. Fryers, Mrs. A.C. Johnston and Mrs. C. S. Weston.

Tea assistants were: Mrs. T. Howell, Mrs. R. Hall, Mrs. B. Hamilton, Mrs. B. Girling, Mrs. D. Wellman, Mrs. G. Carver, Mrs. W. Hales, Miss N. Hales, Mrs. H. Hall, Mrs. A.C. Jerome, and Mrs. D. Craig.

The flower kingdom, but be is beginning a receive the rewards of his quiet virtues and he is quite a "character" at that.

This spring and during the early part of summer T and T heard much comment about the petunias of the starling. They seemed to have migrated to our district, for they're thousands. Where we live they were a pest and seemed to be here to stay. We are now and less of our old familiar friends and we assumed the starlings were driving them off. Lo and behold, the starling seems to be gone from this immediate neighborhood. We are at a loss to know the cause or whether this is a general occurrence. We hope sincerely that they do not like us and have left for good.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

GROOM "PROVIDES" THESE CORSAGES . . . BUT BRIDE CHOOSES THEM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I'm the prospective groom, and I would be grateful if you will answer several questions for me about flowers. My bride-to-be tells me it is my responsibility to pay for the wedding corsages for her mother, my mother, her grandmother (paternal) and my grandmother (maternal)? True? If true, who plans and chooses these? I'm certainly not bright enough to choose 'em.

2. My fiancee also says that, besides providing the best man and ushers with their boutonnieres, I should send her father his boutonniere because her father is to give her in marriage. True? If true, I think I should also provide a boutonniere for my father. Yes?

— Groom-to-be

1. True . . . you "provide" the wedding corsages for your bride's mother (hostess of the wedding), your mother (women guest of honor of the wedding), both grandmothers (important guests, of course). Your bride-to-be and/or her mother consult with them about their preferences, what color will be most becoming and harmonious with their costumes . . . the corsages are ordered with the other flowers for the wedding . . . and these corsages, as well as the bridal flowers and going away corsage for your bride, are charged to you.

2. True . . . your bride's father, since he is to give the bride in marriage, is considered a member of the wedding party, and you provide his boutonniere. And yes, also your father's boutonniere.

CORRECT ATTIRE FOR MEN IN GARDEN WEDDING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: . . . . . .

This wedding is to be a garden wedding, the last week in August. Semiformal; the bride wearing ankle-length lace dress, short bridal veil. What is the correct attire for the men in the wedding party? — Reader

For this semiformal garden wedding, correct attire for the men in the wedding party; white suits (very popular today), or white jackets (not tuxedo jackets) and navy-blue trousers; or navy-blue jackets and white trousers.

REPLY TO INFORMAL WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I receive a note of invitation from the mother of the bride-to-be to her daughter's church wedding (usually a small wedding) and to the reception at her home afterward, what is the proper way to reply, when accepting? — D. D.

On your "very best" note-paper, or plain white double-sheet note-paper, write a note somewhat like this:

Dear Katherine,

Arthur and I are so happy to hear the news about Margaret and Ken, and so delighted to be invited to the wedding. We will be in a Grace Church at four o'clock on Saturday, September 6th, and we're looking forward to seeing you and greeting the bride a n d groom at your home afterward.

Dearest love to all there f r o m both of us.

Devotedly,

Note: If you don't know t h e bride's mother very well, write the salutation "Dear Mrs. Lane" . . . and sign your note "Dorothy Davis."

WEDDING TELEGRAMS SHOULD BE THANKED FOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of circumstances, Bill and I were married in this city where he is employed, and which is quite a distance from our home city. Many of our relatives a n d friends sent presents, and quite a few sent congratulatory telegrams, which arrived on our wedding day. I have acknowledged t h e presents. Is it necessary to acknowledge these telegrams? If so, how do you give me some suggestions? — Patricia. . . . .

Yes, these telegrams should be thanked for. Otherwise these kind and thoughtful relatives a n d friends wouldn't know if their telegrams arrived. Surely, under these special circumstances, these telegrams of good wishes must have been particularly appealing and welcome . . . and this y o u should say in your thank-you notes. For example:

Dear Dorothy and Peter,

How good and kind you two dear friends were to send Bill and me such warm-hearted words of good wishes to arrive on our wedding day. We were deeply touched by your dear thought of us, so far away. Your remembering was like a friendly "Hi." — and added happiness to our happiness.

Dearest love to you both from both of us — and we hope to be seeing you very soon.

Lovingly,

Patricia

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. G. L. — Adele is going with a married man.

Adele L. — He wants to marry me.

Mrs. G. L. — My husband and I are frantic with worry about our 30-year-old daughter who is going out with a married man.

They were seeing one another for about six months before we learned he was married. We did not like him from the start because he is a heavy drinker and we thought there was something shifty-eyed about him. Well, we certainly turned out to be right. He has two children and he will certainly have to continue supporting them.

Adele doesn't seem to understand what she is letting herself in for. She says we have no right in her life and that she is old enough to know what she is doing, but we know she is so much in love that she just doesn't see straight anymore. How can we stop a young girl from wrecking her life?

Adele L. — My parents w e r e prejudiced against Frank from the first minute he walked into the house. They didn't like t h e way he was dressed to call on me, and it happened that he came straight from work and didn't have time to change.

After that, they never even gave Frank a fair chance. They didn't listen to anything he had to say. Frank tried to explain that he was married at 18 and more or less raced in by an older girl, but my parents wouldn't listen to any of that.

Frank has had a miserable married life. He is only 23 o r 24 and feels that he can't let t h e rest of his life go to pot. We are in love and he wants to marry me as soon as he is free. Must a person be condemned for the rest of his life because of one mistake?

The Council: It is very hard for parents to have to watch at t h e sidelines while their children engage in bloody, unnecessary and often disastrous battles with life, but we know of no magic formula that will prevent such mistakes. The individual who appears bullbent on destruction is driven by forces far more powerful t h a n any unfilled considerations.

Parents can take some consolation in the following facts: 1) Parents can be wrong too — or at least as right as they think they are. 2) Children sometimes do see their errors in the role of time. 3) Few errors are totally disastrous. The ability to profit by mistakes is a big advantage.

All of this may seem to be small consolation to the G. L.'s but perhaps it will help to cool off their frenzy to the point where they will be able to lend a somewhat more sympathetic ear to Adele's point of view.

If they can keep their heads cool and show her they are willing to understand her problems and to accept any aspects of her arguments that make sense, she may be able to see the holes in her own reasoning.

As long as the G. L.'s maintain an attitude of violent opposition, Adele is driven into Frank's arms for sympathy and comfort. Even if she finally begins to see t h a t she may be making a mistake, pride will keep her from acknowledging that "Mother and Dad knew best." She may force herself to go through with her plans against her own better judgment.

On the whole, we know of no better advice for the G. L.'s than to sweat it out, keeping eyes, ear and hearts open.

Sandwich Savvy

If I had to eat peanut butter sandwiches for lunch for 35 years, it sure wouldn't be my secret. Nuts is visiting me and is a TV fan and chins me in on the highlights from the world of TV. Probably everybody has one fave (his: marshlow sandwich eater on secret".

WEDNESDAY

Stewed Chicken with Dumplings; Frenched Green Beans; Parsley; New Carrots; Vanilla Ice Cream with Blueberries; Cookies; Coffee.

I love a good sandwich, but not 35 years' worth. Nor am I like Dodi's kiddies who welcome the bring barbecued spareribs or a cookout picnic or steak — if they are out of doors eating there must be sandwiches then.

BEST TOMATO SANDWICH:

A thin fresh white bread, ripe tomato sandwich with a thin coating of mayonnaise, and then a dash of butter on the other and some chip lettuce or leaf between, is my idea of a celestial sandwich. But the salt must be sprinkled directly on the cut tomato.

BEST CHICKEN SANDWICH:

Another beauty is a chicken sandwich made from not-so-thin half and whole wheat bread; one side buttered, the other spread with mayonnaise flavored with celery salt. The chicken must be boiled and the meat for this gem of a sandwich sliced from the breast about 3/16" thick. There must be a crisp lettuce leaf in this too. It should be cut in 4 triangles and arranged on the plate with the point and cut side up, each triangle pressed snugly beside the next in a row. I love this with a tall glass of orange juice for lunch when I am alone.

THE SALMON SANDWICH:

Whether the salmon is pink or red (or whether the fish happened to be tuna), you need to drain off the excess liquid if I sip it from a glass while I'm making the sandwich), and add some finely chopped sweet gherkins or green relish. Be liberal with the mayonnaise and mix it gently with a fork until it is of spreading consistency. This benefits too from lettuce, but change your habits occasionally and replace the lettuce with thin slices of cucumber or one large slice from a ripe tomato.

THE LIFE SAVING CHEESE SANDWICH:

When food is low and time is short and appetites are big, slice

Took Pictures Of Life Aboard Paddle-Boat

EDMONTON (CP) — Photographs taken by Mrs. Dan Patterson of Edmonton when she worked on a paddle-wheeler in northern Alberta are going into Edmonton's city archives.

Relics of her family's pioneer days on a farm in Saskatchewan are being included too. The photographs and the early mementoes were displayed first at the Edmonton Exhibition.

The paddle wheeler, Northland Echo, took supplies to traders on the Athabasca and Clearwater Rivers and the shores of Lake Athabasca near the northern Alberta - Saskatchewan boundary. On trips between 1925 and 1929, Mrs. Patterson photographed life along the route.

TRAPPERS' CHOICE

Mrs. Patterson's husband was pilot for the Echo, which was the choice of trappers and traders for their occasional trips "outside."

The chief attraction was the Echo's dining room. The cook, Fred Yaskiw, now in Edmonton, was known as "the best cook in the north."

Cooking on the boats up north was not at all plain. Yaskiw's fare "was like a Christmas table all the time," Mrs. Patterson said. Pies, cakes and tarts were served with every meal.

On another boat, the Dease Lake, on which Mrs. Patterson worked in 1935, trappers were offered a choice of consomme Espagnole, creme de spinach, filet de poisson blanche, sauteed cucumber, and so on through 12 dishes, all listed in French.

Mrs. Patterson left the Echo in 1929 when she was married. Her husband stayed working in northern waters until he died in 1937. Their old ship, the Echo, now is beached and used as a fish-cleaning plant.

SHOT BEARS FIRST

When Mrs. Patterson first came west with her family in 1907 from Ontario it took a guide to find the family's Saskatchewan homestead. The settlers' first concern was to shoot the bears on the property.

After her father had helped organize a school district, the children travelled on oxen or trudged rough trails on their way to school.

To help the children make up lost time, the teachers spent endless afternoon hours coaching them for exams. Mrs. Patterson says she took two grades in one year and another time took two grades in a half year.

Mother's Helper

A GOOD old-fashioned Jack Horner Pie is still most popular for children's party tables. Tie one small gaily wrapped favor on a bright ribbon leading from a center bowl, basket or box to each guest's place. Be sure the centerpiece is large enough to hold the packages without tangling.

Want Better Tax Deal For Widows

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Federation of University Women has strongly reiterated its plea for a better estates tax deal for widows.

In a brief submitted to Finance Minister Fleming Tuesday it said "married women are to be not partners but chattels" under the proposed Estate Tax Act now before the Commons.

The legislation, which would replace the present Dominion Succession Duty Act, provides that the deceased's share of joint property is to be determined according to the extent of interest in it rather than by the extent of contributions to it.

IGNORES PARTNERSHIP

The 8,000 - member federation says this makes no recognition of the marriage partnership. The CFUW has consistently urged that for taxation purposes half the estate of a deceased spouse be considered as earned by the surviving partner and not subject to taxation.

"If the Estate Tax Act fails to extend partnership recognition to married women they will be forced to conclude, as they now suspect, that government is prepared to recognize their status in the partnership of marriage, only when it means for government an increase in revenue or in society for it," the brief said.

"When such recognition involves a loss of revenue or even a temporary loss of revenue, married women are to be not partners but chattels."

The proposed act continues the Succession Duty Act's discrimination against married women in the home, "the most defenceless type of worker."

Charities which contributed nothing to building up an estate could receive unlimited sums tax free, but survivors who gave their earning capacity were denied the right of partnership.

A wife shared "risks and responsibilities" with her husband. The working life contributed dollars and cents to the estate either through before - marriage savings or after-marriage earnings.

Boat, Car-Train Accidents Take 9 Lives Near Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A boat-car accident and a car-train collision took the lives of nine women and children in the Montreal area Tuesday.

Two women and three youngsters died when their car was struck by a New York Central passenger train at a level crossing in St. Stanislas de Kostka, 30 miles to the southwest.

A mother, her two children and a third infant were drowned in the Lake of Two Mountains, 20 miles west of Montreal, Police said their canoe, carrying nine persons, was swamped in a gust of wind.

Drowned were: Mrs. Liane Nourry, 36; her children Diane, 4, and Michel; and Liane Gauthier, 3.

Six women and three youngsters were aboard the boat. All were from Montreal and all were from the Gentilly or Nourry families.

PREVIOUS TRAGEDY

Killed at the level crossing were: Mrs. Maurice Labbe, 34, her children Suzanne, 8, and Francois, 10 months; Mrs. Edmond Lagrande, 36, and Rejean Lecherch.

All from the Montreal suburb of Verdun, they were vacationing near the scene.

Eleven persons — eight women and three infants — were crammed into the small car when it collided with the train. Five were killed, one was injured, five escaped unscathed.

One of the survivors was quoted as telling ambulance men the driver had thought the train was stopping at a station near the crossing.

But it sped through on its way south and hurled the car into a track-side ditch.

Crisis of Teacher Shortage Past, Now the Emphasis Is On Quality in Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The teacher shortage has passed the crisis stage in most parts of Canada. The major problem now is quality.

Educational authorities can get a teacher for almost every classroom but say too many lack proper training.

A campaign to raise standards of the teaching profession is being boosted by organizations of Canada's 136,000 teachers.

12,000 GRADUATES

More than 12,000 graduates of teacher-training courses go into schools in September but many will be products of abbreviated courses. This worries teachers' groups who say high-calibre instruction is essential if Canadian educational standards are to be raised.

A crop-Canada survey by The Canadian Press turned up evidence of quality - improvement campaigns in nearly every province.

J. M. Paton, executive director of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec, stated the case this way:

"The seriousness of the teacher shortage is that, as elsewhere in Canada, can be assessed only in terms of qualifications. If a minimum standard for a certificated teacher is set at two years of academic professional training beyond high school graduation (or junior matriculation) then there are 25,000 sub-standard teachers in Canada, half of them in the French and English schools of Quebec."

W. J. A. Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian School Trustees' Association, told a recent convention in London, Ont., that the variation in educational opportunities across Canada is shocking. He said 15,000 children in northern New Brunswick are being taught by teachers with no better than Grade 10 education, and that Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland are as badly, if not worse, off.

TEMPORARY LICENSES

A spokesman for the Newfoundland Teachers' Association said 51.7 per cent of teachers in the province have not gone beyond high school and teach on temporary licences.

Even in Ontario, which with British Columbia pays the highest salaries in the country, quality is a major concern. Education Minister J. P. Robarts says all of Ontario's 1,544,000 students will have teachers in the fall. But teachers' spokesmen said many lack full qualifications. Nora Rochester, secretary of the Ontario Teachers' Federation, said her association would like to have the minimum requirements for admission to the one-year teacher course for elementary school teachers raised to Grade 13 from Grade 12.

In Alberta the teachers' association says the shortage is diminishing but a spokesman added there is a "definite shortage of qualified teachers and a substantial number of teachers with marginal qualifications."

While the Saskatchewan's are qualified, some provinces still report a shortage of teachers. Newfoundland and Alberta last year each had a few classrooms without any staffed by travelling inspectors. In Quebec, Leo Guindon, president of the Federation of Urban-Catholic Teachers, said:

"An additional 1,000 qualified teachers are needed. Some classes are closed, others are overcrowded and 1,000 non-certificated teachers now are teaching."

The provinces are seeking help their problems in various ways.

INTEREST STUDENTS

British Columbia has initiated "future teacher" clubs at high schools, for students in the final two grades who hold discussions with teachers and observe teaching methods in lower grades. The province hopes to generate interest among good students in the teaching profession.

In the last year Newfoundland has raised salaries twice, has instituted summer courses and offered financial assistance to those attending, put on an advertising program to attract prospective teachers and set up plans to help boards of education provide residences for out-of-town teachers, and provided for loans to teachers who want to complete university studies.

Nova Scotia this year offered 150 scholarships to help high school students entering normal college and also made available 50 scholarships of $1,000 each to college graduates in arts, science or commerce wishing to obtain certification of rural schools so small classes can be amalgamated, freeing some teachers for other jobs.

Alberta is paying $300,000 a year in teacher-training subsidies. New Brunswick, among others, is says his department is not carrying on a concentrated pro- alarmed. The province is problem 1858.

Stored 50 Years In Antarctica, Food Still Good

LONDON (Reuters)—A supply of food preserved in the natural deep freeze of Antarctica for up to 50 years passed the taste-test of enthusiastic experts here Tuesday.

Canned food ranging from kippers to cocoa proved the long-bound continent can rival any refrigerator on the market.

Samples of "food cached in the Antarctic by the British expeditions of Sir Ernest Shackleton in 1908-1909 and Sir Robert Scott in 1911 as well as the United States expedition of 1939-1940 were dug up and brought to England by experts Sir Vivian Fuchs on his return from a trans - Antarctic trek early this year.

Analysts and gourmets, including government food and chemical experts, found that even after the passage of time the freshness of the samples and the high quality of some products compared with present-day ones.

Salk Now Busy Studying Cancer

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. Jonas Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine, said Tuesday he has been conducting experiments with cancer viruses.

"But we have no treatment for cancer," said Dr. Salk, who directs the University of Pittsburgh research team in developing the polio vaccine which bears his name.

Dr. Salk's comments were contained in a statement issued after a Pittsburgh newspaper, The Sun-Telegraph, reported that he was giving injections to four children suffering cancer.

VARIOUS CONDITIONS

"It is true that we have been conducting experiments in many persons with various conditions and cancer-like conditions," Dr. Salk said. He added:

"Our studies are of a strictly exploratory nature, intended to obtain information about the nature of cells that grow in tissue culture. When the time comes that we have something of consequence to report, we will do so."

The Sun-Telegraph said the injections were given in the office here after Dr. Salk had been experimenting with adults for a month.

The nature of the substance being injected was not disclosed.

PHOTOGRAPHERS SEIZE THEIR OPPORTUNITY

It was a field day for candid camera fans when Princess Margaret visited the church of St. George's-in-the-Pines at Banff, Alta.' Dozens of amateur photographers crowded around as she was signing the guest book with Rev. George A. S. Hollywood looking on.

BC's Three Major Industries Are Knocked Out of Balance By the Dry Continuous Heat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dry continuous heat is connecting with a stomach pomen to British Columbia's three major primary industries.

The logging, fishing and farming industries of the province's economy have been knocked out of balance. Loss figures are staggering.

The battle against hundreds of forest fires has already cost more than $1,750,000. The wage loss to the coast forest industry is nearing $1,000,000.

Timber valued at $40,000 an acre is burning on the coast, and the smoke is partially blotting out the sun. Visibility in the mountains of the Coast Range and Vancouver Island is down to a few miles.

The forest industry won't even attempt to estimate the total damage. B.C.'s timber resources. One report placed it in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

Nine thousand loggers are idle on the coast and island because of forest closures. The wage loss is roughly $150,000 daily.

More than 2,000 men are fighting 300 fires in the province. In the Prince George district alone there are 83 fires, fought by 700 men.

Rain hasn't fallen here for 31 days. Even then it was a sprinkling of only .04 inches.

Thunderstorms Monday night and early Tuesday had little effect on the 300 erratic fires. In some cases lightning started further blazes.

One storm swept up through the centre of the Fraser River Valley, bringing rain to the Abbotsford and Chilliwack areas. It brought more sunshine to the Lower Mainland, raising a fire south of Chilliwack Lake.

But a lightning bolt set fire to the Royal Hotel in Chilliwack, destroying or damaging the roof and attic. The building will be closed for some time.

Another storm brought rain to away.

Cheakamus Canyon, north of Squamish on Howe Sound. It cooled a fire that had been burning for 10 days through a stand of fir and jack pine.

A total of 675 men were fighting fires in Vancouver Forest District. There are 79 fires.

The heat is adversely affecting the fishing industry.

Streams are getting low and fisheries experts are worried that salmon spawning will be affected. Water depth and temperature have to be "just right."

"Already several streams have dried up on coastal islands and water temperatures have been in the 70s on the east coast of Vancouver Island," said one fisheries official. "This is lethal to salmon."

Some Fraser Valley farmers are hauling water to their fields. Those without irrigation are in dreary losers.

Dust coats trees on the valley's main roads.

"We need water," said Ernest Hess, supervising inspector of horticulturist at Abbotsford. "Many farmers are managing to irrigate, but for the others the rain will be too late."

Gardeners here were using 200,000,000 gallons of water daily. The figure dropped to 185,000,000. Sprinkling even strict sprinkling regulations were enforced. "We've never had a spring or summer like this," said Theo Berry, water board chief. "The use of water has been unprecedented."

The current heat wave is turning into a repeat of 1951, when the south coast went for 51 days without rain. Production, worth an estimated $7,000,000.

Polish Reds Charge Church Violated Law

WARSAW (AP) — The Polish Communist party today accused the Roman Catholic church of blatant violation of the law and warned:

"The state authority cannot allow places of religious worship and the church buildings to be used as screens for illegal activities."

The editorial in the party organ Trybuna Ludu followed a government charge that the Jasna Gora (golden hill) Monastery, a church shrine, was used as cover for an illegal printing house.

A raid on the monastery on July 21 ended in a fight between police and Catholic pilgrims. The raid resulted in a major crisis in church-state relations.

CARDINAL WROTE SOME

The church contends that pamphlets distributed from the monastery were normal evangelical aids and as such not subject to censorship. All printing is done on the responsibility of the Catholic primate of Poland, Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, and some were written by him.

The Trybuna editorial charged that pamphlets were seized from the monastery combine a religious-political line. "Political inclinations contrary to the public interest are incompatible with government system."

The editorial said that Poland's communists allow a fair amount of respected freedom of conscience and had consistently applied the principles of the 1956 "agreement that brought a temporary calm to church-state relations. But it also accused "some church circles" of the country's infringement of these principles.

Haiti Revolt Wilted Under Army Gunfire

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) The army claimed everything was quiet again in Haiti today.

At least 14 dead were counted in a pocket-sized mix-up started by army gunfire from troops and civilian partisans loyal to President Francois Duvalier.

Some of the Duvalier partisans paraded jubilantly through the streets after the battle Tuesday, wearing blood-stained shirts as they fired guns in the air.

All news dispatches leaving Haiti were censored.

The army said a party of men from Miami landed by launch and tried to overthrow Duvalier. Seven attackers were killed.

The army said the invaders included one known American, former deputy sheriff Arthur Bell of Miami, another man who was possibly an American, and Haitian exiles living in Miami and three exiled Haitian army captains who supported former President Paul Magloire in the plot.

PISTOL IN BELT

Frederic Duvigneaud, interior minister of the Duvalier regime of republic, spoke to reporters with a pistol in his belt. He said the seven men were killed "during the government and opened fire on the presidential palace. They were army counterattacked shortly after and they were killed. Two others escaped and had ashed near the palace."

Duvigneaud, Duvalier, dressed in an army major's uniform with pistol and steel helmet, was on the block of Haiti's military officers said.

Duvalier, a 51-year-old country doctor and champion of the blacks of the island republic, has a landslide victory in the presidential elections last Sept. 21. He was the first elected president since Magloire, who was forced into exile in 1956 after trying to extend his six-year term with the aid of the army.

Michigan Argues It's Theft If Chicago Fails to Return Water It Diverts From Lake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's attorney-general says it is illegal for Chicago to return water from the Great Lakes to meet Chicago's sewage needs the accompanying diversion.

"Any taking without a subsequent return to the Great Lakes basin is theft from the other riparian owners," Attorney-General Paul L. Adams Tuesday told a House subcommittee.

Adams testified in opposition to bills permitted the diversion —even on a test basis—it would constitute a damaging precedent for Canada to divert upper Columbia River waters in the direction of Pacific Northwest states.

"We would, he believe," Kenosha, Wis., believe that Chicago will be satisfied with a temporary diversion."

Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem. Okla.) said he refused to believe additional diversion of Lake Michigan water by Chicago would jeopardize future hydro - power production at Niagara Falls.

Kerr, chairman of the public works subcommittee that cleared the bills, said he was skeptical of an army engineer's testimony.

Col. Arthur Nauman told the subcommittee that effects of the Chicago diversion would lessen power production at the Falls— now being developed — by between $400,000 and $900,000 a year.

Kerr voiced doubt about this estimate, because, he said, more water now is being used at Niagara than is being used.

Honeck of Wisconsin agreed with other opposition witnesses that Illinois it permitted the diversion Michigan water by Chicago would be a precedent for Canada to divert upper Columbia River waters in the direction of Pacific Northwest states.

At Least 24 Persons Perish In Eastern Canada Mishaps, 16 of Them in 3 Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 24 persons were killed in traffic, drowning and other accidents in Eastern Canada Tuesday.

A mother and six of her 10 children were drowned when a car plunged off a ferry wharf into St. Patrick's Channel, about 65 miles west of Sydney, N.S.

Four persons were drowned when a boat with nine aboard capsized in the Lake of Two Mountains at St. Placide, Que., 30 miles west of Montreal. The victims were a woman and three children.

Five persons were killed when a New York Central passenger train and a car collided at a level crossing near Casselman, Ont., about 20 miles southwest of Montreal.

The dead, two women and three children, were among 11 persons in the car. Only one child was injured and five persons escaped injury.

Two swimmers were drowned in rough water on Lake Erie near Port Colborne, Ont. Seconds after a child was drowned when she fell into a washing machine at Brantford.

Other Ontario fatalities included a motorcycle - automobile traffic accident near Kirkland Lake; a man electrocuted at Hamilton; a Belleville man crushed to death by a heavy load of steel, and a swimmer a victim of carbon monoxide fumes near Lindsay.

Charlie Deaths

David Moffat, 18, of Niagara Falls, Ont., was drowned off Canada Steamship wharf with two teen-age companions from Welland. Port Colborne firemen recovered the body in water under 100 feet off shore.

Moffat was buried. He is believed to be survived by his parents and other family members in Niagara Falls.

Earlier Eileen Klemcak, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Klemcak of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was drowned at Pleasant Beach, a mile east of Port Colborne.

Eileen and a companion, Patty Deane, 9, also of Niagara Falls, N.Y., were caught in heavy surf at the Lake Erie beach and Treatment failed to revive him.

Canada Sending Its Views On Talks to Hammarskjold

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's views on how the UN Security Council might become the scene of negotiations ending peaceably ended tonight by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev are going to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith Tuesday outlined to the Commons Canada's role toward the resolution of Middle East problems. He said the text will be attached."

Mr. Pearson replied, "then this is received a change in the prime minister's attitude." Mr. Diefenbaker said he had received the Ukrainian group that Russia's leader, also invited to Canada by Mr. Pearson, "on the basis" that Russia was prepared to abide by the president Eisenhower's proposal for free elections in the occupied countries.

Mr. Smith, reviewing the Middle East situation, said that Canada has contributed funds to Lebanon, and U.K. forces in Jordan. Canada advised both major powers that if either landed troops in Iraq "we would not be prepared to send" any volatile situation, but one would carry great risk since the U.S.S.R. was concerned."

After 4 Years on Crutches, Woman Walks at R.C. Shrine

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Patrick Corey, 36, recently returned from a visit to the Roman Catholic shrine in Quebec, walked Tuesday without crutches she had used for four years.

Mrs. Corey was injured Oct. 31, 1954, in an automobile accident at Brattleboro, Vt., in which she crushed pelvis, broken toes, punctured bladder, compound fracture of the left leg and electric shock injuries.

In several operations a pin was placed in her left hip. Last year when the pin appeared to be working loose, she underwent an operation for a plastic hip.

Her physician, Mrs. Marie Verge, said that last Thursday at Ste. Anne after 9 a.m. mass Mrs. Corey went into a trance. She added:

"She wasn't carrying crutches the way you have to carry crutches when you're walking. She took them with her walk.

Then the crutches slipped out of her hands and when we got to the foot of the stairs, she walked over to an urn of holy water and splashed it in her face.

"By this time I was excited. She was crying. One of the brothers came along, Brother Bruno, and Mrs. Corey's mother said to him, 'I can walk brother, Thank Ste. Anne for me.'"

"Jest a Second"

"Frankly I didn't intend to go this steady!"

Thugs Stage Two Hold-Ups In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Police seek thugs responsible for two daring daylight bank holdups here. Each robbery netted about $3,000 Tuesday.

Just after it opened, a man entered a branch of the Provincial Bank of Canada in suburban Lachine. He pushed a note into the teller's wicket which read: "I need $3,000. Be quiet and be quick." The man was handed the money and fled in a waiting car.

In the southwest Montreal district of Cote St. Paul, a man carrying a shotgun was handed the contents of one teller's drawer at the Banque Canadienne Nationale. He escaped in a car which later collided with a truck.

The man fled about.

Number of Visitors at St. Lawrence Project Reaches New Heights

CORNWALL — A daily average of three thousand persons now is visiting Ontario Hydro's half of the St. Lawrence power project. The onrush of visitors started on July 1 when the blasting of A-1 coffer-dam and flooding of the power pool occurred creating a big, new man-made lake. The visitor traffic has steadily climbed since then.

When the weather is favorable, visitor volume soars to record heights often topping the 5,000 mark daily. About a third of the total number of visitors each day take the Commission's free bus tours to the various project lookouts.

Wide interest has been created for these "sidewalk superintendents" through the new lookout area that has been provided at the project. This overlook section is situated on top of Cornwall dyke, a few hundred yards north of the powerhouse, and is one of the highest points in the otherwise flat terrain of the area.

DYKE LOOKOUT POPULAR

Walkouts or ramps have been built on the downstream side of the dyke in the vicinity of old No. 2 highway. Visitors each day streamup the 80 feet on these pathways to the dyke to get an excellent panoramic view. They can see the powerhouse headworks and both Cornwall and Barnhart Island dykes which have impounded the water to form the new lake in the upper St. Lawrence River.

Project Information department tour leaders are stationed on the dyke top overlook to explain the various things to be seen in this section. Other tour leaders are at the Information Centre lookout where telescopes are mounted on an elevated platform for visitors to get a view of the downstream side of the power station from a distance. Tour staff members also are at the river bank lookout a few hundred yards downstream from the powerhouse where those visitors who take project bus tours get a close-up view of this main installation.

MILLION AND HALF VISITORS

And the bus tours are extremely popular. At present, the daily average number of visitors who take these free trips to the powerhouse and dyke lookouts is more than a thousand persons. Records show that the number steadily has increased since the flooding. Many visitors who have seen the project building in past years now seem to be returning to view the remarkable construction changes and how the whole geography of the area has been altered. Latest figures indicate that more than a million and a half visitors have come to the Ontario Hydro half of the St. Lawrence Power Project since public lookouts were provided and tours began three years ago. About one-third of this total visitor volume has taken the free bus tours into the powerhouse section.

Each year as the construction scene changes, a route plan has been developed for the bus tours. The trip starts with general project information being provided to the visitors in the Information Centre where tour leaders give a short talk, which is followed by a six-minute animated movie describing the development concisely.

Passengers aboard the free buses provided by Ontario Hydro for a three-quarter hour tour that includes a stop at the river shore lookout near the powerhouse, and a trip to Cornwall dyke where the walkways enable visitors to ascend to the top for an excellent panoramic view of the powerhouse and lake areas.

WEEKENDS ARE BUSY

Heaviest volume of bus tour traffic occurs on weekends, but the week day traffic now has grown steadily since the vacation season started. Biggest day at the project so far was this year, on Sunday, June 9th, when a record of 5,079 persons visited the lookouts and took the conducted bus tours. On July 1, the bus tours were suspended for the day only because of the tremendous influx of visitors to the Cornwall dyke area to watch the demolition blast spectacle and the start of the power project flooding. In that 24-hour period, more than 35,000 persons used the dyke lookout facilities.

Visitor volume so far this year is nearly 50 percent higher than in 1957. This trend is expected to continue throughout the rest of the year as more people come to see the power project in the nearly finished state, also the remarkable river shoreline changes and new lake area dotted with picturesque islands. To handle the increased influx of spectators and provide information, Ontario Hydro has an adequate staff of tour leaders and the bus tour services and lookout facilities are open on a seven-day basis.

ASK NEW DEPARTMENT

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Parks Association is seeking establishment of a provincial department of parks and recreation, its newly-elected president, Andrew Macdonald, said Monday. The association also asked the government to establish and sponsor a course at the Ontario Agricultural College for the training of parks personnel.

PRINCESS VISITS TYPICAL SASKATCHEWAN FARM

Sharon and Sandra Skotheim bed their pet calf all prettied up for the visit of Princess Margaret to their farm 18 miles north of Prince Albert. The farm was chosen as being typical of Saskatchewan's agricultural lands and it has 500 acres, with wheat as the main crop and 82 head of cattle and droves of pigs. There are ten children on the farm and most of them prepared some pet for the Princess to admire. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Skotheim, who settled on the land in 1933, had dozens of offers of free help for the one day the Princess was scheduled to be their guest.

General Motors Profits Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — General Motors Corp., largest of the world's automotive giants, Tuesday reported a 30-per-cent decline from a year ago in profits for the first six months of 1958.

Net income for the six months ended June 30 was $528,514,548, equal to $1.17 a share. This compared with $481,230,708 or $1.71 a share in the first half of last year.

Sales of GM products for the six months totaled $3,121,301,426 — down 13 per cent from the year-ago total of $3,614,494,078.

DESERONTO
Mohawk Airport Will Soon Be Thing of Past

DESERONTO — Slowly but surely Mohawk Airport is being dismantled and soon will pass into oblivion. Some years ago a number of the buildings were dismantled and the lumber moved to Trenton Airport for use there. Now a further number of the buildings have been donated to the Mohawk band on whose land the airport is located. They are donated for the use of those of the band who require assistance in building or repairing buildings on their farms. The band council, headed by Chief William Isaac Hill, control the allotments. The recipient is responsible for the demolishment and transportation of the building or part of building given him.

For the past several years the RCAF at Trenton has maintained a watchman service at the airport to prevent vandalism, as at one time while the airport was unprotected considerable property was stolen. Shortly, however, there will be nothing left but the runways which are still in excellent shape despite the fact that no repairs have been made since the closing of the port. The runways are long enough for the landing of transport planes as they were used for the landing of heavy bombers during the war.

Larks Roll up 40-7 Victory Over Winnipeg Blue Bombers

By W. R. SWEATLEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes rolled up a 40-7 win Tuesday night over Winnipeg Blue Bombers and both coaches were cautious in their assessment of the lopsided score of the opening exhibition football game of the season.

The Als followed up a 75-yard pass-and-run touchdown of the first quarter with three touchdowns in the third and two more in the fourth. The Bombers were trailing 27-0 when they scored their lone touchdown on Gerry James' smash over left tackle.

Coach Bud Grant of the Bombers said he thought his team would do better and was disappointed at missed opportunities. Three times the Bombers failed to score when within striking distance, once from the three-yard line.

FACE ARGOS NEXT

"We've got a lot of work to do," said Grant, whose team meets Toronto Argos in Toronto Thursday in another pre-season test. "We haven't come along as fast as I expected and we were not as ready as I desired."

Coach Douglas Walker of the Als said the team showed marked improvement over the recent intra-squad game "but it is too early to compare this team with last year's team."

Sam Etcheverry and newcomer Dick Furnish, from Pennsylvania University in Pennsylvania, did most of the quarterbacking for Montreal. Kenny Ploen and Eagle Day directed the Bombers.

TOUCHDOWN APIECE

Etcheverry and Furnell each passed for a touchdown and ran for another.

Three of Day's passes for Buddy Leake tallied when they might have meant trouble for the Als. Once, with Leake on the goal line, Hal Patterson just tipped a pass out of his hands.

Besides Etcheverry and Furnell, the Montreal touchdown scorers were Buddy Muldowney, Wells and newcomers Ivan Livingstone, Larry Harding and Emery Robinson.

Dallas Seeks Moore, Durelle Title Fight

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas may seek an Archie Moore-Yvon Durelle fight in heavyweight championship fight.

R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas theatre magnate, is spearheading negotiations for the bout, which would be held in the Cotton Bowl in October with proceeds going to charity.

O'Donnell said he had talked with Jack Kearns, champion Moore's co-manager, and "he said we probably could have the match if we give Moore a $100,000 guarantee."

The Cotton Bowl is owned by the State Fair of Texas and O'Donnell said he will talk with fair officials about matching the Canadians from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., against Moore.

Meanwhile Eddie Quinn, Montreal promoter, was conferring with officials of the International Boxing Club and Durelle's co-manager in New York about a proposed Oct. 22 bout with Moore in the Montreal Forum.

Quinn said he was unwilling to put up any $100,000 guarantee for Moore but would be willing to pay the champ 40 per cent of the gate. Durelle is agreeable to 20 per cent, Joe Meyers, his co-manager, said.

Jets Take Two From Royals; Toronto Idle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals may be leading the International League but they won't give Columbus credit for an Ellis Pendleton spy credit for it.

The former Milwaukee Braves-Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder took apart the Montreal pitching Tuesday as Columbus Jets beat the league leaders 4-3 and 7-2.

Shortstop Roy Smalley did his share to wreck Havana's pitching, leading Rochester Red Wings to an 8-3 decision over the Sugar Kings. Buffalo Bisons used a collective effort to beat Miami Marlins hurlers 14-6. Richmond at Toronto was rained out.

Pendleton won the first game with a two-out, two-run single in the last inning that gave Royals' starter Billy Harris his 10th loss against seven wins. Joe Gibbon (7) won it.

GOES THE ROUTE

Laurin Pepper went the route for Columbus in the second game and Pendleton had four hits in as many times inclusive, a one-run triple. Bob Lennon hit his 31st home run and Sandy Amoros his 11th for Montreal's runs. Charley Rabe (3-4) lost, the victim of five unearned runs in the fourth inning.

Smalley blasted a home run and a triple to loser was Emilio Cueche, who record is 10-4.

The Bisons climbed on four hurlers for 16 hits, including two homers.

The victory was Buffalo's ninth in 16 meetings with the Marlins. Credit for the win went to Ken Johnson but he received some brilliant relief help from Freddie Fox on a seventh-inning spot that produced all their runs.

Every batter except the pitchers his safely. Joe Caffie had four singles and scored three times. Bob Balcena clubbed a homer, triple and single, and Luke Easter slammed his 23rd fourbagger in addition to a single.

Empire Gals Would Have Won Over Russ-American Lassies

By ED RIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — On current form, the Commonwealth's women athletes can hold their own with the rest of the world. But the nine still have a way to go to catch the best in the United States and Russia.

If a contingent of medallists had caught a plane after the British Empire Games closing ceremonies at Cardiff last Saturday and joined the participants in the Russia-U.S. meet in Moscow on the following two days, they would have clawed up handsomely in the women's events.

A comparison of Cardiff and Moscow achievements, ruling out track events run in metres in Russia and in yards at the Games, shows the Cardiff girls would have picked up four gold medals out of six if the two competitions had been held concurrently.

SECOND BEST FOR MEN

On the other hand, the best the men would have done in eight events was a second place in the high jump.

The Canadian's side of the hypothetical British Empire, United States and Soviet Union Games gives a clear-cut victory to Australia with three gold medals to seven apiece for Russia, the U.S. and England.

The victorious Aussies are Norma Croker in the 80-metre hurdles, Anne Pazera in the javelin and Shirley Mazon in the high jump, in which the Commonwealth scores a 1-0-3 sweep.

SHADED IN SHOT-PUT, DISCUS

The U.S. - Russian contingent counters by monopolizing the medals in the women's shot-put and discus.

The men's picture is gloomier. Cardiff is out of the money in the javelin, broad jump, hammer and pole vault. Jamaica's Enos Haisley gets second place in the high jump and the Commonwealth walkers earn third place in the discus, shot-put and hop, step and jump.

Top-Ranking Stars Retire From Canadian Net Tourney

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian tennis championship, continued today without two of its top drawing cards. Another star was on the limp.

Among those who fell by the wayside Tuesday was Paul Willey of Vancouver's Kerrisdale Cupper who was ranked third among Canadians here. Topseeded Patty Ryan of Portland, Ore., dropped out Monday because of other tournament commitments.

Another blow to tournament organizers was the illness of Australian Bob Howe, 33 - year - old school teacher from Sydney who had recently beaten the world's best in mixed doubles at Wimbledon. Howe is suffering bursitis in the right shoulder.

He dropped out of men's singles and mixed doubles competition but was still listed for men's doubles.

Play was scheduled today in all seven events in men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and veteran's singles and doubles.

Willey of Vancouver fell victim to the combination of a leg ailment and a university student in the third round of the men's singles. Unseeded Dale Collard won 3-7, 14-12, 9-7. Willey has a cyst on a leg cartilage.

Senior Lacrosse

BRAMPTON (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors edged Long Branch 10-9 in a Senior "A" Lacrosse Association game Tuesday night.

Bert Russell paced the winners with three goals. Harvey Madgett and Lloyd Smith scored two apiece and Bill McLaughlin, Clarke Pulford and Bill Castator connected for singles.

Scoring honors for the night went to Larry Ruse, who fired five goals for the losers. George Kapasky counted two and Paul Henderson and Lorie Bell added singles.

Drop Ibbotson From British Track Team

LONDON (AP) — Britain has dropped Derek Ibbotson — the world's fastest miler—from its track team which meets the rest of the British Empire in London this weekend.

"We have chosen this team on the results of the British Empire Games at Cardiff," said an official Tuesday. "Ibbotson finished 10th in the three miles there and so he's not on the team."

Ibbotson holds the unratified world record for the mile of 3:57.2. He set that mark last July but has done nothing of note this season.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE, (CP)—Nearctic, which reeeeFly established a track record of 1.36 1-5 in winning the $20,000 Michigan Mile at Detroit, will be a starter in today's $7,500 Canadian Stakes at Fort Erie Race Course Club.

Nearctic, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto, will meet nine rivals in the stakes, a run of 1 1-16 miles. They are Hard Tack, Top Course, Yung Mummy, Mister Nick, Lawday, Admiral's Cup, Cesser, Silent's Boy and Holiday Ted.

The four-year-old colt, reputed to be the fastest horse ever foaled in Canada, has won six of his nine starts and has earned almost $75,000 this season, far more than any other horse campaigning on Canadian tracks.

Russ Press Pays Tribute To American

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian press Tuesday heaped praise on Rafer Johnson of the United States, new world's record holder in the decathlon.

Johnson not only defeated Russian hero Vasily Kuznetsov but set a mark of 8,302 points in the gruelling 10-event test.

"This will dignify the history of world athletic records for a long time to come," said the Moscow newspaper Trud.

Johnson's victory climaxed the two - day track meet between Russia and the U.S. in which the Americans men defeated their Russian rivals 126-100 but the American women lost 44-43. In the combined total, Russia won 172-170.

Johnson holds the accepted world's record in the decathlon at 7,985 points, but this was surpassed this year by Kuznetsov with 8,013. Kuznetsov however, was no match for the 200-pound American when the two finally met in Lenin Stadium.

Dodger Fan Hangs Alston In Effigy

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — A bitter Dodger fan hanged manager Walt Alston in effigy Tuesday.

A crudely-stuffed dummy, clad in baseball pants, sweat shirt and a beanie, was strung up to the light pole of a vacant lot in this Los Angeles suburb. A cardboard sign hung around the neck said: Mgr. Walt Alston.

Alston has been under fire because his Los Angeles Dodgers can't hoist themselves out of the National League cellar.

The proprietor of the service station, Andy Vitalich, said: "I did it. I don't think much of that guy as a manager."

Frisco Grid Players Urged Be Sharp, Clean, Wear Shoes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco 49er football players were advised Tuesday to look sharp, live clean and wear shoes.

"One beer is enough for 'Joe Fan' to state that you were drunk," say training rules distributed to rookies and veterans on the National Football League team.

The players were told to "look as respectable as we plan to play." Always be clean shaven and wear shoes in training camp. Coats and ties are mandatory on road trips.

A few other requirements:

Stay out of joints. Head coach Frankie Albert advises taking the wife or girl friend after a game to a first-class restaurant rather than a dive.

No gambling. "Experience has taught us," Albert says, "that a friendly poker game — even a five-cent limit—always winds up with someone getting hurt."

No smoking in public. "For the simple reason all of you are representing a professional football team . . . You are easily recognized anywhere. Youngsters and grownups alike idolize you because of this."

Links Battle Looms Between Sponsors, PGA

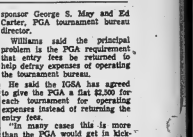
CHICAGO (CP) — A fight looomed today between the International Golf Sponsors' Association and the U.S. Professional Golf Association which could threaten the sport's entire tournament structure.

T. A. Williams Jr., of Greensboro, N.C., secretary of the golf sponsors, said that a PGA move demanding a voice in running the tournaments it sponsors, but the PGA so far stands firm on conducting the meets.

"Unless the PGA sees it our way, our only weapon is cancellation," said Williams, "The IGSA is made up of about 35 sponsors whose tournaments represent more than a $500,000 on the golf circuit."

INVOLVES CANADIAN OPEN

Among the sponsors in the organization are those backing the Canadian Open. Others are the open tournaments of Phoenix, Houston, Greensboro, Texas, Insurance City, St. Paul, Tucson, Los Angeles, Azalea, Tijuana and Tam O'Shanter in Chicago.



Tam O'Shanter, with its $100,000 prize list—richest in golf—pulled out this year because of contractual difficulties between sponsor George S. May and Ed Carter, PGA tournament bureau director.

Williams said the principal problem is the PGA requirement that entry fees be returned to help defray expenses of operating the tournament bureau.

He said the IGSA has agreed to give the PGA a flat $2,500 for each tournament for operating expenses instead of returning the entry fees.

"In many cases this is more than the PGA would get in kickbacks anyway. "It's not the money so much as it is the principal of the thing. I just don't see taking money from an amateur and turning it over to the PGA."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Charlie Jeffs' Belleville baseball midgets have long memories—and an accent to settle.

Two years ago as bantams they reached the OBA minor baseball finals, and were defeated by the starry Chatham youngsters in two straight games, 4-3 and 4-1.

Since then both teams have stretched into well-molded midget clubs, and all indications point to them meeting for the Ontario title. Jeffs' youngsters are determined the situation will be reversed this time and the championship come to Belleville.

Bill Lalchford is the manager of this smart young diamond crew with Charlie handling the coaching. Deemed too good for other midget teams of the city, they were withdrawn from schedule competition, and have been playing exhibition games with intermediate clubs of the district and teams of the South Hastings Baseball League.

Their record to date is seven wins, three defeats. They have met and defeated the Latta and Read teams, and beaten the Wallington Intermediates twice. They have been defeated by Foxboro. They meet Canniffon twice this week.

Jeffs and Lalchford are proud of their team's achievements. Teamwork is their forte. Every player turns out to every game and every practice. They live and dream baseball. They take their sport seriously. There is no horseplay, no profanity when they are in or out of diamond action. They are out to win all the time.

"We have a fine mound staff of five hurlers," beamed Jeffs the other day. "Topping the quartet of righthanders is Larry Soden with Bill Lalchford next. Then comes Casey Soden and Glen Balnard. Our southpaw is Ken Masterson."

The pitchers get plenty of work. At the least sign of weakening a hurler is taken out and a reliefer goes in. Larry Soden has been doing a fine job in a relief role.

Moe Hunter is the first string catcher with Billy McGuire available for receiving duty. Both help in the club's utility mark. One can play any position but pitch.

Gary Doran holds down the first-base position with Don Skinner a capable substitute. Bill Morton takes care of the keystone sack while looking after the hot corner is Jim Sheridan and Larry Mitchell. Johnny Lloyd holds down the shortstop position. Out in left field is Bob Fellvrell while in centre is Ricky Locke. Paul Zakos patrols the right field pasture.

"We have a fairly good hitting team and a strong mound staff," Jeffs added. "Our infield we have a good bunch, something a lot of the other teams lack. The boys know a lot of inside baseball and I believe we have one of the best infields in the country. There is no jealousy on the club. Each of the boys plays for the team and doesn't reach for individual stardom. They should go places."

Jeffs paid tribute to parents of his players in their unselfish and generous aid to the club in providing transportation for out-of-town games, and acting as umpires. "I do not know what we would have done without them," he said.

The midgets operate under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association and will represent the city in the Ontario Baseball Association midget playdowns, which get under way somewhere around the middle of August.

In the meantime the team will engage in exhibition games with district clubs to keep in trim and ready them for the big series that lies ahead.

Thus far they have no inkling as to which team they will meet in the first round. They are confident they can sweep aside all opposition until they come to that series with the Kent crew club. That is the one they want. And as Messrs. Jeffs and Blatchford say, "That is the one we will take."

* * *

Dara Singh, newest mat sensation to shake grappling's upper crust, will have to be at his spectacular best when he takes the ring at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. For the singular Singh will meet Gene Kiniski, of Edmonton, one of the biggest and most rugged mat bombers in circulation.

Kiniski makes no bones about his feelings in the matter. "I've wrestled dozens of these fancy-Dans like Singh and I've smashed them like they were puny kids. Their pretty-boy stuff never stands up against my heman wrestling," concluded Gene in typical, modest manner.

An added feature of the card will be a tag team match involving the marvellous midgets. As a special condition, this will be a best two-out-of-three falls event with the combo of Little Beaver and Cowboy Bradley against the duo of Sky-Lo-Lo and Tom Thumb.

If last-place Los Angeles were to play defending-champion Milwaukee more often there would be no need for anybody to hang Dodger manager Walter Alston in effigy.

And if Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale were to pitch as well against the rest of the National League as he does against the Braves, he'd be boasting an unbeaten record instead of one of the worst in the circuit.

For some inexplicable reason, the cellar - ridden Dodgers play like champions against the Braves. By the same token, Fred Haney's contenders roll over and play dead before the Dodgers, especially when Drysdale is on the mound.

GIANTS WIN IN NINTH

That's what happened Tuesday night when the Los Angeles defeated the Braves 4-3 to dump them out of first place, a fall game behind the San Francisco Giants, who again came from behind for a ninth inning 4-3 victory in Cincinnati.

Pittsburg climbed into third place, six back, as all games off the pace, downing Chicago 8-4. Philadelphia gained a split with St. Louis, winning the scheduled game 3-2 in 11 innings after losing 4-2 a game that was suspended by the Sunday curfew law a month ago.

Despite the victory, Los Angeles remained in the basement, a half game behind the Phillies and 9½ lengths off the pace. Drysdale struck out eight but needed help from Johnny Klippstein.

The Braves' brilliant young pitcher Joey Jay was taken out of the game in the fourth because of a strained right elbow. The 22-year-old right-hander, who had won five in succession, was charged with his fourth defeat.

TWO-RUN HOMER

Ray Jablonski's two-run homer with two out in the ninth off Redleg right-hander Willard Schmidt gave the Giants their 18th ninth-inning victory. Willie Mays singled to set the stage for Jabbo's 12th homer. Marv Grissom, in relief, gained his seventh victory.

Rookie first baseman Dick Stuart clouted a bases - loaded triple to spark a four-run rally in the fifth that enabled the Pirates to overcome a 4-1 Chicago lead. Bob Friend won his 11th as Dale Long also hambnered his 28th homer for the Cubs.

Pitcher-hitter Wally Moon doubled home Chico Fernandez with the run that gave the Phils their 11-inning win over St. Louis. The Cards' Sam Jones had a 3-0 lead when the Phils scored once in the seventh and tied the score in the ninth.

The Cards batted a Phils rally in the eighth to win the suspended game. With runners on first and third and nobody out, Billy Muffett retired Ed. Kazanski on a pop-out, forced Carl Sawatski to hit into a double play.

Miami Beach, Fla. —Bobby Boyd, 160, Chicago, stopped Jimmy Morris, 156½, Miami, 4. Jesse Bowdry, 175, St. Louis, stopped Bobby Lane, 170, Miami, 1.

Richmond, Calif.—Luke Easter, 197½, San Francisco, stopped Vic Carapp, 139, Oakland, Calif., 4. Charlestown, Mass.—Leroy Jones, 158, Columbia, S.C. outpointed Benny Droll, 153, Fort Bragg, N.C., 10.

Tokyo—Hisao Kobayashi, 125½, Japan, outpointed Sachin Yenbra kit, 125, Thailand, 12. (Kobayashi retained Orient featherweight title).

The other day a Boston writer charged in a magazine article that the Red Sox slugger Ted Williams was a failure as a clutch hitter.

Ted retorted Tuesday night with one o the greatest clutch performances in his long and brilliant career.

In six times at bat, te drove in seven runs with two homers, a single and a walk. He hit a grand slam homer in the third inning after Detroit Tigers had taken a 4-0 lead.

He singled in a three-run seventh inning after Detroit had tied the score 5-5. And he homered again, with two mates aboard in the 10th, ster the Tigers had come from behind to draw even 8-8.

VITAL BLOW

The last blow, Williams' 17th homer of the season and 477nt of his career, was the vitalone in the 11-8 victory. Ted's first homer was his 17th 11t time grand slammer, tying him with Babe Ruth for second place, behind Lou Gehrig, who accumulated 23.

The Boston victory reduced New York Yankees' first - place lead to 4 games. The Yankees bowed to Kansas City Athletics 7-3. Cleveland Indians trimmed Baltimore Orioles 9-4 and Chicago White Sox edged Washington Senators 3-2.

Detroit used 21 players, including six pitchers, in an attempt to pull the game out of the fire. Williams' first homer was off Jim Bunning, who blanked the Red Sox on a no-hitter last week. Ted's game-winning blow was off loser Bill Fischer. Tom Brewer, third Red Sox pitcher, was the winner.

Almost all the action in the New York - Kansas City game came in the eighth inning, marked by clubouts in which players from both sides and Athletics manager Harry Craft were ejected by umpire Bill Summers for protesting decisions. The players were Harry Chiti of the Athletics and Hank Bauer of the Yanks.

Held to three hits by Ralph Terry and trailing 3-0, the Yankees tied the score in the top of the eighth only to see the Athletics score five times in their half. Hector Lopez' do his with the bases loaded was the big blow.

Murry Dickson, who replaced Terry in the eighth inning, was the winner, Art Ditmar, who succeeded Jack (Whitey) Ford, the loser. Ford failed in his try for a fourth straight shutout.

Sherman Lollar's two - run homer with two out in the ninth inning ruined an excellent pitching performance by Washington right-hander Russ Kemmerer who carried the White Sox to their 2-1 triumph. Bob Shaw, who replaced Dick Donovan in the ninth, was the winner.

Gary Bell scattered eight hits and catcher Russ Nixon drove in three runs with a home run and a single to pace the Indians' triumph over Baltimore. It was Cleveland's third straight victory and Bell's fifth success in nine decisions.

Hole-in-One Cost Golfer Five Strokes

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — That price golf gimmick?

Carl Boustead fired a hole in one at Apple Creek course but had to write a fat five on his scorecard.

His first two shots on the 120-yard No. 7 hole landed in the creek, costing him four strokes. On his third drive, he connected for a hole in one.

Bobcats Hand Cobourg 3-0 Defeat Crawford's Homer Sparks Victory

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

If the Cobourg strategy was to save Sleepy Dawe for a possible fifth and deciding game in front of the hometown fans in the Belleville District Softball League semi-finals, it worked.

For the Belleville Bobcats moundsee Bob Hull edged Roly Campbell of the Cobourg righthander in a thrilling ball duel here last night to win a 3-0 victory and square the series at two victories each.

The game was won and lost in a single frame. Over the rest of the abbreviated pastime, it was called in the English on account of darkness, clutch pitching and brilliant fielding held both teams off the scoreboard.

The issue will be settled tonight in Cobourg when Hull will go right back to the mound to face Dawe in what should be another hill thriller, with the winners meeting Point Anne Friday in the first game of the four-of-seven final series.

The Bobcats salted the game away in the third innings. Doug Bone was hit by a pitched ball and Paul Russell third-stroked a bunt to sacrifice him to second. Bone grounded out with Bone going to third on the play then Floyd Crawford smote a towering wrong-field home run that landed barely fair beside the first base line to give the Cats a 2-0 lead.

Hayden Wood went to first on Brown's grounder and Wiener took second on the error. Campbell unleashed a wild pitch sending the runner to third, and on a passed ball Wiener scored for the plate safely to up the count to 3-0. Hull walked but Turpin threw out Goldsmith to end the inning.

Otherwise the Cats could do little or nothing with the Campbell shoots. He held them to three hits, one a bunt, whiffed five and walked two.

Hull turned in a masterful job on the mound scattering six clouts and striking out seven, He walked four, Brilliant fielding by the Cats featured the game while fine clutch hurling stopped Cobourg rallies on more than one occasion.

Cobourg left runners grounded in six of the eight innings played, Hull stopping potential hits at the plate or his mates cutting off runs with good work afield.

Crawford's homer, Earl Cousins double in the second with Jim Sheard and Bobby Hull's perfect bunt in the sixth when the Cats had runners on second and third with one out but failed to do anything about it, were the hits garnered off Campbell.

Cobourg's offensive was led by Cleary who doubled, with Harnden, Bevan, Turpin, O'Brien and J. Hart contributing singles. Sleepy Dawe came in as a pinch-hitter in the eighth with two out and one aboard but Hull forced him to pop out to Paul Russell.

The visitors had the bases loaded with two out in the second frame but Boncardo struck out to end the uprising.

Steel Company Boosts Prices

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Armco Steel Corporation Tuesday night broke the steel industry's reluctant hold-the-line on prices by announcing a boost in the prices of a dozen products, effective Thursday and averaging about $4.50 a ton.

Armco, the seventh largest producer in the United States, said increases would average 3.75 per cent on products including hot and cold rolled sheets.

Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube greeted the news by saying their officers would meet this morning to consider following Armco's lead.

Armco Vice Pres. Lew Gore, a spokesman for U.S. Steel, the giant of the industry, declined comment beyond: "This, of course, is news to us, and we will study the situation."

If the Armco increase is adopted by the industry generally, it would mean a sharp quickening of the pace at which living costs have been climbing steadily—unless steel fabricators, such as makers of items ranging from automobiles to needles, decided to absorb the full amount.

Swimming Star Claims Two World Records

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP)—Anne Meraw, who conquered Okanagan Lake with Pat Wicks July 19, claimed six more records today.

Both Vancouver swimmers swam the 36-mile water route from Kelowna to Penticton.

Previous official record is held by Marilyn Bell of Toronto who claimed a distance of 44 miles in 23 hours in her Lake Ontario swim in 1954.

TV's Cowpokes Are Restless, May Go Gunning for Bosses

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The cowpokes are restless.

Clint Walker, Jim Arness, Hugh O'Brian and Jim Garner are among Western stars grumbling about their contracts for filmed TV series. At least one—Garner—declared open war and walked out of his Cheyenne series.

How comes another who is unhappy—and his series hasn't even started. Gene Montgomery, veteran of many a gunfight, signed to play the hour-long series Cimarron City.

When we started out, I said I didn't know what we were aiming for with my character," he remarked. They told me it took a few shows before things settled down. But after five or six of those, I still couldn't figure out what direction I was supposed to be going. I'm getting pretty fed up."

Funny story about Lucille Ball. Despite her millions, she remembers her lean days. Although some stars go wild when they hit it rich, she has always been a good spender.

Then, Desi Arnaz bought RKO Studios, and she found herself the owner of 21 pianos. . . .

It's nice to see Myrna Loy back before the cameras. She's here to play Robert Ryan's wife in Lonely Hearts, her most dramatic role since Best Years of Our Lives. But she won't be settling in Hollywood, because her husband, Howland Sargeant, has headquarters in New York and Washington. . . .

Jean Carroll One Comedian In No Need of Psychiatrist

By CYNTHIA LOWERY

NEW YORK (AP) — Makers of laughter in this uncertain television world of 1958 have been pictured as a sad psychiatrist-prone lot, insecure in their professional and private lives. Then there is Jean Carroll.

The last time Miss Carroll, a lady clown, saw a psychiatrist was to find out what kind of insecticide he was using on his beach trees.

Miss Carroll, in case you haven't caught her on the Ed Sullivan show from time to time or on the Bob Crosby show last week, is not only a comedienne, but one of the standup variety. That means she just gets up on her feet and makes people laugh, without benefit of talking dogs, a cast of thousands or even a straight man. And unkind, 1958, has been particularly unkind to standup comedians.

"It's tough," she admits. "TV comes into your living room and joins you. And nobody walks around your living room with a violin tucked under his arm, plays a few notes and stops to tell a few jokes. That's fine for theatre stages and nightclubs but there's no point of identification in your home."

Jean, however, has been lucky because she usually works around such homely subjects as buying a dress or fur coat from a high fashion saleswoman, shopping at a supermarket, going to a PTA meeting—all familiar subjects to the stay-at-homes and therefore highly identifiable.

Miss Carroll doesn't want to be the star on her own weekly show. "If I were doing a weekly show," she says, "I know I'd have to throw myself into it so completely that all the rest of my life would be pushed aside. And I know that while I love my work, I love my family and my family life more. As it is, it's perfect."

CHILD STAR GETS SAVINGS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Onetime child star Margaret O'Brien, now 21, has been given legal control of her savings. The money has been administered by her mother, Mrs. Gladys O'Brien. Miss O'Brien, a veteran of 16 years as an actress, was earning $150,000 a year not long after her first role.

Will Pay Share For Needy in Nursing Homes

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario welfare department Monday announced it will help municipalities pay for the care of needy persons in the province's estimated 2,000 nursing homes.

Effective last April 1, the new regulations grant municipalities 20 per cent of the amount contributed or $80 a month a person, whichever is less. Up to now there has been no provincial assistance.

The grant will be given only to municipalities with by-laws requiring licenses for nursing homes and minimum standards for health and safety.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In case hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And sufferers themselves were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for it today at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Day of Hand-Made Lobster Traps Fading, Aluminum Ones Now Being Built

By DAL WARRINGTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — You can't walk far on the beaches of the Maritimes and New England without finding a smashed lobster trap washed up by the sea. After a storm you're likely to find many more than one.

Next winter three Nova Scotia lobster fishermen will fish with new type aluminum traps that may cut the heavy storm losses lobstermen suffer.

For years most fishermen have made their own wooden traps from laths and twine. The traps look something like a cage and are baited to attract the lobsters.

PLAN FULL TEST

Hobie and Herman Nickerson and Alex Sweeney of Yarmouth, N.S., have tried some metal traps already and compared them with wooden ones. Now they'll test them on a wholesale scale.

The federal fisheries department will buy 300 aluminum traps that the Nickersons and Sweeney will fish. It's a sequel to an experiment last winter off Roaring Bull Rock off Yarmouth at the western tip of Nova Scotia.

For three weeks navy frogmen went underwater with television and movie cameras to spy on lobsters. They photographed lobsters' reactions to aluminum, steel and wooden traps. Dr. D. G. Wilder, fisheries research biologist at St. Andrews, N.B., is studying the results.

The fisheries department started exploring the idea of metal traps four years ago. A. J. (Sandy) Fraser of Halifax, who directed last winter's experiments, says, "metal traps can withstand the most severe storms that would demolish wooden traps. With the exception of the cold water period of January, February and March, the catches by metal traps are equally good as wooden trap catches."

COLD WATER FACTOR

No one knows why cold water catches in metal traps are smaller than in wool. The rest of the year there's no apparent difference.

Harry Power, a fisheries research board engineer here, has investigated the theory that cold water conditions set up vibrations in metal traps. He hasn't found the answer yet.

Test fishing with metal traps will also be done on a small scale in the Northumberland Strait lobster grounds this year.

Catches in aluminum and steel traps have been about equal, but steel is not a promising substitute for wood because it corrodes in salt water.

Metal trap cost about $15 with the necessary ropes and marker buoys. It costs about $7 to make a wooden trap. Mr. Fraser thinks the metal trap's ability to withstand storms would more than offset the higher cost, even if the better catch were lower.

LOSSES HEAVY

Some lobstermen on Nova Scotia's south shore lost more than 90 per cent of their wooden traps in storms last winter. One man lost 350 of the 515 traps he set. That's more than $4,000 worth of gear. Another lost 377 of 500 traps. A smaller operator lost 30 out of 50.

The government indemnity plan gives some insurance protection but only a portion of the lobstermen have taken advantage of it.

The problem of storm losses is a big one. Thousands of men and millions of dollars are involved. There are 17,000 lobstermen in the Maritime provinces. Last year's catch in the Atlantic province, largest in the world, was worth $23,000,000.

NEW LOBSTER TRAPS

A. J. (Sandy) Fraser of the fisheries department at Halifax compares new metal lobster traps now being tested with the traditional wooden model. Trap on left is made of aluminum, centre one of wood and one on right of steel. Mr. Fraser says he is convinced metal traps would cut the heavy storm losses lobstermen suffer annually. (CP Photo).

PRINCESS ON OFFICIAL TORONTO VISIT

Tie Ontario Roads Into U.S. System

10 Toll Bridges Part Of Program; Cost 100 Million

Plan to Rush Completion Of 401, Frost Declares

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has announced a $100,000,000 highways extension plan designed to tie Ontario's major road system—No. 401, the Trans-Canada Highway system and the Queen Elizabeth Way—into the great network of the United States superhighways.

The road scheme, built to the modern Trans - Canada standard of 60 miles an hour, will include bridges—three new skyways over Welland Canal, the Burlington Skyway, a new high - level bridge at Cornwall and bridges at Prescott, Gananoque, Queenston, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort Frances and Rainy River.

The scheme also includes a toll causeway and Northwestern One-Way at Fort Frances. The highway to Atikokan from Fort Frances will be completed at. once.

OUT FOR BUSINESS

"The province is going out after business and industry to develop traffic from the United States," Mr. Frost said.

Political circles looked on the premier's announcement Wednesday as further evidence that a provincial election will be called this fall, probably in November.

The premier said the completion of the trans-provincial highway 401 will be completed ahead of schedule. But a check at the highways department gave no indication that the 1964 deadline had been advanced for No. 401, or four-lane highway, which will extend from Windsor to the Quebec border when completed.

Mr. Frost said new highways planned for Northern Ontario would also be completed ahead of alternative routes to the Trans-Canada highway.

NEW POLICY

The toll system marks a departure from previous policy, the premier said rates for the Burlington Skyway which carries the Queen Elizabeth Way over Burlington Beach near Hamilton would probably be the highest in tolls.

Ontario-set passenger cars would pay a flat rate of 15 cents, as would station wagons, half-ton panel trucks and pick-ups. Regular users could buy tickets at 20 for $3, or five cents a crossing.

Fulton Calls Fall Parley on Prison Reform

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Fulton has invited all provincial attorneys-general to a fall meeting here to consider prison reforms including the suggestion that all sentences over six months be served in federal institutions.

Mr. Fulton told a reporter today he proposed that a meeting be held sometime between Sept. 16 and Oct. 16, depending on the desire of the provincial law administrators.

He had invited the attorneys-general to discuss implementation of the recommendations in the 1955 report of a committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada.

SWEEPING REVISION

The majority of the 64 recommendations for a sweeping revision in the present system of remitting prison sentences would require, provincial co - operation to be implemented.

Among them is the suggestion that prison terms of six months or less be served in provincial jails and longer terms in federal penitentiaries. At present terms of two years or more are served in federal institutions.

The minister's invitation is further indication of the government's intention to begin concrete action on the Fauteux report.

It has introduced a bill at this session of Parliament to establish a national parole board. It would replace the present system of tickets of leave in the remission of prison sentences.

FEDERAL PAROLE BOARD

The Fauteux committee recommended establishment of a Federal parole board with some seven members, exclusive jurisdiction over paroles for all persons convicted under the Criminal Code.

The bill before Parliament has gone through only the first-reading stage and its details have therefore not been disclosed, but it is understood to follow closely the committee's recommendations closely.

Penal population in federal penitentiaries is about 5,000 prisoners, federal officials said. Normal capacity of the system is 5,000.

It is estimated that about 15,000 prisoners are currently in all provincial jails and that about 1,500 of these would be serving sentences longer than six months.

ISTANBUL (AP) — A sailor fired off a Soviet freighter in the Bosporus, swam ashore and asked for asylum in Turkey Thursday. The freighter Tchoboksar was en route from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. The sailor was identified as Georgi Dmitrievich. His request is under consideration.

CHAMOUN, FOES UNITE TO ELECT GENERAL SHEHAB

Vote Does Not Mean Marines Will Leave

BEIRUT (CP)—Gen. Fuad Shehab, commander-in-chief of Lebanon's army, war-elected president of the republic today by a special session of parliament.

Both supporters of outgoing President Camille Chamoun and the opponents that have led a 12-week rebellion against him supported the army soldier.

The general received 48 votes to seven for his opponent, Raymond Edde, a Chamoun supporter. Thir other candidate withdrew before the ballot. Shehab missed a two-thirds majority that would have given the first vote. There are 66 deputies in the Lebanese parliament.

MAY SETTLE REVOLT

Shehab's election was regarded as the key to solving the eastern Mediterranean country's rebellion that started when Chamoun said he at a shot for constitutional amended so he could run again.

But Chamoun left office today as president. Soli Sohi, the pro-Western premier, announced beforehand that he would support Shehab's candidacy.

Police charged Aresion Aderbassi, 23, with that military desertion couldn't accept office within six months of holding an army post.

But other government officials said the restriction quoted by Sohi applied only to candidates for parliament, not the presidency.

Chamoun is due to retire Sept. 23 when his term of office. It was not immediately clear whether Shehab would take over then.

QUESTION OF U.S. TROOPS

Also unresolved was the question of withdrawing American troops landed after the Iraqi revolt two weeks ago at the request of Chamoun.

A White House Embassy spokesman has already said that Shehab's election did not necessarily mean the warring factions would not of itself clear the way for withdrawal.

'Humanity Demands Violence Stop' Macmillan's Appeal to Cypriots

LONDON (Reuters)— Prime Minister Macmillan made an urgent appeal today for an end of violence in Cyprus.

"Humanity demands that violence must stop," he said.

His statement from 10 Downing Street said:

"Killing and wounding and damage to property can do nothing but harm to the interests of all the communities of the island. It can only add to the ordinary people of Cyprus desperately needed hardships.

"I therefore make this appeal to all concerned inside the island and outside it to refrain from any action which could contribute to further violence.

"I am sure that this appeal will be fully supported by the prime ministers of Greece and Turkey as by men of goodwill everywhere."

Reliable sources here said Turkish President Celal Bayar Bayar, who saw Macmillan Wednesday night, would shortly make a similar appeal.

Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis and Archbishop Makarios, the exiled political and religious leader of Cyprus, issued appeals Wednesday night in Athens for an end to bloodshed.

The proposal for a joint appeal for an end of violence in Cyprus by the British, Greek and Turkish government ministers was made in Athens to Karamanlis by the British ambassador.

'Any Place Will Do' for UN Parley Aug. 12 -- Macmillan

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan announced today he is calling for a special meeting of the United Nations Security Council to take place Aug. 13 and that the personalities will attend it.

Macmillan told the House of Commons he has advised Nikita Khrushchev there is no need for or any other place generally agreeable will do" as the site for the special conference on the Middle East crisis.

He read a text of a message delivered to the Soviet premier today, and in it he declared:

"I hope you (Khrushchev) will be able too."

Macmillan told Khrushchev in his letter:

"I am now instructing the United Kingdom permanent representative to propose to the president of the Security Council a special meeting to take place under article 28 (of the UN charter) on Aug. 12.

"Meanwhile, the permanent representatives should discuss arrangements for the special meeting and decide where it will take place.

"I have no reason to suppose that the president of the United States would not be willing to join either in Geneva or New York," Macmillan said.

The British leader told Khrushchev that in the conference he had in mind certainly would allow "real informal meetings of heads of government" to be arranged in addition to the sessions of the whole council.

Boy on Trike, Widow Killed As Cars Take to Sidewalks

TORONTO (CP)—James Melello, 4, died in hospital Wednesday night two hours after he was struck by a car while walking on the sidewalk of a city street.

Police held a man they said was the driver of the car. No charge was laid against him immediately.

BRANTFORD (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Good of the Hatcherty district, parents of 11 children, were killed today when a car in which they were riding crashed into a guard rail at speed three about 18 miles west of here.

Taken to hospital in critical condition were three other occupants of the car — Sylvester Torti of Brantford, the driver, and two daughters of the Goods, Roberta and Sharon.

Provincial police said Goud was pinned in the wreckage and had to be pried out by Brantford firemen, who were called with three ambulances and a rescue truck.

The accident occurred at the Harley road, a mile south of Highway 53.

U.S. Officials Claim Russia Tries to Keep Tension High

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials said today Russia is trying to keep tensions over the Middle East at a high pitch, probably to maintain pressure for a summit meeting.

The latest evidence of the Soviet propaganda drive was seen here in a Tass statement Wednesday night that the United States and four members of the Baghdad Pact are willing to attack on the new Iraqi republic. White House press secretary James Hagerty called the charge "ridiculous."

Other officials said it seems to be part of a pattern with Soviet Premier Khrushchev making charges, made recently in letters to President Eisenhower. Khrushchev contended that the United States and Britain have aggressive designs against Lebanon and Jordan and are planning to broaden their military operations in the area.

Meanwhile the United States, Britain and France have failed to reach a common understanding on their replies to Khrushchev's latest note about a summit meeting.

Agreement was reported sticking firmly to his view that any summit conference to deal with the Middle East crisis must be held as an extraordinary session of the UN Security Council. A note he drafted earlier this week suggested a Council session lasting could be started any time between Aug. 12 and 15. The note was to be sent to Khrushchev, perhaps in modified form, after allied consultations.

News dispatches from Paris said Premier de Gaulle is also firm in his insistence that the projected summit conference be held in New York and not the Security Council. That also was the position the British government took. Khrushchev Monday although he had agreed earlier to a UN meeting place.

Some of the best informed U.S. officials believe that in the end Khrushchev will agree to a mid-August Security Council meeting in New York and that de Gaulle also would attend if that was the only choice open to him.

PC Government Ditches Plan For 3 New RCAF Squadrons

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative government has ditched the plan of the former Liberal administration to form three new RCAF squadrons for Canada's defence.

There now are nine CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons in Canada — two at Uplands, Ottawa and St. Hubert, Que., Ottawa and North Bay, and one at Comox, B.C. The Liberals in 1956 announced the number would be increased to 12.

That plan was postponed when NATO asked Canada to train 300 West German jet fighter pilots. This training program will be completed early next year.

Completion of the NATO training scheme and closing of two training stations in Western Canada would have given the RCAF three and enough airframes to form three new squadrons.

However, it is understood Defence Minister Pearkes and his colleagues feel that the advances have been so rapid that three new CF-100 squadrons would have only a short life and the government orders the supersonic CF-105 Arrow into production this year—as it is expected to do—air force squadrons will be equipped with it by 1961.

It now is considered more economical to keep the present units are formed in Canada, they will be equipped with anti-aircraft missiles.

Mr. Pearkes has said that there have been consultations with U.S. authorities on the desirability of installing American ground-to-air missile bases in this country. A decision on this question probably will be taken in conjunction with that on CF-105 production.

FIFTEEN ALLIES RELAX CURBS ON TRADE WITH REDS

Britain Announces NATO Agreement

LONDON (AP)—Britain has announced agreement by 15 allies to cut red trade curbs on trade with the Communist world.

The accord opened the way for greater East - West trade just when Europe is expecting the impact of the Soviet recession.

The agreement was disclosed Wednesday in the House of Lords, undersecretary for foreign affairs, who told the House of Lords:

1. Details of a "substantial relaxation" of the allied controls will be announced Aug. 15. British officials have reports that almost half of the nearly 100 items—will be swept away.

2. Britain's aim of liberalizing items only "of real strategic significance" has largely been achieved. Informants said this involved easing the ground rules of trade with the Reds.

The negotiations took place within a body known as the Coordinating Group in Paris comprising the 15 Atlantic Pact powers, minus Iceland, which has no army.

The relaxations will allow Russia, Red China and Communist satellite lands to buy nearly 100 items of manufactured goods and new materials previously barred to them.

Informants said these include machine tools, oil tankers, factory ships, refrigerator ships, transportation equipment including trucks and small types of locomotives, certain chemical processes, plants for producing chemicals, electric generators up to certain sizes, rolling bearings, copper wire.

Items banned for sale because of their strategic value include materials usable in the nuclear weapon industry, and the equipment of all kinds, advanced scientific instruments and airplane gyro sway secrets to the Communists, and scarce raw materials.

Toll of Forest Fires in 6 Months Double That for All of Last Year

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Forest fires in the first six months of 1958 have destroyed more than twice as much timber burned in Canada during all of last year.

Chiefly responsible for the high toll are fires now raging through the B.C.-Yukon border in the Lower Mainland area of British Columbia. Damage in the hard-hit west coast province so far this year is estimated at $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

The Yukon, Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario also have reported relatively heavy forest fire damage.

Across Canada, figures covering the first six months of 1958 show that 2,000,000 acres of timber was burned in 2,586 fires during all of 1957.

Acreage burned to June 30 is estimated by federal authorities at 1,000,000 acres, compared with 106,000 in the corresponding period of 1957 and 2,586,000 during all of that year. There were 3,318 fires to the end of June against 3,019 in the same date last year and 5,726 in the full year.

More than 50,000 acres of coastal and interior districts of British Columbia are estimated to have been burned by a Canadian Press survey showed. In addition fires were reported roaring

Is Second Tour; She Took Drive Wednesday Eve

Steps From Royal Train While Thousands Watch

TORONTO (CP — Princess Margaret went for an' unscheduled drive Wednesday evening after her arrival here, taking in considerable territory not included in her official tour today.

She drove from downtown Union Station, up Bay Street through the financial district, west on Queen Street to University Avenue, then north on Avenue Road, around the Upper Canada College campus and Casa Loma.

She returned to her train on a siding at suburban Malton, west of the city, by way of the Lake Shore.

Jack Berry, public relations director of the CPR, said the princess thoroughly enjoyed the informal ride.

Only a handful of citizens recognized her. One, a cab driver, reported his discovery over the taxi radio network.

The princess was accompanied by Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, her lady-in-waiting, and A. R. Ross, her press secretary. Two other cars with police officers followed behind, through-out the moonlight tour.

"It was strictly a last-minute, surprise trip as far as I know," said Police Inspector Harold Hodgson who rode behind the royal car in an unmarked sedan. He and other officers were in plain clothes.

"She was inquisitive about everything and seemed to get a real kick out of the look around," Inspector Hodgson said.

Grandfather.

The swank C-5 aircraft of the RCAF dropped out of sky sky just before dusk Wednesday and brought a princess of two moods to Toronto.

As the airliner drew up to the terminal ramp, the regal princess was seen staring stonily through a window, leaning on her elbows.

Then there was a burst of applause by approximately 75 reporters and photographers who had waited behind a cordon of RCMP officers for more than half an hour for her arrival.

CROWD LINES ROOF

The princess paused and glanced at a crowd of about 2,000 lining the roof of the Toronto International Terminal. Her expression showed no change as she drew back from the window.

When she stepped to the plane's doorway, the sudden explosion of flashbulbs, however, she was smiling. Margaret, Mr. Hodgson reported, swept the reporters, escort and welcoming party with a royal smile.

Lined along the red carpet in green hats were Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay of Ontario and Mrs. Mackay; Premier and Mrs. Frost; Steve Hunt, Mayor of Toronto Township, in which Malton is located; Cyril Clark of Peel County and Mrs. Clark; Transport Minister George Hees and his wife. He made the introductions. Mrs. Fix presented a small bouquet of red roses to the princess.

Princess Margaret, wearing yellow hat, shoes and dress and carrying a fur stole, toured past the crowded terminal with the lieutenant-governor, not to a waiting car, but across the main airport approach road.

If their planning for future missile trips to and around the moon, scientists of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Moffett Field, California, prepared these models to show the types of "moon missions." The models represent: The route of present-day satellites; next step is the path for an impact shot to the moon; the route for a rocket to circle the moon once and return to the earth, and the path for multiple trips around the moon and return to earth.

Foresters Hold Dinner, Dance

Over 300 adults and children enjoyed a turkey dinner and dance in the Legion hall on Dundas street Saturday evening, sponsored by a newly formed group of the Canadian Order of Foresters, known as Court Maxinkuckee.

This was the first turkey dinner sponsored by Court Maxinkuckee and it was a success beyond all expectations, district manager Russ Rintan reported.

Fifteen turkeys, over 100 pounds of potatoes, 40 loaves of bread for dressing, 300 , pieces of pie and several gallons of ice cream, as well as assorted cake and coffee, tea, were consumed.

The wives of the members in the area, along with many other women, did yeomen service and their efforts were appreciated by the Chief Ranger and members of the Court.

People from far and near were present, including many Foresters from Belleville.

The hall and tables were tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Dancing was enjoyed from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight by an overflow crowd.

Court Maxinkuac was aided in its efforts by five district members, Mr. Rintan who stated he was "happy the affair was such a wonderful success."

Break-Ins Keep Police Busy

Woodland Cleaners, Dundas St. East, was cleaned of $20 last night when thieves forced a door on the east side of the building. Investigating O.P.P. officers said the money was taken from drivers' pouches in the office.

City police are investigating a break-in at Dowd's Hobby Shop on Flanacle St. Sometime during the night thieves broke a window in a door at the rear of the shop, entered and stole an undisclosed sum of money. The merchandise was not touched.

Police Blotter

Someone stole a car last night and left it undamaged on the grounds of Queen Mary Public School.

Owned by Albert High, R. R. 3, Belleville, the car was parked behind the Armouries last night.

When recovered the car was missing two chrome hub caps. Also stolen were a spear gun, the keys and some tools.

Police believe the theft was the work of vandals or somebody who bears a personal grudge against Mr. High.

A total of seven among two teams of children ended last night in a free-for-all at Alemite playground.

And a local beauty salon reported a customer's purse had been stolen from the shop.

Railroads, Bus Lines Are Readied For Increased Holiday Traffic

Since Monday is Civic holiday train and bus lines anticipate heavy traffic as local citizens take advantage of the long weekend to do some travelling.

Not to be caught napping local branches of bus and railway lines are well prepared for the expected increase in weekend travellers.

Local CNR superintendent Alec Wilson announced there would be no change in train schedule out of Belleville. All trains will be operating as usual, with extra coaches and sections as needed to handle the anticipated extra load.

"This is usual procedure for a holiday weekend and we are always prepared to handle the amount of traffic that develops," Mr. Wilson stated.

Local C.P.R. passenger agent Doug Cameron stated a similar policy will probably be followed by the Canadian Pacific Railway lines over the holiday weekend. Similarly there will be no change in C.P.R. freight service out of Belleville this weekend.

City Public Relations director John C. Noel said today in Toronto extra equipment is being added to the Toronto Transit Railways regular trains to handle up to 30,000 shoppers over the Civic Holiday weekend.

Mr. Noel said: "Largest movements out of town (Toronto) will be Friday evening, with extra coaches and sleepers on the trains to Montreal, New York, Chicago, Winnipeg and resort areas in Northern Ontario. The bookings are heavy for both weekend and one-day package tours."

Peak return traffic is expected Monday night, and to accommodate the expected extra traffic, the normal Monday evening trains from North Bay and Muskoka resort points will be run on Monday night instead of on Sunday, Mr. Noel reported.

Local office of the Colonial Coach Lines Ltd. reported changes in the weekend schedule and the addition of an express bus to accommodate the anticipated increase in travellers over the holiday weekend.

The regular Sunday night service will be run on Monday night. For westbound passengers, an express bus leaving Belleville at 6.45 p.m. will be added to supplement the regular 6.45 p.m. bus. Both buses will run Sunday and Monday nights.

The regular 8.35 p.m. eastbound bus and the regular 8.45 p.m. westbound bus, will be run Monday night as well as Sunday night.

There will be no change in the Friday and Saturday bus schedule, the bus terminal reported.

CORNWALL (CP)—City police shot a fox believed to have rabies after a chase in several hours Wednesday in the northeast section of this city.

The animal's head was sent to the federal animal health laboratory at Hull, Que., for examination. It was the first report of rabies in the city proper.

Cows and horses have had to be destroyed in the counties of Stormont, Glengarry, Carleton, Prescott and Russell after contact with rabid foxes and skunks.

Crop Outlook In Manitoba Has Improved

OTTAWA (CP) — Crop conditions continue to improve in Manitoba but yields in Saskatchewan will be below average because of drought, the bureau of statistics said Wednesday.

In a crop report based on telegraphic reports from correspondents up to Tuesday night from various parts of the country, the bureau said Manitoba prospects now are for an average yield.

Conditions in Saskatchewan also had improved since that province and Manitoba were considered in serious drought conditions a few weeks ago. But yields on the whole would be below average.

Prospects over much of Alberta varied from fair to good but were poor in some eastern sections. C...timuing warm dry weather in British Columbia was helping crops to maturity earlier than usual there.

Warm weather with plenty of moisture has promoted crops in both Ontario and Quebec, although the rain delayed some haying operations in Quebec.

Maritimes farmers are already busy harvesting hay.

7,163 Baptized At Bronx Beach By Witnesses

NEW YORK (AP)—Jehovah's Witnesses baptized 7,136 of their members Wednesday in total immersion in shallow Long Island waters off a Bronx beach. They called it the largest mass baptism of all time.

Using bathing suits, 4,109 females and 2,907 male Witnesses went through the ceremony. Belief in God was the only creed mine.

Police estimated that 10,000 spectators watched from bathboard walk and from behind fences that marked off a 400-foot section of beach serving as the baptism area.

The ceremony was a highlight of the Witnesses' Divine Will International Assembly that opened Sunday in Yankee Stadium and the first baptism. The eight-day assembly is being attended by about 120,000 Witnesses from 123 countries.

No infants were baptized because Witnesses believe baptism must come after a period of Bible study.

Mitchell Case Decision Under Liberal Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals have protested a decision by agriculture Minister Harkness not to table all government documents relating to Walter Mitchell, a Montreal harbor agricultural checker fired on grounds of political partisanship and possession contraband.

"I protest the decision of the minister," Lionel Chevrier of Montreal Laurier) said Wednesday in the Commons after Mr. Harkness had made known his decision. He said Mr. Harkness had declined earlier that there was nothing to hide in the case.

The Liberals forced a vote on Mr. Chevrier's motion after rejection of the documents but lost by 97 to 43. The CCF group voted with the Liberals against the big Progressive Conservative majority.

Mr. Harkness said the papers are inter - departmental records, some of a personal and confidential nature. He was also entitled, he said, that production of such papers would break precedent.

Council Seems To Be Confused Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson has protested that the projected summit meeting of the UN Security Council "seems to be getting into a state of complication and confusion," Canada ought to be pressing harder for action.

"If the Security Council could only meet very quickly," Mr. Pearson said Wednesday in the Commons' external affairs committee, "even without the head of government I could start forming an agenda and it might find a way out of this confusion."

Mr. Pearson, outlining a possible agenda for a summit meeting, suggested that the Middle East could be considered under the headings of economic problems, refugee rehabilitation and control of arms shipments into the area. Perhaps groups of experts could be set up to pursue the studies.

External Affairs Minister Smith, saying that "economic development" may be expected today in the matter of a conference, added that Mr. Pearson's ideas reminded him of a children's game called "twenty questions," in which a contestant called "warmer" as his opponent drew near a hidden object.

Since last autumn, he said, Canada has shipped arms or military supplies of any kind into the area, apart from $625 worth of radio equipment for Israel.

Canada's Trade Deficit Sliced To About Third

OTTAWA (CP) — A sharp drop in imports, mainly from the United States, reduced Canada's trade deficit in the first half of 1958 to about a third of the corresponding period a year ago.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the deficit—exports over imports in the period declined to about 11 per cent to $3,575,000,000 from $2,904,600,000 while exports fell to about 89 per cent to $2,381,300,000 from $2,330,500,000.

The bureau said the import decline appears to have been proportionately among most major groups of imported goods. However, the drop was "greater in the steel group which includes non-farm machinery and primary iron and steel products particularly—affected."

TRADE—FIRST HALF 1958

Of Canada's total exports, 57.5 per cent went to the United States, the largest proportion for any six-month period since 1952. Purchases from the U.S. amounted for 70.8 per cent of total imports, the smallest figure for any six months since 1951.

The bureau said the smaller share of the U.S. in exports and imports was partly due to increased trade with other countries Canadian wheat and other grains and farm products and goods not normally marketed in the U.S. in significant quantities.

Bell Earnings Per Share Down

MONTREAL (CP)—Bell Telephone Company of Canada had net income in the six months ending June 30 of $18,672,275 compared with $18,418,256 in the corresponding period last year.

This was equal to $1.04 a share as the average of 18,029,586 common shares outstanding compared with $1.18 on the 15,567,770 outstanding a year ago.

Thomas W. Eadie, president, in a message to shareholders, says gross revenues were up eight per cent higher, but expenses were 11 per cent higher.

"In view of our unsatisfactory earnings situation," Mr. Eadie commented, "the company has filed an application for higher rates with the board of transport commissioners. The board is expected to begin hearing our case Sept. 15."

Charges GM Of Canada Under U.S. Domination

TORONTO (CP)—George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers Union (CLC), claimed Wednesday that General Motors of Canada management is being dominated by American.

In a statement Mr. Burt said that a company offer to extend an existing contract for two years, was unacceptable to the union.

He said the union's master negotiating committee would recommend rejection of the two-year extension put forward by the company on a take - it - or - leave-it basis.

Earlier President Edwin H. Walker in Oshawa said the union had until midnight Aug. 15 to accept the plan or it would be withdrawn.

TWO ANNUAL INCREASES

The company offer of renewing the contract would give employees two annual wage increases totalling approximately 14 cents an hour through improvement factors. Supplemental benefits would be continued, Mr. Walker said.

Richard Courtney, a union official, immediately said: "That's not an offer — it's a slap in the turn."

The existing 2½-year contract, under which 13,000 hourly rated employees in five Ontario centres, expires midnight Friday.

In Mr. Burt's statement, he charged that Louis G. Seaton, a GM vice-president of industrial relations "who spent most of the 168 days of our 1955-56 strike at the bargaining table in Toronto, slipped into town last Thursday evening and immediately all GM bargaining at once stopped. . .

"A lot has been written and said in Canada about domination of Canadian unions by their United States headquarters and I say, for bad domination—through the minutest detail — of Canadian management by U. S. management," the statement said.

Pair Indicted On 50 Counts Theft, Fraud

NEW YORK (AP — William J. McCarthy, brother of Texas oil millionaire Joe Bob McCarthy, and Frank Peter Crosby, financier, were indicted Wednesday on charges stemming the mails to defraud the public of more than $2,000,000 in stock deals.

The 80-page, 50-count indictment was returned in federal court. It was the culmination of a two-year investigation conducted by post office inspectors, the securities and exchange commission and the New York district attorney's office.

During 1955 and 1956, the indictment charged, the values of stock in the Texas-Adams Oil Company which McCarthy controlled were fraudulently inflated. The company, which has offices in New York and Denver, went into bankruptcy the next year.

Crosby faces six charges of theft, fraud and false pretense in Toronto. He has posted $50,000 bail in connection with the sale of shares of Mica Company Limited, a Quebec firm valued at $1,100,000. Charges were laid by the Ontario securities commission.

Mica was to have appeared for trial May 26 but his Canadian lawyers said he was sick with a sick bed ailment in New York to attend trial in Toronto. At an arraignment hearing July 9 bail was allowed to stand.

Auto Damaged, Driver Forced To Hitch-Hike

TRENTON — Failure of the brakes on a car caused an accident last night which resulted in little damage to the vehicles but caused a lot of inconvenience to one of the drivers.

Stephen Seal, 20, of Westhill in the county of York, said police he was proceeding east along Dundas Street West when they car in front of him stopped for the red light on the corner of Dundas and Dufferin Streets.

He said his own car was travelling at about 15 m.p.h. and when he shoved the brake pedal in to bring his car to a halt there was no response. He struck the rear end of a car being operated by Clarence Gibson of 10 Burton Street, Belleville.

Damage to the rear bumper of the Belleville car was estimated at $20 and to the front end of Seal's car at $45. Constable Gordon Gibson of the Ontario Police Department investigated.

On looking at Seal's car it appeared that only the grille was damaged but reporting in to the station said he found he was unable to get the car going and had to have it pushed to a parking lot where he could leave it for a week or so. He was on his way to Toronto and was required to be there either last night or early this morning. Without the car he was forced to hitch-hike or take a bus.

Will Spend $68,000 on Town Bridge

TRENTON — Five loaded transports, tractor-trailer jobs, were on the town bridge at the same time last night plus the few cars which were going in the opposite direction.

Several citizens, Councillors included, as well as the head engineer of the Consultant Company here are considering the repairs for the bridge, have stated they have been walking across the structure when only one large transport has been passing over and it has frightened them the way the bridge trembled.

Nothing happened last night when the five huge trucks were on the bridge but it was reported at the time if weight was ever going to break any of it supports it would have done so then.

The repairs which will be going out for tender very soon, includes the adding of supports that will make the bridge much stronger as well as to ensure against caving in.

It was stated at a recent meeting between town councillors and the consultant engineers that the cross beams under the deck of the bridge are 40 per cent overstressed under normal traffic. Last night's abnormal load of five has at least doubled that.

A total sum of $68,000 will be spent this fall on the repairs which will include a new deck as well as a new coat of paint the entire length of the span. It was stated the bridge will be new and will last for another 40 years under normal conditions and with only regular maintenance.

Canada to Take 1,100 Hungarians Still in Camps

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is lending a hand in the settlement of the last of some 200,000 Hungarians who fled their homeland after the 1956 revolt.

Immigration Minister Fairclough said Wednesday in an interview that the government has agreed to admit an additional 1,100 Hungarians as landed immigrants. They are among 9,000 now in camps in Austria and Italy.

The move will raise to 26,215 the number admitted to Canada following the unsuccessful revolt of the Hungarian people against their Russian-dominated Communist regime.

MANY HAVE RETURNED

Several hundred of these have returned to Hungary, most because their families in Hungary were unable to join them in Canada.

Plans are being made by the immigration department to conduct the refugees to Canada before the end of the year. The government will pay their passage on regular steamship service.

During the first year the refugees are in Canada the federal government accepts responsibility for their care.

A government official said Canada's unemployment situation will not be greatly affected by the additional refugees. The number of workers among them likely would be fewer than half with the rest wives and dependents.

The official said that of 37,000 only 150 Hungarian refugees were receiving federal assistance, compared with 1,900 at May 25.

The government's action follows an appeal to Prime Minister Diefenbaker by April 29 by Dr. A. E. Lindt, United Nations director-general of refugees. He asked Canada at that time to help clear the last Hungarian refugees out of Austrian and Italian camps.

All 9,000 refugees in the camps are expected to be moved to Western countries by the end of the year. The United States has agreed to accept 2,300 and others will go to Australia, Israel, New Zealand, the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland and to Scandinavian and Latin American countries.

Cash Register At Egg Grading Plant Robbed

TRENTON — The sum of $125 in cash was stolen from the cash register of the egg grading plant here on Albert St. last night by unknown thieves, after they had entered entry through a door in the rear of the building, which was believed to have been inadvertently left open.

The break-in was discovered this morning by Y. D. Hogg when he came to work at eight o'clock. He immediately reported the incident to the Trenton police department. Inspector R. J. Rutherford is investigating.

Mr. Frinkle told police it was the first time he can recall forgetting to take the money from the cash register before closing. The thieves did not touch some cheques and did little damage other than upsetting a few eggs.

LARGEST SAIL BOAT

TRENTON — The largest sail boat to appear in Trenton this year has been docked at the government docks for the past two days. It is owned by Harry Grejek of Kitchener and has two 65-foot masts. It also has a 145 horsepower diesel engine and draws about nine and one-half feet of water. It is reported that the owner bought the boat in Sweden from where he sailed it back to Canada. Senator W. A. Fraser was a guest aboard the boat last night.

WORK ON SIDEWALK

The new sidewalk to run from Bay Street to the Community Centre has been started and with the forms down all the way about half the cement has been poured. The walk will be six feet wide. It is expected the walk will be finished by the end of this week. The council has also agreed in principle to put street lights along this walk and they may have the lights run right past the Centre and to the water's edge.

GAS LINES

Work has begun on the east side of the river on the laying of the gas feeder lines by the Burkhardt Construction Company from Toronto. Work has started on West Street and Bayview Street and will continue until work on the east side of town has been completed and the first fill will begin on the west side of the river. Work commenced on Monday at 5 p.m. J. C. "Mitch" Mitchell, well-known in Trenton for his work with the Lakeland Gas Company last winter, will also be on hand looking after the interests of the gas company.

U.S. Congress May Hold Probe Of Steel Prices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Increases in prices by four steel firms has started talk of higher prices for products made of steel and may result in a congressional inquiry of steel prices.

Following action taken by the Armco Steel Corporation Tuesday, steel price increases of about $4.50 a ton were announced Wednesday by the Republic Steel Corporation, Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation and the National Steel Corporation.

In Washington, Senator Estes Kefauver, chairman of the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee responded by saying he is thinking about proposing an inquiry into the price increases and the possibility of a return to old prices.

WANTS STABLE PRICE

He told the Senate "it is time for the president to speak with vigor and use the great power of his office" to keep steel prices stable. Kefauver also called a subcommittee meeting for Friday to consider "what can be effectively done to discourage" price boosts by more steel producers.

The new prices apply mostly to sheet and, strip steel, which is used mainly by the automobile and appliance manufacturers trade. There is speculation among consumers that rising costs may soon include other types of steel.

TIMELY PROPOSAL

The decision of the Belleville Council on Monday night to petition the Ontario Government for a cloverleaf at the Purdy sideroad is a good and timely one and should be strongly recommended. The proposal is to enable through traffic on Highway 401 to turn off east of Belleville proceed to Highway No. 2 thence west to Dundas and Front Streets and eventually back to 401 by the route we all know. When the new highway is opened to traffic it is expected there will be sufficient signs for the stranger to find his way back to the new highway without trouble.

The access roads leading from Highways 14 and 37 are round-about routes for tourists to find their way to hotels and motels in and near the city. At rush hours particularly after four o'clock until 5.30 these roadways and Front Street are no place for the stranger looking for over-night accommodation, or attempting to get to the business district.

The Purdy sideroad offers an ideal way both into and out of the city being comparatively free of heavy traffic and with only a couple of turns. For that reason it is to be hoped the Council, Chamber of Commerce and the Industrial Commission will follow up with energy the proposal introduced by Alderman William Argue at the special council meeting on Monday night.

A QUESTION OF TECHNIQUE

Earl Attlee, the former Labor Prime Minister of Britain, said in the House of Lords the other day that he does not think our American friends have the wealth of experience that we command in this country on Middle East problems."

This is merely reducing to the particular a situation which is widely believed to be true of the general.

Not only are the Americans not supposed to know as much about the Middle East as the British, but they are considered by many not to know as much about the Far East, about Africa, about Europe, about diplomacy as a whole.

Yet the Americans' difficulty may be not so much an ignorance of facts about others as a woeful inability to see themselves as others see them.

The typical American may regard himself as a shrewd dealer, not above cutting corners to get a bargain, well versed in the art of bluffing. But his country he regards as possessed of ethics above reproach, represented in international dealings by knights in shining armor.

One difficulty is that ofttimes his diplomats talk and act in a manner very similar to that in which he expects them to do.

A second difficulty is that the rest of the world, instead of regarding them as knights, sees them as amateurs.

That is the way a lot of the world is regarding the cold war. Too many, when they read Khrushchev's double talk, do not believe a word of it, but nevertheless relish the way it puts poor Uncle Sam on the spot.

We forget he is our Uncle -- and our good neighbor as well.

Still, it would be nice if, just for once, Uncle would act as if he was in possession of all his buttons.

It was no doubt the height of integrity for President Eisenhower to insist, after his latest note from Khrushchev, that a summit meeting on the Middle East be held entirely within the regular procedures of the United Nations Security Council.

But as a manoeuvre in the cold war how much more effective was the announcement made on behalf of Prime Minister Macmillan that it had "always been his intention and that of the government that the procedure (at such a meeting) should be formal and informal."

The difference is not one of ignorance and knowledge of the facts of the case, but of skill in the technique of propaganda, a statement which is emphasized by later indications that there is actually little difference in the views on this matter of the British and U. S. governments but only a difference in emphasis.

"PERFUMED" TV

As expected, perfumed TV is on the way and, in fact, is being tried out. Thus a telecast of, say, an apple orchard in bloom will emit the perfume of apple blossoms. Presumably a "commercial" peddling onions will become literally a tear-jerker. Meanwhile some TV programs just stink. (Brantford Expositor.)

HIS ANNUAL GAME

Run for the liniment, send for a plaster,
Stuff now with pillows the old rasy chair;
Get the witch hazel, I wish you'd move faster,
Oh, my, it's awful the way you do swear.
Here is the arnica; rub yourself with it.
I'm not surprised that you're hurt in the game,
Shattered in body and broken in spirit,
You always return from your annual game.

Here is the iodine; paint up your knuckles,
Three of them swollen to more times their size,
Sympathy for you? No, nothing but chuckles,
Hurry now, wash the dirt out of your eyes.
Of course, your back's aching; What would it be doing?
An old man like you playing handball. For shame!
There's no use in arguing, wrangling or chewing;
You've got to pay for your annual game.

Do Not Apply If Under 60

Brantford Expositor

A job offer stipulating "Age 60 and up" is enough of a startling one to noted with surprise in these days when there is widespread complaint that many employers will not hire anyone over 40. But such an offer was advertised the other day in a Toronto newspaper. The wording indicated need for an engineer for a heavy field of responsible duties, and it left the impression that, in specialized fields at any rate, there sometimes difficulty in finding executives of the right calibre and institutions are more pro-grams to select and develop management talent. They have been in existence since the day dawn of the boss who made all the decisions is almost gone. Big business has grown too complex for one man to handle. He must delegate duties and authority, and the success of the firm will largely depend on his skill in delegation — giving a promising man a responsible job to do and letting him get on with it instead of riding him.

This has brought into existence a new race of middle management executives from whim, in course of time, top managers will be picked. It is needful to develop key men to ensure continuity of skills directors when a executive a vacancy at the helm which it is unable to fill.

Young people starting their careers should understand that business management is becoming a profession requiring, besides practical know-how in the plant or office, a knowledge of human relations, organization, developing subordinates and ability to communicate effectively. Those skills must be learned, and wherever there be trouble to acquire them while becoming familiar with the basic job need have little fear of what will happen to him after 40.

Phone Manners Vital

(Fort Arthur News Chronicle)

To say the person who answers business telephones, whether it be a switchboard operator, a secretary or an office executive, is the most important person in the company may be an exaggeration, but not a serious one. For the person who answers the telephone sets the mood for every conversation, and he or she can do a most effective public relations job for the employer by politeness, friendliness, courteous and efficient.

Unfortunately many people display none of these qualities over the telephone has led some large and aggressive business firms to school their employees in telephone manners, often at a cost running every member of the staff adhering to the rules.

One such firm is the Cynanamid Company, which operates plants in Southern Ontario, and one of the other points is concerned about telephone attitude for basic reasons. First, bad telephone manners costs the company business, and dollars and cents affect both management and employees. Secondly, good telephone relations between departments snarl up the already difficult problem of smoothly meshing diversified and widely scattered operations. And thirdly, the telephone personality of employees has a real bearing on their individual progress within the company.

Cynanamid is simply following a pattern set by many companies which have recognized that Alexander Graham Bell gave the world more than an instrument that brought people closer together and other devices followed. They also appreciate that the telephone reduces persons in the conversation personality — the voice. This is almost impossible to remember each time the telephone is answered, yet every day wrong impressions are created over the telephone that are not straightened out for days or months, or perhaps never, unless the caller is well acquainted with other persons in the company, he invariably judges it on employer and other employees by the person he talks to on the telephone.

While telephone courtesy campaigns are not new, they are amazingly rare, and more businesses could profit by following Cynanamid's effort.

COLLIDING WITH A ROMANCE

There was a picture in the newspaper this morning of a bride and groom kissing each other as the minister pronounced them man and wife. It seems that they had been brought together in a quite violent fashion. Their cars collided. After the usual delay ambulance in the case offered to drive the lady to traffic court where the perfect driver might report the accident. The lady's acceptance of this kind offer the romance on its way.

They went to Mexico on their honeymoon, and this time no car. They went by plane.

Have you ever had the experience of being ushered into some happy future by a collision which was in itself anything but happy? If we could all have our way, we would choose to eat only while meat all our lives. There would be no digestion, no sleeplessness, no pain — not even discomfort in the occasional inconvenience of a bent fender or an overtime parking ticket. O r if man children would accept all other children. Our financial holdings would increase at least 100 per cent each year. We would always be healthy, we would retire early with plenty of money and we would live to be at least a hundred.

But unfortunately along it's a pathway of life there occur collisions. Strangely enough, these collisions sometimes result not in unhappiness but in happiness. . . . So don't be too complain until you know whether you have something to complain about.

PICTURE YOUR WAY

The camera is becoming more common — useful and enjoyable hobby — especially during these vacation days. We can picture our ways, and bring home to give pleasure and happiness to many others. There is a knack to camera day is "fool proof," so that I h bumblest amateur often produces a masterpiece.

With the new colored films, undreamed of pleasure comes to the one who carefully handles h is camera and who seeks the most dramatic scenes, as well as those quiet and poetic ones that so often touch the heart. The person who loves to take pictures is sure to take good ones. The more y o u love to do anything the more you are sure to accomplish.

Human interest scenes are all about us. The greatest thrills result from experimenting with your camera. Often it may take hours before you get the picture that you most wanted. In nature there is constant movement, so that you must have patience with the taking of pictures as with any work of art. Patience and love go together.

Simplify your pictures by leaving out details that do no good to the picture. Keep experimenting, as suggested. Practice makes perfect in the taking of pictures as surely as in anything else. Surround your self with interest in the taking of pictures. Some of the finest hours resulted from patience, and often through the arrangement for a picture.

Carry the delightful Springtime and Summer glories home with you in the pictures that you take. Never get discouraged when you face a lot of failures. That is the experience of all. Many can keep after a picture for hours, or even days, to have it the way planned. Then, even picture yourself through life!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

This is a funny time to be thinking of Christmas trees. Yet thousands of farmers in all parts of Canada where Christmas t r e e plantations are lively a n d sometimes big business are right now out in long rows, with big mad dogs or Englishmen, doing the pruning that "shapes" the trees. Whether you are going to lop-sided, scrawny looking tree or a symmetrical beauty is up to you. It will stand up like a Christian instead of falling over the living room next December.

The Scotch pine has risen by leaps and bounds into the forefront of the Christmas tree market, largely because it is a rapid grower in plantations and, with a little manicuring, takes on a very handsome shape. The balsam fir, a real tree, of course, especially spruce, balsam and firs are harvested in Canada's forests each fall, t h e handsomest ones being cut out of the misshapen and scrawny ones left to carry on in their natural reason. governments with an eye to the future of the woods are now going in for forest plantations, primarily in areas where there are large patches of land, poor for other agriculture, to make plantations. And, somewhat on the principle of the agricultural representative who tour the counties, foresters are now on the road demonstrating to plantation owners the simplest and most economical methods of pruning and harvesting t h e tree crop.

There about ten minutes to prune a tree. That is six trees an hour. In the midsummer sun. That is why Christmas trees cost more than a bunch of daisies.

Boy and Dog In a Meadow

Christian Science Monitor

When a little boy and his dog have a midsummer afternoon to themselves, they go to the end of the meadow — the great outside world beyond the garden fence. He stands at the edge of this field, his gaze intent on something in the grass. His legs are bowed — his whole being seems taut. He pounces, wields, misses again — but, having failed to make a capture, he immediately forgets the interest in his efforts and romps in carefree circles through the long grass. Now he knows how he leads. He stops suddenly, on all fours, and crouches as if to stalk prey. But his intent charge seems to run through him suddenly, and he is off again, zigzagging like forked lightning.

Now all his senses appear to be centered in one faculty — that of sight — as he stretches his neck forward and up while trying to keep his body in hiding. Next, with a leap, he is off again, doing things going or to be seen, he listens for what sounds only he hears.

This is adventure, a chase, a test of mental capabilities, or both on the run or at the stand. He obeys commands we do not hear; interprets situations, sometimes only guess at, discovers purposes beyond our ken.

"Who, who, who?" you may be crying. Which one of them, the boy or the dog?

Well, which one of them? Which is more like which — the dog or the boy?

Raccoons Now City Slickers

Ontario Lands and Forests Bulletin.

Raccoons in parts of Ontario have become city slickers. To solve their housing problems, they have invaded the human procedure and are moving the! families into Metropolitan Toronto.

They're comfortably housed now in many apartment houses and a number of them have moved into new housing developments which offer many modern conveniences. No orthodox doorways for their entrances, make their own drain pipes and convenient trees to reach the roofs of buildings that have emulated Santa Claus and climb down the chimneys.

"In such comfortable, air-conditioned chimney rooms they slept out the winter snugly. Spring brought the first sign of occupancy — the scratching and whines of the pre-born families," says Conservation Supervisor J. S. Ellis, Lake Simcoe District, Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

"There was a time when raccoons were identified in two categories. One was the swamp-dwelling variety that lived on frogs and soft bodied animals. The other type, the hardwood 'coon, lived largely on nuts and acorns. Now, however, they adapt to any environment. Some live in hollow logs but many climb big beeches, elms or other hardwood trees to do as they like in cavities.

"As the old, over-mature trees became decayed, blew down or were felled by woodcutters, many raccoon families were forced to take up residence in the ground. They took over abandoned f o x dens and enlarged rabbit and groundhog burrows to fit their former owners into the cold and packaged in small envelopes of convenient size, but if not, you could take a tablespoonful, or take a quarter or a half-ounce.

Many arthritic people are afraid of prunes, I find. Likewise, gelatin contains the substance which is in the connective tissues that are damaged by arthritis. There it, therefore, seems certain that this may be of particular benefit in arthritis cases — although I don't know this as fact, but only as speculation. The sweetened and flavored gelatine are gelatin but with them a lot of what you get is sugar. We all get enough sugar. What you are after is the protein.

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation?" To make sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of this newspaper for a pamphlet, "Vitamins — Alphabet Of Health", enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Old Gallows Ended Feud

BBC London Letter

"If you didn't have the story," said Kenneth Bell in the BBC program "The Northcountryman" you wouldn't believe it. The second dance at the drab-looking woodcutters' hut in a remote field in the north Lincolnshire village of Mellon Ross. Two weather-worn gallows and a cemetery, rather like a small set of goalposts, explain why the dance attracts slightly above the crossbar." This is the symbol of a bitter feud between neighboring noble families which lasted for two centuries.

It all began, Bell explained, in the year 1615. The second Earl of Lord Ross were found cutting timber for fuel on the Lady Thirkelby claimed was their land. Sir Robert Tyrwhitt issued a writ of replevin; Lord Ross upheld h i s right to dig on the land in question. The case was tried, finally agreed to accept the judgment of Lord Chief Justice Montague on the matter. It was agreed that they should meet the judge in nearby village, and feasting, having only two friends and his usual neighborly noble hospitality with the terms but Sir Robert arrived with 300 armed men. Although no fighting took place, the indignant Lord Ross sent a petition to the King asking for redress. It was decreed that Sir Robert should offer to Lord Ross three tuns of wine, a gallon of Gascony wine, two fat oxen and twenty fat sheep at Gainsborough which both men and their followers would attend. A second decree ordered that a public apology and offer Lord Ross 500 pounds if he would withdraw. The lordship would refuse the money and quote passages from Shakespeare.

The decree was carried out, but the feud smouldered down f r o m generation to generation, instance and ostentation of the Tyrwhitt family initiated the custom of their Rose fection. Exactly two hundred years after the proceedings began, hunting parties from the rival houses met in the village. Neither would give way to the other. Angry words led to action; swords flashed, and when the smoke cleared, two men of the Tyrwhitt party were killed and wounded. The reigning head of the Tyrwhitt family pleaded was dead. He ordered that a gallows should be erected in the very field where the guilty blood had been wasted, as a warning that if anyone were killed in such clashes in the future, he would regard it as murder. To all those responsible, "I'll seems that both sides took the warning to heart," said Bell, "for there is no record of any such executions being carried out. But the gallows are still there."

Your Good Health

PROPER TREATMENT DEPENDS ON PROPER DIAGNOSIS

Of various things: A letter came a little bit ago from a woman who has cancer of left-sided ovary, plainly an infection, and not to be ignored. She asked, modestly, to suggest "some patent medicine" that she could take because, as she put it, she had stopped going to a specialist to whom she had been sent by her own doctor. Her complaint was that "he isn't doing anything for me. All he has done is take tests."

My guess is that she is a newcomer to my column, because regular readers are certainly aware of how much time I spend in preaching the importance of finding out what is wrong before expecting to determine the treatment that will do some good.

That is precisely the weakness in patent medicines. They consist, sometimes of ingredients that will do some good provided you happen to have whatever the patient needs to be taken.

Like most doctors, however, I do not like to encourage patients that the medicine should fit the patient — not the patient be fitted to fit the medicine.

So to this woman with the kidney ailment, I say go straight back to that specialist, let him finish his tests, and then let him decide on the treatment. In the long run that will save time, and to mention money and perhaps even your life.

"D.E.F." writes that on a visit to the hospital a doctor gave her son a dose of mercury to play with because the boy "thought it was so pretty in the bottle."

Next the boy spilled some mercury in some sandwich spread for dad's sandwiches or so the boy said, but not until long after the sandwiches had been eaten. D.E.F. goes on, "naturally I felt panicky and set but my husband said it could do no harm. I thought perhaps you could tell me how much mercury could be detected in the system, as I don't feel well this day if our little boy was 'nibbling' Anyway, I would like other public opinion as I know I should think doctors would be the best ones to be given the child."

Well, D.E.F., you can safely relax. Mercury is so heavy that any droplets would have fallen out of the sandwich. But it is still no harm done. There was a day, years and years ago, when mercury was given in stubborn cases of "constipation", whether it really did any good is doubtful. Usually it simply worked on through the intestines. But sometimes the "constipation" was really a bowel obstruction and the heavy mercury in such cases, gathering at the obstruction, did set up damage by its sheer weight. Anyway, it hasn't been used for years.

My major quarrel with giving mercury to an infant is the fact with is that it is expensive stuff —much too expensive to be spilled in dad's sandwich spread.

I've had a corral of inquiries about gelatin for people with arthritis. How much gelatin is that kind? Answer is that the plain (unsweetened) gelatin is almost entirely protein, although protein of certain types. Many people take it in the form of water or fruit juice. Old Gallows Ended Feud

BBC London Letter

"If you didn't have the story," said Kenneth Bell in the BBC program "The Northcountryman" you wouldn't believe it. The second dance at the drab-looking woodcutters' hut in a remote field in the north Lincolnshire village of Mellon Ross. Two weather-worn gallows and a cemetery, rather like a small set of goalposts, explain why the dance attracts slightly above the crossbar." This is the symbol of a bitter feud between neighboring noble families which lasted for two centuries.

It all began, Bell explained, in the year 1615. The second Earl of Lord Ross were found cutting timber for fuel on the Lady Thirkelby claimed was their land. Sir Robert Tyrwhitt issued a writ of replevin; Lord Ross upheld h i s right to dig on the land in question. The case was tried, finally agreed to accept the judgment of Lord Chief Justice Montague on the matter. It was agreed that they should meet the judge in nearby village, and feasting, having only two friends and his usual neighborly noble hospitality with the terms but Sir Robert arrived with 300 armed men. Although no fighting took place, the indignant Lord Ross sent a petition to the King asking for redress. It was decreed that Sir Robert should offer to Lord Ross three tuns of wine, a gallon of Gascony wine, two fat oxen and twenty fat sheep at Gainsborough which both men and their followers would attend. A second decree ordered that a public apology and offer Lord Ross 500 pounds if he would withdraw. The lordship would refuse the money and quote passages from Shakespeare.

The decree was carried out, but the feud smouldered down f r o m generation to generation, instance and ostentation of the Tyrwhitt family initiated the custom of their Rose fection. Exactly two hundred years after the proceedings began, hunting parties from the rival houses met in the village. Neither would give way to the other. Angry words led to action; swords flashed, and when the smoke cleared, two men of the Tyrwhitt party were killed and wounded. The reigning head of the Tyrwhitt family pleaded was dead. He ordered that a gallows should be erected in the very field where the guilty blood had been wasted, as a warning that if anyone were killed in such clashes in the future, he would regard it as murder. To all those responsible, "I'll seems that both sides took the warning to heart," said Bell, "for there is no record of any such executions being carried out. But the gallows are still there."

Macmillan May Call Vote if Talks a Success

LONDON (Reuters) — Politicians speculated today that the success or failure of an East-West summit conference will decide whether the Conservative government will call a snap general election this fall.

Prime Minister Macmillan's government is at present riding a popularity wave after being in the dumps for months.

Macmillan does not have to call an election until the spring of 1960 at the latest. But governments hardly ever stay in until the end of their five-year term.

Until now, an election was expected in the spring or fall of 1959.

What set the politicians buzzing was a statement by Home Secretary R. A. Butler Wednesday that Parliament, which adjourns Friday for the summer recess, will discontinue its sittings—but not be dissolved—when it returns October 28. Five days later the new session of Parliament will begin.

CLEANUP BY FRIDAY

Election-minded MPs said that all the business of this session will be completed by Friday. This would clear the deck for any fall election since Parliament could then be dissolved.

But the big if is the summit situation. A successful parley at the top and improvement in the international outlook would help the Conservatives tremendously, it was felt.

Macmillan's personal stock has risen rapidly in the past weeks. The drift by voters to the opposition Labor and Liberal parties — who have given the Conservatives an extremely rough time in by-elections — seems to have stopped.

Boulder Crushes Toronto Girl, 20

BANFF, Alta (CP) — Beverly Joan Vickers, 20, of Toronto was killed early Wednesday when crushed by a boulder near the top of a mountain in Banff national park.

RCMP officers said the accident occurred while Miss Vickers and five other employees of the Banff-Springs Hotel were climbing Sulphur Mountain to view the sunrise.

Fifty yards from the top, Miss Vickers and another girl sat down on a huge rock. Miss Vickers was crushed when it rolled over. Her companion suffered a broken leg.

It took eight men to lift the boulder off the body.

No Prosecution Planned in Case Of Fake Doctor

VANCOUVER (CP)—A newspaper reporter who posed as a doctor in St. Paul's Hospital here for 23 days attended five births in the delivery room, but performed only two deliveries, under supervision, hospital authorities reported Wednesday.

Jack Breit, now a reporter on the Prince George Citizen, has confirmed he was an intern in the hospital last April. He went under the name of Dr. Jack Harris.

Dr. Paul P. Jackson, chairman of the intern committee at St. Paul's, said Wednesday Breit had doctors standing at his elbow giving instructions during the two deliveries. At the other deliveries he was an observer only.

The 28-year-old reporter said in an interview he worked in St. Paul's to gather material for a magazine article "to spotlight for public information just how difficult it is for a person to attain so responsible a position without any more than an intensive interest in the field."

Hospital authorities are investigating and will issue a report, but, Dr. Jackson says, no prosecution is planned. A new system of checking credentials will be established at the hospital.

Housewives Sit On Chairs in Road To Block Trucks

MONTREAL (CP) — Housewives in suburban Pont Viau parked two cars across Lorraine Avenue and lined up a row of garden chairs on which they sat for three hours Wednesday in an effort to stop trucks from using the avenue.

A Pont Viau by-law forbids truck travel on the street, but residents say an average of 20 gravel-laden vehicles thunder the avenue every day. The trucks carry crushed rock from a nearby quarry to construction jobs in neighboring St. Vincent de Paul.

The women sat until Alderman Rene Patenaude arrived with Police Chief George Dalpe. Mr. Patenaude told them Chief Dalpe would give tickets to any more trucks using the street. In a few minutes the road was clear and blocked trucks moved off.

EXPLOSIVES MISSING

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Police warned parents Wednesday to watch their children for possession of dynamite or blasting caps. The explosives were stolen Tuesday from the Sinclair Cut Stone Quarries.

HOSPITAL DENIES UNQUALIFIED MAN DELIVERED BABIES

Jack Breit, now a reporter on the Prince George, B.C., Citizen, says he obtained a position on the staff of St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver and, though his medical knowledge was obtained from reading medical books, he delivered three babies with only nurses in attendance. Hospital authorities admit he was on staff but say he did not deliver the infants. He could be fined $100 for unauthorized practice of medicine.

Hog Plebiscite Approved Plan By 67.5 Per Cent

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Goodfellow Wednesday announced official results of last Friday's plebiscite among Ontario hog producers, showing they voted 67.5 per cent in favor of keeping their co - operative marketing plan.

A 66.5-per-cent majority was needed to retain the marketing program.

Mr. Goodfellow said that with only three of 420 townships still to report, the vote was 25,273 in favor of the program and 11,529 opposed. There were 341 spoiled ballots.

LINKS WITH PAST

HAMILTON (CP) — Mayor Lloyd Jackson and Reforms Minister Ray Connell of Ontario unveiled two historical plaques in Hamilton Wednesday and made a plea for the preservation of old buildings that form a link with the past. The plaques commemorate the building of Dundurn Castle in 1832 and the battlworks of Burlington Heights, thrown up by British troops for the defence of Upper Canada against invading United States forces in 1813.

Can Heat Homes With Electricity At Special Rate

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—J. E. Teckoe, Jr., general manager of the Windsor utilities commission, announced Wednesday that Windsor is the first city in Ontario to have a special hydro rate established to cover complete home heating.

He said heating a complete home by electricity now is practical here but the cost will be higher than for oil or gas.

Before an application for household heating by electricity can be approved, plans for installation and insulation must be approved. Electricity for heating will be metered separately and billed at a house-heating rate.

Ontario Hydro recently cancelled restrictive electric space heating rates and authorized a new basis of billing.

92-Year-Old Still Teaches Sunday School

MORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A sprightly lady who remembers when horse-drawn rigs were the chief mode of transportation is teaching Sunday school for her 57th consecutive year.

Mrs. James Daly, 92, is known to the youngsters at Ferguia United Church as Aunt Mary. She has taught Sunday school in the little church 12 miles northeast of here since 1901, and her class now includes grandchildren of her first pupils.

Born in England, she came to Canada with her family in 1871, and they lived at Hamilton before coming to Feronia at the turn of the century.

Two years ago the children of the Sunday school gave her a beautifully - bound Bible for her 90th birthday.

Mrs. Daly scoffs at suggestions that she take things easy. She often walks the four miles from her home to the church, and she splits her own winter supply of wood.

Dior Designer Lowers Hems By 5 Inches

PARIS (AP) — Dior designer Yves Saint-Laurent today lowered the hemline by several inches—to about 15 inches from the floor.

Saint-Laurent's hemline was up to five inches lower than those of other Paris fashion houses whose fall and winter collections have been shown so far. Their skirts have cleared the floor by as much as 20 inches.

The house of Dior's new curve line curves both shoulders and skirts. The Silhouette is short-waisted but not truly empire.

A five-inch drop in length caught every other major house with only a few in line.

The difference in the Dior mid-calf length is enough to look revolutionary — especially as it is combined with an entirely new shape.

The Saint-Laurent silhouette is of perfectly-rounded medium fullness caught in with unpressed folds or pleats by a belt a couple of inches below the bustline.

It looks as if young Saint-Laurent, having tasted success with his first collection last spring, wants to show who is master of the mode.

Modern Girls Not Very Adventurous Says Former Lady Parachutist, Pilot

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Adventure is the spice of life to Mrs. Phillips (Flip) Gray, 35, an ex - parachutist and pilot.

"Girls today do not seem so adventurous as we were in the 1930's," said Mrs. Gray, who stepped into a dead man's shoes to make her first aerial exit from a plane.

She was working with a "flying circus" in Belgium, operated by the late J. D. M. Gray, whom she later married.

TWO 'CHUTES FOULED

"One man in the act used three parachutes in a stunt jump. Two of the 'chutes fouled each other and he was killed. I took over in the next act," she said. "I just knew I would not be killed—though if your number comes up there's nothing you can do about it.

Mrs. Gray says a parachute jump gives a sensation "like a high dive."

"Nobody knew anything about training for jumps in those days," she said. "I think somebody told me to relax when I hit the ground, and I was warned there would be a jerk when the parachute opened."

Parachute harness was primitive in those days. In one jump, the 'chute was attached to Mrs. Gray only by a four-inch deep belt round the waist.

"Have you ever known about the jerk and braced yourself for it, it was fine," she said. "I jumped with this type of parachute until about four months before my daughter was born."

Mrs. Gray entered the flying business through the late Amy Johnson, who made a solo flight from England to Australia in 1930.

"I heard about her and decided to learn to fly," said Mrs. Gray. "I saw an advertisement in a newspaper asking for a woman to take up flying seriously and answered it."

Her future husband had inserted the advertisement, he taught her to fly, and together they figured in stunt flying and parachuting in Belgium and England.

The couple came to Canada in 1931 and opened an aviation shop in Toronto. This closed during the depression, and they moved to Hamilton and later to Galt where Mr. Gray opened an aircraft school for technical training.

Mrs. Gray abandoned the excitement of parachute jumping to raise her family, Carol Ann, now 27, and Malcolm, now 24 and a flying officer in the RCAF.

"I advise anybody who has the least desire for adventure to travel and do exciting things before they marry; it is much easier to settle down," she said.

When her husband died a few years ago, Mrs. Gray returned to work and in 1956 joined the Orenda aero-engine factory in Toronto as a draughtsman.

"I've taken up golf for excitement now," said Mrs. Gray. "But I find it frustrating."

She says if young women today will serve adventure they need not look far. "They can take up gliding—or they can take a canoe up to Northern Ontario."

Paris Styles Bare Backs Down to Waist

PARIS (AP)—Paris has added two new names to its list of successful dressmakers — Serge Matta and Michel Goma.

Neither set the world on fire. But both brought out handsome collections Wednesday that pleased press and buyers.

There are flashes of eccentric genius in the Matta collection, which recalled Schiaparelli, a bright spirit who has been missed since she closed her house. Matta also made the first fitted sheaths of this slack-waisted season.

Goma presented his show as the "Dedalusse Style" and the "Bottle Silhouette." The Bottle is another version of Empire, with a small, high bodice and flared or gathered-on skirt.

RUDDERED TAIL

Matta drew applause and laughter with a bright red cocktail coat with a sharply - jutting finned or ruddered tail, worn with a sort of prow hat, dripping wings of red black veiling to the shoulders.

Matta makes lots of the ballroom - backed cocktail dresses which were called Baby Doll last season. His sheaths follow the natural curves with no seam or belt at the waist. Backs were never more naked. Nearly everybody bares them to the waist.

Dior's collection will be shown today.

Frankly, there has been nothing drastically new thus far. The Mitchoreen shown by Cardin and others comes closest to it, but Trapeze and Baby Doll influence is still strong.

Tarlan, a sort of gauze muslin used for dresses, is named for Tarare near Lyons in France.

Saleswoman Uses Own Plane For Business

REGINA (CP)—"Flying is an obsession with me," says Mrs. Pat Russell of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

"Planes are a boon to the travelling business woman," the slim brunette explained. A sales agent for a cosmetic firm, she said "I can cover twice as much territory when I travel by plane."

Mrs. Russell, one of the few women who has flown a Thunderbird jet aircraft, often uses her own plane to make business trips. When this is impractical, she relies on commercial flights.

"I saved my allowance to take airplane rides when I was small," she explains. Later Bill Russell, her husband, taught her to fly.

"Our three children pester us for plane rides instead of car trips," she says. "The youngsters often fly with me, I take the plane up for a little while after supper every night, and fly during weekends."

Mrs. Gray commanded the excitement of parachute jumping to raise her family, Carol Ann, now 27, and Malcolm, now 24 and a flying officer in the RCAF.

"I advise anybody who has the least desire for adventure to travel and do exciting things before they marry; it is much easier to settle down," she said.

When her husband died a few years ago, Mrs. Gray returned to work and in 1956 joined the Orenda aero-engine factory in Toronto as a draughtsman.

"I've taken up golf for excitement now," said Mrs. Gray. "But I find it frustrating."

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THANKING GROUP-PRESENT CONTRIBUTORS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married soon, and I'm as busy as a bee following your advice to write a thank-you note for every wedding present as soon as possible after it arrives. I have a special question about presents sent by a group. I already have three of these, two of them wonderful electric presents, and the third a handsome crystal photograph frame. One gift was given by my co-workers at the office (I resigned six weeks ago), one from the members of a bridge club to which I belong, and the third from an organization in my church in which I am a very active member. In each case each contributor to the gift signed her name on the wedding present card enclosed. In this case, is it necessary that I write a thank-you note to each? — Bride-to-be

Yes. In any case, when you are informed in any way of the names of those who contributed to any gift for any occasion, you should write a thank-you note to every "contributor" to the gift. Think of it this way: If each one had sent you an individual gift, you would of course have written an individual thank-you note.

Actually, everyone in these groups did give you an individual gift, her individual contribution. Don't hold back on your expressions of appreciation . . . these kind and generous friends of yours didn't hold back on their expressions of friendship, their extremely thoughtful and generous plans to give you these very special gifts which, as you say, you so especially welcomed.

INTRODUCING A HUSBAND OR A WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When introducing a husband or a wife, what is a correct form to use in general circumstances? what about a business introduction? In both my questions I mean introductions made in other than personal, informal circumstances. — Reader

Under any circumstances, when introducing a husband or a wife, a proper and courteous form of introduction is to say, "my husband" or "my wife." For example "Mrs. Clark, my husband," or "Mrs. Robinson, my wife." A definitely impersonal situation, such as an introduction in business or to a storekeeper, when it would be informative to mention the name, you may correctly use the "Mr." or "Mrs." titles.

Mona T. — We ought to be on our own.

Kari T. — Uncle Jack would be heartbroken

Mona T. — My husband and I have been married ten years and have two young children. Six years ago we found, ourselves in very serious financial straits and went to live with a bachelor uncle of my husband's. This man was living alone in a large house and said he would welcome our company.

Well, now Kari's income is greatly increased and I am beginning to long for a place of my very own. I realize that Uncle Jack will be very upset by o u r leaving him — that, we have great security and our rent with h i m and we might have a bit of a struggle without these advantages, but I feel we ought to be on our own.

For one thing, it worries me that Uncle Jack spoils the children. They can wheedle anything out of him and don't always come to us because they know they can appeal to him. My husband seems to think this is funny, rather than a serious problem.

Kari T. — Frankly, I wouldn't want a better influence for my children than Uncle Jack. He is a highly successful, intelligent man with real love for the children. It would be brokenhearted if we took them away from him — and I feel it would not be fair after all he has done for us.

I feel Mona has allowed herself to become somewhat jealous of the children's affection for Uncle Jack. He is not a foolish person and doesn't encourage the kids to disobey us. He just kind of acts like a last resort when the going gets tough.

I personally have great affection for my uncle, but I must admit that original considerations are also important in my reasoning. Not only do we have great financial benefits now, but we are the beneficiaries of his will. If we leave, Uncle is likely to get so lonely he'll just pick up and get married. Then where'll we be?

The Council: It appears to us that the mere fact that Mona has become "somewhat jealous" of the children's affection for their uncle is enough of an indication that relationships here have become too tangled for everyone's good and a move is in order.

Since Kari claims he has real affection for his uncle, he should be willing to recognize that h i s uncle is being rather shortchanged on this deal. This man knows underneath that money and not love is' the basic binding force in this relationship with the family. Yet he tries to fool himself into believing a richer emotional tie is being established.

If this bachelor uncle were left on his own again, he might indeed seek a deeper, more binding relationship with a woman. Does Kari believe it fair to stand in the way of such a possibility, offering in its place the false coin of his family's dependent state?

Most important, however, is the future of the children, who should not be brought up to look to an outsider as a "last resort." These children undoubtedly have a thorough understanding of the whole situation that exists here. Their sense of values is being formed by the morally questionable position of their family. They are really being impoverished on the ethical plane by their relationship with rich Uncle Jack.

It is quite likely that the children can and will develop a finer and more loving relationship with Uncle Jack when they learn to see him in his proper place. Mona and Kari should point this out to their uncle, the fact that i h e y stay where they are concerned with a continued happy relationship with this man will soften the blow of s eparation.

Trim Twosome

By VERA WINSTON

Many stores have stocked heavily in costumes made of handsome separates. Here is a typical twosome of sweater and skirt, both double - breasted with plastic buttons. The orlon sweater has fringed side treatment — a detail that is repeated on the matching flannel skirt.

But your minds seem to be on inexpensive calorific twenty-four hour desserts. Why don't you make frozen desserts? They are economical, refreshing and Oh so welcome to calorie counters. They can be supplemented with cake or cookies for those who don't have bulging waistlines. All day today Auntie and I have been struggling over a mulberry sherbet. The seeds were a pest — and at the last minute when the egg whites were to be added, one egg got out of hand the yolk slipped in. We had to dip out yolk and white quickly and start again. You may not have a mulberry tree like my sister has in her city garden, but our struggles resulted in an extra good sherbet, so I will give you amounts. From them you can make your own with whatever fruit you have on hand.

MULBERRY SHERBET:

(Cranberries, raspberries, red currants, may be used instead of mulberries). To 5 cups washed mulberries add 2 cups of water and grated rind of 1 lemon. Cook until tender — about 20 minutes. Strain. (You will have to use the sieve first then line it with cheesecloth and strain again to remove seeds.) Measure. We had 3 cups juice. Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine egg yolks and salt in top of double boiler, stirring until thick. When cool, add the cream and pineapple juice. Grind almonds through finest knife of food chopper, and add with remaining lemon juice. Pour into freezer tray and freeze to mush. Remove to bowl and beat well. Freeze hard. This is often served in individual paper cases with a bit of candied fruit on top of each.

ACQUIRED TASTE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Huhu grubs were passed up by most guests at a dinner here. A favorite with the native Maoris, huhu grubs are fat, white creatures found in rotting tree trunks. Epicures say they are delicious rather like peanuts, when quick fried with a pinch of salt.

Rollins Clan Holds Reunion, Elects Officers

MADOC — The Rollins reunion was held on Saturday at Tweed Memorial Park with 112 people registering.

At one o'clock dinner was served after which the meeting was called to order. The president, Roy Rollins of Queensboro, made a few remarks.

The treasurer's and secretary's reports were read and approved.

The slate of officers was presented as prepared by the executives and is as follows: honorary president — Percy Rollins; president — Roy Rollins; vice-president — Warren Hill; secretary — Martha Harris; treasurer — Jean French; the executive committee: John Thompson, Lottie Tufts, George Harris, Mark Rollins, Lillie Hubble, Phyllis Rollins; the sports committee: Don Runnalls, Carl Rollins, Doug and Glen Rollins, Marilyn Hollinger, Sadie Holmes, June Dickens, Vera Hill, Lois Cook, Costas Paraskuk, and Ness Rollins.

The Rollins picnic will be at Tweed Memorial Park next year, on the last Saturday in July.

Mrs. S. B. Rollins, of Tweed, graciously welcomed all the Rollins family to Tweed and hoped there would be many more reunions.

A vote of thanks was tendered to all who helped to make the gathering a success. Several of the members were called on for short speeches.

Mrs. Harper Rollins recited, two of Edger Guests' poem's, "The Old Fashioned Thanksgiving," and "Home and Family," and Mr. Hugh McMullen rendered a solo.

Mrs. Rex Rollins conducted a lovely memorial service for the six loved ones who had passed away in the last year. She read three fitting poems, "Eternal Goodness," "This Way Pass Heroes," "He Lived a Life," and closed with a moment's silence and the benediction.

Letters were read in acknowledgment of sympathy cards sent.

Mrs. Elmer Tufts won the guessing contest. Suitable gifts were presented to Mrs. S. B. Rollins, Tweed; Mr. Hugh McMullen, Ivanhoe; Robert McCann, Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rollins, Carrying Place; Mrs. Harry Rollins, Belleville; John Rollins, Plainfield; and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McMullen, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Queensboro.

FAMILY TREE BOOK

A committee was selected to arrange the family tree book, Lillie Hubble, Martha Harris, Allan Rollins, Winifred Hill and Helen Jeffrey.

Don Runnalls was in charge of sports events: shoe kicking was won by Vera Hill, Fred Lucas, Cheryl Hill and Douglas Rollins; shoe scramble by Edna Lucas, Don Lucas, Heather Chapman, and Lionel McAdams; men and women's relay by Don Lucas and Faye McCann; races by Marlene Graham, Bob Thompson, Cathie Hubble and Marlene Tufts, Heather Chapman, Cheryl Hill, Don Lucas, Douglas Rollins, Bill Tufts, and Lionel McAdams.

A fast ball game brought a pleasant day to a close, all returning to their homes feeling another happy and most successful picnic.

10 TOLL BRIDGES

Heavier commercial vehicles with two axles will pay 25 cents, with tickets 24 for $4. Buses and heavy trucks with three or more axles will pay 45 cents, tickets selling at 30 for $8.

Mr. Frost made it clear there was no intention of imposing tolls on ordinary bridges or highways in Ontario. If any other structures should be contemplated for tolling the matter would be referred to a select committee of the legislature.

A BIT HIGHER

Tolls on international bridges may be a little higher than others, but he said tolls would conform to those established on other international structures.

The program is being undertaken over and above the regular highways budget now running at about $200,000,000 a year.

The skyway over the Welland Canal will cost between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 each. They will be built at Homer, outside St. Catharines, Welland and Port Colborne. They will give direct connection with the Queen Elizabeth system and at Welland and Port Colborne with No. 3 Highway.

No. 3 is to be widened and modernized from Port Colborne to Windsor. The province has assumed the West Side Road from Port Colborne to Welland. It will be extended to Foothill and St. Catharines to connect with the Queen Elizabeth Way.

TO BYPASS HAMILTON

In Hamilton, the province will construct the Chedoke Expressway as a bypass similar to No. 401 Highway around Toronto. The Chedoke Expressway, including approaches, entrances and exits will be paid for by the province.

The international bridges from Queenston to Lewiston, N.Y., to connect with the New York Thruway and at Sault Ste. Marie to connect with the Michigan State Highway system and the Mackinac Bridge and the Trans-Canada Highway would be entered into on a shared basis with United States authorities.

Negotiations are being carried on with New York and Michigan.

Premier Frost said the new bridge at Queenston would permit residents of both countries to drive entirely around the Niagara River and would enhance the Niagara Park System. The province will build a new entrance to the system, providing ready access from the proposed new bridge to the falls.

CONFER SOON

It is understood that New York State and Ontario officials will meet this week concerning the new bridge.

The province will share in the cost of a new bridge at Rainy River with the State of Minnesota which has already passed legislation authorizing the expenditure.

The skyway at Fort Frances will replace the present ferry across the dam owned by the Ontario and Minnesota Pulp and Paper Company. The Atikokan Highway, the causeway, No. 71 Highway, the skyway and the Rainy River bridge will connect with the Minnesota State Highway system and the Mississippi Parkway, tying the U.S. Midwest road system into Northwestern Ontario.

IMPROVE OTHER ROUTES

The alternative routes to the Trans-Canada Highway built to Trans-Canada standards include: The Lake Superior route from the Manitoba border through the Lakehead, thence by No. 17 Highway to Sault Ste. Marie and North Bay.

The Chapleau route, No. 129 Highway from Wawa to Chapleau to Thessalon, connecting with No. 17 Highway.

The Northern route, from the Lakehead via No. 11 Highway to Kenora, Hearst, Kapuskasing, Cochrane and North Bay.

The Ottawa Valley route, from North Bay to Ottawa, Hawkesbury and the Quebec border.

The Trans-Canada route partially financed by the federal government is the Georgian Bay and central Ontario route, from Sudbury to Parry Sound, via Highway 69, to Waubaushene via Highway 103, to Orillia and Lindsay via Highway 12 and to Peterborough and Ottawa via Highway 7 and 15.

School Teachers May Vary Terminology, But Meaning Is Identical: More Money

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In British Columbia it's the black. In Ontario the pink slips and in New Brunswick mass resignations.

The terms vary but they all stand for weapons employed by teacher organizations in battle campaigns for higher salaries.

In most cases, salary disagreements are settled before they reach the stage where teachers resign en masse boycotts.

IN STRONG POSITION

A shortage of qualified teachers—now being eased—has given the profession a strong bargaining position and salaries have been rising steadily. On the average they have tripled since before the Second World War and there appears to be no immediate end to the increases.

Occasionally salary differences get beyond the talking stage.

In Edmundston, N.B., almost all the city's 132 teachers resigned June 30 after contract negotiations stalled.

In St. Amable, Que., earlier this year teachers refused to work, complaining they hadn't been paid for months after the community lowered its school tax and raised some salaries.

In British Columbia the teachers' federation threatened to blacklist 26 school districts which had not agreed to salary schedules by April 1. After talking it over with Education Minister Leslie Peterson and the B.C. School Trustees' Association, the teachers agreed to withdraw the threat and permit conciliation of the disputes, all of which have since been settled.

LETTERS IN PINK

The "pink list" was employed by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. It sent letters on pink paper to all its members, advising them of a salary dispute in the suburban Toronto township of North York and implying it would not look kindly on any teacher who signed a contract to teach there before the dispute was settled. The trustees countered by asking other school boards in the province not to hire any teachers until there was a settlement. A compromise agreement was later reached.

Teachers' salaries vary widely across the country. Some unqualified instructors receive as little as $1,500 a year and some highly qualified specialists with long service in such provinces as British Columbia and Ontario get from $7,200 to $9,000.

The average for all of Canada's 126,000 teachers works out roughly at $5,000 a year, compared with less than $1,500 a year in 1939. Teacher organizations, as well as many provincial education officials, favor improving wage standards for at least the lower categories.

The salary range is almost entirely previous depends on schools qualifications, length of service, and, with some exceptions, whether the school is elementary or secondary.

British Columbia and Ontario have the highest averages at about $4,000 a year followed by Alberta with about $3,600, Saskatchewan $3,100, Manitoba $3,000, Quebec $2,900, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia $2,500, Prince Edward Island $2,100 and Newfoundland $1,800.

VARIATION IN QUEBEC

In Quebec there is a variation between Protestant teachers, with an average of about $3,135, and Roman Catholic lay teachers at about $2,650.

J. E. Paton, executive director of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers in Quebec, estimates 35,000 of Canada's 126,000 teachers have less than two years' training beyond high school. Salary scales vary widely for these teachers but for the most part they are below national averages.

Similarly, pay for fully qualified high school teachers, those with four years at university, has a wide range. Depending on the province, they may receive as little as $3,800 a year starting out or as much as $4,000. And they may reach peaks in from six to 12 years of between $4,000 and $6,700. Specialists, teachers with certificates recognizing higher qualifications in one or more subjects, are usually rated several hundred dollars higher a year.

Dr. Fred Rowe, Newfoundland's education minister, says salaries in the province will be eight to 10 per cent higher when the new school term begins.

BIG INCREASE

"Twenty - five years ago," he says, "a grade one teacher with three years' experience received $200 a year. Today, with the same qualifications, he would receive $2,000 a year.

"Fifteen years ago the principal of one of our largest outport schools received $1,100 a year. Today the principal in a similar school with the same qualifications would receive $5,780 a year."

In Prince Edward Island, where the government grants a basic $1,000 a year for senior high school teachers plus $500 to the district grants and with annual increments added for length of service, a university-trained high school teacher can go as high as $6,000 after 10 years of work.

But teacher representatives say salaries are not high enough in the province, with the result that many leave their jobs each year for more lucrative fields.

In Nova Scotia where Charles Eaton, president of the provincial teachers' union, describes salaries as inadequate — university - trained teachers get from $2,500 to $6,000.

New Brunswick has a minimum starting salary of $1,600 for a first-class teacher and a top minimum of $4,000 for one with a bachelor's degree and 10 years' service. Dr. C. V. B. Miller, director of educational services, recognizes the importance of salaries in solving the shortage of qualified teachers. "Salary improvement as well as improvement in teaching conditions should make the profession more attractive," he said.

LOW PRESTIGE

The salary situation in Quebec is tied to the question of teacher prestige. Mr. Paton says: "The basic reason for the teacher shortage . . . is the low prestige of teaching in comparison with other learned professions. This has been reflected in the comparatively low salaries paid to teachers until quite recent years."

Leopold Garant, president of the General Corporation of Catholic lay teachers last year was $3,897 for men and $1,765 for women. He added that nearly 9,000 women received an average of $1,534, less than $30 a week.

In Ontario the minimum for high school teachers with university training is $3,300 but few boards pay less than $4,000. Top for non-specialists is $8,700. Specialists get as much as $9,000 with long service.

Almost the same range is British Columbia where non-specialist high school teachers are paid from $3,300 to $6,000 and specialists $4,000 to $7,500.

PRAIRIE SALARIES

Alberta, like Saskatchewan and Manitoba, has a single salary range based on training for both high school and elementary school teachers. Starting salary is $3,600 for a university-trained instructor with a top of $5,600. A teacher with a master's degree gets from $4,300 to $6,300.

Education Minister W. C. Miller of Manitoba who was minister of education before the June 16 election says the single salary schedule has resulted in a shortage of high school teachers. High school specialists in the province start at $3,215 and can go as high as $6,000 while non-specialists get from $3,300 to $6,062.

Emerson Arnett, general secretary of the Manitoba Teachers' Society, says: "Half the problem here is that teachers leave for other provinces where wage conditions and opportunities are better."

Salaries in Saskatchewan range from $2,300 for teachers with a year's training to $6,000 for those with the highest qualifications.

Canadian Products Enter Rhodesia, Nyasaland After Release of Dollar Curbs

By RUSSELL ELMAN

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (CP) — Canadian maple syrup, fishing tackle and wrist watches are appearing for the first time on the shelves of stores in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

In a steady growth of trade between the two countries, Canada's exports have climbed from £1,500,000 in 1954 to £2,500,000 last year. Recently a new reciprocal preferential tariff agreement was negotiated.

As the federation, a sterling or soft-currency area, has relaxed restrictions on dollar imports, a variety of Canadian products are beginning to enter the country in addition to wheat and newsprint.

Today, Canadian cars are being driven on the newly tarred highways of the copperbelt; the mines use Canadian machinery, and grocery stores stock Canadian smoked, canned and frozen fish.

BETTER RELATIONS

In a new glass-fronted building in Salisbury, the federation's capital, a Canadian trade commission office has been opened with a view to encouraging better commercial relations. Statistics show that since the opening of the new Salisbury airport twice as many Canadian businessmen now are stopping off in the federation in the course of journeys to and from South Africa.

Although the federation has no ocean port, there is a monthly steamship to Canada from Portuguese East Africa. Air freight takes only five to six days.

In the reverse direction, the federation finds itself less happily placed since its major products are copper and tobacco, both also produced in Canada. Copper exports from the federation to Canada have declined sharply from a high of 2,800,000 pounds in 1955.

However, exports of chrome and asbestos are being increased each year. Considerable Canadian capital is invested in Rhodesian chrome and asbestos mines and asbestos from Southern Rhodesia is used to complement Canadian - produced asbestos, which is a different variety.

Federation exports to Canada last year totalled £400,000.

Looking ahead, Rhodesian exporters are hoping the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway next year will help improve trade between the two countries. They hope the seaway will enable Rhodesian base metals to be delivered more cheaply to Canada's inland smelters, while Canadian wheat will be shipped directly from the lakehead to Beira or Lourenco Marques.

Big Freight Rate Increases Seen if Conciliation Board Report on Wages Accepted

OTTAWA (CP)—Demands for big new freight rate increases are foreseen if a conciliation board's recommendation of pay boosts for railway employees is accepted.

The federal board's majority report—which is not binding on the disputants—suggests wage increases of $26,000,000 a year to settle the contract dispute between the railways and unions representing 130,000 non-operating workers. Frank K. Hall, union negotiating chief, now is in Europe.

Negotiators of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, biggest of the 15 unions, were to meet in the next two days or so.

Main recommendations of the majority report, with approximate annual cost to the railways:

1. A four-cents-an-hour wage increase retroactive to last Jan. 1—$11,260,000.

2. A three-per-cent increase effective Sept. 1—$13,542,000.

3. A three-per-cent raise effective next April 1—$13,542,000.

Both percentage increases would be based on wage rates of Dec. 31, 1957.

The report proposes a two-year contract starting last Jan. 1 superceding one that expired Dec. 31.

It was signed by Mr. Justice H. F. Thomson of Regina, chairman of the three-man board, and union nominee David Lewis of Montreal.

A minority report by company nominee Philip Finsberg of Montreal said there should be no wage increases now.

On other issues the majority report:

1. Recommended four weeks' vacation with pay after 35 years; the maximum now is three weeks.

2. Ruled against an eighth paid statutory holiday, Remembrance Day.

3. Recommended against a union-proposed rule that work normally performed by railway employees should not be let out on contract.

4. Made no recommendation on a demand that the principle of severance pay be established.

5. Made no recommendation on a union suggestion the railways increase their payments into a health and welfare fund negotiated in 1956.

Fails to Swim Lake Michigan

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—Lifeguard Joe Griffith, 20, failed three miles short of his goal to become the first man to swim lower Lake Michigan, attendants reported Wednesday.

Near exhaustion, he was removed from the choppy water within sight of shore at 1.05 p.m. and placed in a boat. Attendants reported the weather was unfavorable for the 36½-mile distance with stiff winds and choppy waves.

Thief Calls Police to Free Him From Cafe

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The telephone rang at police headquarters early Wednesday and a man's voice said:

"Look, I've broken into this place to burglarize it and I can't get out. Send some officers to get me and don't shoot." The man gave an address where he thought he was. Police found no burglar there.

Later, headquarters' got another call:

"Look, I've broken into this place and I can't get out. I've asked you once to come after me. I'm getting awful tired waiting on you cops."

This time the man gave another address.

A few minutes later patrolmen entered a restaurant and found Leroy Wayne Crum, 30, sitting on the floor smoking a cigar.

Denies Auto With Princess Driven 85 MPH

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCMP issued a statement Wednesday denying press reports that Princess Margaret was driven through the Fraser Valley last week at speeds of 85 miles an hour.

"The car in which Her Royal Highness was riding at the head of the cavalcade did not exceed 60 miles per hour, and then only for a short time on a stretch of road where there were no spectators," said the statement.

It was signed by C. W. Harvison, assistant commissioner and commander of E Division, British Columbia.

The statement said traffic had been cleared and the cavalcade was under motorcycle and police escort.

"Under these conditions—80 miles per hour was considered a safe speed for the very short time during which it was maintained. The cavalcade was behind schedule and it was felt that it should be moved as quickly as safety would permit, in order to avoid having crowds ahead wait longer than necessary."

The legal speed limit in British Columbia is 50.

The RCMP statement said: "Representatives of the press were riding in vehicles well behind the cavalcade. It may be that they found themselves falling behind and, in order to close the gap, travelled at excessive and dangerous speeds."

The RCMP are responsible for policing B.C. highways.

Govt. Will Not End Excise Tax On Automobiles

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has realized Liberal and CCF pleas to repeal or reduce the 7½-per-cent excise tax on automobiles.

It has also stood firm in the Commons against suggestions by three parties that Canadian municipalities should be relieved of the 10-per-cent sales tax on police cars and other light vehicles.

Replying to persistent questions Wednesday, Finance Minister Fleming said the government has given a "considerable distance" in aiding Canada's 5,000 municipalities. It could not extend tax concessions to a wide range of equipment.

When Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) asked why municipalities could not be relieved of some financial burdens, Mr. Fleming said one reason was the $668,000,000 deficit forecast in the federal budget for the current fiscal year.

The argument arose during detailed discussion of clauses implementing budget resolutions affecting the Excise Tax Act.

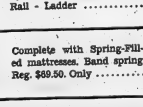
HAS TO BE SURE

Mr. Fleming said the government has to be sure that the tax concessions can be "policed"—that is, that the exemptions are of benefit only to the municipalities.

If all motor vehicles purchased by municipalities were exempt the advantage might go to someone else when used police cars were traded in.

The discussion of the excise tax on automobiles arose out of a proposal by Hubert Badanai (C—Fort William) asking the government to reconsider its decision to leave the tax unchanged. On a vote, the proposal was defeated 162 to 43.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker once had described the tax as "scandalous," Mr. Badanai said.



Mr. Fleming, when in opposition, had said it should be abolished.

Mr. Fleming replied that the tax had been reduced by the government to 10 last December to 7½ from 10 per cent, a reduction of 25 per cent.

Farm Loan Board Not Allowed to Raise Interest

OTTAWA (CP)—William Benidickson, Liberal financial critic, suggests that the government disregarded Parliament in prohibiting the Canadian farm loan board from raising its interest rate beyond five per cent.

He spoke in the Commons Tuesday after Finance Minister Fleming said the board advised him a year ago it was headed for a deficit unless it raises its interest rate. Mr. Fleming said he had declined to permit an increase.

"Can the minister override the board and tell them to disregard Parliament?" Mr. Benidickson asked.

Mr. Fleming replied that the government would never be a party to any overriding of Parliament. He merely took the responsibility for not recommending an increase in the rate charged on farm loans.

Mr. Benidickson said Mr. Fleming had no authority to interfere. The legislation approved by Parliament authorized the board to charge whatever interest rate was necessary to cover its borrowings from the government plus administrative and reserve costs.

INCREASES LENDING

The exchange took place during detailed study of a bill boosting the board's lending capacity from $60,000,000 to $120,000,000. The board's present limit is expected to be exhausted within a few weeks.

The bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

Samuel Boulanger (L—Drummond-Arthabaska) returned to a previous charge that Quebec farmers cannot borrow from the provincial government's loan board unless they support the governing Union Nationale party "or bow to the local Union Nationale member of the legislature."

J. G. Gour (L—Russell) said that in Ontario there are no politics involved in provincial farm loan administration.

"The Ontario government has enough bad spots, they didn't think of that one," Mr. Gour said. He added, however, that the federal lending system is not good enough to meet agriculture's needs.

Explains How Work of 'Art' Was Painted

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — Ever since a display of British abstract paintings was exhibited in Auckland, a similar picture has hung in the councillors' room at the local town hall.

Members of the council discussed it casually from time to time. Some thought it sheer rubbish, others explained that insight and understanding were necessary to appreciate modern art. Some challenged the right of the picture to hang there as typical of current trends.

Two months later this secret leaked out. The "painting" was done by F. T. Curran, a car salesman and member of the city council.

"I was under the house one day and as I opened several paint tins I dropped the lids on to an old painting lying there," he explained. "It took me fully five minutes."

Curran smuggled his work of art into the councillors' room and listened gravely to occasional discussions of it.

Now that they know the author of the hoax, councillors are undecided about the painting's future.

"Just as intelligible as any of the paintings in the exhibition by British artists," says one. "It should be sent to England as representative of New Zealand art."

"Leave it here," says another. "This painting is symbolic — an artist's impression of the confusion that exists in the minds of most city councillors."

Men's Tennis

Canada Has Two Survivors In Singles Quarter-Finals

VANCOUVER, (CP)—The luck of the draw will—against Canada's two survivors in men's singles today at the Canadian tennis championships.

California was guaranteed two places in the semi-finals, at least one of them an unseeded entry, but the Canadians were "sacks" with a battle to reach that stage.

The situation resulted from various eliminations and defaults.

In quarter-final matches, Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., was to meet Glen Bassett of Santa Monica, Calif. Toronto's Don Fontana clashed with Kosei Kamo of Japan.

AMERICAN vs AMERICAN

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., was drawn against Marwin Miller of Los Angeles and Mike Crane of Berkeley, Calif., against Bob Sherman of Arcadia, Calif., in other quarter-finals.

Bedard, 24, is defending his title for the second time in three years and is seeded first among the Canadians. Bassett is ranked fourth among non-Canadians.

Fontana, 27, ranks behind Bedard among Canadians. Kamo is Japanese national champion and a mainstay of Japan's Davis Cup squad. He is rated third among the foreigners.

FIVE CANADIANS LEFT

Canadians and Americans were matched in three of today's women's singles matches.

Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto, defending champion, meets the forth - seeded non - Canadian, Farel Footman of San Francisco. Mrs. Hilda Sallescheil, former Austrian champ now living in Toronto, takes her No. 3 Canadian ranking against Barbara Browning of Los Angeles, the top player of the foreign field.

Susan Butt of Victoria, ranked second in Canada, goes against Pamela Davis of Los Angeles. Miss Browning's runner-up. The final match had unseeded Sharon Whittaker of Victoria opposing fourth-seeded Eleanor Dodge of Montreal.

Toronto Nips Richmond 8-7; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons' relief pitcher Fred Rodrigues has taken a personal interest in stifling Miami Marlins turning in his second straight night of sparking relief work Wednesday night as Buffalo won 8-6, their second in a row over Miami and 10th in 17 games this year.

Montreal beat Columbus Jets 10-4, while Havana defeated Rochester 5-1 and Toronto edged Richmond 8-7 in 12 innings in the first game of a doubleheader. The second was called with the score tied 1-1 in the 10th inning because of the curfew. It will be replayed tonight.

Rodriguez, hero of Tuesday night's Bisons' victory when he came on to stifle a Miami rally and retire eight batters in a row, gave only one hit in 2 1-3 relief innings. He relieved starter Glenn Cox after a three-run homer by Woody Smith cut Buffalo's lead to one run, capping a four-run inning.

In seven full relief innings Rodrigues has allowed the Marlins one hit. Cox got the win, while starter Dick Bunker lost.

The Jets, who had knocked off Montreal twice Tuesday night, couldn't overcome a 7-run second inning. Jim Kornuda slammed his 15th homer of the season for the Royals, while Jim Pendleton hit his ninth for Columbus. Tom La Sorda won his 15th while Wharmby Douglas lost.

Orlando Pena gave up only five hits and struck out 11 as Havana handed Lynn Lovenguth his 11th loss in 19 decisions. Roy Smalley bootered for Rochester's only run.

Eddie Blake's pinch-hit single in the 12th got the job done for Toronto. He scored Mike Goliat who was on third. Bob Tiefenauer got his 11th victory in 15 decisions while Jack McMahan lost his first decision.

comes through as a quarterback and whether the new interior linemen and defensive linebackers live up to Flood's hopes. A season long quarterback problem, lack of strong tackles and guards and powerful, hard-hitting linebackers were the principal reasons for the club's collapse last year.

The decision to turn Shatto into a quarterback after four years as one of the top halfbacks in the league came as a surprise when the Argos opened their training camp. He played the position at the University of Kentucky and Pool decided on the switch to take advantage of his great running and passing threat.

He has shown an edge in workouts over Ken Ford of Hardie-Simmons College and hometbrew Gerry Doucette.

Bert Olmstead Is Convicted Of Assault

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bert Olmstead, 31-year-old Montreal Hockey League player, was convicted Tuesday of assault in the beating of a Vancouver cruising executive.

He will be sentenced Friday by Magistrate N. J. Bartman, who described the case as "very serious."

Olmstead, former Montreal Canadiens rightwinger sold to Toronto Maple Leafs this year, was charged with assault causing bodily harm. Ralph Rooney, 32, was beaten at a shipbuilding club banquet at the War Amputations of Canada Hall here June 28.

Olmstead stands six feet, 1½ inches and weighs 180 pounds. Rooney is five - feet - five and weighs 135 pounds.

Olmstead told the court the guests at the banquet were bidding for trap shooters in a "Calcutta auction" and he felt Rooney was bidding for a syndicate.

In a Calcutta auction a prize pool is formed and people bid for competitors, each buying an entrant. The man who has the winning entrant takes the pool. It is usual for the auction winner to give a share to the shooter.

Olmstead testified he asked Rooney in the washroom whether he was bidding for a syndicate. He said Rooney told him he was bidding for himself.

After further discussion, Olmstead said, Rooney hit him knocking him off balance and into a partition. Olmstead said he grabbed Rooney and they fell to the floor.

"I sat on him and grabbed him and pushed his face with my other hand," Olmstead said.

He said he lost his temper when Rooney "threatened to cut my legs off," and struck him twice in the face.

Rooney testified that his jaws and gums were a mass of pulp after the assault.

Allen W. Mercer, defence counsel, said Rooney's version of the story was "wholly exaggerated." He said Rooney suffered a swollen face, cut nose and cheek and bruises to his neck.

Mercer said Rooney wanted money in a civil damages suit and that he had called both his doctor and lawyer at practically the same time.

Olmstead said he had been served with a civil writ following Rooney's testimony to the court last week.

No Rematch For This Bout

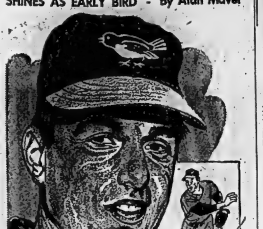
CEBU, Philippines (AP)—Boxers Juliano Pasete and Florentino Pacifico fought to a draw last week.

Pasete objected to the decision and Pacifico's tactics. They met at the public market today.

Pasete knifed his opponent, killing him instantly, the Manila Times reported.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Stinson's Boy, owned by Bayfield Farm of Toronto, was the upset winner of the $7,500 Canadian Stakes at Fort Erie Wednesday. A crowd of 8,616 saw him defeat the favored Hartney by three-quarters of a length.



The stakes was marred by the withdrawal of Nearctic a few hours before the race. Nearctic, which has won more money than any other horse in Canada this year, had been named to run as part of a two-horse entry with Censor, who ran a dismal last.

The stewards announced 10-day suspensions for jockey's Eugenio Rodriguez and Guy Centrada. Both were grounded for rough rides in Tuesday's races.

Toronto Argos Take on Blue Bombers

By WILF GRUSON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The rebuilt Toronto Argonauts, their hopes revolving around the experiment of switching dependable Dick Shatto from halfback to quarterback and a strengthened interior line corps, take on Winnipeg Blue Bombers tonight in their first exhibition test of the 1958 football campaign.

The game, which brings together the best team in the West against the worst in the East last year, is expected to give Argo head coach Hamp Pool some indication of what kind of team he has redeveloped out of the ruins of last season. The Argos finished in last place in the Big Four league in 1957 for the second year in a row.

The Bombers, western champions last season, play Argos after losing their first exhibition game to Montreal Alouettes 40-7 Tuesday night.

GOT RID OF SOME

"I think we are going to have a better team this year, mainly because we have been working hard and are in better shape physically," Pool said. "We have got rid of the players who didn't care whether they won or lost. The team this year has the desire to go somewhere."

Whether it does go somewhere depends a lot on whether Shatto

Prexy Defends Jim Norris Criticizes 2-Team Interest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Wednesday it is unfortunate that promoter James D. Norris has an interest in two NHL teams. He said it is conceivable one man could gain control of all six league teams.

But Campbell, testifying before the Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee, stoutly defended Norris. He said Norris is active only in the affairs of Chicago Black Hawks and the league governors fully approved of his connection with New York Rangers.

Norris, boxing promoter and stadium operator in New York and Chicago, owns the Black Hawks along with Arthur M. Wirtz. The two also hold 40 per cent of the stock in Madison Square Garden, New York, which owns the Rangers.

SALVAGED LOOP IN 1952

Campbell said this dual connection "is a circumstance we would prefer not to have." But he added that Norris came in and salvaged the league when he took over the Black Hawks in 1952.

He added that Norris has lost at least $1,000,000 on the Hawks.

Campbell testified in support of a House-passed bill to give pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey flat exemptions from the anti-trust laws for their contract options, drafts, territorial rights and other practices.

KEFAUVER SURPRISED

When subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) expressed surprise that some NHL clubs do not give players a copy of their contract, Campbell said players may obtain a copy from him and receive memos about salary and bonuses.

Th subcommittee also heard a spokesman for the U.S. Trotting Association urge that the organization be covered by the bill. The government already has filed an anti-trust suit charging the association with gaining a stranglehold over harness racing.

Joseph A. Neville, the association's general counsel, said the USTA's registration, rule-making and disciplinary activities are needed to maintain "the honesty, integrity, welfare and growth of the distinctly American sport of harness racing."

One of lawn bowling's most colourful tournaments, the sixteenth annual Corbin Gold Trophy Men's Rinks, gets under way on the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club's greens on Monday, Civic Holiday.

Tournament chairman, His Worship Mayor Gerald Hyde and his committee have left nothing undone to again make the tournament one of the city's outstanding sports events. Nearly two hundred bowlers and their ladies will weekend in the city preparatory to the tourney.

However for the first time in its sixteen years of competition, the tournament will not have a complete entry. In other years sixty-four rinks have competed, the capacity entry for the tournament but this year will see but forty-eight teams compete for glory and prizes.

"This," points out Mayor Hyde, "has no reflection on the tournament. It seems to be a general condition all over the province. We have checked other outstanding tournaments and discovered the same condition exists. No one seems to be able to put his finger on the reason."

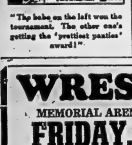
However, there will be a strong representation of bowlers from nearby and other districts. Keglers are expected here from Trenton, Ottawa, Waterloo, Campbellford, Cornwall, Kingston, Oshawa, Toronto, Brighton, Peterborough, Prescott, Lindsay, Cobourg, Almonte and many other bowling centres.

The Corbin Gold Trophy, one of the most beautiful top prizes in tournament circles of the country is the aim of every kegler and every rink entered. The present trophy is the second of its kind and has been in competition for the past five years. Handsome individual prizes accompany the golden bauble.

Second prize and a thing of beauty in its own right is the handsome Lord Calvert Trophy and its accompanying individual awards, the gifts of Calvert House, Toronto, long noted for its interest in and furtherance of many phases of sport.

During the fifteen years of competition, Belleville rinks have won the coveted awards three times. Two years ago a rink skipped by G. G. Walkin with C. D. Ashley, J. R. Weller and W. S. Wright, were the winners. Kingston rinks have been triple winners, the Dick Edgeyskipped rink of William Duncan, Sr., William Duncan Jr., and Douglas Duncan, winning last year.

Play in the 1958 Gold Trophy Tournament will get under way sharp at nine-thirty Monday morning following the popular "Spider" when all bowlers circle the first green and shout at the "kitty". The bowl nearest the little white ball gets its owner a handsome award.



The first draw will follow immediately. The second is scheduled to get under way at 11.30. A number of Belleville rinks are participating in the tournament with Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto well represented.

Nor has the social aspect of the tournament been forgotten. Visiting bowlers and their wives will be hosted at the bowling club on Sunday afternoon and will be guests at a reception in the Queen's Hotel Sunday evening. On Monday the ladies will be entertained on the greens and the Club Commodore will be open to both ladies and gentlemen during and after play.

The handsome prizes, which will be awarded to the various winners at the conclusion of play on Monday are now on display in the window of the Sports Centre on Campbell St. Their estimated aggregate worth is $1,700.

Members of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club's Gold Trophy committee are: Honorary chairman, H. C. Argue; general chairman, Mayor Gerald Hyde; canvassing committee, Claude D. Tice, C. Colling, H. Parker, J. MacArthur, O. Smith, J. B. Miller, W. VanTassell; publicity, G. E. Edwards, E. Jones, F. Graham, G. C. Vince; prizes and awards, G. Hyde, F. Graham; entertainment, J. A. Walkin (chairman), J. B. Miller, G. Walkin; official umpire, Gerald Hyde; greens chairman, L. E. McLean. F. Graham is the president of the club.

Spahn Chases Dodger Jinx; Bob Grim Blanks Yanks

Braves' Lefty Defeats Bums First Time in Seven Years; Puts Sudsmen Back on Top

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Seven years with the wrong medicine.

That's a long time for a Brave, especially for Warren Spahn, the biggest Milwaukee Brave of them all.

Seven years had long gone without a victory over the Dodgers. Not since 1951 had he hung up a Dodger scalp. The 37-year-old star southpaw finally broke the spell Wednesday night. He pitched the Braves to a 4-0 victory over Los Angeles that put the Braves back into first place in the National League.

It was Spahn's first triumph against the Dodgers since Sept. 25, 1951. They've beaten him eight straight times since then.

Spahn unquestionably is a great pitcher. He ranks with Carl Hubbel, Lefty Grove and Hal Newhouser among the greatest lefthanders of modern time. He has won 227 games, the most of any active National Leaguer. He has turned in eight 20-victory seasons.

But Spahn hasn't been entirely happy. He has spent sleepless nights over his inability to beat the Dodgers with any degree of consistency. His frequent failures against them prompted his managers to skip his turn in series between the two teams. Normally a friendly chap, Spahn bristled when twitted about this.

Cincinnati, behind Bob Purkey, dumped the Giants into second place with a 5-1 victory. Pittsburgh climbed to - the .500 mark with a 7-1 triumph over Chicago in a game limited to 7½ innings by rain. Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 5-1.

Felix Mantilla and Eddie Mathews drove in all Milwaukee runs against loser Sandy Koufax, who had previously beaten the Braves three times. Mantilla drove in the first three runs with a home run and a sacrifice fly.

Mathews' circuit clash, his 21st, came in the eighth inning and snapped a 3-3 tie. The triumph was Spahn's 12th against seven defeats.

Purkey allowed the Giants only five hits and drove in two runs in gaining his 13th victory. The Cincinnati righthander existed his mates after scoreless innings against the Giants to 46 before they finally scored off him in the fifth. Walt Dropo and Pete Whisenant both homered off loser Johnny Antonelli.

Hank Foiles' three-run homer helped rookie Red Witt gain his fourth triumph in six decisions for Pittsburgh. Taylor Phillips dropped his fifth for the Cubs.

Willie Jones' 10th homer helped there it is again — shunted players coming back to haunt you.

It happened on three occasions Wednesday.

In Kansas City, pitcher Bob Grim, shipped there by New York in a trade last June, gained his first victory for the Athletics. It was against the Yankees, of course, and a shutout to boot. He held his former teammates to three hits in a 2-0 game, shortened to 4½ innings by rain.

In Detroit, right-hander George Susce, sold by Boston to the Tigers earlier this season hurled a 2-1 victory against the Red Sox. Susce limited his former team to seven hits and held Ted Williams hitless.

INDIANS WIN 6-3

In Cleveland, triples by ex-Baltimorians Larry Doby and Billy Hunter figured in the Indians' two scoring innings as the Tribe defeated the Orioles 6-3. Hunter Doby's three-bagger drove in the first of Cleveland's four runs in the sixth creating a 3-0 Baltimore lead. Hunter drove in a run with his sixth inning triple and he scored on a squeeze bunt.

Chicago climbed into a third place tie with Baltimore outlasting Washington 11-6 in a slugfest. Chico Carrasquel's first-inning home run and fourth - inning doubles by Roger Maris and Hal Smith produced the runs which spoiled the Yankee Jim Larsen's fifth defeat against seven victories.

KALINE TRIPLES

Al Kaline tripled and scored on an infield out as Detroit snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Ike Delock was the loser.

The Indians had tagged Arnold Portocarrero for only one hit before they erupted for their winning four-run margin in the sixth. Ray Narleski, with the help of Jim Grant, who buried three scoreless innings, received credit for his 11th triumph. He has lost eight.

The White Sox tallied eight times in the third but had to halt a Washington comeback to win. The Senators had their rally cut on base when Eddie Yost, who had a grand slam homer in the fourth, flied out to end the game. Gerry Staley, who relieved starter Jim Wilson in the fourth, won his fourth. Billy Goodman and Al Smith drove in three runs each for the winners.

The Phillies make it two in a row over the Cards. Jack Sanford outpitched Billy Muffett for his seventh success but he needed help from Dick Farrel in the seventh.

Tigers Shift Billy Martin To Third Base

DETROIT (AP)—Billy Martin is being switched to third base in Detroit Tigers' latest move to untrack Internals.

A shortstop this season after spending most of his previous big league seasons at second and third, Martin is moving over and Ilsman (Coot) Veal will succeed him at shortstop.

After Tuesday night's 11-6 defeat by Boston Red Sox, the Tigers announced that Veal, 26, was going summoned from their Birmingham, Ala., farm club in the Southern Association where he was hitting .277.

To make room, Detroit released infielder Milt Bolling to Charleston in the American Association. He was hitting .194 and had appeared in only 24 games.

'Lip' Says Williams Right In Spitting at Spectators

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was wrong to fine Ted Williams $250 for spitting during a game at Kansas City the other day, says ex-major league manager Leo Durocher.

"I think he was perfectly entitled to spit toward the stands to show his displeasure with the fans," Durocher said in an interview.

"He didn't spit on anyone or in suit any one person or throw dirt on them. He was simply expressing disgust with those who were booing him for not running out a dinky roller when the ball had already reached the first baseman.

"Unless you know Ted Williams you can't fully understand him. I have yet to hear one player knock this man, from either league. This is the most likeable guy in baseball. He's unique, one of a kind.

"People pay to see him and, for some reason, to boo him—just like they used to boo Babe Ruth.

"Believe me, baseball should thank its lucky stars it has someone like Ted Williams. Fining him $250 was unjustified."

Durocher, former Dodger and Giant manager now announcing network baseball telecasts, commented on the Williams case during a talk about the problems of the Los Angeles Dodgers. He attributed the club's disappointing showing to the absence of catcher Roy Campanella.

"I think the loss of Campanella is the main difference," he said. "He ran the whole club on the field."

Sad Sam Jones Well on Way To Whiff Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sad Sam Jones is well on his way to his third National League strikeout title by pitching as he always does, "just trying to keep the ball in the park."

The tall righthander of St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday he rarely tries to strike out anyone.

"The only time I do that is when there's a tight situation, like having a run in scoring position.

Tight situations or not, Jones added seven strikeouts to his record Tuesday night before being lifted for a pinchhitter in Philadelphia Phillies' 9-2, 11-inning win over the Cards.

That brought his total for the year to 127, 40 more than runners-up Robin Roberts of the Phils and Johnny Podres of Los Angeles Dodgers. His won-lost record is 8-7.

In the American League, Bullet Bob Turley of New York Yankees is the leader with 118 strikeouts.

Jones said he has no favorite pitch as use. In a tight situation. "My best pitch is a fast ball or a curve, depending on who the batter is."

Cobourg Wins Fifth Game, Series As Bobcats Bobble Ball 6 Times

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Cobourg Merchants took a 5-3 victory over Belleville Bobcats last night and earned the right to battle the Point Anne Cementmen for the Bill Ott Trophy and the Belleville and District softball league championship.

Cobourg took advantage of circumstances and errors on their home field last night to capture the hard-fought semi-final series over the Bobcats three games to a pair.

"Bo-Bo" Hull, who was to have opened on the Bobcat mound, thought the game was scheduled for eight o'clock, as have all Cobourg's previous games, and did not arrive on the scene until 7:25, but the starting time had been moved ahead to seven o'clock so coach Temple was forced to start the game without his ace pitcher and cleanup batter.

"Bep" Guidolin was elected to start but the "Cats could do nothing right afield and the Merchants scored three unearned runs to win the ball game in the initial frame. Guidolin was charged with the loss, pitching to the first five batters. An error on the initial batter started the trouble. Boncardo singled but Turpin was cut down at the plate for one out. Another error put two men on and Burke Clarey singled to centre, scoring both runners. Dawe also singled and Bobby Green replaced Guidolin on the hill with one out and two men on. Another error made it 3-0 before the inning ended.

The clubs traded single runs in the fourth frame, both helped by errors, then Cobourg made it 5-1 in the seventh. Bobcats plated the game's lone earned run in the eighth.

Jim "Sleepy" Jones registered his third victory of the series, coming in relief on the route. He fanned five and walked two.

Cobourg lasted until the sixth after replacing Guidolin. The roothpaw was charged with one run on four hits and left in favor of Hull with the sacks full. Hull whiffed Dawe to end the inning. Green struck out four and walked an equal number. Hull allowed a run on two hits, fanned one and passed one.

Guidolin and Hull sandwiched base hits around a Cobourg miscue for their first run. A free ticket and back to back hits by Faulkner and Bone scored their second. A walk, error and Harnden's base hit plated one Cobourg run while it took another walk, Harris's single and Turpin's fly ball to net their final.

Pete Boncardo and Clark Harnden led the Merchants at bat with two singles each. Burke Clarey, Dick Turpin, "Sleepy" Dawe and Brian Hart had one apiece.

Bob Hull collected three safeties, two of them infield hits, to spark the losers, while "Bep" Guidolin had a pair. "Wiener" Brown hit what appeared to be a homer but was held to a ground rule double, while Doug Bone and Berl Faulkner poked singles.

Lineups — Bobcats: Russell, Crawford, Brown, Cousins, Guidolin, Faulkner, Bone, Green, Barclay, Hull, Locke, Casey.

Cobourg: Turpin, Boncardo, Harnden, Clarey, Dawe, Bevan, B. Hart, Edgell, J. Hart.

Umpires — Al Kelleher (P), Tim Williams and Harold Bawden, Time 1.35.

Young Player Breaks Arm Throwing Ball

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Catcher Mike Stanich of the Riverside Hawks junior baseball team almost did throw his arm away.

In a game Tuesday Stanich, 15, threw the ball to third base so hard that he broke his right arm just below the shoulder.

Yesterday's Stars

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves—his 31st home run, in the eighth inning, broke a 3-3 tie and gave Milwaukee a 4-3 victory over Los Angeles.

Pitching: Bob Grim, Kansas City Athletics—gained his first Kansas City victory, pitching a 5-0 three-hitter against former New York Yankee teammates in a game halted after 4½ innings by rain.

Chicoutimi Club Out of Hockey For a Year

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—The Chicoutimi club of the Quebec Hockey League decided Wednesday to suspend operations for one year and place the franchise on the market.

The action was taken by the six principal shareholders of the club. They reported they have lost $50,000 since formation of the club in 1949.

They plan to offer the franchise to local interests for one year, after which the offer would be made on a province-wide basis.

It was felt that affiliation of the club with a National Hockey League team might save the team — the Saguenenns — but so far negotiations, particularly with New York Rangers, have brought no results.

The franchise of the Shawinigan Cataracts was recently transferred to Sherbrooke, which is returning to the QHL after several years' absence. Other clubs are in Montreal, Trois - Rivieres and Quebec.

Senior Lacrosse

TORONTO (CP)—Long Branch Monarchs edged Peterborough Petes 14-13 Wednesday night in a keenly-contested Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game that went 10 minutes of overtime.

Larry Rose paced the winners with six goals. Florian Tostiches and Louis Riel each got two. Singles went to Peter Rose, Morley Kells, Ray Wragmain and Jack Rayson.

Ken Ruttan, Ray Woods, Larry Ferguson, Paul Parnell and Terry Davis each scored two goals for Peterborough. The others came from Dan Quinlan and Terry Dower.

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The Ontario Lacrosse Association has suspended Benny Floyd of the Peterborough senior club indefinitely for striking referee Scoop Hayes during a game against Long Branch here July 31, a club spokesman said Wednesday.

The tussle occurred after Floyd had been sent to the showers with a match misconduct. He returned to the boards in his street clothes and after an argument struck Hayes in the eye with his fist.

Cards Will Tour Japan

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals will make a month-long tour of Japan and the Far East after the baseball season ends, Bing Devine, general manager, announced Wednesday.

Twenty or possibly more of the club's 35 players, including Stan Musial, will make the trip.

The invitation for the tour was extended by Yataro Higa, representative of the sponsoring Mainichi newspapers of Japan. The first overtures were made by New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves. Five Milwaukee regulars couldn't go and the matter never came to a vote among Yankee players.

STAR MILERS MEET

LONDON (AP)—Herb Elliott of Australia, seven times under the four-minute mark for the mile run, and Derek Ibbotson, England, who has done 2:57.3 for the distance, have entered Saturday's Emsley Carr memorial invitation mile. Ibbotson's mark never has been ratified.

Spider Webb Stops German

NEW YORK (AP) — Spider Webb, a substitute for Gene Fullmer, the ex-middleweight champ, stopped Germany's Franz Szuszina with a furious flurry of punches in 1:36 of the seventh round Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

It was a technical knockout with referee Harry Kessler stopping the bout to save Szuszina from punishment. Webb weighed 162¼, Szuszina 161½.

Webb, a 3-to-1 favorite, drove home 12 straight punches as he backed the German against the ropes near a neutral corner early in the seventh. Szuszina's hands dropped and his knees sagged as Webb rained heavy punishment on him until Kessler stepped in.

Webb, called in to sub late last night when Fullmer cut an eye in training, is ranked No. 8 contender to champion Sugar Ray Robinson by the U.S. National Boxing Association.

Roy Harris Will Fight 'Cut and Shoot'

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris, the man from Cut and Shoot, Tex., talked to New York boxing writers by phone from their California camps Wednesday in a three-way hookup. They fight for the title Aug. 18 in Los Angeles.

When asked about a training camp knockdown at the hands of stablemate Jose Torres, Patterson explained:

"Actually it wasn't a knockdown. I was moving and one of my feet got tangled with the other. That happens often but nobody made anything of it until I won the championship."

And the knockdown by Pete Rademacher last August?

The impact of the blow knocked me down," said Patterson, "although I wasn't shaky when I got up."

Harris told the writers he expected to weigh about 190 pounds.

Bill Rose, Harris's trainer, was asked to describe Harris's style.

"It's Cut and Shoot style," he said. "He has a cutting left jab and a pretty fair shooting iron in his right."

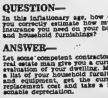
WILL STAY IN LEAGUE

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Troy Bruins of the International Hockey League, hard-pressed financially, announced Wednesday they will remain in the league next year. Ken Wilson, general manager of the club, said Eddie Shore, owner of the Springfield, Mass., team of the American Hockey League, has promised financial aid for the Bruins.

Bernie Custis With Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP) — Bernie Custis, veteran Big Four performer cut recently from Toronto Argonauts camp, worked out Wednesday night with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

He played with Hamilton Tiger-Cats a few years ago and for the last two seasons had been with Toronto Balmy Beaches of the ORFU. Dutchie coach Royal Bailey had the 190-pound halfback working out of the left half spot.



Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Joredale Minty Lou, a seven-year-old mare owned by Bruce Carleton of Kingston, came like a tiger in the stretch to take the first heat of the Grattan Royal Stakes in Wednesday night's feature at Old Woodbine Park.

Lou won a great finish from Miss' Legal Grattan, owned and driven by C. Young of Lucan, and The Dipper, the R. J. Richey horse from Orangeville. Only a head separated the three pacers, and Lou's margin of victory was a nose. The stakes event drew 12 entrants.

In the second heat, the eighth race, Miss Legal Grattan finally broke Rosedale Minty Lou's three-victory string with a one-length win. The mare paced the mile in 2:05.1.

Umpires Are Always Right This Couple Says

FERGUS, Ont. (CP)—The umpire is always right—in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guido Widmeyer, and anyone who says "kill the ump" had better duck fast.

Mr. Widmeyer and his wife are both umpires with the Ontario Baseball Association and the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

Mrs. Widmeyer, 39, mother of three boys and a girl, still catches for a fastball league that takes in Detroit, Hamilton and other cities. In other leagues she calls them behind the plate and on the bases.

The Fergus couple run the town's bowling alley. Mr. Widmeyer coaches a softball team and for years has led an organized minor league for girls.

Her daughter Day, 18, a school athletic champion, this year won the Central Ontario Secondary schools Association senior title. She had previously won junior and intermediate titles.

Mr. and Mrs. Widmeyer have handled many games together. They say they settle any differences of opinion on the field after the game—quietly, between themselves.

CBC Policy Editor to Spend Year Seeing Europe's Plays

By EDNA USHER

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Going to theatrical first nights in Europe for a year, with expenses paid, is every theatre lover's dream of paradise.

But it is reality for Alice Frick, 43, policy editor of the CBC's drama department.

She has received a Canada Council grant to study contemporary theatre production in the United Kingdom and Europe—and this, she says, plus a year's leave and other assistance from the CBC, is equivalent to her year's salary.

MAY DO INTERVIEWS

"I hope my studies will benefit Canada," Miss Frick said. "I shall see writers in Europe, and may do interviews for CBC television and radio. In any case, my job here editing scripts and guiding policy should benefit. I learn more about contemporary drama in other parts of the world.

"I shall go to as many first nights as I can, and spend most of my time at the theatre studying theatrical production from the writer's point of view."

Miss Frick will be based in London but will travel to the festivals. She expects to leave Canada in September.

"I want to study the wide differences between what concerns playwrights here and playwrights in Europe," she said. "The whole attitude towards the psychological outlook, is different. The people of Europe have had more experience of hardship, while here we have the material things of life.

UNCERTAINTY FACTOR

"Europe has been living on the edge of starvation in some instances and there has been a feeling of uncertainty which has affected the theatre."

Miss Frick, a native of Coronation, Alta., is a graduate of the University of Alberta. She joined the staff of the CBC as a script editor in 1951.

Her work as a policy editor in the drama department is chiefly concerned with selecting and accepting plays for radio, television and stage. She said: "I hope to import some good ideas after my trip."

Tiger Cats Will Play Western Clubs

HAMILTON (CP)—Coach Jim Trimble of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Canada's football champs, hopes he has licked over-confidence and lethargy which often dogs defending champions.

Trimble, who coached Texas to the Grey Cup last year, has brought in new import talent and uncovered several new Canadian players likely to take away jobs from some of last year's homebrews.

The Big Four club leaves today to play pre-season games with British Columbia Lions and Edmonton Eskimos.

Ladd Could Fight All Day Without Landing One Punch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alan Ladd looked quite natural — he was a mess.

His clothes were ripped, his face scratched and stained with makeup blood. He had engaged in yet another film fight, this time for his latest movie, Man in the Net.

Unfortunately, statistics are not available. But if the publicists were on their toes, they'd come up with some figures. For instance, they could forward the guess that Ladd has thrown 10,000 punches for the screen, has bested 150 opponents with no significant defeats and has expanded 100 pints of Max Factor's No. 5 blood.

Fat he it from me to tell them how to run their business.

CHATS ABOUT FIGHTS

I sat down for a chat with Ladd on film fisticuffs. Did he ever make a movie without a fight?

"Only one that I can think of," he replied. "That was And Now Tomorrow with Loretta Young. I played a doctor in that one."

His toughest opponent?

"That was Ben Johnson in Shane," Ladd replied. "He knew what he was doing. We worked three weeks on that fight in the barroom."

The danger in film fights is in taking an overzealous wife who don't know how to fake their punches. Some of the New York actors come out here with notions of reality and want to throw real punches. When the opponent can get hurt.

"That's why I have my own stunt man on every picture—Paul Stader," Ladd declared. "He gets really the fights together, and he puts on a black wig or a red wig or whatever is needed to double for the other actor. Paul and I could fight all day without landing a blow on each other."

CAMERA ANGLE FOOLS

There are tricks to arranging the camera angle so that you don't see the space between the fist and chin. When the roundhouse swing is made, the victim throws his head back, a cracking sound effect is heard and it looks as if a savage blow had been struck.

It's not all harmless child's play, however. Ladd bears the scars of many a battle that went awry.

But the price is right, and no doubt Ladd will continue to slug it out longer than Archie Moore, the ageless light - heavyweight champ, or any other ring veteran.

Shehab was accorded to general in 1943 and two years later took command of the Lebanese army. During a political crisis in September, 1952, before Chamoun became president, he was forced briefly was a caretaker premier and for three days was president. He also has served as minister of defence and interior.

Shehab faces a tough job that will severely try his long experience at steering down the middle of the road.

On one side are the backers of Chamoun, who abandoned a policy of neutrality to line up with the West in the Eisenhower doctrine. Although this side contains both Christians and Moslems, Christian leaders predominate.

On the other side is the National Front, whose chief spokesman is former premier Saeb Salam, a leader of the rebellion against Chamoun. The rebels mostly Moslem leadership favors neutrality to prevent Lebanon being split from the rest of the Moslem Arab world.

Some of the rebels endorse President Nasser's brand of pan-Arabism but there does not appear to be strong sentiment for merging Lebanon with his United Arab Republic.

CHAMOUN, FOES

Americas withdrawal will also depend on re-establishment of internal security and a United Nations guarantee of Lebanon's independence, the spokesman said.

Parliament was under heavy guard for the election. Armoured tanks and machine-gun posts commanded every approach to Parliament Square. Soldiers fell off with barbed-wire barricades during the night. Armored cars stood by in side streets. Other troops kept watch from roof tops.

EVERYONE SEARCHED

Everyone going into the parliament building was searched and even journals pens were inspected.

Before entering Parliament, rebel leaders met for secret talks.

The rebels announced Wednesday they would not boycott the election, as they had threatened to do earlier, and would vote for Shehab.

Chamoun himself saw a group of pro-government deputies who had been reluctant to back the general and was said to have threatened to resign at once unless they changed their minds.

QUORUM WAS LATER

The deputies were slow in assembling and a quorum of 44 was not on hand in the chamber until 90 minutes after the scheduled starting time of the session.

Eddé, head of the middle-of-the-road National bloc which had tried without success to negotiate a political peace earlier, had claimed control of at least one third of parliament's votes but observers never expected him to come close to election.

The deputies broke into cheers at the announcement of the winning vote. Eddé went over to congratulate the victor.

Eisenhower Too Asks UN Summit Parley Aug. 12

Says Meeting Could Be In New York, Elsewhere

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower wrote Soviet Premier Khrushchev today that he is seeking a summit meeting of the UN Security Council about Aug. 12 in New York or elsewhere and he hopes Khrushchev will attend.

Eisenhower challenged what he said, was Khrushchev's effort to set up a system of big power dictation such as "you imposed in Eastern Europe."

"The United States cannot accept that point of view," Eisenhower wrote in declaring that a meeting of heads of governments on the Middle East crisis must be held within the framework of the security council.

Eisenhower also rejected Khrushchev's contention that the central trouble in the Middle East is the "aggression" supposedly by the United States against Lebanon.

CITES REAL PROBLEM

The real problem, the president said, is "the threat, by others, of further indirect aggression against independent states."

"This problem is clearly the responsibility of the United Nations Security Council."

Therefore, Mr. Khrushchev is he is instructing Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador at the UN, to call the security council meeting about Aug. 12 which would bring together representatives of chiefs and foreign ministers.

Eisenhower expressed the hope that Khrushchev would take similar action.

In effect, the president's speech of Aug. 12 supported Thursday's proposal by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

IGNORES FRENCH PLAN

It significantly ignored Premier Charles de Gaulle's proposal for a summit meeting in Europe, outside UN headquarters, for Aug. 18.

In talking of a summit session of the heads of government, Eisenhower said: "If such a meeting is arranged, I expect to attend and participate and I hope that you would do likewise."

With regard to the place, Eisenhower said the United States "agrees that the meeting should be held elsewhere than New York City but we could not agree to the meeting being held in Moscow."

"The memory of the well-organized mass demonstration and serious danger to the United States Embassy in Moscow is still fresh in the minds of the American people," Eisenhower said.

WASHINGTON (CP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Thursday that if a summit conference is held, President Eisenhower will impress on Soviet Premier Khrushchev the danger of indirect aggression.

Indirect aggression is a term Dulles uses to mean efforts by one government to overthrow another without open military attack.

"I think the world is indeed in grave danger of war if no way is found to deal with the sort of indirect aggression in Lebanon," he said.

CONTROL THROUGH UN

If the leaders of Soviet Union do want war, "they will almost have to agree that these matters should be brought under some kind of control by the United Nations."

Dulles spoke at his first press conference since American marines landed in Lebanon July 14.

He also made these points:

The U.S. will promptly recognize the new republic of Iraq since Middle Eastern allies such as Turkey "are wise and prudent course."

The marines will be withdrawn from Lebanon if asked to do so by the Beirut government.

VISIT DE GAULLE

Eisenhower, Khrushchev, Prime Minister Macmillan and other Western leaders can go ahead with a Security Council meeting without participation of French Premier Charles de Gaulle, who opposes it. But the French will back Britain and the Western allies on the kind of summit meeting they want and has not damaged "the fundamentals of our relationship" with de Gaulle.

The president on Aug. 12 as acceptable date for opening the proposed conference. That date was put forth Thursday by Macmillan in a message to Khrushchev. The Soviet premier suggested Aug. 18 for a meeting outside the United Nations. The United States is backing the Macmillan plan.

Rabbi Curses Swimming Pool At Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — An aged rabbi Thursday night hurled a curse of excommunication on the builders and users of Jerusalem's new swimming pool.

The Chief Rabbi Ezekiel Sarna uttered his rare pronouncement before a crowd of small synagogue near Sabbath Square, a crowd of several hundred took up his chant.

"Cursed be those responsible for building a fashionable pool and cursed be those who bathe in it," the rabbi intoned.

The swimming pool opened Tuesday for both men and women.

The extremist Neutrei Karta sect considers coed swimming bathing. The sect says it will desecrate the holy city and breed immorality and prostitution.

The excommunication curse came in Jewish Orthodox as Hebrew Dershenan — once had dire consequences. Those cursed were shunned by Jewish society.

But the excommunication announced by Epstein, head of the extreme religious community, evoked only a few thousand followers of the Neturei Karta.

Chamoun Stays Until His Term Ends Sept. 24

Marines Will Leave When Request Made

BEIRUT (AP) — Lebanon's president-elect indicated today he will not try to take office before his term officially begins Sept. 24 despite continuing rebel demands for the immediate departure of President Camille Chamoun.

The Lebanese generally were jubilant over the election of Gen. Fuad Shehab Thursday as a neutral compromise candidate with the best chance of ending the civil rebellion. But the rebel leader who was pleased with parliament's choice still held out the immediate departure of Chamoun.

Neither Chamoun, who asked American troops July 14, nor Shehab indicated they were in any hurry to call them home. Secretary of State Dulles said in Washington the troops will begin leaving when the Beirut government.

Chamoun, after conferring with Shehab, said he has no intention of quitting before his six-year term expires.

Shehab, 56-year-old army commander-in-chief, said he would not resign from the army until Sept. 24. That must be ratified by the parliament presidency until then.

Asked by reporters about withdrawal of U.S. troops Shehab stuck to his non-committal position that ended both government and rebels settled on him for president: "I am still a general and am not a president and so I have nothing to say."

Test Nuclear Warhead 100 Miles in Sky

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nuclear explosive was set off today in the Pacific Ocean by the United States. The test, carried out at Johnston Island in the Pacific, apparently was part of the effort to develop an anti-missile missile.

An announcement by the defense department said only that a "test detonation of nuclear material in a missile occurred" above the island. It was believed part of this atomic rocket weapons test series in the Pacific.

Unofficial indications were that an army Redstone ballistic missile had been used in the clear-loaded nose to an altitude approaching 100 miles above the earth. This is about the point where the earth's atmosphere becomes sparsely and the void of space begins.

Canada Wants UN Delegates To Discuss Parley's Agenda

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada today proposed immediate preliminary talks by the UN Security Council's permanent delegates on the precise wording of the security council's summit agenda.

External Affairs Minister Smith, announcing this to the Canadian external affairs committee, said Canada was leaving it open as to whether the preliminary talks take place informally or in formal sessions of the security council. Canada accepted the Aug. 12 date for the summit conference proposed by British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Mr. Smith, minimizing apparent differences between France on the one hand and Britain and the United States on the other, said "neither side has framed a definite position with regard to any particular phrase to be protected meeting," scheduled to discuss the Middle East situation in the United Nations.

"We have instructed our permanent delegate, Mr. Chester Ronning, to submit a letter this morning to the secretary-general (Dag Hammarskjold) asking for a special meeting of the security council, for the purpose of holding a meeting on Aug. 12, and stating that the prime minister of Canada has left for the factory and that it will be his intention to attend that special meeting."

At the same time, Mr. Ritchie was being instructed to proceed to French delegate Georges Picot, president of the security council for the month, to say that "in the meantime the permanent delegates of the council should confer with a view to framing or wording the item to be considered and to discuss with one another the means, method, procedure and agenda of the meeting—regarding the procedure to be followed."

Replying to Opposition Leader Pearson, Mr. Smith said it is not proposed that the UN observers be withdrawn from the Lebanese frontier while negotiations between council delegates are going on. Consultations between council delegates will be conducted by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Beeley said the object of the council consultations is "to reach agreement on the formulation of the agenda" and followed a plan announced by Macmillan in a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Britain acted today to get the UN Security Council hold a heads-of-government meeting Aug. 12 to discuss reports of trouble in the Mideast.

Harold Beeley, Britain's acting representative, sent a letter to Guillaume Georges de Picot, French president of the 11-nation council for August, asking him to call the session.

Beeley said Prime Minister Macmillan intended to be present for the council meeting. Consultations between council delegates will be conducted by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Cloudy Weather Is No Help To Men Fighting B.C. Fires

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cloudy weather which foresters hoped would help them in their fight against 42 acres of burning timber in British Columbia's wood lands brought gusty winds instead. Lightning started 53 new fires.

Difficult areas in the Prince George-Quesnel area move eastward to drench many of the 350 fires still burning in the province. Some 3,500 men are fighting the outbreaks.

The storm was plotted about 500 miles off the coast, first reports said. It was feared it will stop the flames from advancing in the dry bush. Rain, however, is not likely for another 24 hours would decide the storm's future course.

DIEFENBAKER SOON TO PRESENT BILL OF RIGHTS

Seems to Expect Speedy Approval

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is ready to present to Parliament shortly a bill of rights he hopes will win passage before this session ends.

Since the session is expected to end in a matter of weeks, he apparently believes there is a good chance his bill will find general approval and be passed without much opposition.

Mr. Diefenbaker has long been an advocate of such legislation, which would outline the fundamental freedoms of Canadians. He mentioned it in the past, but has such legislation put on the books now because of the time the federal government as grounds it was unnecessary.

AFTER SEVERAL VERSIONS

The prime minister is understood to have worked over several versions and kept justice department experts busy getting out a bill that would be as widely acceptable as possible.

Special care has been taken over the well-known concern Quebec has for the protection of provincial rights. And the prime minister is in a happy view of how thundering Horseshoe falls and a trip 130 feet down an elevator to Table Rock.

FOUR MAIN POINTS

Some of its main points:

1. Everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person and all are equal before the law.

2. No person shall be subject to arbitrary detention, imprisonment, exile; any person arrested or detained must be promptly informed of the reason given in a hearing within a reasonable time or be released.

3. The right to habeas corpus of any person shall not be suspended except or abridged except by Parliament.

4. The right to the shall abridge or exclude any rights or freedoms which any person is otherwise entitled.

After Four Raids in One Night, Policeman Punches Bear in Nose

BATCHAWANA, Ont. (CP) — A peaky bear that finally drew a policeman's fist on the nose has driven two Michigan families back to this Lake Superior community near Sault Ste. Marie.

The families spent two harrowing hours trapping a bear in a cottage at Pancake Bay, on Lake Superior, about 70 miles northeast of the Soo, Thursday night. They camped four times in one night.

In desperation policeman Marcel Pratt of Searchmont, Ont., finally struck out with his fist as brute poked an inquisitive nose through a window. Bear departed, but Pratt and his companions, fearful of further raids, broke camp the next morning.

"It's surprising how much dig-ging a man loses when he's chasing a bear in bare feet and abbreviated shorts," Pratt said.

The policeman had taken his wife and two children on the trip. With them were Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Hendkuis and their three children.

Bruin made only one visit the first night and was driven off. Pratt went morning the two families packed their bags.

Cypriot Killed When Gunmen Ambush British

NICOSIA (Reuters) — A Greek Cypriot was killed today when British troops battled gunmen after an army vehicle was ambushed in south Cyprus.

In Nicosia early today, gunmen opened fire at a car driven by a British-Cypriot. Ten bullets hit the car but the Turk was not injured.

The toll from communal violence in July was 27, more than double the previous worst month of killings — November, 1956 — when 46 died.

A total of 128 persons have died in violence since June 7 when the latest phase of clashes between the Greek and Turkish communities broke out. More than 300 have been injured in this period.

Two British soldiers were shot on fire, one a soldiers' canteen, the other a school. The school fire empty because the children are on vacation.

Political observers at Nicosia Central Prison staged a demonstration today to threatened a hunger strike in protest against the transfer to England of five jailed Cypriot terrorist leaders. The five were flown to British jails Thursday to finish their jail terms there.

Refuses $100 For His Seat Near Princess

STRATFORD (CP) — Bertram Brown earned down a $500 bid Thursday when he refused $100 for his ticket and an eight foot behind Princess Margaret Thursday night during the Stratford festival performance of The Winter's Tale.

Afterward he said: "It was so excited I just couldn't take everything in.

The 41-year-old Toronto music teacher earlier had intended selling his ticket and an eight foot blinder to finance music studies.

"I had to think a great deal about it but I decided it was the chance of a lifetime and worth $100."

Small Hog Vote Indicated Lack Of Confidence

Great Britain Has Recognized New Iraq Regime

LONDON (Reuters) — British today recognized the new Republican government of Iraq, the foreign office announced.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain no longer regards the Iraq-Jordan Arab union as being in existence.

The British ambassador in Baghdad, Sir Michael Wright, today delivered the note announcing recognition of the Iraqi government.

The note said recognition followed assurances of continued friendly relations with Britain and of the maintenance of existing international obligations.

A spokesman said it would be unrealistic for Britain not to take account of the present separation between Iraq and Jordan which merged in a federal state earlier this year.

He said it was a matter for King Hussein's government to decide whether Jordan would continue to use the federal constitution.

Over 700 Youngsters Enjoy 'Sally Ann's' Roblin L. Camp

Facilities at the Salvation Army's Children's Camp at Roblin Lake really take a beating during the summer months when upwards of 700 youngsters converge on the 18-acre playland to attend "fresh air" music, Brownie Club, and Guide camps held there each season.

The popular and well-equipped camp, situated on picturesque Roblin Lake at Ameliasburg, draws youngsters of all shapes, sizes, races and creeds to enjoy its varied facilities, which include an ideal bathing beach, swings, teeter-totters, slides, a merry-go-round and a large playing field.

Facilities also include eight roomy cabins each equipped with bunk beds and a separate room for the councillor, a large auditorium, a small hospital, a staff cottage, adequate washroom and laundry facilities, and a large dining room.

The clean, sandy bathing beach is cordoned off by an extensive fence and the lake itself is equipped with slide and a raft.

Roblin Lake camp is under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Flannigan, of the Salvation Army's Mid-Ontario Division headquarters.

"FRESH AIR" CAMPS

Four "fresh air" camps for less fortunate children in the Mid-Ontario region are held there each summer. Two camp periods are for the girls and two for the boys.

The children, ranging in age from eight to 14 years, are given a free, eight-day vacation that is, in most cases, a high point in their young lives.

They are billeted in the clean, airy cabins, fed good, wholesome meals, and given a program of swimming, nature rambles around the lake, baseball and other healthy outdoor sports; handicraft classes, wiener roasts, and vesper periods and singsongs. In addition devotional periods are held and the children are taught cleanliness, orderliness, good conduct and courtesy.

CONSTANT SUPERVISION

The youngsters are under 24-hour supervision by councillors whose training includes a lot in looking after the needs of their little charges.

A majority of these children are selected to attend the camp by the Salvation Army which is in constant touch with needy families in the region. Others are selected by Children's Aid Societies which co-operate with the Salvation Army in this venture.

Transportation to and from the camp is provided by Salvation Army officers or by chartered bus lines, while local organizations from the children's home districts help.

GAIN WEIGHT

The children are weighed in when they arrive at the camp and again when they leave. The average age is 9-10 years, and the average gain over the eight-day period is 2-1-4 pounds, although some gain up to five pounds, Brig. Flannigan said.

Reveille is at 7:30 a.m. when the youngsters awaken to the bugle call of Sandy Rowe, of Campbellford, the camp bugler, and "lights out" is at 9:30 p.m. after the children have their evening snack.

Swimming periods and handicraft classes are held twice a day. During swimming periods a "buddy" system is organized and class tabs are kept on the children, with checks made every 10 minutes. Under the watchful eyes of the councillors and a life guard, Carl Fraser of Napanee, the children can swim and splash to their hearts' content.

HANDICRAFTS TAUGHT

In the handicraft classes the children are taught to make a variety of articles which they may take home as souvenirs of their happy days at the camp.

A devotional period is held in the morning, known as the "Joy Hour," during which the children are given religious instruction and join in song.

In addition there are brief devotional periods, and regular Sunday services to which residents of Ameliasburg are invited.

Flag breaks are held in the morning before breakfast and in the evening after supper when the flag is lowered to the accompaniment of the bugle played by bugler Sandy Rowe.

Britain is the focal point for all camp activities," Brig. Flannigan stated.

Camp inspection is held either in the morning or at some unscheduled time, and the cleanest and most orderly cabin is presented with a pennant which is a cabin champion display above their door for the day.

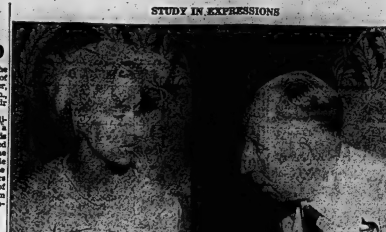
One of the cabin a "quiet-for-the-day" is held in addition to cleanliness and tidiness, in which good conduct and attention to camp activities. She is usually "crowned" at the evening campfire period and during the day she leads the procession to the dining room or any other group activity.

CLEVEN ON STAFF

The camp has a permanent staff of two cooks, three dining room girls, two dish-washers, a handyman, a life guard, a nurse in addition there are six councillors who teach handicrafts, assist in the sports program, and supervise the children.

For each camp period a Salvation Army officer is brought in from one of the corps in the Mid-Ontario division. This officer works under the supervision of Brig. and Mrs. Flannigan.

Brig. Flannigan explained that although the camp and buildings were donated through the generosity of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, Harvey McFarland and Senator C. O. Cleven, the Salvation Army is faced each year with mounting maintenance costs.



"The donors of the buildings don't contribute to the cost of their upkeep, and the more buildings donated, the higher the maintenance costs," he stated.

Expenses, such as provisions, electricity, fuel, insurance on buildings and vehicles, and depreciation of equipment, are met by an allocation from the annual Red Shield campaign with the camp also benefits from the annual Red Kettle Day, the Brigadier explained.

The property is cared for in the off-season by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood of Amelisburg, who live next door to the camp.

Convicts Flee Israeli Prison

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Nearly 200 prisoners shot their way out of a prison in northern Israel Thursday night and 64 were still at large today.

Israeli air and ground forces were pressed into the hunt for those still at large. Most were reported to be armed with sub-machineguns and were believed headed for nearby Jordan.

Mong than 100 prisoners were recaptured during the night. Thirteen others were killed and nine were seriously wounded. Two guards were killed and two seriously wounded.

The prisoners were lining up for supper when they broke ranks, cut all telephone wires and broke into the prison armory.

During a two-hour battle they overpowered guards and tied them up in cells, then began shooting at reinforcements who had responded to alarm sirens.

Skunk Aims, Fires, Hits Cop Two Suspects Gain Freedom

PICTON—When Constable Allan Marvin fired three shots into the air in an attempt to stop two men he was chasing, he did not frighten them sufficiently to make them stop, but he did frighten a black and white "kitty" which was immediately up in arms and did some firing of his own with unpleasant results to the young constable. Thanks to the skunk, the men escaped.

The story begins with Constable Marvin riding in the police cruiser with Constable C. Farrington at the wheel. Passing Grindrod's garage after midnight, they noticed two men near a parked car and were under the impression that gas was being stolen. Marvin jumped from the cruiser and gave chase as the men fled. In the vicinity of Chapel and Main Street, the men ran into gardens behind homes where there are fences. Marvin threatened to shoot unless the man he was chasing stopped and fired, in the air, three times. The man kept on going. As Marvin jumped a fence to continue the chase, he landed on the frightened skunk which lost no time making known his disapproval of being disturbed. The constable received the full impact, and the chase was ended.

Recently married, the constable did no reveal to his young wife had to say when he returned to his apartment, but it took a gallon of tomato juice to remove the best part of the odor. Residents of the area were not too lucky as tomato juice cannot be used to take the scent from the air.

Stirling Residents All Set For Biggest Birthday Party

STIRLING (Staff) — Citizens of this village are all set to cut loose on the biggest birthday party they have ever known. Centennial celebrations begin Sunday and end after midnight Saturday.

Up until a few weeks ago the committee in charge of arranging the birthday party were worried that residents of Stirling might not take a whole-hearted interest in the four-day celebration. However, Thursday afternoon "Monty" Montgomery, secretary, said Centennial Fever has smitten the townsfolk and a really enthusiastic citizenry is expected to make this 100th birthday a memorable event.

Forty or more decorated floats will parade through village streets on Monday afternoon, the main feature of what special church services mark the start of festivities on Sunday.

The population of Stirling is expected to swell temporarily as former residents and visitors from afar pour through the province to the village. Registrations have been received from former residents now living in California and Vancouver.

The Ontario police department will be reinforced by at least six Ontario Provincial Policemen, perhaps more.

Thursday afternoon visitors to the village might have believed the day was Sunday. Mr. Montgomery pointed out that almost everyone was at home decorating their houses and making last minute preparations for the Centennial. Shops, although open, were not busy. Storekeepers, dressed in the fashions of 100 years ago, kept up a constant conversation about the party.

Although the village was quiet superficially, it was not difficult to feel the underlying excitement and enthusiasm which should make Stirling's Centennial one of the most memorable events in the history of the Quinte district.

Only one banner was strigged across Mill St. Thursday, but all of the stores and most houses were gaily decorated with bunting and streamers. Shop windows displayed relics of bygone years.

The Centennial "bug" has had one effect, at least, on village merchants. They have not spared the paint brush to beautify the fronts of their stores.

First thing Sunday morning the red carpet will be rolled out on village streets to welcome the arrival of Stirling's year 101. Out with the old and in with the new is the criterion of villagers today. Why don't you go to Stirling next week and catch Centennial Fever? It has soothing effects.

Britain Can Get Atomic Weapons Data From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee Thursday cleared the way for Britain to obtain atomic weapons material and a nuclear submarine engine from the United States.

The Senate-House of Representatives atomic energy committee approved a proposed agreement between the two countries for cooperation in the military uses of atomic energy.

The agreement is the first full-fledged information-sharing pact to be concluded since the newly adopted relaxation of U. S. secrecy laws on atomic weapons. While the amended law permits all friendly countries to receive more information than formerly, only those which already have achieved a significant capability to manufacture atomic weapons can receive actual weapons-making data. Britain is the only friendly country in this category.

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials, surging to a 1958 high, led the stock market forward today in moderate morning trading.

Industrials added a half-point to their index as they carried their rise into the third straight session. Their index reached 463.96 in the first hour today, surpassing their previous high set Thursday at mid-afternoon.

Golds and western oils, each a new declined a bit up, followed industrials ahead but base metals slipped off almost half a point.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 804,000 shares, down from Thursday's 1,145,000 at the same hour.

There was little or no action among speculative issues. New Konco was the leader gaining 30 cents at $3.25 on 121,800 shares, 40,000 less than its first hour sales Thursday. Kirkland Mineral was up 6½ cents at 90 cents on 58,583 shares.

Aluminium was the industrial leader adding ¼ at 39¾. Losers gains to 16 cents by Aunor and Madsen balanced the list.

Almost Half of Winnipeg Women Would Not Rewed Their Husbands

WINNIPEG (CP) — Given another chance, how many men would re-marry the spouse they picked the first time? And if not, why not?

The Winnipeg Free Press conducted a survey to find out. It showed that, more married women in Winnipeg are dissatisfied with their husbands than vice versa.

The reasons varied from philosophizing in "I just can't stand him."

Asked if they would marry their mates again if they were free, 48 per cent of the women said no. Thirty per cent of the men turned thumbs down on the idea.

Questionnaires printed in the paper asked men and women to give the reasons they would not re-marry, their age, number of children, and class of employment. They were not required to fill in their names.

About 50 per cent of the replies from men gave differences of opinion and unfaithfulness as the reason they would not marry their present mates. Other reasons were budget squabbles, bad housekeeping, drinking and selfishness.

Chief reasons given by women, in order of importance, were: Selfishness, differences of opinion, budget trouble, bad house habits, drinking, unfaithfulness, children's upbringing and mother-in-law problems.

South Africans On Trial for High Treason

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuter) — Thirty-one South Africans went on trial today in a converted synagogue on charges of high treason or offences under the nation's anti-Communist laws.

The defence immediately objected to two of the three judges appointed by the government for the specially-constituted Supreme Court.

The accused—57 Negroes, 16 whites, 16 Indians and two of mixed race—are accused of having conspired between 1952 and 1956 to prepare the violent overthrow of the government and its replacement with a "Communist or some other state."

The start of the trial opened the final chapter of a case that began in December, 1956, when 156 persons were arrested in mass police raids.

Followed by preliminary court inquiry in Johannesburg, 61 persons were unconditionally discharged. Three more were discharged earlier January. The state withdrew charges today against 40-year-old Negro Henry Makhoni when a medical certificate was produced showing he was ill and needed hospital treatment for six months.

Following the defence application urging the two judges to "excuse themselves" and withdraw, the trial was adjourned until Monday.

Charges against the accused centre on the defendants' connection with an African National Congress campaign for the abolition of discriminatory legislation in South Africa.

Those found guilty of treason could be punished by death. Penalties under the Suppression of Communism Act are up to 10 years imprisonment.

Poison Ivy Area Will Be Sprayed

TRENTON — A complaint has been made to the municipal office regarding poison ivy in Allison playground, one of the park areas off Byron Street under the Parks Board jurisdiction and used by the Recreation Commission in their summer training program. Investigation proved the complaint to be well founded and the Parks Board gardener, Bart Boers, has been instructed to spray the area immediately.

It might be interesting to note that when an attempt was made to contact John Saylor, the Parks Board secretary, on the matter, his place of business advised that Mr. Saylor was confined to his home suffering from some case of (what else?) poison ivy.

Two Injured In Accidents

TRENTON — A woman and a child were injured last night in separate mishaps, both involving cars, and one was taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Miss Jean Eye, 26, an employee of the RCAF Station in Trenton, suffered lacerations, bruises and possible fracture when she stepped from a parked vehicle into the path of another at Middleton Park at about 7.30 p.m. last night.

She was rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital by RCAF ambulance. Miss Eye was admitted by Dr. W. S. Bailey and X-rays were taken.

According to the RCAF police who investigated the mishap, Miss Eye turned over to the Belleville Ontario Provincial Police, the young woman stepped from the station wagon in front of 26A McGill Ave., and in crossing the road stepped in front of a car being driven by Mrs. Shirley Potvin, of 282 Front Street, Trenton.

CHILD INJURED

In the second accident, which happened less than a half-hour later, eight-year-old Burtina Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, 38 Francis Street, suffered injuries to her cheek, a blackened eye, skinned knees and shock when she drove her bicycle into the side of a car being driven by John D. Styles, 42, of 24 Lake Drive, Trenton.

According to the police report the car was proceeding along Byron Street and entering the intersection at McCann Street. The girl came off the latter street and, in front of control of the bike, fell against the left rear side of the car, striking her head on the fender. She was taken to Dr. G. W. Telfer's office for treatment. The accident was investigated by Constable Herb Chatson of the Trenton Police Department.

Night Flying Training Starts Next Week

TRENTON — RCAF Station Trenton announces that beginning next week and for three weeks, night flying training of university flight cadet pilots will be carried out at both Trenton and Mountain View air stations.

Flying will commence at dusk and will continue on through the night and cease at dawn.

The air force, in making the announcement, states that although they are fully aware of the inconvenience caused by the noise of aircraft at night during the training these young students in night flying is essential.

Planes involved in the exercises will be single-engined Harvards and a few multi-engined aircraft.

Trentonians were given a sample of what to expect last Wednesday night when many Harvards were in the air during the "before midnight" hours.

The same type of training was carried out last year at Trenton this time but only a few complaints were heard as the fact most residents are used to the sound of flying aircraft and pay it little heed.

Farm Loan Board Gets More Funds Requested by Cities

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Thursday gave second reading—approval in principle—to a government bill to boost the lending capacity of the Canadian farm loan board from $150,000,000 to $30,000,000. The legislation already has been approved by the Commons.

Liberal Senator William Wall of Manitoba piloted the bill think short of Conservative election promises to make it easier for farmers to obtain long-term credit.

He suggested integration of federal agencies lending money to farmers. These include the farm loan board, the farm improvements loan board and the Veterans' Land Act program.

In the Commons, Agriculture Minister Harkness has indicated the government is studying some such move.

Higher Payments Requested by Harbor Cities

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities has asked the national harbors board for higher payments in lieu of taxes in cities where it owns property and has port installations.

In a brief presented to the board at a special meeting Thursday the mayors sought payments equal to the amount which would be levied as taxes on private owners for the same amount of property.

They said taxes on harbor property in eight cities and 60 townships would amount to $5,872,209 if the property were privately owned. Grants paid by the harbors board in lieu of taxes on the property totalled $416,500 in 1957.

The brief said that if harbor board property were privately owned, Port Colborne in 1957 would have received at least $90,000, and the township of Edwardsburg, Ont., $47,000.

Board payments instead of taxes in 1957 were: Port Colborne $6,000, and Edwardsburg $6,000.

Doctor Used Sign Language In Operation

MOSCOW (AP)—An American doctor began operating on a young woman's heart without knowing how to ask the Russian nurse for a scalpel or suture.

But Dr. Walter J. Burdette of Salt Lake City, Utah, wasn't worried.

He had worked out a sign language system with the nurse at the suggestion of a young medical interpreter, who was also a Russian interpreter.

Opening and closing two outstretched fingers meant scissors and clenching my fist meant forceps.

"It worked beautifully," said Burdette, a professor at the University of Utah medical faculty who has been visiting Soviet medical institutes. He was told he was the second American invited to perform surgery in Moscow.

AN UNPLEASANT MEMORY

Our deepest sympathies go out to the staff of the Brantford post office which has just discovered a letter posted 38 years ago. The letter was written in April of 1920 by the postmaster in Woodstock to the Postmaster in Brantford, complaining about a letter that never reached its destination.

Our sympathy is particularly lively because of a personal experience. Several years ago, in another newspaper office, we edited some correspondence which was dated about a week ahead. Naturally we thought the correspondent had made a mistake, so changed the date and put out the items. Included was some police court news, among it an item about a prominent district resident who had been up on a liquor charge. A couple of days later the storm broke. The man in question had not been up on any such charge. The correspondent had not sent the item.

Finally the janitor told his story. He had entered the office. A rat had scurried across the floor. It had dodged behind the desk. The janitor moved the desk. The rat evaded him, but he found an envelope. Thinking it had fallen off the desk when he moved it, he put it on top of the desk. That was where it was when we picked it up. It was exactly 51 weeks since it had slipped off that desk.

So, as we say, we sympathize with the Brantford post office folk.

Still, we do think that a post office ought to be able to devise some means to prevent letters from falling behind desks and lying unnoticed for 38 years.

Not, mind you, that we recommend the use of rats 51 weeks late in getting around to calling attention to missing mail.

FRIGHTENING

At Jackson's Point, a Lake Simcoe resort, there was a brawl last Saturday night. Fights broke out as a rock 'n roll show was ending. A police constable was kicked and beaten. Two citizens who tried to help police were punched and kicked.

Harvey Currell, district editor of the Toronto Telegram, wrote a report on an ultimatum served on Reeve William Sellers by Michael Picov, president of the Jackson's Point Ratepayers Association — a "do something to stop these weekly fights or residents will think about doing something themselves."

"Jackson's Point residents," wrote Mr. Currell, "said today they wanted to emphasize that Jackson's Point is a peaceful community and a pleasant vacation spot 98 per cent of the time. They don't want summer visitors frightened off by a tiny minority of hoodlums. That's why they are demanding stern action by council."

There is only one thing which could frighten us away from a resort as fast as hoodlums.

And that is a citizenry which regards the danger of us being frightened away by the hoodlums as the primary reason why something should be done about these hoodlums.

We prefer a place where the residents are worried first about police and citizens being assaulted, and where the effects of such incidents on the popularity of the centre as a summer resort are considered of secondary importance.

THIS IS NO BULL

By the time that this editorial appears in print, more will probably be known about the fate of the six Mexican fighting bulls which are having trouble entering Canada.

Destined for the "bloodless bullfights" to be staged at Lindsay, they have been detained by the U.S. agricultural department because inspection at the Mexican border revealed that they were infested with ticks.

It now appears that those who regard the Lindsay stunt as a lot of bull may have been all wrong. There may be no bull at all.

Those ticks, though, will not surprise a lot of people. From the first they have contended that it was a lousy idea.

THE DREAM DAYS

I like the dream days best of all,
The holidays against the wall,
The rambler roses blushing red,
The blue sides bending overhead,
With just enough of summer breeze
To whisper in the leafy trees;
When lazily the plow boys plod,
And lazily the blossoms nod,
And everything about me seems
Wrapt up somehow in pleasant dreams.

I like to lie full length and flat,
And shade my eyes with my old hat,
Building air castles high and fine
Above those towers
Mightier than summer swallows fly,
Forgetting care and shirking toil,
Forgetting lust for fame and spoil,

Just dreaming dreams that won't come true,
But living as the flowers do.

I like the dream days best, for then
The world's in tune with lazy men;
The very flowers droop and sway
In such a restful, lazy way,
As though they, too, would like to be
Stretched out beneath this tree with me;
And fleecy, snow white clouds float by
As though no part of earth or sky,
And far off seem the busy marts
Where gather shrewd and sordid hearts;
Just roses, hollyhocks and I,
Dreaming, while Father Time goes by

Devil of a Man With Pen

Ottawa Journal

Those who have been hesitant about wanting a hasty Summit Conference (and we have been among them) must be encountering some misgivings just now: for it seems that if Mr. Khrushchev is to win all the preliminary rounds of correspondence he'd sooner we get over them the better.

The scholar of all the Russias turns out to be the very devil of a man with a pen in his hand. His last missive landed him at one sitting to drive De Gaulle between London and Washington, to ridicule Britain's fears of the lack of security if the meeting were held in New York, to reiterate his offer to meet anywhere any time, to pose again as the one great power championing the rights of India to sit at the table and have at least the semblance of sense in his argument that if the Security Council had been able to pacify the Middle East problem more quickly than it would it succeed a few days hence?

Now it does not escape us that many of Krushchev's points are well taken, whether or not put in sincerity. And in the matter of Khrushchev's criticism of the Security Council the question might well be returned by Mr. Khrushchev as to why world powers were blocked in the Security Council by Russia why Russia could not, by itself, get Russia in a Summit meeting, unless the answer indicates that in Russian good will is forthcoming?

Ah no, we are not so impressed by Khrushchev's touch with a pen that we believe what he says. But we are immensely impressed by his ability with a pen. (Can anyone do anything else) to impress those countries which look to him for help at the whose ideals have been so confused by him that they hanker for a piece of his bandwagon.

In the sophisticated capitals of the Western democracies we may see through his devilry, we may clearly imagine him laughing, kitchen by kitchen, his letter-writing chores with the result of a man who knows he's making trouble for his opponents. But what of the people in the Middle East who are receiving this correspondence and who find in him a man who is clearly the author of helpful ideas, or Macmillan's idea of Eisenhower's idea for a meeting as long as it is held at once? And there are people in Europe and elsewhere who, for the present, will be finding Khrushchev's mobility enhancing and disarming.

"I would like, Mr. President, to receive at your hands in this message of mine as quickly as possible . . ." Thus spoke Khrushchev, not to some puppet chief or the head of some minor power, but to the President of the United States. It is a symbol of the stage to which we have come. And it is for this reason that whether the Summit is held now or later or not at all, we must slither cease writing letters or write better ones.

The fact is that so far as publicity and propaganda are concerned we are already on the threshold of defeat by outwitting the democracies conduct a Khrushchev-type of war it must be a spectacle even unto the angels, or, since we must assume them to be on our side, especially unto the angels.

Cat Planted Burdocks

By John Gould in the Christian Science Monitor

Theophilus, the thistle sifter, who sifted a steve full of unsifted thistles and thrust 9,000 thistles through the thick of his thumb, according to an ancient legend often repeated in these parts, may not be known, as I do, that the common burdock, Arctium lappa, Linnaeus, is a thistle family and may be sifted with similar success. I have been sifting burdocks for years and have many more to do.

The Gobo root, as says the burdock is a thistle, it also says the root is known as Gobo in Japan, where it is a popular vegetable. The Gobo root is cleaned, cut, boiled and served like a sprinting parsnip, being able to sink through blue cheese dressing, mayonnaise, and vitreous rocks, as a harvest of a certain variety requires on some doing. If I were a hungry Japanese waiting for lunch, I would not be overly impatient while the cook struggled to serve it.

The burdock is not a beautiful thing, and finding it in "Wild Flowers Every Child Should Know" is stretching the definition somewhat. But it is there, under pink flowers. Children usually know all about the burdock, for example, a quarter moved up through the categories without stopping to play with burdock burs. Really wicked little boys rub a handful into some girl's hair, and the less wicked accidentally arrive at the same result in the same thing. If you have a pure heart, and a ball of burdock burs, and go look at a cat, there's a margin of error seldom negligible. Many a cat has come home a-crying just the same. Then you get the sack of your own, and that ends the game.

• • •

To be more specific, we had a boy, who used to sit in the front seat where the teacher could get at him, and who had a way of wearing a thick home-knit sweater made from black sheep's wool and unclipped burrs. He sat in back of the room would take burdock burs from the back of his sweater and we would throw them so they would stick in the back of the sweater of the kind of darts game. If, perchance, one of these missiles missed any would not lose it, more or less, and some lucky girl in the line of fire would get it. But those that scored would pile up on Burleigh's back, and at recess time we would pick them all off and get ready to start over again. So, the boy did not only seem to be teemed as a food, but has a reputation for being a poor marksmanship, and goes to show that nothing is ever entirely negative.

• • •

The Gobo thrives in the climate, and once it gets a start it is likely to be on hand long time. A weather will ruin it, but if you have a good catch it takes a little doing to dispose all the burdocks. A few years back, after long years of careful eradication of the weed, we had none anywhere around, but then a neighbor died, and we had cat planted burdocks for me.

This is true. A couple of rough, uncouth characters moved onto the Prince lot, and spent almost a setting pulpwood and lumber, and they had this little shanty. When they left they finished that job and moved away they left the cat behind. It had moved there by acquainted with country life, and he didn't seem to mind. He stayed on in the tar-paper shanty and provisioned himself around the neighborhood as he can, and seemed both happy and spry. The shanty was torn off subsided, and a fine cluth of burdock came in its place.

Then the burdocks went to seed the second year, the cat would come out all dew-soaked and looking like the back of Burleigh's sweater. This did not add to the appearance of the cat. He sat down on a nearby stump and lament. And later he used to come down through the woods and meet me. He sat in a Springhole near my plum orchard, and when I came by made a limb and claw at the burs in the tail, sobbing and wailing. This cat was sad, and you could tell.

• • •

There wasn't much you could do, because nobody could get within a quarter of a mile of the cat, and he had no friends. But he was getting fat, and he had a ring of newly sprouted burdock bushes all amongst my plum trees, and they were looking fine. For a cat, it was a well-planted place. I took a whet hoe on the grindstone and got an edge on it like a razor, and I would go out there and cut the burdocks until I had dismembered Gobo, and as he grew and rowe, but this didn't dispose of all of it. No matter how much I chopped, I can see in the sneaker left, and each year I had more and more burdocks.

• • •

This year I invested in a tall can of sure-do weed drench, and I'm going to see if it is real. Each morning I mix up a prescription, and go out and sort along the fences, pouring my concoction on the broad leaves of my burdock. The stuff works very well, and after a few days I will, no doubt, have another cat to cure, and after a week there is just a brown spot. I think if I keep at it I will get rid of cat's work before any more of the stuff goes to seed.

• • •

"Children (the book says) delight in harvest the abundant burrs of the Beggar's Button and form them into animals, baskets, dolls and a various assortment of other things". True. We used them for building blocks, sticking them together into choo-choo trains, wagons and anything that came to mind. And if Keith, with golden hair, came to see me, we would fairly closely cropped, it probably came in handy. And I have taken the scissors to clear away a goodly batch of burs, and like his phrase—"Children delight . . ."

GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

The words "vacation" and "vacate" come from a Latin word which simply means empty.

This is the great vacation season of the year. If we really take a vacation, we do something that empties the mind and heart cares, its frustrations, its fears, its worries. We get away from our vacation full to the brim with energy and a new sense of physical well being, it will probably be because our blood stream has been emptied of a lot of disagreeing poisons, our muscles freed from a lot of broken-down waste.

Many people miss the whole point of vacation. They r u n around at such a rate that they have to come back home to get rested. Or they go to summer resorts and find a lot of competative, they try to get their physical energies up and are disappointed and at least half sick. Some spend the vacation period in a daze, just sitting in their hand — and that's bad, of course. Still others keep right on working at tasks which leave them exhausted.

Vacate. Stay going, on vacation, then vacate. Empty your mind of everything with and out of it. The hotel keepers will empty your pocket book, but get even w i t h them by having a vacation worth all it costs.

Vacate.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some years ago, it was commonly said that grandparents spoiled their grandchildren. This was generally accepted truth then. And grandparents accepted it as one of their rights to spoil their grandchildren. It was, in fact, the basis of the ancient happy relationship between grandparents and grandchildren.

Like many other traditions, this has taken a plunge in recent years. Today, the grandchildren are already spoiled by their parents; and the poor old grandparents are faced with the thankless job of trying to instil a little discipline, law and order into their grandchildren. Some of the years back into the parents of their grandchildren. See what I mean?

Up until this generation, it was the custom for parents to take a firm hand with their children. Children, until around 1920, were to be seen and not heard. A n y child who thought he ran the world, it was commonplace, in the old days, to administer the sounds of children howling as the child is being spanked. Spanked howling had a different tone to any you hear nowadays. A n y child who howled in fear and frustration. The old, lonesome cry that is heard by parents who put to bed has vanished from the earth.

Even grandparents haven't the nerve to revive it. Baffled by the failure of their children to instil the fear of God into their children, poor old frustrated grandparents can only scold, protest, wail, groan, moan, and cry don't, don't don't. The ruination of spoiling the grandchildren has been stolen from them.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

CIRCULATORY SYSTEM IS AS COMPLICATED AS OLD PLUMBING

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain 'diastolic pressure' and how it can be overcome? I understand that a new drug is on the market for blood pressure. If your blood pressure does come down does the blood circulation return to his general work in life? — D.C.H."

Let's kick off a misunderstanding or two. First, everybody has some diastolic pressure as well as everybody has blood pressure.

You have, in fact, two kinds of pressure. You have systolic pressure, measuring the pressure while the heart is on a pumping beat, and you have diastolic, measuring the pressure that remains between beats. That's why it is incorrect to say that you have a "blood pressure reading of 140," or whatever the figure is. You should say that the pressure is "140-over-90" or "140/90," showing the two types of pressure.

Now I gather from your letter that you have high blood pressure, or have had it. Generally, both the pumping and resting pressure will be higher than normal when you have high blood pressure, but sometimes the doctor can bring both of them down. Sometimes he can regulate systolic pressure, but not diastolic pressure, but still has some difficulty in reducing the diastolic, or resting, pressure.

The behavior of the heart, and the veins, pressure, and the circulatory system in general, is as complicated as the plumbing in a house that was built in 1912. It gets out of whack — and just why it gets out of whack is a thing that has given lots of plumbers, and just as many medical specialists, nights' There may be a leak, or clogged pipe, or the whole system may be overtaxed by the cause of an accumulation of sediment of one type or another, or the original pumping pressure may be out of whack, or whatnot. If a plumber can find out what is causing the trouble, he can fix it. The extent of the job, and the cost of it, of course, will vary. With human circulation, if the cause is ascertained, it may or may not be curable. People are more complicated than the fix-it-shops. Which is to say, as a price, replace all the pipes in a house. You can't replace all your veins.

SOME NEW DRUGS VALUABLE

So (to get to your second question) you can't expect that a "new drug" necessarily will correct all cases of high blood pressure. All I can say is that a number of the new drugs have all have their uses and none is a sure cure for all pressure problems.

The nice thing about your letter is the inspiration it gives me to work if your blood pressure can be made to "come down near normal." As a general rule, the doctor answer is yes. There may be exceptions, but, under normal circumstances, in which the doctor must, in all honesty, say that you ought to remain at home, or that there's only one smart thing for you to do. Obey him! I'd have to obey.

Says too Many Laws Passed

Toronto Globe and Mail

Those two flourishing enterprises of democracy, bingo and bookmaking, should both be legalized, in the opinion of Ontario's Labor Minister Charles Daley. At a meeting here, Mr. Daley said, it is nonsense to condone only "casual" bingo, (although, he added, he sees no sin through an evening of bingo on the 17th concession) and frowns a saucepan scenes to deserve recognition.

As for "bookies", Mr. Daley said, should be legalized "so we know who they are". His audience of policemen may have smiled, since any bookie is likely to be known to police about as soon as he opens up shop.

But the chief cause for illustrate Mr. Daley's basic comment: "... Too many laws are being passed. It is time we interfere too much with the greater public. Many will again agree, with the important distinction: Laws protecting society rather than the individual merely restrict the minority to benefit the majority. Laws for such fields as behavior and business affect work the other way around, working the majority to benefit or appease the minority.

TODAY'S TALK

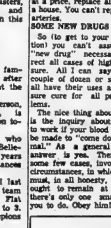
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE OTHER FELLOW'S PLACE

What a wonderful world- in which to live if people would only put themselves in the other fellow's place! It makes a lot of difference.

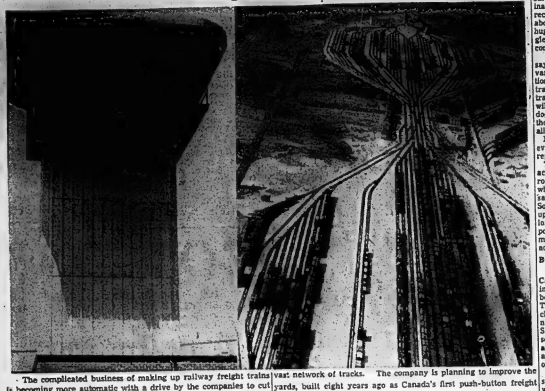
Then we would be more satisfied to get a wrong and instead of anger and bitterness, in their place, there would be understanding.

In a majority of cases, I believe, all disputes and misunderstandings could end happily if people would only consider both situations, the other fellow to take the same pains to take his. Human nature is the same t h e world over, regardless of nationality or geography. If y o u have a grudge, try getting rid of it by imagining that things a r e turned around and then expand your heart and bring a little good will and increased happiness into the world!



It is so easy to be pleasant and to get along happily with all our friends and neighbors. Then we do we allow the petty things to get in the way and create bitterness? All bitterness has a bit of poison in it, and should be spurned. Let's try it out! Let's get performed a new light appears from the other fellow's place.

Putting ourselves into the place of another is sure to put one into a more kindly and tender atmosphere of bigger and better days! Let's start right now and when we fail to meet the other fellow more than half way. It's all in a way when you measure his side against yours. All life is a give and take proposition and we ought to give at least as much as we take! Best of all is when we give all.



We learn best ourselves when we know and appreciate and gladly respect his way of life against our own.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Being Modernized

The complicated business of making up railway freight trains is becoming more automatic with a drive by the companies to cut costs. Yardmasters in towns such as those at the Canadian Pacific Railway's St. Luc yards at Montreal control traffic on the vast network of tracks. The company is planning to improve the yards, built eight years ago as Canada's first push-button freight terminal. (CP Photo).

And the CNR is currently completing a transformation of its car accounting department, eliminating old-fashioned pen-and-ink recording of each car's where-abouts and replacing hundreds of huge bookkeeping logs with a gleaming, clattering electronic counting system.

Eventually, railway experts say, one card will keep all the various phases of freight operation, from the conductor to car tracing department, informed of traffic movement. But man's role will never vanish entirely. Old dogs will learn new tricks, although the railways will eventually reduce manpower.

Few are willing to predict, however, just how far machines will replace men in railway work.

There's another factor in car accounting. North American railroads trade their freight cars when a shipment is going from, say Montreal to Houston, Texas. So a Canadian freight car ends up far south, is emptied, reloaded for another destination, possibly in Florida, and finally, months later, ends back in Canada.

BOXCARS IN U.S.

At any one time about 20,000 Canadian freight cars are roaming the U.S., with a similar number of U.S. cars in this country. That's why Canadian trains include such romantic railway names as Acheson, Topeka and Santa Fe, Central of New Jersey, Southern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Boston and Maine, and even the Chicago Belt Line occasionally.

Rental per day per car is $2.75, so it pays to know which line has what car and for how long.

Here's how freight trains are made up:

By the old way, each loaded car, listed on a "wheel report" giving car number, contents and destination is hauled into the freight yard, where the yardmaster has his list of freight trains. Yard engines go out and locate the cars by number and drop them onto various tracks, making up blocks of cars bound for the same general area. The blocks are combined to make trains.

The modern "hump" yard does the same thing, but is faster and cheaper. The freight car is shunted over a hump, where electronic eyes read its number and transmit it to TV screens in a control dome. The yard operator taps a button, directing the car on its like array. Automatically a "brain" weighs the car, measures the speed, calculates the "rolling distance" and sets ballside brakes to retard the speed and ease the car to a smooth coupling.

downhill run to a track in a fan-

The new CNR Montreal yard will have 81 tracks, two humps, walkie-talkie communication with ground crews and radio signals in every diesel cab. Making up trains becomes a filing job—each car goes in its proper slot.

Automation Put to Work By Major Railways to Cut Costs and Boost Business

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's major railways are using their "brains" to cut costs and boost business.

To stem dwindling revenues, cost-conscious railway men are putting automation to work for the old "eight wheels and a box" —the railway freight car.

With much of the freight operation already on automatic basis, it has got to the point where freight work is like an iceberg—there's far more to it than meets the eye.

TV, COMPUTERS USED

Memory machines, teletypes, television, radio, electronic computers—they are being used behind the scenes to put more box cars into longer, faster freight trains.

It's big business, billion-dollar business. And the trend is toward greater use of automation in railway operation. Push-button railroading isn't an impossibility anymore.

Canadian National Railways, which went in the red last year, is spending $28,000,000 on North America's largest automatic freight yard, a fabulous "brain" on Montreal Island that uses radio, television and automatic automation is helping solve. Biggest example of the allocation headache is grain traffic in Western Canada, a mammoth movement of Prairie wheat from elevator to Lakehead shipping terminals.

The railways keep track of every freight car — what's in it, where it's going, when it'll be empty—and link this information with the economic forecasts of harvest movements, or automobile output, even soup consumption.

The CPR, for example, put electronic "brains" to work in 1949 on the Windsor - Montreal run, using teletype circuits to keep minute-by-minute tabs on all freight shipments on the 350-mile route, key section of the Chicago-Boston through service.

Girl Guides Back From Fine Camp

Twenty-eight Girl Guides from Camp 4 at the Divisional Camp, Base Lake, Ont., returned home Sunday afternoon after a very happy nine days. The weather started out with rain and cold for 26 new campers, but ended up sunny and hot.

A great many tests were passed and three girls, Janis Turner, Judy Ingram and Moira McLaughlin, got their swimmers' badges. Other tests tried were compass, first aid, fire-making, 50-yard swim, half day hike and 4-mile expedition.

All cooking and eating were done out of doors and the Guides learned to look after themselves in tents. Trudi Heig and Helen McCreary stayed after the area camp to help the new campers at pitch their tents and take them down the last day, as well as being generally useful to all in camp, assisting with swimming, looking after luck, etc. They both earned their handywoman badge.

Mrs. Ward Ketcheson came over from Salmon Lake each day to assist with the swimming and consequently all swimming improved greatly.

The quartermaster, Mrs. Frank Benson, did an excellent job with the meals and the Guides presented her with a "thanks badge" at the final campfire. Her homemade cookies were a joy to all and disappeared in a flash.

Mrs. Harold Howse, the nurse, looked after the health of all Guides as well, as most of the others in the division camp.

The best campers' badge went to Shirley Dafoe of the 1st Camel Company, a badge voted by the campers. The winning patrol led by Rita Dempergia consisted of Corinne Peverly, Nancy Miller, Cathy Cook, Heather Perron and Joyce Grant.

Danger Seen In Dual Role For Women

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Home economics experts saw dangers today in the dual role modern woman plays at home and at work. They suggested special training for her in home and family living.

Education in home science was proposed to help the increasing numbers of wives who have to go to work.

But one Indian teacher questioned whether "in the interests of her family and children, it is wise for a mother to take up a career outside her home."

"So long as women have to bear children, the home will have to be their main responsibility," Mrs. S. Tara Sai, director of the Lady Irwin College of Home Science in New Delhi said in a paper read for her at the ninth International Congress of Home Economics. Some 1,000 delegates from 58 countries are attending.

"It may be worthwhile," Mrs. Sai suggested, "to ponder a while over the training available for existence woman should or should not combine herself more to the home and family rather than take up man's prerogative of bread winning."

It is strange she said that "it is the man who is the best tailor and the best cook. The only sphere where he cannot surpass woman is that of mother and homemaker."

Fashionable Princess

Wedding

MCINTOSH — DOHERTY

St. Mary's church, Campbellford, was the setting Saturday for the double ring ceremony and exchange of vows between Maureen Theresa Doherty and John Ross McIntosh, M.Sc., of Ottawa.

The church was beautifully banked with summer flowers. The Rev. J. C. Maloney performed the ceremony and the nuptial mass.

Miss Marie Cressolo of Campbellford was organist and Mr. Raymond McCloskey of Ottawa, sang the hymns during mass.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length story book gown of white nylon chiffon. The neckline was enhanced with tiny organza flowers, and the tiny puffed sleeves were emphasized by three quarter length petit point gauntlets of matching material. Her headpiece was a crown of scalloped tulle pleats enhanced with seed pearls and sequins and caught to a chapel length veil. She carried a white orchid surrounded by pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss Colleen Callery, of Windsor, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Her waltz-length dress of pink brocaded taffeta was on princess lines. She wore a matching picture hat and white accessories.

Miss Margaret Durkin, of Belleville, and Miss Arleigh Fitzgerald, of Peterborough, were bridesmaids. Their dresses in sky blue were identical. All attendants carried white shasta daisies.

Mr. Lloyd McIntosh, of Fenelon Falls, was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were Messrs. Donald McIntosh of Hull, and Jack Doherty from Campbellford.

The dinner and reception were held at Edgewater Park. The bride's mother received, wearing a pale blue sheath dress of satin-like striped beigaline, and the bridegroom's mother wore a dress of powder blue flowered organdy. Both had white accessories and corsages of pink rose buds.

Out of town guests were present from Ottawa, Rural Windsor, Detroit, Kitchener, Tweed, Peterborough, Belleville, Gravenhurst, Hastings and Warkworth.

For going away, the bride chose a white jacket dress with a red cummerbund and white accessories. She wore a corsage of red, feathered carnations.

The couple left on a two-week trip to the Atlantic coast. On their return they will live at Cardiff, Ontario, where the bridegroom is employed by the Canadian Dyno Mining Ltd.

Beggar's Opera Given at Stratford Music Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

"The Beggar's Opera", first presented in London in 1728, has enjoyed remarkably consistent success ever since. It has been revived, revised, translated and retranslated in its production at the Stratford this summer, Director Tom Brown has returned to the original version as written by John Gay, and set to music consisting mostly of airs and tunes of his day by Dr. Pepusch. The resulting production is wonderfully fresh and lively, continually giving the listener the impression that he has come upon a Gilbert and Sullivan Opera, about 150 years too early. The familiar marks of G. and S., the patter song, the mixed quartet, the madrigal and so on, all are there, together with a plot that is just as satirical and absurd as anything that Gilbert ever wrote. The Stratford cast, headed by Robert Goulet as the dashing Macheath, and Maxine Miller as Polly Peachum, and including such familiar figures as Robert Christie, Ann Casson and Helen Burns; all obviously enjoyed the rollicking production. The music is always pleasant and tuneful, with many echoes of Handel, a contemporary of Gay, and one of the composers of "Italian" opera which this work satirizes. Louis Applebaum conducts the opera with his usual skill and musicianship, and the singers are accompanied by a small orchestra for the Pro tunes, which was originally scored. Altogether, this is a most entertaining performance, in the best traditions of the Stratford Music Festival, and well worth a visit. There will be ten more performances during the season.

In great contrast to the racy appeal of "The Beggar's Opera", the concert given by the New York Pro Musica on Wednesday evening was nevertheless equally delightful. These, eleven musicians have made a specialty of the music of Medieval England, and the Elizabethan period, and present it as close as possible approach to the original manner. The vocal ensemble includes the unusual voice of countertenor, or male alto, which lends a power to the lower part to which we are no longer accustomed. The accompanying instruments included recorders of all pitches, treble and bass viols, six stringed fore-runners of the violin and cello, harpsichord and portative organ. The music played and sung covered the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries, a very rich period in the history of English music, and under the able direction of Noah Greenberg, all concerned performed in a most polished manner, to the obvious satisfaction of the audience. At the end of the concert, all who wished were invited on to the stage to inspect and discuss the unusual instruments, an invitation which was accepted almost unanimously.

As this is being written, Stratford is getting ready for the visit of Her Royal Highness Princess Margaret. An air of colour and festancy hangs over the town as the decorations go up and last minute preparations are made.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is an authentic case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Hilton S. — I want time to decide.

Monica F. — He is old enough to make up his mind fast.

Hilton S. — I am a widower in my early 40's and my daughter, with whom I have been living for the past four years, has been urging me to marry again.

A few months ago she introduced me to an attractive widow. This woman is wealthier than I am and is used to a very different kind of life from the one I have known. Nevertheless, a lot says she cares for me and wants to marry me.

I would like to go out with her for some time to see how we get along together, but she says if we are mature individuals and should be able to make up our minds now. If I don't decide now, she says she doesn't want to see me anymore.

My daughter says she is right. I feel that my daughter is beginning to find me a burden in her home. She doesn't have to go to such extremes to get rid of me. I can live by myself.

Monica F. — It is very unfair of Dad to say I want to get rid of him. He knows I love him and would be glad to have him with me as long as he wants to stay. I am only thinking of his welfare. I feel he would be happier with a wife and companion of his own age.

This widow has explained to me that she has gone out with several men in the past few years. She says they fall into a comfortable relationship with her and forget all about marriage. She's just that kind of person. She says she's lonely and doesn't want any more of these "just friends" relationships.

I feel this is very understandable to me. I don't see why Dad should be so suspicious. He has everything to gain and nothing to lose by this marriage. He is certainly old enough to be able to make up his mind fast.

The Council: Monica has made a big mistake by inviting her father into this situation. Her visit was finished after she made the introduction.

Nobody of any age likes to be railroaded into marriage. When a contract is placed before a man and he is urged by two women to decide on the spot — fast — he has no alternative but to sign under duress or yell for help and run.

Possibly the widow has some justification for the particular line she has adopted, but Hilton should have had the chance to consider whether he wanted to take her up on it or to risk losing her. In any case, his decision would be related only to the particular elements involved in that case.

Monica has confused things by introducing a third consideration — is the widow filling a part of the two women to get Hilton out of his daughter's home? It is natural for Hilton to have some doubts as to whether he is in his daughter's way, even if he knows he is loved.

Our advice to Monica is to step right out of the picture. Hilton ought to try to get the widow to see him on a friendly basis for a little longer, because they have really gotten off to a false start.

FIANCE OBJECTS TO GIVING ENGAGEMENT RING "IN PUBLIC"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"My Fair Lady" and I have just become engaged. She and I went together to the jeweller to choose the ring, and it is now being engraved with our initials. Our engagement is to be announced soon at a big party to be given by her mother and father. Everything is rosy . . . except for one thing. My fiancee is insisting that I wait to give her the engagement ring in front of all the guests at the announcement party. To me this is a terrible idea. I think this should be a private affair," just you and she together. I'm pretty sure you'll be able to win your "Fair Lady" over to your point of view by intriguing her with the idea that, as y o u put the ring on her finger for the first time you have something very special you want to say to her, something for her pretty ears only, not for "public speaking"!

"HERE COMES THE BRIDE!"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My dearest girl friend, her husband, my fiance and I are going together to a very important church wedding next month. What we need is reading arrangements for us in the pew to which t h e usher escorts us? Should we girls go first in the pew?

— "The Girls"

It's a wedding . . . and "t h e girls" should have the seats nearest the "romantic aisle," so to speak, for the wedding party at as close range as possible when that thrilling "Here Comes the Bride!" is played. Your girl friend's husband and your fiance may enter the pew first, and then you two girls follow, deciding who is to take the seat on the aisle. (Or one may sit nearest the aisle during the Processional, and the other during the Recessional.) This is procedure where "gentlemen first" is proper and acceptable, more convenient for the ladies at a wedding.

grand opera?

"That depends on many things," she said. "Chiefly that my husband and daughter must come first."

QUESTION:

. . . The recipe is for a special birthday. For years we have enjoyed on rare occasions Crepes Suzettes of a type now put in a tin with orange and brandy, etc. Have watched them being made in restaurants and don't see why they couldn't be made at home if I had a recipe. I do enjoy your Canadian recipes. Many thanks. (signature omitted by request).

Dinner Menus

FRIDAY

Mushroom Salmon Loaf, or Broiled Buttered Yellow Pickerel; Corn on the Cob; New Beets and Tops; Red Currant Sherbet (see Thursday); Old-Fashioned Sponge Cake (see Tuesday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

You are right. You can make them at home just as well — probably better.

CREPES SUZETTES:

French Pancake Batter: To 1 cup warm milk add 2 tablespoons butter and when it is melted cool the mixture to room temperature. Add ¼ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt and beat until smooth then beat in 2 eggs until batter is thin and smooth again. Grease a 4 or 5-inch frying pan lightly. Pour in batter to just cover bottom, tilting pan to coat bottom evenly. Cook 1 minute over medium heat, then flip over and brown second side. If desired turn again to give first side a delicate browning. Roll up and keep warm while you cook remainder. Serve with Orange Sauce: Cream together thoroughly 1/3 cup each butter (preferably unsalted) and sugar. When smooth add 1 cup orange juice and 4 tablespoons finely grated orange rind. Boil gently for 5 minutes until it acquires a pale golden tinge. For genuine Suzettes add 2½ tablespoons each cointreau, curacoa and brandy and at table in chafing dish burn this off, by touching a match to a tablespoon of one of the liqueurs preheated, and when it is burning pouring it over the syrup until it too is alight. This flaming sauce is spooned over the hot Crepes and served at once, 2 or 3 to a serving.

QUESTION:

. . . find your column interesting and helpful especially when you write about Herbie and Marianne . . . we have a boy and one too . . . felt just as you did about peeking around the corner when the family meet . . . he spent leave in London . . . met Uncle and Aunts he had not seen before . . . they wrote telling us about our wonderful chap . . . can you send me recipes that pack and keep good in parcels for him? . . .

Mrs. H. W. .

ANSWER:

I'm so glad we have hairs abount to bring us together.

CHEWY PECAN STICKS:

(Wrap each one separately before packing in box to mail overseas.) One-half cup soft dehydrated shortening (this does not go rancid with age), 1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons water, 2 eggs, 1 cup well-packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon each baking powder, salt, vanilla, 1 cup chopped pecans (or walnuts). Mix first 4 ingredients (shortening, flour, ¾ teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon sugar) with a fork until consistency of fine meal. Mix in 1 egg and water. Press into 12 x 8 x2" baking dish and bake 15 minutes. Beat 2 small eggs, and remaining ingredients to them; mix well. Spread over baked layer. Bake 40 minutes at 350 deg. (same for bottom layer). Cool in pan. Cut into sticks. These keep well, but wrap each one to mail.

The Experts Say

Opera Singer Prefers Title of Housewife

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Young Mrs. Nicholas Kilburn of Toronto likes to be known as a housewife and mother, although she is an opera singer.

"Most of the public don't think that an opera singer can be an ordinary person in private life," she says.

Known on stage as Ilona Kornbrink, she has sung lead roles in the Opera Festival Company in Canada and goes to Venice soon to sing the lead in Respighi's Sage of Lucrezia.

DEVOTED MOTHER

She says few people understand that behind the glamorous stage figure is an ordinary person with a husband and three - year - old daughter.

"I once took my little girl to play on the beach before I sang in the opera," said Mrs. Kilburn. "At a reception after the performance I talked to a woman who had seen me on the beach. She seemed shocked that a person who sang in opera could do something so ordinary. I'm afraid the knowledge spoiled her evening."

But genuine interest in opera is increasing in Canada, she says. "The whole opera world is growing really fast, with festivals becoming more popular."

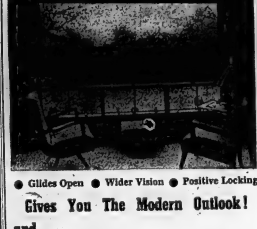
She was born in St. Louis, Mo., 35 years ago, and studied singing at Philadelphia where her future husband was studying the bassoon. They were married and daughter Nancy was born before Mrs. Kilburn had completed her studies.

When she spent three months at Mainz, Germany, specializing in lieder and opera, little Nancy went along too.

MUCH TRAVEL

"It is difficult to have much family life when both my husband and I travel a lot—often in different directions—but women on local opera committees are always helpful in finding baby sitters," she said. "We take Nancy with us whenever we can."

The little girl will stay with her mother's parents in the U.S. when Mrs. Kilburn is in Italy.



Lucrezia will be performed at a musical vacation school attended by opera students from many countries. It will be conducted by the Canadian musician Ernesto Barbini.

"It is a great honor to be asked to perform," said Mrs. Kilburn. "It will be my European debut."

Does it foreshadow a career in grand opera?

Approximately 100 Hubble Clan Members Hold Reunion Dinner

MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Approximately 100 members of the Hubble clan gathered in Frankford Memorial Hall on July 27 for their annual reunion dinner.

The group were descendants of pioneer Nehemiah Hubble, who came to "Hubble Hill" in Rawdon township in 1784 with the United Empire Loyalist pilgrimage. He was the first settler in what is now known as Mount Pleasant-Rawdon.

This was the ninth annual picnic and relatives attended from Windsor, Orillia, St. Catharines, Weston, Acton, Kingston, Shannonville, Belleville, Foxboro, Dunbarton, Campbellford, Marmora, Stockdale, Hastings, Carmel, Rawdon, Springforkok, Mt. Pleasant-Rawdon, Stirling, and other nearby points.

EIGHT NEW FAMILIES

Eight new families were in attendance at their first reunion and were royally welcomed into the family fold. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shaw, Keith and Patricia, of Windsor, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hubble, Orillia, Ont; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Hubble, Weston, Ont.; Mr. Bruce McCausland, St. Catharines, Ont.; Mr. Sam Hubble, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubble and family, Acton, Ont; Mr. and Mrs. Morley Tanner and family, Campbellford, and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Demorest and family, of Marmora.

Eighty-five people sat down at long tables and enjoyed the picnic dinner topped off with ice cream, provided by the organization.

Following the dinner Mr. and Mrs. John Schwass and Mr. Burton Hubble conducted a round of races for boys and girls up to five years, eight years, and 12 years. All the participants received a special treat.

PROGRAM

The program followed with the president, Cecil Hubble, of Foxboro, as master of ceremonies. He extended a welcome to the group. Mrs. Arthur Pyear officiated at the piano.

Mrs. Russell Pyear, Stirling, gave a resume of the finances to date and the year's expenditures. The day's collection amounted to $34 and will be put into the general fund.

The historian then gave their report. Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mount Pleasant, gave an outline of what had been accomplished to date, and requested up-to-date data for the years '56, '57 and '58, regarding births, marriages, etc.

Mrs. Russell Hubel, Carmel, displayed an assortment of pictures and explained the cost of insertion. Approximately 60 books are ordered and the treasurer of the book fund, Clifford Hubble, has a bank balance of $169 for the book fund. One hundred books will be published.

Mrs. Don Terry, Stockdale, spoke briefly. She is the third member of the historic committee, and she will have the honor of distributing the books when printed.

DONATION MADE

It was later decided a donation of $25 be taken out of the Hubble general fund and given to the book committee, if needed. Mrs. Lorne Hubble gave a generous cheque to the book fund as a memorial to her husband, the late Lorne Hubble, who was the organizer of the first reunion at Presqu'ile in 1950.

The ways and means committee will plan another social evening at Foxboro in November to add to the book fund. Mrs. Clarence Jolly, Redmerville, and a group of assistants will be in charge of the arrangements.

The 1959 reunion will also be held at the Frankford Memorial Hall on the fourth Sunday in July.

Mrs. Everett Hubble and Mrs. Selbourne Westover, Belleville, secretaries in charge of invitations, are revising the mailing list. This year they forwarded 102 invitations.

Prizes were awarded as follows: youngest baby, Donald Paul Terry, three months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Terry, Dunbarton, Ont; oldest person in attendance, Mrs. Walter Barker, Stirling, 88 years; longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Horace McMurter, "Carrying Place, 50 years; youngest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Terry, Dunbarton, married in 1956; largest family group, Mr. Everett Hubble, Belleville, with nine members in attendance, and coming from farthest distance, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shaw and family, from Windsor, Ont.

Brief addresses were given by: Joseph Hubble, Weston; Harvey Hubble, Orillia; Bruce McCausland, St. Catharines; Everett Hubble, Belleville; Charles Hubble, Acton; Mrs. Fred Shaw, Windsor and Mrs. Lorne Hubble, Stockdale.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Mrs. Arthur Pyear conducted the election of officers and moved a vote of thanks to the executive for their year's work.

The slate is as follows: president, Cecil Hubble, Foxboro (re-elected); first vice president, Everett Hubble, Belleville; second vice-president, Elton Hubble, Campbellford; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Russell Pyear, Stirling; secretaries for invitations, Mrs. Selbourne Westover and Mrs. Everett Hubble, Belleville. Sports committee, Messrs. John Schwass, Stockdale and Burton Hubble, Belleville; ball and ice cream committee, Mrs. John McCoil, Wooler.

"Happy Birthday" was sung for Mrs. Lorne Hubble, who celebrated her birthday Monday, July 28. A special greeting will be forwarded to Edward Montgomery, Foxboro, who was absent, but has been in continuous attendance for seven years.

The historians, Mrs. Don Terry, Mrs. Russell Hubel, and Mrs. Percy MacMullen are hoping to complete their book at some future date. Treasurer of the book fund is Clifford Hubble, Glen Ross.

Company in B.C. Gets Leave to Sell to China

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of a British Columbia subsidiary of a United States company Thursday the firm has received permission to sell pulp to Communist China.

The actual sale has not been completed, though a deal is hoped for, said William E. Breitenbach, vice-president of Alaska Pine and Cellulose. The firm recently became a subsidiary of Rayonier Inc. of the U.S.

Trade Minister Churchill told the Commons Wednesday an order for bleached sulphite pulp was about to be shipped to Red China by a Canadian subsidiary of an American firm. He understood an export licence was being issued in Washington.

Mr. Churchill did not name the firm.

Mr. Breitenbach said Alaska Pine has "an inquiry" from Red China pulp buyers and "we hope to be able to do some business."

Bleached sulphite can be used to produce viscose used in textiles, chemicals, and paper production.

From Fifty-Buck Apartment To Marble Halls in 4 Years

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Four years ago, Pat Boone and his wife Shirley were living in a 2½ room apartment in Denton, Tex., while he went to college. The rental: $90 a month.

Today, the Boones and their four daughters are renting a Bel Air mansion that they have been told cost $800,000 when it was built in 1934. Complete with marble halls and a tremendous swimming pool. It has more rooms than they can count. The place has been used by many distinguished visitors, including Prince Rainier when he was here courting Grace Kelly.

No, our boy Pat hasn't gone Hollywood, though he may be living like a prince. He still has his white buck shoes on the ground, but he also enjoying some of the fruits of his amazing success.

Amazing is right. His record sales have been fantastic, with one release after another going over the $1,000,000 mark. Starting with Arthur Godfrey and now with his own show, he has been a hit on television.

The only one of his pictures had been in release, he was named No. 3 star at the box office, behind Rock Hudson and John Wayne, but ahead of Elvis Presley and Frank Sinatra, who now making his third film, Mardi Gras.

Pat would like to settle in California but he can't as yet because ABC doesn't have the facilities to do his show there.

Life is a bit simpler for Pat these days, now that he has finally graduated from college.

"Shirley has been very patient with me, and now I've got some time to devote to the family," he said. "The only trouble is that it gets more difficult to take them anywhere in public."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Roger Stewart, of St. Catharines, the popular proxy of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, has been taking a three-week holiday touring Eastern Ontario. And he liked what he saw.

Flanked by his second vice-president, Don Lee, Mr. Stewart dropped into the news room yesterday. With his wife and daughter he was spending home from Montreal. He has visited several Eastern Ontario softball centres and takes back to his St. Kitt's home in particular and Western Ontario in general a fine respect of "Lower Canada" softballing.

He has been a long-time member of the executive of Ontario's governing softball body and he takes all active interest in the twenty series it covers from squirt to senior "A".

He likes in particular the tremendous strides made by minor softball during the past few years. "This squirt series is something we have just added," Roger said. It has hardly grown to the province-wide championship stage but has reached the zone title series. It is difficult to travel with kids ten years and under but they have a real time of it."

He was impressed with the fine brand of softball played in the Eastern Ontario neck-of-the-woods. "I would have liked to have seen a couple of the Belleville district teams in action, but guess I missed the dates. We have had fine reports of softball as it is played in this area."

Is softball on the uptrend in Ontario? Roger was asked.

He smiled. "It must be," he said. "Manufacturers of balls have reported a shortage of stock for the first time in years, yet the annual output was the same. Then, too," Roger added, "the OASA for the first time in history, ran out of rulebooks."

He believed the industrial classification of the OASA inaugurated a couple or three years ago was destined to become a success. However, he was in favor of dividing the category into two classifications. One would include firms with 500 and over employees, the other less than 500. "The smaller firms throughout the province will not compete with those, such as Ford and other million dollar corporations. I believe another category would see a lot more entries since industrial softball is booming all over the province."

The calibre of softball in Eastern Ontario has greatly increased over the past few years, Roger said. "There was a time when teams from the western part of the province had it their way, now they trust Eastern Ontario clubs with a wholesome respect."

"It is the only strictly amateur sport left," he said. "It is not like hockey and baseball, where teams and leagues folding year after year because of non-financial support. In softball there seems there is always someone who is willing to dig up a few bucks to keep the game going."

If you looked in the back seat of Roger's car, you would find an umpire's pad and mask. He never unveils without 'em, for being an old mask-and-padman he often 'dons them and belongs into action. He always "umps" at minor tournaments. And a "littlish" nose, he says, is always a reminder of his younger days when he was a hockey player.

And in the Stewart home the "umps" had better be right. For across the breakfast table every morning sits one who knows the rule book as well as does the OASA prexy, Mrs. Stewart, the former Marjorie Ellerby, was formerly one of Canada's outstanding girl softball pitchers.

* * *

She played for the Toronto Sunnyside team and for a number of seasons played for a Montreal ladies' fastball league. She keeps abreast of the softball times, can quote the "book" from cover to cover and is Roger's most severest and most sincerest critic. He doesn't have to ask "How did I do?" following a game in which he officiated. A smile or a gentle shake of the head is his answer. But Margery knows the "umpire is always right," so there are no arguments.

WRESTLING

Don't forget, the ferocious Gene Kiniski and the Hindu sensation, Dara Singh, plus those rollicking midgets headed by Little Beaver are on tap at Memorial Arena tonight.

And for those fans who want more midget meat in their wrestling fare the Shirting Centennial Committee is staging three bouts, plus a big brother act on Monday (Civic Holiday) evening. In "single" bouts Tiger Infante meets Tom Thumb and Cowboy Bradley tangles with Irish Jackie. Then Tiger and Jackie team up in a three-fall tag team bout with the other pair. Benny Trudell meets Bob Beyer in the "adult" match. Fun starts at 8.15 out Stirling way.

MINOR BASEBALL

Belleville's crack little peewee all-stars baseball squad is getting ready for the OBA playdowns. They are playing exhibition games with district clubs and tomorrow night at the CNRA Park at 6.30 play the Trenton peewees. Then on Tuesday night next they go to Wellington to take on the classy village squad starting 6.30.

Those youngsters take their baseball seriously and are doing a splendid job. They are rated one of the best peewee squads ever to wear Belleville colors and should go places down the playdown trail. Some parent and other fan support is needed, so why not turn out and give the youngsters some encouragement. They will appreciate it.

Battle Of National League Leaders Starts Tonight

Braves Top Giants by Game After Toppling Bums Twice; Yanks Avenge Twin Defeats

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The most important series of this National League season, beginning tonight, finds the first-place Milwaukee Braves "up" and ready and the second-place San Francisco Giants "down" and unprepared.

The Braves are a full game in front, after winning two in a row against Los Angeles while the Giants were blowing two big ones to Cincinnati.

Thursday night's Giant loss to the Redlegs was a crusher. They led 6-0 after four innings and 8-4 after 7½. Cincinnati, however, rallied for five runs in the eighth and won, 10-9, on pinch-hitter Pete Whisenant's single with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth.

WIN 4-1

Milwaukee, encouraged by Warren Spahn's first victory over the Dodgers in seven years Wednesday night, followed with a 4 - 1 triumph Thursday to capture their first series of the year against Los Angeles. Young Juan Pizarro went the distance, hurling a four-hitter for his second triumph without a defeat since his recall from Wichita.

Philadelphia won its third straight from St. Louis 4 - 1, to revert past the Dodgers into sixth place. The Chicago Cubs moved within a half game of fourth place Pittsburgh, defeating the Pirates 5-4 in a game halted after eight innings by rain.

The Braves, finally getting their hitting and pitching in synchronize, have their top pitchers all primed for the big four-game series with the Giants. Lew Burdette opens tonight, Carleton Willey goes Saturday with Spahn and Bob Rush working the Sunday doubleheader.

TURNS UP GOMEZ

Manager Bill Rigney has Ruben Gomez scheduled to hurl tonight. Gomez, who was used in relief Thursday night and was charged with the loss, Johnny Antonelli, the ace of the staff, on Wednesday night. "Red Worthington, former ace of the big four was Thursday's starter. The leaves 19-year-old Willie McCormick and starter Stu Miller set for tonight and Saturday. Antonelli and Gomez most likely will hurt the Sunday twin bill.

Ernie Banks hit his 29th home run for Chicago, but it took a Pittsburgh error and a wild pitch by Elroy Face in Dennson's eighth - inning single, to bring home the Cubs winning run. The four-bagger gave Banks the National League lead and tied him with Roberto Clemente. Jensen for the major league leadership.

Jim Brosnan making his first start since July 20, 1957, held the Cardinals to five hits until the eighth when he needed help from Dick Farrell to hang up his second triumph of the year. Harry Anderson walloped his 15th homer of the year in the first inning, off Larry Jackson, to give the Phils a lead they never relinquished.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Frank Bolling, Detroit Tigers—His eighth-inning double scored Billy Martin with the run that gave Detroit a 3-2 victory over Boston.

Pitching: Juan Pizarro, Milwaukee Braves — 21-year-old southpaw limited Los Angeles to three hits as the last-named run as Milwaukee made it two in a row over the Dodgers, 4-1.

Frank Lary, Detroit's daring right-hander, does it the hard way. He wins only from the top teams and loses only to the bottom clubs. He's not quite like that, but almost.

Lary has won 10 games and has lost the same number. Five of his victories have come against the American League leading New York Yankees, who have beaten him only once. Three triumphs have come at the expense of the second-place Boston Red Sox who have not beaten him at all.

That leaves Lary with a record of 2-9 against the five other aspirants, none of which can boast a .500 won - lost record. Washington, in last place, has beaten Lary twice, Kansas City, in sixth place, also has beaten him once as have Chicago and Baltimore, tied for fourth.

DISPUTE DRIVE

Lary permitted the Red Sox only four hits Thursday to win a 3-2 hurling duel from rookie Bill Monbouquette. A disputed eighth-inning double by Frank Bolling which drove in Billy Martin with the winning run gave Lary the win. Bolling's smash down the third base line drew a loud protest from Red Sox, who claimed the ball was foul. Umpire John Flaherty ruled otherwise.

The Yankees avenged two straight Kansas City setbacks by flattening the As 8-3 behind the five-hit pitching of Bob Turley and Johnny Kucks. Rain forced the postponement of scheduled games between Baltimore and Cleveland and between Washington and Chicago.

The Yankees manhandled five Kansas City hurlers for 13 hits, with everybody but the pitchers participating in the attack. Gil McDougald had a pair of doubles and Elston Howard and Norm Siebern had one each. Siebern drove in three runs, Howard two.

Roger Maris drove in all Kansas City's runs with a three-run homer in the sixth. Kucks replaced Mass at the start and held the losers scoreless the rest of the way. Jack Urban, now 7-7, was the loser.

Yvon Durelle Upped to Third Lane, Holt, Boxers of Month

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The National Boxing Association Thursday advanced Canada's Yvon Durelle to third from fourth in its light - heavyweight listings and named his last opponent as one of two August fighters of the month.

At the same time NBA made George Chuvalo of Toronto 10th contender for the heavyweight crown held by Floyd Patterson.

Mike Holt of South Africa, who unsuccessfully attempted to lift Durelle's British Empire crown in Montreal, and Kenny Lane, loser of a close decision to lightweight champion Joe Brown, were named boxers of the month for their "courageous exhibitions."

Durelle, of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., won by a ninth-round technical knockout over South Africa's Holt ranked No. 8, in their fight July 16 in Montreal.

FOLLEY MOVES UP

NBA moved Zora Folley up to the No. 1 position among heavyweights and added Chuvalo, who gained a draw with Alex Miteff of Argentina last month. Miteff is in No. 8 position.

Ring Magazine chairman Fred Saddy said Folley advanced —with Eddie Machen dropping to No. 2—"not because of his victory over Pete Rademacher, but because Machen has been inactive."

Cleveland Williams of Houston, Tex., was dropped from the heavyweight listings.

Ring Magazine advanced Chuvalo to ninth from 10th in its ratings.

No other Canadians were listed.

Rider Fans Vision Grey Cup, Gary Schrieder Sure of Spot

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The grandstand quarterbacks around the town, Rough Riders football camp already are dreamy-eyed about the club's chances to make the Grey Cup game trip to Vancouver four months from now.

A better line on the Riders will be known in the next 13 days as they play exhibitions here against three western clubs. They meet Saskatchewan Roughriders tonight, Vancouver Lions Aug. 7 and Edmonton Eskimos Aug. 11, before the Big Four season opener here against Toronto Argonauts Aug. 19.

If there are quite a few changes among the ball carriers in the Oshawa backfield, there appear to be few changes in the line, considered one of the best in the Rider last year.

NO STRONG THREATS

So far, observers feel no new threat has shown above the star threat to the line jobs held last year by guards Larry Hayes and Ken Ploen, tackles Orville Lovell and tackles Kew Vaughan, Milt Graham or Ed Sharkey.

One offensive end spot is securely nailed down by team captain Bruce Coulter, one of the country's best native players, while Buddy Payne of North Carolina and Mack Yoho of Miami are fighting for the other.

Last year's centre and bonewrecking linemen are all back, and two strong young tackles Moe Racine from Cornwall, and Guard Len Skinner of Windsor, have better than an even chance to stay.

STILL RIVALS

The quarterback spot remains the last year, a close fight between Hal Ledyard from Chatham and Don Dimitroff from Miami. Dimitroff replaced Ledyard halfway in the season after the latter was laid up with sore rib injuries.

Backfield import candidates include Bobby Judd, Ottawa's best outside runner last year, and halfback Steve Thelen from Miami and fullback Gerry Nesbitt of Arkansas University.

Canadian regulars with a sure chance of making the backfield include Gary Schrieder, Don Pinder, Neyland Moll and Frank Fraser.

Leafs Take Two From Richmond; Royals Win

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jim Gallombardo's return to first-place Montreal Royals from the parent Los Angeles Dodgers this week might just be the tonic the Royals need to keep a safe distance ahead of the pennant-minded Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs trail the Royals in the International League standings today by just one game and a half—thanks to some mighty blows pitching of their own. Jim Gallombardo displayed some recently-acquired big league finesse into the ball game as he shut out Columbus 1-0 on three hits. Toronto at home, blanked Richmond 4-2 and 3-2 as the Vees could get only four hits in 18 innings off three Leaf pitchers.

PITCHERS' NIGHT

It was the pitching performances Thursday night saw Greason's relief pitching help Buffalo Bisons edge Rochester 4-3 in 10 innings and preserve Rochester's 5½ victory, while John Sadicki pitched Buffalo to a 3-2 win over Miami.

Montreal has seen its once comfy lead over Toronto slip as the Leafs' pitchers began to bore up the league. Gallombardo, who was a mainstay in the Royals' early surge, seems to have given the answer.

His upped his record to 8-4, walking only three and striking out nine, fanning five in a row over the seventh and eighth innings.

NO. 13 FOR CREMIAN

Toronto, which had a 1-1, 10-inning standoff Wednesday night with Richmond, won the replay as Jack Cremian allowed only six hits for his 13th victory in 19 decisions.

Ike Blake (6-4) won the second game (6-2) lost the first, while Bill Bethel (3-4) was charged with the second game loss.

Greason (5-4) struck out six after Havana home runs helped the Colonels to a 4-3 lead off starter Gary Blaylock. Ray Katt is a three-run homer for Rochester in the first, and three consecutive hits off reliefer - loser Paul Sanders (2-3) added the winning runs in the fifth.

Sadicki also won batting honors for the Bisons, with a run-producing double helping his cause. He struck out 3, as he needed relief help from Ken Johnson in the ninth.

Foxboro Meets Cannifton in Playoff Game

Cannifton and Foxboro will battle in a sudden-death game at the Fox Grounds Saturday night to decide third and fourth positions in the city softball standing. The game gets underway at 6:30.

Both finished on top of the South Hastings Baseball League standing with 13 wins. Foxboro and Cannifton were tied for third with Shannonville being eliminated.

In the league playoffs Read will meet the winner of the Foxboro-Cannifton game with Latta taking on the losers.

The league's first season was the closest in years and Stirling, which finished percentage separating the 2, 3 and 4th clubs. Read was always in front with a fair margin.

Paddlers Meet In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Paddlers from Ontario and Nova Scotia will meet here Saturday in the 1956 Canadian canoeing championships with last year's joint champions, Carleville, Que., Boating Club and Lachine, Que., Boating Club, ready to battle it out for top honors again.

The two clubs finished in a tie last year. The clubs are co-favorites against this year.

Fourteen Quebec and Ontario clubs and three from Halifax will compete in 18 events in the one-day competition at nearby Moonbeg's Lake, Saturday, Sodging is the most western city this year.

The association decided on a one-day affair this year instead of the two-day competition because 10,000 meters has been introduced, allowing points for the first five finishers in each race. The new 5-4-3-2-1 point system replaces the old 5-3-1 system which allowed points for only the first three finishers.

Qualifying heats in the juvenile single blade single; the junior single blade tandem; the junior single blade; the junior double blade four and the juvenile single blade tandem, will be run off today.

Bob Bedard Only Canadian In Tennis Tourney Singles

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Raleigh may affect the outcome of the Canadian tennis championships.

In one of the most unusual twists in the tournament's history, 17-year-old Mike Crane of Berkeley, Calif., a Seventh Day Adventist, says he will not play his final match Saturday if he wins his semi-final event today.

Crane was matched in a semi-final against defending champion Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que. So that he will not be required to play on the Seventh Day Adventists' sabbath, Crane must decide whether to default before he meets Bedard or default during the event if he thrives he will win.

He had not made up his mind by Thursday night.

CRANE CHANGES FINAL

Tournament officials said they couldn't change the men's final to tonight or Sunday because it would be unfair to other players and spectators.

Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., and Japan's Koael Kamo meet in the other men's semi-final.

The 22-year-old Bedard, ranked top Canadian in the tournament, didn't think Crane had any problem about a Saturday game.

"I intend to bet him," he said.

The odds were in Bedard's favor. Since he dropped a match to Lorne Main of Vancouver and Toronto four years ago, Bedard has not lost to a Canadian in local or national competition.

Crane, still itself with a dominant position in women's singles play today, after three women from this country advanced to semi-finals.

Susan Butt of Victoria was matched today against Eleanor Dodge of Montreal in one contest and Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto, defending champion, was to meet 15-year-old Barbara Browning of Los Angeles in the other.

Argos Show Rally Qualities In 22-15 Win Over Bombers

TORONTO (CP) — One of the main questions coach Hamp Pool wanted answered this year was whether his Toronto Argonauts or the Big Four football league would still fight when they fell behind.

Argos squeached any doubts he may have had when they came from behind Thursday night to beat the 1957 western champs Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-15 in an exhibition game.

They came back from an early 15-point lead 10-7 in the third quarter and then rebounded from a 16-15 score to forge on top and overpower a Winnipeg rally in the final minutes.

LOST SPIRIT

Pool said Argos had a habit of giving up once they got behind. "We were blasted along the line and we regged in the first half but the boys came back," Pool said of Thursday night's game. "They showed me they won't give up."

Dave Mann, former Chicago Cardinals halfback, was a tremendous running threat for the Argos, scoring the first of their touchdowns, Holdover backfielders Corky Tracy and C. B. Roberts counted two in the final quarter.

SHORT FIELD GOAL

Vic Kristopaitis, another holdover import, converted the first touchdown. Holdover backfield field goal in the second quarter to account for Toronto's other points.

The Bombers scored two converted touchdowns and a single point. Hard-hitting Gerry James and import halfback Glenn Shepard crossed for the touchdowns in the first and third quarters. Buddy Leake converted both and Shepard, in addition, kicked a single in the third quarter.

A crowd of 12,586 fans in Varsity Stadium saw one of the finest kicking exhibitions in Toronto in years with Mann and Shepard matching boots. Mann averaged 47 yards, Shepard a half-yard better.

Haiti President Gets More Power

PORT-au-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Francois Duvalier has emerged from Haiti's latest political crisis with power to rule the volatile Negro republic as a dictator for the next six months and with his own political position apparently strengthened.

The National Assembly empowered him Thursday to govern by decree after he had taken a personal part in crushing an attempt by three former Haitian army officers and four American adventurers to start a revolt. All seven were killed Tuesday after seizing the barracks next to the presidential palace.

The involvement of American citizens in the coup attempt sparked a protest demonstration in front of the U.S. Embassy Thursday by 500 Haitians.

WANT INDUSTRY

STE. MONIQUE, Que. (CP)—Two committees headed by Thomas L. Tremblay has been formed to encourage industrial expansion in this Lake St. John community.

Way Is Cleared For Strikes by Brewery Union

TORONTO (CP) — Three conciliation boards Thursday declared themselves not competent to recommend settlement of labor problems threatening Ontario's brewery industry.

In separate reports the three boards, each headed by Eric D. Taylor of Toronto, cleared the way for possible strike action by early Thursday by employees at Carling Breweries Limited, Waterloo, the Canadian Breweries Transport Company Limited, Waterloo, and Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited in other major Ontario centres.

Other board members were E. Macaulay Dillon, company nominee, and D. M. Storey, union nominee, and Mr. Dillon and Michael Walters for the other two.

LACK CONFIDENCE

In unanimous reports, the board members said they lacked confidence in each of the brewery workers union's lack of confidence in the chairman and in the boards as constituted there was a practical barrier to effective conciliation.

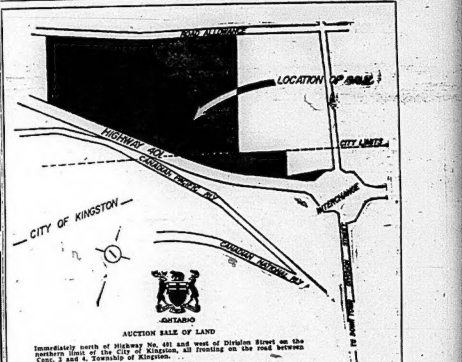
In each case the board declared itself "not competent to make any recommendation other than that the parties resume negotiations in good faith with a view to effecting a settlement."

A spokesman for Brewers' Warehousing said negotiations with the Brewery and Soft Drink Workers International Union continued until late Thursday and would be resumed this morning.

Negotiations at Carling's in Waterloo were broken off Wednesday.

Negotiations for Carling's, Toronto and Hamilton plants are being conducted along with those of O'Keefe Brewing Company Limited and Dow Kingsmere Brewery Limited as part of Canadian Breweries Limited.

Negotiations between Canadian Breweries Limited and the union now are going into the coalitional stage and board chairmen are being appointed.



The appointment of a board chairman.

Molson's Brewery (Ontario) Limited is already negotiating on its own and negotiations at Labatt's are expected to start next week.

Margaret's Kiss Was for Her Lady-in-Waiting

TORONTO (CP) Princess Margaret left everyone guessing Wednesday night when she darted from her party to kiss a hatless and grey-haired woman before boarding her train at suburban Malton.

The kiss—a rare occurrence with royalty—set off a buzzing and murmuring among guests who saw the show of affection at the airport.

Maybe she's a lesser member of the Royal Family," one spectator was heard to remark.

However, the mystery was solved later when a close-up picture of the incident showed that the recipient of the kiss was the princess's lady-in-waiting, Hon. Iris Peake, who had left the royal party in Calgary.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, August 2

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Morning hours are ideal for putting abode in such clean and shipshape order that you must fulfill your energy into the afternoon. Then it will be impossible to get off to pleasant activity you had anticipated, for there is visiting but still work to be done.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Get out early with pals or associates to those errands, putting over deals, or gathering data that are very necessary. Early P. M. you will feel tempted to spend foolishly. Refrain from doing so.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — By being very sensible and efficient in your work today, your talents come to the attention of important executive who will assist you greatly. In early P. M. an associate endeavors to interfere in something you desire to do, if you permit.

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A tuna, which prefers tropical waters, has been caught in the nets of a Gulf of Alaska salmon seiner. It was positively identified as a tuna today by biologists. Sunday School Lesson

The Hazards of Freedom

By ROY L. SMITH

Liberty and freedom are two of the greatest words in the English language, and certainly two of the most prized blessings of the Canadian way of life. But this week's Sunday School lesson makes it quite plain that some extremely serious hazards are attached to them.

BLACKLISTED PROPHET

One of the very earliest of the Old Testament prophets had an experience that had the effect of setting the pattern for almost all the others. He was blacklisted for preaching his convictions, and driven out of the nation's ecclesiastical by the forces of organized religion. At least one successor (Jeremiah) was jailed, his only sin being the same spirit of candor.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 3: Guarding Our Freedoms', Amos 7:10-17; John 8:31-38; Acts 4:15-20; 5:27-29; Galatians 3:23-28; 5:1-25; Colossians 4:1,7-9; Philemon.

The story is a simple one. The political situation throughout the world provided an exceptional opportunity for the nobility of Israel to grow rich. The little land lay midway between Assyria and Egypt, and, during the lull in the warfare these two great empires waged on one another, a vast tide of commerce flowed over the little land, on all of which they were at liberty to levy customs treaties with both empires they made money, and at the expense of the poor. Not the least among the beneficiaries of the system was the priest in charge of the great shrine at Bethel. When he found his income threatened, he succeeded in driving Amos out of the town.

The Church is advised on all hands today to "keep out of politics," but it is due to the fact that Amos condemned the political and economic sinners of his day, that he is in the Old Testament.

FREEDOM OF PULPIT

Most of us are well aware of great good that has come to the Canadian people because they have the advantage of a free press. Brainwashing the newspapers is the first objective of every dictator. There can be no free people who do not have free access to all the news.

But of equal importance is the freedom of the pulpit. Any government that undertakes to shut the mouths of the priests, rabbis and preachers is betraying the basic rights of the people.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF FREE MEN

The doctrine of free speech, of course, lays a sober obligation upon the speaker to speak the truth. It is one of the perils of a democracy, which enjoys freedom of speech, that it may become a victim of the corrupt who take advantage of their opportunity to declare distortions of the truth.

He who makes a charge of injustice should be able to support his charges with facts. He who publishes charges of corruption should be able to produce the evidence in the case.

Just at the moment the Canadian people have the advantage of a free press. Brainwashing the newspapers is the first objective of every dictator. There can be no free people who do not have free access to all the news.
